roads and windows. Some of the bullets went overhead, many more plowed the ground, a few took effect. Without waiting for further orders the regulars made for solid earth and with bayonets fixed made a dash for the mob on both sides of the track.

This manœuvre, however, was hardly necessary. Obscured by the smoke the mob had taken to its heels like frightened geese. Not a few threw themselves headlong on the prairie where they laid flat, so thoroughly scared that it was a matter of indifference to them whether the soldiers trampled them down in the charge or not.

Miss Fleming, who was not even a spectator of the melee, being simply in the act of crossing the tracks after a visit to a neighbor's house, fainted when shot, was picked up by some of the bystanders and carried to the nearest house in the vicinity.

The shedding of blood was in obedience to orders issued by General Miles to shoot any person caught in the act of blocking the highway of inter-state commerce or of destroying railroad property used in the carriage of United States mails.

Fleischer was an innocent victim. He had gone to the tracks simply to find and take home his son whom he had been told was looking on in the outskirts of the mob.

The mob, however, did not discriminate. Being of the regulars created intense rage and excitement. Hundreds of the mob rushed to their homes and returned to the scene with revolvers and shot guns, or filling the air with oaths and imprecations, declared their intention of killing every man wearing an army uniform. In the mean time a crowd had been thrown out. Mayor Reilly mounted a box car and pleaded with and prayed to the crowd to be calm and commit no further violence. The crowd was unwilling to respond to the advice the regulars were re-inforced by three companies that came in from Chicago on a special train. Overawed by the display of military force the mob gradually thinned out and at midnight the streets of the town had resumed their normal aspect.

Late this evening there was some more shooting. Company D was ordered down the Monon tracks to get out two Pullman cars for connection with the train expected from the south. Just as they approached the water tank, E. C. Weeks, a plumber was in the act of turning the water out of the stand pipes which are used to fill the engines. Fire was at once opened by the soldiers and Weeks, with the intention of fooling the regulars, dropped into the high grass at the side of the tracks as though he had been shot. The first rank of the company, however, closed about him and finding him unharmed, placed him under arrest.

Company B returned to Chicago after the shooting on their own train. If they had not done so an attempt would have been made to serve warrants for murder upon them. Such warrants were sworn out before a justice when the facts of the shooting were known, but the soldiers got away before any of the local police could execute the warrants.

All the electric street car employes agreed tonight unanimously to join the strike when called on to do so. A mass meeting of indignant citizens was held tonight to protest against the shooting.

CONSTABLE DOUGHER SHOT.

While Attempting to Arrest Frank Morrow He Receives a Bullet in His Side.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

ARCHBOLD, July 8.—Constable William Dougher, of the Third ward of Archbold, was shot this afternoon while attempting to arrest a young man named Frank Morrow of that place. Morrow was wanted for his connection with a burglary at the Ontario and Western depot at Archbold a few months ago. He fled shortly after the commission of the deed and remained away until ten days ago. Yesterday afternoon while Dougher and two other constables were on their way to Morrow's home to arrest him, they met him at the home of his brother-in-law, and attempted to place him under arrest. A scuffle took place during which several shots were fired at the constables and Morrow and Dougher were shot in the right side.

The ball struck a leather covered book in the constable's pocket and spent considerable of its force before it entered his body. It then came in contact with one of his ribs and changed its direction, passing through the chest immediately summoned and probed for the ball, but without success. Mr. Dougher was taken to his home soon after the shooting and at this writing he is resting easily. It is hard to tell what the result of the shooting will be. There are several versions as to the manner in which the shooting occurred. One is that Morrow shot first and that the ball, from his revolver struck Dougher. Another is that one of the Jersey constables shot him and still another is that the revolver which Dougher carried was accidentally discharged while he was talking to Morrow. Owing to the great excitement which prevailed it is hard to tell which is the most plausible version.

Morrow fled after the shooting and has not yet been captured.

FOUND ROAMING ABOUT STREETS. Young McGinnis Will Be Taken Back to Hillside Home.

Yesterday morning about 1 o'clock Officer Metzger noticed a young boy roaming the streets, and thinking it was a rather late hour for a lad of such tender years to be out, took him to the central station. On being questioned, the boy said his name was Clarence McGinnis, 9 years of age, and that he came from Wilkes-Barre and wanted to see his father in Dayton, O. He was detained at the station until Chief Simpson could see him and learn more about him. The chief received word about 11 o'clock yesterday morning that the boy belonged to the Hillside home and that he had run away from there about a week ago.

It seems that when his father went to Dayton to live about a year ago, he left the boy in care of his brother who resides in Wilkes-Barre, but he was uncontrollable and was turned over to the officials at the Hillside home, where he has been for some time. Superintendent Beemer will take the boy back to the home today.

CHEAP TRIP IN THREE STATES. New York to Buffalo via Lehigh Valley for Fifteen Cents.

One of the most attractive summer outing pamphlets ever issued is now being distributed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad company. The title "In Three States," indicates the reading contents of the book which is filled with lithograph pictures covering a hundred or more picturesque points between New York and Buffalo.

A perusal of the book with its well written story and many tinted sketches fairly carries the reader on a trip over the line of a railroad as much noted for its beautiful scenery as any road in the country. It is an advertisement with the advertising feature so eliminated as to make the story well worth reading. Fifteen cents in stamps, money order or postal note enclosed to Charles S. Lee, general passenger agent, Philadelphia will secure a copy.

HONORS TO THE SLUGGER. Dublin Is Prostrate Before the Distinguished American, James J. Corbett.

DUBLIN, July 8.—James J. Corbett, the pugilist, arrived here today. Four bands and thousands of citizens welcomed him at the station. He was carried on men's shoulders from the train, his horses were unharnessed from his carriage and he was drawn by the crowd to his hotel.

He was cheered wildly when he made a speech from the hotel balcony.

THREW A MATCH ON THE FLOOR. The Result Was a Fire in Nicholas Price's House.

At 8:45 last night a fire occurred in the house of Nicholas Price at 1330 Stone avenue, which is occupied by a Polisher named John Edward Koski. The fire was caused by a match which was thrown on the floor after being used in lighting a lamp.

An alarm was sounded from box 57, but the flames were extinguished without the aid of the fire companies. The damage caused was slight.

WEATHER FORECAST. CLEAR. WASHINGTON, July 8.—Forecast for Saturday: For Eastern Pennsylvania, fair, slightly warmer, north winds. For Western Pennsylvania, fair, winds shifting to east, warmer in northern portions.

ZIMMERMAN'S VICTORIES. He Is Still Leading in the Races in Europe.
