HONEDALE HAPPENINGS. Ruinous Cut in the Price of Bicycles. Arrest of Major McKinley. Special to the Scranton Tribune. HONEDALE, Pa., April 29.—Some few days ago a negro and a white companion rode through Honedale on bicycles. They attracted considerable attention as they passed through town and started down the towpath of the Delaware and Hudson canal. Between Hawley and Lackawanna one of them was thrown and broke his wheel, which he soon disposed of to a boatman for $4.50. It was soon learned that the wheels were stolen from Scranton. The thieves were arrested, but the bicyclist began to change his mind. Today Officer Brown started out in search of the lost bicycles, which are journeying on the canal. About 4:30 Saturday afternoon a man from Lake Ariel, commonly known as Major McKinley, came up Main street in a very gaudy clown's suit. He was in an intoxicated condition and his attire was evidently the work of some practical joker. While standing in front of Dodge's Hardware store surrounded by a crowd, some one pulled him over. He fell and was unable to recover himself, and was carried to the hardware store overgrown by drink. Officers Smith and Gosser put him in a cart and drove to the lockup. The man's foolish attire made him a conspicuous object, and circus for the small boy.

UTILIZING OLD FURNITURE. The Possibilities of an Old Bureau—One of the Many New Uses. The utilization of old furniture in furnishing the home has not received that attention to which as a measure of economy it is entitled. The possibilities of an old chest of drawers that has outlived its usefulness as such have seemingly remained undivulged to many persons. While the new ones to which it can be put are manifold, according to Decorator and Furnisher, space will only permit the reproduction of one of the most useful. A very good hall seat may be fashioned from any ordinary bureau. One recently made was from one of those swell front affairs so familiar in New England homes of the past, but of course any similar shape or pattern would be equally fitting. To make the change it is necessary to remove the upper drawers, upholstering the space left thereby—seat, sides and back. The flat top of the bureau of course will not be required as such and can be utilized as seat by cutting to the proper size and nailing in place. The cushion may be removable and can be covered with denim, jute, velvet or ordinary to suit one's purse. The back and sides should be padded, covering with the same material as cushion. Finish the edges neatly with gimp of suitable color or small brass headed nails. Should the wood be dark mahogany any of the shades of denim now offered will answer admirably, and the pillows and bolsters, if used, may be decorated to advantage with outline designs. The suggestion of using so humble a material as denim is with a view to economy. More costly material may be employed when desired. A very handsome little settle may be fitted up in a parlor in much the same manner.

Keep the Piano in Tune. At the present day there is a piano in nearly every home, but probably not one-third of these instruments are kept in tune. Even people who have good instruments often neglect that most important part, the tuning of them in their own parlors. Children are often expected to practice upon an instrument which would drive a person with a musical ear to madness if obliged to listen to it every day. And yet some parents say, "We thought this instrument would do to begin with." What a beginning! Can a carpenter do good work with poor tools? Suppose in laying the foundation of a building the mason should say, "Any kind of material will do to begin with." What sort of a building would you expect him to build? Not a very substantial one surely. Parents, if you want your children to become really musical children, give them a good instrument that is in good tune and order to begin with and then keep it so.

Covering For Kitchen Floors. Housekeepers who do their own work will find the old fashioned rag carpet more comfortable than any other kind of floor covering, as the strips can be taken up, shaken and aired frequently. Oilcloth, if a good quality is selected, is both neat and durable, but it has long since been discarded in offices because it was injurious to the feet, producing cramps and rheumatic affections. When used for a kitchen floor, mats or strips of carpet should be provided to overcome this very serious objection. In cleaning oilcloth use tepid water and a soft cloth. Wipe perfectly dry, for if water is allowed to stand upon the cloth it will be destroyed in a short time.

Chest Pains. Short breath, palpitation, weak and sore lungs, pleurisy, coughs, colds, asthma and bronchitis relieved in ONE MINUTE by the CURICURA ANTI-PAIN PASTER, the first and only instantaneous pain-killing plaster. STROUDSBURG NOTES.

First Snake Story of a Promising Season—School and Other News. Special to the Scranton Tribune. STROUDSBURG, Pa., April 29.—A destructive fire broke out between 10 and 11 o'clock Tuesday night last on the farm of Moses C. Strunk, in Middle Smithfield, about three miles from Marshall's creek. The barn and the house were totally destroyed, notwithstanding the efforts of the neighbors, who were organized into a bucket brigade. A large number of residents attended the funeral services of the late William John Barton, who died at the residence of William Van Burkirk, on Antrim street, on Saturday. The remains were interred in the Stroudsburg cemetery. The Rev. S. G. Hutchinson delivered an eloquent and touching funeral sermon after the return of the funeral party from the cemetery. District Attorney Williams presided at the meeting of the Law club last night. The matter discussed by the members was the question involving the rule in Shelley's case. Charles Kistler, a former resident of East Stroudsburg, is in town. Fireman Frank Adams, of Engine No. 182, killed an immense pilot snake yesterday. E. L. Huffman, proprietor of the Marshall's Creek hotel, was greeting friends and acquaintances on the streets yesterday. An elaborate concert will be given in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Episcopal church tonight. A fine programme has been arranged. Arrangements are in progress for the organization of a Young Men's Christian association in East Stroudsburg. J. E. Western will leave next week to accept a position at Hotel Langwood, Wyoming, Mead. Postmaster Kistler, of East Stroudsburg, has secured another mail from New York. It arrives on train No. 171, due 7:42. R. B. Keller's illustrated lecture in the Normal school chapel on Friday night will be attended by many of our residents. The subject is the "Life of Christ." Grant Reimel, who had his arm severely crushed in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad yards at Stroudsburg in September, and who has since been in the hospital at that place, has returned to his home at East Stroudsburg. W. R. LaBar will shortly start to build a handsome laundry and dwelling on the lot next to the Methodist Episcopal church on Courtland street, East Stroudsburg. Mrs. Samuel P. Smith, of East Stroudsburg, entertained a few guests at her residence on Washington street. The Keystone Fibre company, which has been shut down since Saturday last, will resume operations tomorrow morning. They have put in two blowers for column blowing. After a great deal of trouble and expense Professor George P. Bible, of the Normal school, has secured the renowned lecturer, wit and orator, L. Irving Handy, who will deliver his latest lecture, "The American Idea," in the chapel of the school next Monday evening, April 30. A game of base ball will be played on Saturday afternoon on the campus between the second team of the normal school and a nine from East Stroudsburg. Game will be called at 3 p. m. Professor Kauffman has received an invitation to deliver the Memorial Day address at Millersburg. The number of normal school students are nearing the 500 mark. The total membership to date is 468. A class of young men for systematic Bible study will be formed on Saturday. Mrs. Schoenover, of Bellefonte, was visiting friends at the school last week.

Two Lives Saved. Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery cured her and she has since saved her life. Mr. Theo. Eggers, 139 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results of this kind which prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at Matthews Bros., Drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.

BICYCLING OUTFIT.

THE LATEST IDEAS IN WHEELING ATTIRE FOR WOMEN.

The Newest Costumes Include the Square Divided Skirt Popular Among French Cyclists—The Whole Skirt Is Favored by Americans.

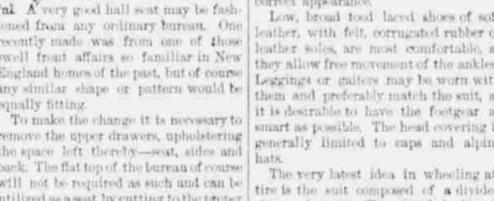

Ever since women began to ride what to wear while cycling has been a much discussed question. The bicycle toilet must be attractive as well as sensible, for my lady desires to be as becomingly clad when mounted on her wheel as she is when playing tennis or dancing in the ballroom. The simplest walking skirt, accompanied by the usual complement of petticoats, seriously interferes with the wearer's movements and thus greatly diminishes the pleasure and benefit of wheeling. Were women all of one mind and that mind a thoroughly practical one the skirted cycling toilet would be entirely abandoned in favor of the Syrian or some other costume that consists of voluminous trousers and a blouse, already accepted by Frenchwomen. American women, as a rule, object to the trousers or divided skirt as unfeminine, and for this class have been designed some very pretty if not quite convenient costumes. Among the most suitable textiles for feminine cycling costumes are twilled flannel, storm serge, chevot, diagonal, ladies' cloth, covert cloth and tricot in unobtrusive tones, such as navy blue and dark shades of brown, gray and green. Covert cloth and tricot are rather heavy, but strong fabrics are necessary for such rough wear. The blouse may be made of material that contrasts with that in the skirt or trousers, china silk, silk flannel, cotton chevot and light textured woollens being admired, but the colors should be quiet and serviceable. Beneath the costume may be worn full jersey tights, which are a combination of trousers and stockings. These render undershirts unnecessary, which is a very important point, since the cyclist's garments should be as few and weigh as little as is compatible with comfort and a correct appearance. Low, broad toed laced shoes of soft leather, with felt, corrugated rubber or leather soles, are most comfortable, as they allow free movement of the ankles. Leggings or gaiters may be worn with them and preferably match the suit, as it is desirable to have the footgear as smart as possible. The head covering is generally limited to caps and alpine hats. The very latest idea in wheeling attire is the suit composed of a divided skirt and waist. This divided skirt is

Styles in Purses. The prevailing style of portemonnaie for a lady's use has a tendency toward the square in shape, being slightly long, and it can be found in many different sizes, the most favored being the one that is sufficiently large to hold the visiting card. It is without visible clasp, folding, as it does, through the center, but an inside compartment is securely fastened with a tiny strap or catch. A smaller purse comes with a curved flap ornamented in silver, which is secured on the outside.

Injured While Coasting Impure Blood Asserts Itself

But Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures the Disease and Restores Health. "C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. "During the winter of 1887, I was injured on one fine while coasting. It did not trouble me much at first, but soon became more painful, my strength began to decline and I could not rest at night. I was attended by several different doctors but all failed to check the trouble and I grew rapidly worse. Early in 1890 I had to use crutches and my health was very poor, having lost my appetite and being reduced in flesh. In the fall of 1891 I had to take to my bed and it was thought

I Would Not Live until spring. During all this time I had tried many different medicines but did get relief. In the meantime to give me relief, the several bottles around my knee were lanced and later every effort made to heal the running sores but all in vain. Then it was, while confined to my bed last spring, that my father, having read much about the merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla, decided to have me give it a trial. I have taken it regularly, using nearly ten bottles. All the sores but two are healed and these are nearly well. I have thrown away my crutches as I can walk, go to school and do some work. I have a good appetite and real good health and have increased in weight. I much, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been a blessing to me." WILLIAM JOHNSON, Normanville, Pennsylvania.
