PERSONAL. Miss Laura Green is visiting friends in Providence, R. I. City Solicitor J. H. Torrey and his family are sojourning at Preston Park. Miss Kitty Murphy, of Railroad avenue, is the guest of friends at Forest City. Miss Carrie Stephens, of Nicholson, visited Green Ridge friends on Saturday. Myer Davy has returned from a visit to New York, Philadelphia and Boston. Mrs. Justin Sigrist is spending part of the summer at Asbury Park and the Delaware Water Gap. Miss Mabel Foulkes, of the North End, is the guest of Miss Mame Tyrrell, of South Wyoming avenue. W. L. Will, of this city, and John Norril, of Kingston, left Saturday for a two months' visit in Scotland. Miss Annie McLaughlin, who was the guest of Mrs. W. H. Mallis, of Jefferson avenue, returned to her home in Honesdale Saturday. Dr. and Mrs. P. J. O'Hara and children have gone to Philadelphia. The doctor will remain until July 25, while his family will remain for the summer. Miss Anna W. Wall, who has been the guest of Mrs. C. A. Drum, of Mulberry street, for the past two weeks, returned to her home at Bayonne, N. J., Saturday. Miss Elizabeth Thomas, associate of the London College of Music, sang yesterday at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Torrey, of the First Congregational church at Edwardsville. Miss Thomas created a favorable impression. Her daughter, "He Shall Feed His Flock," from the Messiah. Miss Thomas is a member of the First Presbyterian church choir.

SAYS SHE HAS BEEN SWINDLED. Mother Brings Action Against Her Daughter and Son-in-Law. Mrs. Mary Lacy, of Maple street, swore out a warrant before Alderman Miller Saturday charging her son-in-law and daughter, Mrs. John Savanah, of Avoca, with having swindled her out of her property. She alleges she allowed the defendants the use of the house on Maple street providing they would make certain repairs that were necessary, and contribute to her support. By deceit and fraud, she avers, they secured her signature to a paper, transferring the property to her daughter, and later, by the same practice, secured title to her lot on Irving avenue. She claims that the papers she signed were falsely represented to be something other than what they really were. One of them was presented to her by two men, she says, who represented themselves as workmen and said they would have to get her signature before they could receive their wages for work done in repairing the house. The defendants, when served with the warrant, gave bail before a justice of the peace for their appearance at court.

SOLDIER BOYS BACK FROM CAMP

Arrived in This City at 5.30 O'clock Saturday Evening.

THE TRIP WAS WITHOUT INCIDENT

General Gobin's Words to the Members of the Thirteenth as They Were Leaving Camp—Came Home in Charge of Lieutenant-Colonel Mattes—Train Did Not Stop at Reading—An Incident of a Few Years Ago Is Still Fresh in Mind.

Victorious from the camp field the Thirteenth regiment returned home at 5.30 o'clock Saturday evening and was greeted at the Delaware and Hudson station by a good sized crowd of friends. There was cheering and salutations of the kind in vogue in China, where, when they meet, they don't shake hands. The boys themselves, however, made most of the noise. They knew that the work done at Gretna was worthy of some jubilation so they brought along a lot of blank cartridges and when town was reached the soldiers gave their own reception. When the eleven cars had been emptied Company E, of Honesdale, took the next train for Carbondale where they got aboard the gravity cars for Honesdale. Company F walked up the hill to Hyde Park and Company G journeyed on a special car to pretty Montrose. The second battalion, Companies A, B, C and D, Major Stillwell at the head, marched to the armory and were regularly dispersed. The ride from Gretna, was made in about seven and a half hours, the train of seventeen cars starting at 9.56. This was an hour and a half more time than was taken in the down trip. Camp was broken at 8.30 o'clock, the regiment marching in heavy marching order. Lieutenant-Colonel Mattes was in command, Colonel Cousens having gone on an early morning train to Philadelphia, from whence he will join his family at Cottage City. The regiment marched down the hill and drew up in front of headquarters for the customary valedictory from General Gobin, commander of the brigade. General Gobin was seated on a camp chair waiting. The regiment drew up in two lines extending the length of the headquarters tents. Lieutenant Colonel Mattes brought his sword to his cap as General Gobin advanced. Then the regiment listened to these complimentary words from the world-looking man who thinks the world of them, General Gobin said:

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL MATTES. Was in Command of the Thirteenth Returning from Gretna.

Officers and men of the Thirteenth, I want to thank you with respectful sincerity for the efforts you have made during the week to retain your lead at the head of the National Guard of the United States. It is a pleasure to me to have accomplished better results, it is because of the example you have set. You have the commendation of the officers of the brigade and army and I thank you for the return home better citizens and better soldiers. The parting was really affecting. Lieutenant-Colonel Mattes saluted the general and then advanced and shook his hand. Turning to the regiment, Lieutenant-Colonel Mattes brought them to "order arms" and then led in three resounding cheers and a tiger for General Gobin. The regiment then marched to the woods in front of the Gretna station. Here they waited for over an hour for their train, finally taking the cars at 11 o'clock. "I'll next year" to the crowd on the platform.

GENERAL GOBIN'S REMARKS. Before Lebanon, nine miles away, was reached the train had been made comfortable and some of the boys were asleep. Company H's first move was to eat sandwiches which had been wisely prepared in camp for the journey. Guards were stationed in each car door to prevent the passing of soldiers. The ride was a delightful one. Recent rain had freshened the herbage and had swollen the slender Lehigh river, while a bright sun was shining.

NO STOP AT READING. At Allentown the train was stopped until the engine had taken something. No stop was made at Reading. It was at this station, four years ago, when the regiment was returning from camp at Gretna, an officer of the regiment was assaulted by a policeman and our soldiers immediately pounced from the cars by windows and doors and cleaned out the place. When asked if the train would stop at Reading the conductor smiled as he answered "No." He remembered the incident.

"The Thirteenth has a reputation there," he said. Rev. N. F. Stahl, chaplain of the regiment, lives at Reading. He was aboard the train and wanted to be left off at that place. But the conductor ordered him to obey and he refused to even slacken the speed of the train. Chaplain Stahl had to get off at a small station three miles below and take a street car into Reading. As the train sped through the pretty town some of the people along the tracks shook their fists and hooted. The compliment was returned from the cars.

Near Mauch Chunk the train stopped to allow the "Black Diamond" express to pass, and when Mud Run was reached the people along the tracks shook their fists and hooted. The compliment was returned from the cars. T. V. POWDERLY IS APPOINTED Named by President McKinley for Commissioner-General of Immigration.

IT IS A VERY IMPORTANT POSITION

Though the Appointee Did Not Have the Endorsement of Senators Quay and Penrose They Are Satisfied with the President's Action and Believe That Mr. Powderly's Nomination Will Be Confirmed—Headquarters Will Be in Washington.

On Saturday President McKinley sent the name of T. V. Powderly, of this city, to the senate as his choice for the office of commissioner-general of immigration. This is one of the most important offices in the gift of the president, as the proper administration of the immigrant laws means much to the American workmen. The strict enforcement of these laws will keep out a large number of undesirable immigrants that have been coming in during the past years, and it was for this reason that Mr. Powderly, who is ex-master workman of the Knights of Labor, was selected for the place.

Mr. Powderly was strongly endorsed for the place, and although he had some serious competitors, it was believed all along that President McKinley desired to appoint him. He did not have the endorsement of Senators Quay and Penrose, as they were on the papers of M. J. Dely, of Philadelphia, who was an applicant for the same place. Both senators stated Saturday afternoon that they were altogether satisfied with Mr. Powderly's nomination and there would be no doubt about his being confirmed. The senate committee on immigration, it was believed all along that President McKinley desired to appoint him. He did not have the endorsement of Senators Quay and Penrose, as they were on the papers of M. J. Dely, of Philadelphia, who was an applicant for the same place.

GALLAGHER CAUGHT HOLD OF HER.

And Did Not Let Her Go Until a Policeman Interfered.

During the forepart of the week Frank Gallagher was released from the county jail, where he spent a short term for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Yesterday he went up again for thirty days. His offense this time was that of insulting people on the street. He was in the act of embracing a young lady on Lackawanna avenue when taken into custody.

SHOT HIS COMPANIONS.

Probable Murder Follows a Sunday Picnic Near Pittston—Two Men Are Laid Low.

A shooting affray which will probably have a fatal termination occurred on South Main street, Pittston, last night. Frank Smith, Joseph Denina and George Pavlich, all residents of West Pittston, were returning about 9 o'clock from the Italian picnic which had been in progress for two days at the grove near the Boston breaker. Near Jones' pool room Pavlich insisted Smith in some manner and the latter retorted with a blow of his fist. Pavlich whipped out a revolver in a flash and fired four shots in quick succession.

FELL TO HIS DEATH.

Leonard Morris of the North End, Dies from His Injuries.

Leonard Morris, aged 12 years, a weaker boy in the Leggett's Creek breaker, met with an accident Saturday afternoon which cost him his life. Young Morris had completed his day's work and was walking down the flight of steps, the exit from the breaker, when, in some unaccountable way, he lost his footing and fell to the tracks below, a distance of about thirty feet. He was picked up by some of his comrades who found him to be suffering from a severe bruise near the temple as a result of his coming in contact with the rail.

BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Godfrey, of Hotel Jernyn, had a delightful trip abroad. In London rooms had been secured for them by Mr. John Jernyn and they had an exceptionally good place from which to view the jubilee procession. Mrs. Godfrey was close enough to the Queen to have touched her with the parasol she held, but notwithstanding the natural scorn of monarchs entertained by the average patriotic American, our young townsman refrained from using the advantage she possessed in a way that would have smitten with horror the true royalists in her vicinity. When leaving the Palace at Versailles, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey ran across the party of young people from this city chaperoned by Miss McCartney.

Messrs. Carl Welles, Joseph Boles, Mortimer Fuller and E. S. Moffat formed a party that spent yesterday at Como. The suggestions offered by the bicyclists as to how they shall be regulated fully match in fantastic degree those of the councilmen. The spectacle of the average citizen sprinkling the street in front of his residence with the garden hose, and scrupulously allowing a few feet along the gutter to remain nice and dry and dusty for the benefit of the wheelmen and wheelwomen would be highly entertaining. Just how this feat can be accomplished somebody has neglected to explain.

SISTERS WILL HAVE INSTITUTE.

Parochial School Teachers to Listen to Instructors.

Beginning Monday, July 26, and continuing four days the sisters of the parochial schools of this city and vicinity will have an institute, conducted after the fashion of the public school teachers' institutes. The lecturers so far announced are Mrs. Burke, of New York; Miss Monahan, of Saratoga Springs; and Rev. T. F. Coffey, of Carbondale. The lectures will be open to the public.

Rev. Father Lily, of the Redemptionist order, is conducting a retreat for the sisters of the Immaculate Heart of the Scranton diocese, at St. Rose convent, Carbondale. Over half the sisters of the order are attending. The others will enter into retreat Aug. 6.

STRUCK A TROLLEY CAR.

Passengers Going Down the Valley Had a Narrow Escape at the Moosic Crossing Yesterday Afternoon.

A crowd of sixty persons on an open car bound towards Pittston had a narrow escape from death at the Moosic crossing yesterday afternoon. For some reason, not definitely understood, the car was run over the crossing, which, as newspaper readers will remember, is forbidden by a supreme court decision. Just as it was clearing the south bound track the Jersey Central passenger train which leaves this city at 2.15 o'clock bore down upon it. The passengers saw the imminent danger, and all managed to jump safely to the ground and scamper out of harm's way.

The engineer of the passenger train saw that the car would not clear the track and applied the emergency brake. He could not stop the train in time, however, and it crashed into the rear end of the car lifting it into the air and depositing it at right angles with its track. How narrow the escape was can be imagined when it is told that the conductor took a short cut to safety through the rear window. The motorman, it is said, was new to that line and was not aware that cars do not run over the crossing. The conductor possibly was not aware of the close proximity of the crossing and before he realized the car was bumping over the tracks. Then likely he gave a bell to halt the motorman and while there stopped along comes the passenger train.

The passengers, or at least those who could be found, do not remember any of the little incidents that preceded the accident. Even had they noticed them the excitement would no doubt have eradicated them from their memory. The motorman claims the rail was slippery and his car slid on to the crossing, despite efforts to stop it. When on the crossing he saw the approaching train and as the car was almost half way over he thought it better to go to the rear and to go backward it would be necessary to reverse the motors.

One of the passengers when seen last night figured it out that it was possibly fortunate that the car after all went on to the crossing. Had the car come to stop on this side of the
