Owen D. Jones, supported by a company of fifty people, will present Shakespeare's historical play, "Richard III" at Music Hall tomorrow evening. It will be the opening attraction and it is to be hoped the hall will be thronged, as none can afford to miss such a treat. The play is full of interest throughout.

During Tuesday night thieves broke into the Union railway station at Avoca and ransacked the till of the slot machine, trunks and what suited their fancy. Having satisfied themselves they departed. There is no clue to who the parties are. Detectives of the Delaware and Hudson and Lehigh Valley railroads have been entrusted with the work of running down the culprits.

Motor Car 131, while en route for Wilkes-Barre, run over and killed Susan Laggan, aged 3 years, of Port Bowdley, Tuesday afternoon. William Burke, of Port Griffith, was the motor man. He endeavored to stop the car, but before he could do so it passed over the child, killing it instantly.

A pretty wedding occurred at the home of George Lewis, 308 Luzerne avenue, Tuesday evening, the contracting parties being John J. Booth, of Blythman, N. Y., and Miss Edith H. Lewis, a popular young lady of West Pittston. The interesting ceremony which made them husband and wife was performed at 8:30 o'clock by the father of the bride, the Rev. J. S. Lewis, and he was assisted by the Rev. F. E. Parsons, of West Pittston. A decoration of water lilies and ferns artistically arranged made the surroundings very attractive. The groomsmen were Verg. Tabor, of Kirkwood, N. Y., and Jay Lewis, of West Pittston, and the bridesmaids, Miss Anna Lewis, of West Pittston, and Miss Mame Pierce, of Pittston. The bride was attired in a pretty costume of cream silk, with antique lace trimmings, and carried white roses. The bridesmaids were attired in white and looked charming. A large party of friends and relatives, including the following, witnessed the interesting ceremony: Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Booth, parents of the groom, and Jesse Booth and wife, the former brother of the groom, of Kirkwood, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Keeney, of Laceyville; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Charles Spellman, of the East Side, and Miss Annie Cavley, of Church street, were married yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The ceremony was performed in St. Thomas' church by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Comerford, in the presence of many friends of the contracting couple. The bride was attended by her niece, Miss Mame Cavley, of Scranton. The bride wore a beautiful dress of violet silk, trimmed with lace and hat to match. The bridesmaid wore heliotropes silk, also trimmed with white lace, and wore a white hat. The groom and groomsmen, Mr. M. F. Brennan, wore the customary black. The wedded couple enjoyed a short drive, after which a reception was held at the home of the bride.

There many called to congratulate the young couple and partake of the plentiful feast of good things that had been provided.

A pretty double marriage ceremony was performed in the Evangelical Lutheran church last evening. The parties were Miss Minnie Probst, who was married to Sidney Heath, of Jersey, and Miss Dora Brill, who was married to John C. Peters. Rev. Mr. Seabarger, pastor of the Lutheran church, officiated. The church was thronged with friends of the contracting couple who had come to witness the ceremony. The couples were unattended by bridesmaids or groomsmen. The brides were charmingly dressed, Miss Probst being in shades of rose silk, and Miss Brill in brown and white. Each wore flowers in her hair. The parties presented a most attractive appearance. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. John Peters, who, being the mother of J. C. Peters, is also the grandmother of Mrs. Heath. Many friends were present to congratulate the wedded couple. All are well known and deserve success in their new life.

FOUR BLACK WEEKS.

Death's Busiest Harvest Time Among the Babies.

August Heat Adds Hundreds to the Mortality Rate.

Lactated Food Keeps Up Babies' Strength and Saves Their Lives.

More persons will die during the coming four weeks than at any other time of the year.

"And the greatest proportion of these deaths," says the New York Press, "will strike down children under five years of age, and from six to eight out of every ten will be traced by the board of health to the ignorance and carelessness of mothers who will yet mourn the loss of their children as sincerely and deeply as any mother could."

The greatest source of mortality this month and next will be diarrheal diseases, due to improper food, which sows the seed of disease. Hot, wilting nights ripen them into full fruition.

Boards of health, physicians and mothers agree that there are but two ways by which babies' lives may be absolutely insured against cholera infantum and the wasting disorders of hot weather. One is healthy mother's milk, and the other in lactated food.

In eight cases out of ten where a physician is called because the "baby is not doing well," he sees that all that is needed is a more nourishing diet, and after advising such a rich but easily assimilated nutriment as lactated food the child shows right off a gain in weight and color and liveliness.

The most remarkable of all infant foods has great nourishing powers. It is made with the most scrupulous attention to purity and freedom from any source of contagion. It fills the tiny veins and arteries with ruddy, pure blood. Sound sleep follows its use, and rapid growth comes as naturally from a well-fed system as sleep does when the nervous centers are properly nourished.

Sunshine is food, it is meant for strong men, but the very young, the aged and the feeble are wiled and worsted by the fierce heat. For them as well as for mothers trying to nurse their children through the hot summer, nothing so quickly and easily keeps the strong as lactated food. Every intelligent mother at once understands why it is possible for lactated food to build up the tissues so rapidly and to give strength to babies and persons of delicate stomachs when her physician explains to her the simple ingredients of this preparation—sugar of milk, and the nutritive qualities of wheat, barley and oats.

"The weight and size, not the age of the baby, should determine its food," says Dr. A. S. Best of the N. Y. Polytechnic Children's Hospital. At the first indication that baby is not thriving, give it lactated food. But be sure to feed it regularly. Lactated food will plump out the cheeks of thin, pale-lipped babies and make them gain steadily in weight. For weaning babies and during the teething period there is no substitute for lactated food. It resembles in every respect healthy mother's milk. It is particularly grateful to nervous, fretful children who are hungry and insufficiently nourished. Yet find their usual food displeasing to their weak and disturbed stomachs.

Ask the first mother you talk with what she knows about lactated food. It will be hard in many communities to find a mother who has brought up a
