

The members of the New York Coal exchange, who arrived in this city Thursday night on a night-seeing excursion, enjoyed a ride over the Moosic mountains to Honesdale yesterday and, although the weather was far from pleasant, the visitors expressed themselves as delighted with the grand sweep of mountain and valley, clothed in the deepest green, which was presented to their view as the cars sped over the mountains to the trip to and from the lovely capital of Wayne. The discomforts caused by the threatening skies and raw atmosphere were forgotten in contemplation of the majestic sweep of landscape that met their gaze at every turn. The train left this city on its special train at 8 a. m. and at Carbondale was transferred to the gravity cars. Mr. McMullen, of the Delaware and Hudson company, there took charge of the excursionists and accompanied them to Honesdale, where, at 10:30 a. m., a party arrived. At 1:30 p. m. the return trip, lunch was served by Caterer Hanley. At Mayfield many of the New Yorkers stopped off to visit the Glenwood colliery of the Hillside Coal and Iron company. Their experience at Wilkes-Barre had not destroyed their curiosity. The remainder of the party arrived in this city at 3 o'clock. The next two hours were employed in examining the plant of the Dickson Manufacturing company, and other industries of the city. At 9 p. m. the visitors left for home over the Central railroad of New Jersey.

In its series of descriptions of handsome summer homes, the Elmhurst Signal of this week devotes space to a pleasant narration of the beauties of Kingsbury place, the commodious Elmhurst property of Mr. E. Kingsbury. Says the Signal: "The place is two acres in the grounds of Kingsbury place. To the north a commanding view is had of the valley, taking in Roaring brook, which winds as a silver thread in a bed of green foliage. Off to the south you get the full sweep of the placid waters of Lake Worth. From the front porch, looking east, the ground slopes in natural terraces to Maple avenue, and the view from here is very pretty. Maple avenue is the front thoroughfare on the easterly side of the Schoonmaker plot, and it is also the westerly line of Elmwood park, which comprises thirty-five acres. It extends along the whole front of the plot from Spring line to where the new Presbyterian manse is built. This park will also give the residents on the hill an open view to the east, north and south. The tract has been set aside for a public park, and the grounds have been beautified with hundreds of shrubs and trees. Toward the west you look upon the higher hills that stand as a barrier between the city of Scranton and its smoke, and the cool, bracing, health-giving air of Elmhurst. This season Kingsbury place is occupied by Mr. W. L. Honwood and family, of Scranton."

Miss Georgia Mielner was married to David Richards, jr., Thursday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Mielner, 823 Mulberry street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. W. H. Pearce, of the Elm Park church, in the parlor which for the time being had been transformed into a bower of tropical loveliness by the art of the florist. The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock. Miss E. Niece, of Ashby, rendering Henderson's Wedding march, the bridal party entered the parlor. Miss Mielner was attired in a gown of cream silk with pearl and lack trimmings. Her niece, Lois Belden, was flower girl and headed the bridal procession. The ushers were Fyfe Thomas, of Scranton, and Claude Askey, of Williamsport. Miss Mattie Williams, of Corning, N. Y., and Miss Ella Hox, of this city, were the bridesmaids. A reception followed the marriage and at 1:50 a. m. Mr. Richards is a member of the firm of Richards & Co., of West Lackawanna avenue.

One of yesterday's visitors in Scranton was Alderman J. F. Donohue, of Wilkes-Barre, a veteran magistrate whose period of active service as a dispenser of ward justice covers a span of two-score years. He is, in fact, the oldest alderman in Luzerne county and could, if he would, unfold a narrative of personal bickering, neighborhood disagreements and individual waywardness that would, if published, severely shock the staid circles of Wilkes-Barre society. It is fortunate that alderman, as a rule, are not given to the writing of memoirs, else there would be a rapid increase in the social upstarts that nowadays fill our courts. Squire Donohue is a model of official discretion and has during his long tenure of office, buried the skeletons of his trade securely among the dusty tomes that line his walls.

IN REALM OF FAIR WOMAN. In a room in a London house the walls were of ashen gray, with the decorations and panel frames brought out in silver, accented by touches of reddish bronze, which latter coloring relieved the room of its ghastly pallor. The furniture covering was in deep rose and silver and deep tones of garnet, and the woodwork mahogany. Around the frieze was an interlacing of floral work in old rose, and the ceramic ware was all of a delicate rose brown. The curtains were old rose and brown, and ash-color cords and tassels.

In the case of the owners of Bongue's large painting, "The Return of Spring," against the Western Art association at Omaha, the curious details set up is that the damage done to the painting increased its value as a picture and that after the trunk, Caroy Warburton, threw a chair through it because it was "immoral" the picture was mended at Omaha, and has drawn crowds of visitors, who paid a fee to gaze at it. The case, which was brought by the foreign syndicate who owns the picture, is for $20,000 damages, and was brought in New York, but will probably be transferred to Omaha because so many witnesses are accessible there.

A well known artist in New York advertised not long since for a model and had many applicants, but none were ever needed before, but who were apparently in love with their own figure and had no thought of posing for money. While engraving a matrimonial invitation a New York artist read thus: "Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have the pleasure to request your presence at the marriage of their daughter."

YES OR NO A Well-Known Physician, Who, Among Other Things, Is Noted for His Frankness.

No one ever heard Dr. E. Grever use the phrase "I think" in his practice. The doctor is one of those frank, fearless, honest, positive men who never hesitate to say yes or no, as the case may require. "Can cure you" or "cannot cure you" is his invariable decision after examination, and to this fact fact is attributable his remarkable record without failures. But it would be strange indeed if the doctor were not a more than usually successful practitioner. He has been surgeon-in-chief in more than one of the largest hospitals of this country, was lately Demonstrator of Physiology and Surgery at the Medical-Chirurgical College in Philadelphia, has been elected an honorary member of the Medical-Chirurgical Association, is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, etc., and is still a close student. A man with such a record could not fail to be a successful physician under any circumstances, but when backed by cautious conservatism in expression, or to use a more popular phrase, the "obscure-you're-right-though-go-ahead" system, it would be more than strange if failure overtook him.

You can consult Dr. Grever any day at Rooms 5 and 6.

Temple Court Building 311 SPRUCE ST. from 9 a. m. till 9 p. m. Consultations free. Those suffering from Nervous Diseases are guaranteed a cure. For such there is the cheering word "Yes," as failure is unknown in the doctor's treatment.
