PERSONAL. Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Amesen are spending a few days in Philadelphia and Atlantic City. Mayor Bailey returned yesterday afternoon from a two-day business trip to New York city.

WATSON-COURSEN WEDDING. Fashionable Gathering Saw the Ceremony in First Presbyterian Church. The marriage of Miss Jessie S. Coursen and Benjamin E. Watson at noon yesterday in the First Presbyterian church was witnessed by a large and fashionable assemblage.

Before the bride party entered the church an organ overture was played by Miss Florence Richmond. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played as the party walked up the aisle. The bride was accompanied by her father, A. H. Coursen. She wore a white satin gown trimmed with pearls and accented with pleated chiffon and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and smilax.

The bridesmaids were: Miss Alice Whately, of Americus, Ga.; Miss Frances E. Hunt, Jr., and Miss Mary K. Welles, of this city; Miss Jessie B. Downing, of Newark. They wore gowns of white organdie over green and large hats trimmed with green and white. The ushers were L. B. Fuller, J. M. Boies, A. E. Hunt, Jr., and James Blair, Jr., all of this city. They wore Prince of Wales, gray trousers, white ties and gloves and carried their silk hats as they preceded the bridesmaids up the aisle.

There was a reception and breakfast at the bride's home, 615 Mulberry street, in the middle of which Mr. and Mrs. Watson left via the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road on a wedding trip. Those present from out of town included: L. C. Smith, Jersey City; Mrs. V. D. Smith, South Summerville, N. J.; Miss Martha Whately, Americus, Ga.; Mr. K. T. Forsyth, Northumberland; Misses Harriet and Kate Stanton, Vinnie Rose, Antonette Ball and Mr. Weston, Honesdale; Marian S. Holmes, Albany; Miss Coe, Englewood, N. J.; Augustus Thompson, Honesdale.

MORE SINNED THAN SINNING. The Man Who Was Arrested for Assault Was Quickly Discharged. Antonio Kaluznik was arrested yesterday on a warrant from Alderman Howe's office charging him with assault and battery, Antonio Mackourack being the prosecutor. When Kaluznik, the defendant, was brought before Alderman Howe, his appearance showed that in the fight which was waged on the South Side Sunday night, Kaluznik had received the roughest kind of treatment.

CLAIMS THE KILLING WAS JUSTIFIABLE

Story of the Defense Is Being Told in Koehler Murder Case.

KERYCKI FELLED HIM WITH A CHAIR. Defendant's Witnesses Deny Emphatically That Kerycki Was Shot in Bed and Avow That He Was in the Act of Striking the Prostrate Constable for the Third Time When the Shot Was Fired—Several Testify That Kerycki Was a Bad Man.

When the Koehler murder trial was resumed yesterday morning the sheriff had the two defaulting commonwealth witnesses, John Michlewicz and Michael Jaraszewski, on the stand when their evidence and some rebutting testimony had been deduced the commonwealth rested and the defense opened. At adjournment Mr. Horn announced that all the testimony for the defense was in with the exception of that of Koehler and a few others of lesser importance and expected to be able to close today. Mr. Jones said he would have some testimony in rebuttal so it is likely that the case will go to the jury by tomorrow morning at least.

Michlewicz was the first witness called to the stand. He appeared to be rather unwilling to testify and but little was gleaned from him. He was a boarder at Opanowicz's, but did not know anything of the trouble until after the shooting occurred. The fact that he had to be brought in on an attachment and showed a disposition to make light of what he saw and heard on the night in question led the district attorney to examine him closely as to his having been approached by Koehler's friends since the trouble occurred. He denied the intimation, however.

Bobkowski was also a boarder at the Opanowicz house. There was no trouble, he said, on the occasion of Koehler's first visit. Koehler came in and finding the Keryckis in a drunken stupor, withdrew, announcing that he would wait until the morning to arrest them. Witness' brother treated Koehler to a glass of beer and everybody was on friendly terms when he left.

AT THE FOOT OF THE STAIRS. On the second visit, witness said, Koehler drew his revolver at the foot of the stairs. Witness did not see the shooting but ran up stairs immediately after hearing the shot fired and saw John Kerycki with his under shirt ablaze rolling out of bed. On cross examination witness denied that he saw upon the entrance of the officers "We'll kill some of you."

On cross-examination he said that Koehler upon reaching the street wanted to go to the county jail and give himself up but on the suggestion of witnesses and the court he got an opportunity to use it, if he intended to. On cross-examination he said that Koehler upon reaching the street wanted to go to the county jail and give himself up but on the suggestion of witnesses and the court he got an opportunity to use it, if he intended to.

WEISS TESTIMONY. Weiss testified that John Kerycki, the deceased, was a vicious and desperate character, that he saw him frequently in street brawls and was regarded as a violent and dangerous man. On cross examination he denied that he had had a quarrel with Kerycki because the latter did not trade in the Goodwin & Niles store. He admitted, however, that he and the deceased once had a falling out over an assault which Kerycki committed on his boy.

Adam Nelczyk was called to testify to the deceased having committed an unprovoked assault upon one time in a Priebeburg hotel. Court would not admit the testimony. Lucian Zyzlo, of Old Forge, was called to show Kerycki's vicious character. He testified that he had known the deceased for thirty years and when asked what his character was said: "He was such a man that no good people would keep his society." He also knew the father of the deceased, who he stated, was sent to Siberia. What for did not develop.

John Slynicki, the justice of the peace of Dickson City, testified that Kerycki was before him on several occasions for fighting. He also heard of him being a fighter. On cross examination he said he had also heard that when Kerycki was sober he was a good man. Squire McCormick, justice of the peace of Blakely, who issued the warrant for Kerycki's arrest, testified that when Koehler was starting out for Kerycki, a bystander named Kormisky said to Koehler, "Look out where you are going. Those Keryckis are desperate men. They will resist to the bitter end."

Simon Hinerfeld, the Penn avenue mercant, knew Kerycki when he lived on Lloyd street, in this city. He was a quarrelsome man, witness said, always wanting to fight when he came to witness' store. John Hubusis, a Priebeburg solokeeper, told of Kerycki having some quarrels at his place. Ex-Burgess Charles Snyder, of Dickson City, was called to tell of Kerycki having been before him on criminal charges, but as he did not have his docket along he was withdrawn. He will be recalled this morning.

John Gzerski, an ex-police officer, told that he knew Kerycki for two or three months and that he had had a couple of fights during that time. Mr. Jones brought out on cross examination that Koehler was a party to one of the fights. Lehigh Valley Resort. "On Wyoming's Crest" is the title of an attractive booklet published and issued by the Lehigh Valley Railroad company. The publication contains a large number of illustrations of scenes about the Glen Summit hotel, a bicycle road map of that beautiful mountain region and a fund of useful information to the tourist-traveler.

FROEBEL AND HIS LIFE WORK. They Were Considered by Prof. Twitmyer During the Morning Session. Dr. Bigsby Gave Another Installment of His Practical Talks on Words—What Miss McCloskey Had to Say on the Subject of Child Training—Evening Lecture.

Henry A. Houck, deputy state superintendent, who at past institutes was the hearts of Scranton teachers, was present at the session yesterday afternoon and again delivered every one within hearing. His speech on Froebel and his life work was the sunshinest bit of goodness since the institute began.

Professor D. A. Stone was temporarily chairman of the morning session and the teachers went through a singing lesson under Professor Derman. Professor Bible was introduced to give his address on "Elements of Expression." After defining his subject, Professor Bible maintained that the human voice was the greatest medium of expression. He referred to Delsarte's principles that the voice of a living, moving, speaking human being was far more expressive of thought than cold marble statuary or the tones of the piano.

THE SECOND PRINCIPLE. The second great principle given by Froebel was harmony and spontaneity, and he claimed that obedience must be spontaneous. Froebel was a student of children for thirty years before he promulgated his educational doctrine. The outcome of this child study was that there was a divinity instead of depravity. The fifth he gave us was that training of the senses. The sixth was the matter of co-operation. He made an appeal of objective work in our schools, and he gave us manual training. Tenth and last he gave us the idea of ethical culture.

After a short recess Dr. Bigsby continued his talk on "Words," which he began Tuesday. He believed that the three horns of the soul, there are two kinds of language, mental and agglotative. The Sanskrit was the first inhabitant of the House of Aryan, the next was the Latin, which Dr. Bigsby called the Samson of languages. Greek is the most beautiful, didn't it? The Greek and Latin changed, destroying the original beauty. The Teutonic was the last and is divided into two branches, the Saxon and the German. The lesson was continued until this morning.
