Miss Lottie Dickson left Wednesday morning for one month's sojourn in her old home, Philadelphia.

About forty workmen are employed in erecting a new bridge on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad over Tankhanock creek. One of the men, while thus employed, fell about thirty feet and was quite badly hurt, but fortunately no bones were broken. He was removed to his boarding house.

Miss Una Titus, while returning from her trip to Boston by water, had the unusual experience of seeing the boat run upon a rock, breaking a hole in its bottom. The passengers were transferred in another boat to New York. Miss Titus is now in New York city and will soon return to her home.

The Epworth league will have an ice cream and strawberry festival at the home of G. A. Roright tonight.

Our street officers should see that our streets are kept in a passable condition. There is too much carousing and loafing on them sometimes, especially evenings.

Mrs. V. L. Smith, of Moscow, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Tiffany for the past few days. She returned to her home yesterday morning.

ARCHBALD.

Revenue Collector William Craly was here on official business yesterday. Announcement is made that Miss Jennie Kenny, of the East Side, and Edward Lyons, of Hill street, both popular young people, will be married early next month.

The hose company met on Monday evening and made arrangements for their grand excursion on July 25. Several features of extraordinary interest have been arranged, and the outing promises to be an enjoyable one.

A large number of persons from this place attended the funeral of Mrs. F. H. Collins in Scranton yesterday. Mrs. Collins was a sister of Rev. T. J. Gernert, the esteemed pastor of St. Thomas church.

William Brown, of Church street, attended the Cummings-Mahon wedding at Olyphant on Tuesday evening.

The beautiful new dwelling house of James P. Kearney on South Railroad street is nearly completed. It will be ready for occupancy next week.

It is hoped that the sale of the Carbondale Traction company's plant will have the effect of hastening the completion of the track in this borough. There has been so little work done on the extension during the past few days that it is doubtful if it will be in operation by Sunday.

The Democratic primaries on Saturday afternoon promise to be more interesting than such primaries usually are. With a prospect of three Archbald candidates for the nomination for assemblyman there is no reason why the primaries should not be hot. There is no personal bitterness among the

The commencement exercises of the high school were held at the Odd Fellows hall last night. The large hall was thronged with the students and their friends. Those who took part in the exercises acquitted themselves admirably and evidenced that their last year's instruction had been acted upon in a manner that was alike creditable to scholars and teachers. The programme was opened by a chorus in which the whole school participated. Then followed a declamation by Mr. Cullen; piano solo, Miss Bone; recitation, Miss Weber; vocal solo, Miss Powell; recitation, Miss Early; singing, quartette; recitation, Miss Wilson; recitation, Miss Moran; vocal solo, Miss Matthews; recitation, Miss Cullen; violin solo, Miss Powell; recitation, Miss Mitchell; vocal solo, Miss Cullen; recitation, Miss Sweeney. The exercises were followed by the presentation of diplomas by Superintendent Williams, who also made a short address to the pupils in which he spoke of the purpose of the commencement exercises; congratulated the graduates on their achievements, and offered some good advice for the future, which if followed, would prove beneficial to themselves and the world at large. After a rousing happy chorus and greetings of good fellowship the commencement of the class of '94 was at an end.

Caris have been received in this city announcing the marriage of Miss Mary Ferguson, of Honedale, to William H. Brown, of this city, on Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday, June 27.

In St. Rose's church at 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon Miss Ellie Surdival, of Pike street, was married to Martin Dolphin, of Archbald. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Conrad in the presence of many friends of both parties. A sister of the bride, Miss Annie Surdival, was bridesmaid, and Thomas Coleman, of Archbald, attended the groom. The bride wore a dress of roses silk, trimmed with duchess lace, and hat to match. The bridesmaid's dress was of the same color. After the ceremony the bridal party enjoyed a short drive and on their return supper was served and an enjoyable reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The festivities, which were continued for several hours, were of a very entertaining nature and thoroughly enjoyed.

The bride received many beautiful presents. Mr. and Mrs. Dolphin will live in Archbald. Their many friends will hope that their wedded life will be filled with joy and success.

A pretty double marriage took place at Waymart on Wednesday, the principals being Mr. Z. A. Wannacott, who was married to Miss Grace Perkins, and B. N. Peck, of Carbondale, who was married to Miss Minnie Wannacott. The ceremony took place at the Perkins homestead, which was very beautifully decorated for the happy occasion. The room in which the marriages were performed was a veritable bower of beauty. The couples stood under a canopy of evergreens and flowers with the bride and simple marriage service was performed by Rev. W. C. Morris. There were many friends of the contracting parties to witness the ceremony, for the parties concerned were all well and favorably known. At the conclusion of the ceremony a bounteous repast was served to the guests and relatives of the wedded couple and congratulations were extended for the continued happiness of the couples that were about to begin life in union. Later in the day they left for an extensive wedding tour. Both couples are known and esteemed by a very extensive circle of friends and acquaintances. Mr. Wannacott is a progressive young business man of Waymart, and Mr. Peck is a well known baggage master in the employ of the Delaware and Hudson company. Both Mrs. Wannacott and Mrs. Peck are estimable ladies and companions for their worthy husbands.

HONEDALE.

For some time past the question as to whether the bicyclists should be allowed to ride on sidewalks or not, has been agitating the minds of a number of Honedale people. April 2, 1894, the borough fathers passed an ordinance prohibiting bicyclists from riding on the sidewalks or in the parks was understood among wheelmen that once the ordinance was passed that they could ride on the less frequented walks of the borough when the roads were in bad condition, and also have the privilege of riding in the parks. On Thursday the council caused the following notices to be posted in conspicuous places about the borough:

BOROUGH ORDINANCE.

Notice is hereby given that on the second day of April, 1894, the town council of Honedale, borough adopted, and the chief burgess has approved of the following ordinance, to wit: BICYCLES. Section 1. That if any person shall ride a bicycle on any of the public sidewalks of this borough, the walks of the parks (included) he shall for the first offense, incur a penalty of $1; and for each succeeding offense a penalty of not less than $2 nor more than $5, the exact amount being discretionary with the burgess.

E. H. BACMAN, Burgess. May 1, 1894. Of which all persons will take notice and observe. By order of town council. W. A. WOOD, Secretary.

To the uninitiated, let it be known that bicyclists as a rule are ordinary, rational, humane mortals and not as many would believe monsters delighting in frightening persons and running over them with their silent steeds. Honedale bicyclists in particular are of an unanimous opinion that their proper place is in the road. Pleasure-seekers only ride on pleasant days. During wet weather bicycles are used only for business purposes. After a rain the roads of Honedale, Main street in particular, are in such a terrible condition that they are impossible to bicycles. Therefore the ordinance, which is entirely proper in itself, affects most severely the men who use their wheels largely for business purposes. If the laws regarding the use of bicycles are to be so rigid and exacting, it would be well to enforce other laws relating to vehicles and their propellers as obnoxious to pedestrians as the bicycle and its propeller, for instance, the ordinance which reads as follows: "That if any person shall suffer or permit his or her horse, ox, team or other beast of draught or burden, or his or her carriage, wagon or other vehicle to stand, remain or stop upon any of the cross walks in said borough, such person shall incur and pay a fine of one dollar." In the eyes of the people who don't own bicycles and own horses, the cycles are the only vehicle that is a nuisance and an abomination.

The roads to Honedale should be put in better condition.

WHERE IS THE HEART

Are You Quite Positive That You Could Locate It?

A FEW VERY INTERESTING FACTS

Some Mysteries of the Body and How to Control Certain Organs Made Very Clear.

"I am badly packed, doctor," said the little gentleman; "you will find my heart on the right side instead of the left."

Readers of "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" will remember the pathetic incident to which the above is an allusion. Similar abnormal adjustments of the bodily organs are not frequently met with by anatomists. Assuming your stomach to be in the proper spot do you know its location? Don't be too sure.

Place the palm of your right hand on that is called the pit of the stomach, turning the end of the fingers toward the heart. Your hand will then cover the space usually occupied by the stomach.

The stomach has no fixed size. It depends on the contents. It will contract until it is no bigger than your closed hand, and expand until it is as large as your head.

"For twenty-five years," says a clergyman, "I have suffered untold miseries from a disordered stomach. For years I had to abstain from meats, but after a brief use of Paskola, the new artificially digested food, I was able to eat meat and anything else I desired, with no ill results."

"In regard to my wife's case, I hardly know how to write. It certainly appears like a miracle. Months passed with her most miserably. So reduced in vitality and in flesh was she, that we expected nothing short of a speedy death." One day we received a package from a neighboring town. Under the string with which the bundle was tied was a pamphlet that was new to us.

"I glanced at it and then tossed it on the table with the remark, 'here, wife is something to cure your ill and give you an appetite. She read it and said, 'I have faith to believe that if I had this Paskola it would help me."

"The next mail carried an order for a bottle. The second day brought the bottle and she took the first dose. That was four weeks ago. Today she can eat a hearty meal of anything else craves—something she has not done for months."

"Hoping under God that what I have written may benefit some, and cause new light to break into the prison house of pain and suffering, I am yours truly, Rev. A. F. Beebe, "Worth Center, N. Y., April 14, 1894."

Then, as to the children, a mother writes: "Our little girl has been pined and sickly from birth. In fact she has been almost constantly under the care of our family physician. Still she could not seem to gain flesh or strength. We gave her Paskola and noticed a decided change for the better before the first bottle was consumed. Her little face always wan and pale, began to show the tint of coming health, and she soon took on flesh rapidly. Our little darling, once so cross and irritable with pain, has grown to be the delight of the household. We will always land and praise Paskola for what it has done for her. Yours very truly, Mrs. Bert Hill, Bridgeton, N. J., May 4, 1894."

Starting from the fact that "food is the source of life" the discoverers of Paskola went a step further. How to support and nourish the system while the digestive process is interrupted, to sustain life while Nature (unburdened with a task which for a time she cannot perform) proceeds her repair damages—that was the question with them. In other words, could the work of the digestive machinery be done artificially, furnishing a true food that would be accepted by the absorbents of the stomach and intestines, enter the blood and build up the body, without the immediate aid of the secretions of the stomach, liver and pancreas.

The final answer was Yes, and Paskola is that answer embodied in a form which—ignoring old liver oil and all other drugs—elicits enthusiastic and wondering thanks from all who give it a practical test.

"They have sent experienced generals against you this time, sire," said an aide-camp to Napoleon. "So much the better," said the man of Anteliter; "being experienced, they won't fight."

Paskola is not tied up with precedents. It fights and conquers.

"Paskola may be obtained of any reputable druggist. A pamphlet on food and digestion will be mailed free on application to The Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reads St., New York.
