HE WAS A LONE FISHERMAN

Constable Moran and Superintendent McMullen Arrested Him. MR. THOMPSON IS AFTER THEM Had Them Arraigned in Court for Assault and Battery—Verdict of Not Guilty Returned—Joseph Holtham's Fondness for Wives.

Court, after its Christmas vacation, opened again yesterday morning. Judge Purdy presiding in the main court room and Judge Sittler in No. 2. The first case called was that of John S. Thompson against Constable Michael Moran, of Carbondale, and William S. McMullen, superintendent of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad company. Attorneys E. C. Newcomb, of this city, and John F. Reynolds, of Carbondale, represented the prosecutor and Attorney H. C. Butler, of Carbondale, the defendants, who were under indictment charged with assault and battery.

On June 23 last Thompson, who is a prominent contractor, went from his home in Carbondale and began to fish at No. 4 dams, owned by the Crystal Lake Water company. Mr. McMullen is also superintendent of the water company. Thompson alleges that he was at the dam fishing only a few minutes when the two defendants came along and Constable Moran said to him that he was violating the law by fishing without permission, as the posted notices erected on the banks of the dam in conspicuous places expressly forbade it. Mr. Thompson answered that he did not know the rules, whereupon Constable Moran placed him under arrest. The prosecutor wanted to know where the warrant was and he was told that no warrant was needed, that he could be arrested without one by coal and iron police, to which both defendants represented they belonged.

Held Mr. Thompson. The constable caught hold of Mr. Thompson by the arm and forcibly prevented him from fishing any further. Superintendent McMullen went for a carriage to Carbondale and in the meantime Constable Moran detained him in custody. When the former returned with the carriage he had with him a warrant issued by an alderman of Carbondale, where the prosecutor later appeared and entered bail for his appearance at court. The defendants on the stand yesterday claimed that they had a perfect right to arrest Mr. Thompson, as he was violating the law and in making the arrest they asserted that no more force was used beyond what was absolutely necessary. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty and placed the costs on the defendants. A peculiar case was the next one before Judge Purdy. Joseph Holtham was charged with perjury by Mrs. Ida Fisher. The commonwealth was assisted by Attorney H. L. Taylor in the prosecution and Attorney C. H. Soper represented the defendant. Holtham is a vicious rascal, if the stories told of him are true. Mrs. Fisher was married to him in June, 1890, by Alderman Wright at the court house and she lived with him three years, when it developed that he had another wife living. The charge of perjury against him was brought on the ground that he took a false oath when he was obtaining his marriage license and made answer to the questions put by the clerk, among which was one regarding the deposition regarding whether he had a wife living when he was asking for permission to marry another.

Ventured Three Times. It appears that Holtham was married three times and that only his first wife is dead. In 1888 he wedded a young girl, Miss Alice Healey, aged about 20 years. She lived with him at his home on Myerlet avenue until one child was born to them. When the young one was three months old, it is claimed by those who presume to know, that Holtham and his young wife agreed to separate, and the terms of agreement were that he should pay her a certain sum of money and provide her with a passage to Ireland. They separated and she crossed the water, taking her child with her. Holtham has three children by his first wife, and after wife No. 2 left him, he advertised for a housekeeper, and among others who answered the "ad" was a young woman calling herself Mrs. Ida Fisher. Holtham engaged her and was so well suited with her as a housekeeper that he offered his hand and heart within a month after he first saw her. She accepted and he married her in June, 1890. Mrs. Fisher had been married about three years when she became aware that her husband's second wife was not dead, as he represented, but alive in Ireland. Several witnesses were sworn to prove that Holtham and Miss Healey were regarded as man and wife and one of them testified that he had a letter a few weeks ago from Miss Healey, written in her own handwriting. The commonwealth rested at adjournment, and the testimony for the defence will be heard today. All About a Horse Trade. Only one case was tried in No. 2 court room before Judge Sittler. It was that in which George Southard was charged with larceny by bailee by A. J. Mitchell, superintendent of the Singer Sewing Machine company. Last June Southard worked as an agent for the company and he was fitted out with a horse and buggy by the company. The agreement between them was that Southard should pay $5 per month until he had $40 paid, and at the end of eight months he would own the horse. Southard did not pay the monthly instalments with promptness, and he even neglected to pay some of them at all. He also traded the horse for one of lesser value and it is alleged, that he got boot in the trade, which he converted to his own use. And the animal he gave the company as the result of the trade died a few weeks later. Southard was represented by Attorney Joseph O'Brien, and the company by Attorney John Scrago. The defendant claimed that he owned the horse as soon as he made the first payment and according to the agreement could sell, trade or dispose of the animal whatever way he wished. The case was given to the jury at adjournment, and no verdict had been arrived at 5 o'clock.

Other Court Matters. Mrs. Margaret Barry, convicted of keeping a tipping house at the October term of quarter session's court, was sentenced by Judge Edwards to pay a fine of $500, the costs of prosecution, and a term of three months in the county jail. Theophilus Davis plead guilty to assault and battery and was sentenced to pay the costs. J. W. Clark was sentenced to the costs in the case of extortion, of which he was acquitted, but imposed with the costs. A capias was issued for Michael Krotky. The jury acquitted Wiegand Stern and Michael Stern of aggravated assault and battery and ordered them to pay the costs. In the counter suit brought by Mrs. Phloemina Stern against David Harris and Edward Howells a verdict of not guilty was rendered and the costs equally divided between Mrs. Stern and David Harris.

MARRIED AT NOON.

Miss Cora H. Phillips Wedded to Professor Charles H. Ashton. The first large wedding of holiday week was that yesterday of Miss Cora H. Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Phillips, of Adams avenue, North Park, to Professor Charles H. Ashton, of Harvard university. The ceremony was performed at noon in the Green Ridge Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. N. F. Stahl. Miss Grace Smith, of Honesdale, the maid of honor, preceded to the altar the bride, who accompanied by her father. There were two bridesmaids. Daniel J. Phillips, brother of the bride, attended the groom. The ushers were: Charles Carr, Charles Winkler, Charles E. Daniels and Charles Genter. The bride wore a gray traveling suit and carried lilacs-of-the-valley; the maid of honor was attired in a fur-trimmed brown cloth dress. After the ceremony a reception, attended by only immediate friends and relatives, was held at the bride's home, and at 3:50 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Ashton left on the Lackawanna road for a tour. They will reside in Cambridge. Mrs. Ashton, until recently, taught school in No. 19 building, on the West Side, and is a graduate of the Mansfield State Normal school. Mr. Ashton is formerly an instructor in the Normal school, is a professor of mathematics at Harvard.

TWO BUILDINGS BURNED

Sensational Stories Circulated That Children Lost Their Lives. WERE WITHOUT FOUNDATION Origin of the Fire Is Shrouded in Mystery. No One in the Building in Which the Fire Originated—Loss Covered by Insurance.

Another mysterious fire was that which destroyed two dwelling houses, situated on Meadow avenue, South Side, last evening. A few minutes after 7 o'clock the alarm was sounded from box 49 at Crown avenue and Birch street. The three South side fire companies responded and the William Connelly's with their new team was the first to arrive, but they could do nothing as no water plug was within reach, the nearest one being at Stone avenue. John Kourik, who lives at 316 Meadow avenue, has a small fish pond in his garden and a line of hose was dropped into it and a stream of water forced by the Neptune steamer to the burning buildings.

The building where the fire originated was owned and occupied by Bernard Babel and a family of five children. It was a two story structure, the first being brick and the top frame. The number of the house was 721 Meadow avenue. It was practically destroyed before the firemen got to work. The house owned by William Elboch to the left was also destroyed. It was a story-and-a-half frame affair. Elboch carried all of his furniture and effected $500 insurance. His loss will probably be covered by that amount.

No One in the House. The strange and mysterious part of the story remains yet to be told. Babel's house, where the fire started, was locked up and apparently no one of the family was at home. John Hoffman, who lives to the right of Babel's house, heard people departing from the house about a half hour before the fire broke out. It was he who first saw the fire and gave the alarm. He tried to get in the front door but it was locked and so securely that it resisted his efforts to break it in. He went around to the rear and managed to burst in that door. The flames drove him back and to him then the fire looked as if it broke out in the front room of the house. When he heard the people leaving the house before the fire he looked over and only saw a man coming down the back door of Babel's house. But he heard about a half dozen voices of children. After the flames had destroyed the houses and the control of the fire was brought about, sensational stories spread to the effect that several children asleep in the upstairs of the house had been burned to death.

They Did Not Return. At 9:30, two hours and one-half after the fire had occurred, neither Babel nor any of his children had put in an appearance at their late home. It was said they had gone to a Christmas entertainment of the Sunday school of the Hickory Street Presbyterian church, but at the church it was learned that Babel was not there and does not belong to that congregation. Search was made in the cellar of Babel's house after the fire cooled, but no trace of human bodies could be observed. Lieutenant Zang and Patrolman Sartor made an investigation which satisfied them that no one was burned in the building. Babel and his family had gone visiting for the night was what the officers learned from a trustworthy source.

Unless the fire originated from an overheated stove or was caused by the upsetting of a lighted lamp, there is no theory unless it was deliberately set on fire. The promises, the neighbors say, were fully covered by insurance.
