

Social and PERSONAL

Tonight will the pale ghosts come In the deep October gloom; We shall see no more of them In the silent fruit room...

Tomorrow will be a general handicap at the Country club. There will be many entries. The entry fee is 25 cents, with golf balls for prizes.

The following notice has been issued by the secretary of the Country Club: The Country Club of Scranton, ladies open handicap tournament, Saturday, Nov. 27, to commence at 1.30 p. m.

Social Gossip

Mrs. F. D. McGowan gave a beautiful tea Tuesday evening at her home on Wheeler avenue for her guests, Mrs. Corbett and Miss Sisson, of Ithaca, Mrs. F. H. Kingsbury and Mrs. H. B. Ware presided at the table in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Watkins will give a Halloween party this evening in honor of Miss Downs and Miss Wagner, of Germantown, Mrs. Watkins' Halloween parties are such delightful affairs that her friends look forward to them with the liveliest pleasure.

A. V. Bower gave a parlor social at his home Thursday evening for his Sunday school class.

Mr. John H. Brooks was receiving congratulations yesterday on breaking all records at the golf links with a total score of 77. The great record of 77 was made on the first half. Mr. Brooks is destined to be one of the national champions.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Vandling celebrated their tenth anniversary Tuesday evening. They received many valuable gifts appropriate to the occasion.

Miss Dorothy Williams, of Jefferson avenue, entertained sixteen of her little schoolmates at tea on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas Dickson will return from her country place at Morristown next week. Mrs. Dickson expects to undergo an operation of the eyes in the course of a few months, when it is hoped that her sight will be permanently improved.

The guests at Hotel Nash enjoyed a progressive euchre game on Thursday evening. Seven tables were filled.

The "Harmon" Euchre club of the North End met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Anderson last evening.

The Scranton Bicycle club will hold a "smoker" on election night. Music and cards will be indulged in and election returns will be received.

Mr. and Mrs. Uriah McDonnell gave a "house warming" to their friends Tuesday evening. Dancing and cards were the features of the occasion. Music was furnished by the Wakenshaw orchestra of the North End.

One of next week's social happenings that will attract considerable attention will be the wedding of Miss Carolyn V. Wolfe and Mr. E. G. Worden at Elm Park church Wednesday evening. The maid of honor will be the bride's friend, Miss Tru E. Powers, of Boston, and the bridesmaids Miss Olive MacIntosh, of New York city, and Miss Lillian Goldacker, of Syracuse, the latter Miss Wolfe's cousin. Mr. Styles Parker, of Waco, Texas, will attend the groom. Ex-Mayor William L. Connel will accompany Miss Wolfe to the altar. Two flower girls and eight ushers will complete the bridal party. The pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. C. M. Giffin, will perform the marriage ceremony, assisted by Rev. W. H. Pearce, a former pastor, and now of Wilkes-Barre.

Religious News

Mrs. W. W. Watson is in New York. Miss Welles has returned from Harrisburg. Miss Mary Linn is visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Mrs. M. E. Reynolds has been visiting friends in Funkhouser, Pa. Miss Edith Pierson has returned from a visit with Newark friends.

Mrs. Charles Haden, of Montrose, called upon Scranton friends Wednesday. Mrs. G. duRoi Dimandek is visiting Mrs. Thomas Dickson at Morristown, N. J.

Mrs. C. M. Giffin has returned from a visit with friends in New York and Brooklyn. Mr. Philip C. Ponnier, of Newark, N. J., is spending Sunday with friends in this city.

F. M. Vandling and H. B. Coston are angling for bass on the Susquehanna river. Rev. James Benninger, of Lehman, Pa., will be the guest of Rev. J. B. Sweet over Sunday.

Mrs. A. J. Noss, of Williamsport, was on a business trip in the vicinity during the week. Mrs. Thomas Grogan, of New York, visited friends in this city during the past week.

Miss Fleiding, of Washington avenue, has returned from a visit with friends on the coast. Miss Helen Albrecht, of Utica, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. W. E. Anderson, of North Main avenue.

Secretary James of the Wilkes-Barre board of trade, called on business friends in this city Tuesday. Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Ware left yesterday for Philadelphia, having been summoned by the death of a relative.

Mrs. C. W. Willard, of Foster, Susquehanna county, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. S. Foster, of 125 Park place. Dr. A. J. Connel and Mr. J. C. Sanderson assisted in making up a fishing party on the Susquehanna this week.

Mrs. H. C. Coston enjoyed a fishing trip on the Susquehanna this week. Mr. Guy Stevens and family will spend the winter in Philadelphia. Their house will be occupied by Mrs. E. G. Worden and Myer Davidson, the Lackawanna avenue shoe man, has returned from Boston, Brockton, Lynn and New York shoe markets.

H. C. Hopewell and family returned home last evening after a month's vacation at Muncy, Williamsport and Northampton in the city. Mrs. E. Morris, of Eaton, Md., formerly Miss Hattie Decker, of the West Side, is visiting Mrs. Harry N. Atherton and other friends in the city.

The Ladies Aid society of Elm Park church has announced a unique entertainment for the evening of the first supper in December. It is to be in the form of a contribution to the society of one dollar, which each person is to earn, either by actual effort or by some sacrifice. The entertainment feature will consist of a recital in rhyme by each contributor, telling how the dollar was earned. It is probable that some enterprising person of a poetical turn of mind may earn several dollars by writing the rhymes for the others, as the average practically inclined individual of these days would prefer to pay a dollar any time than endeavor to express thought in verse.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

MUSICAL NOTES

It must be most encouraging to the members and officers of the Symphony orchestra to note the generous response with which their efforts, in procuring subscriptions, have been met with. The orchestra has given, in its three seasons of concerts to Scranton, the best music that it has been our good fortune to have here. The only society in the city in the musical history of our city, which has given us such a high standard, musically, and an ideal in purpose, that of elevating our taste. The orchestra has proved itself far above the ordinary orchestra of its class, no doubt through the untiring efforts of its most gifted leader, Mr. Theodore Hamburger. The orchestra has met with success, artistically, but the financial success has not yet appeared. This year the orchestra will give to us programs which all will thoroughly appreciate. The society, of which Colonel Ripple is president, is enrolling honorary members, who will pay five dollars annually, getting in return two tickets for every concert given during the season. When the number of concerts are taken into consideration, this idea is an excellent one, and one which is a success not alone of itself, but for the most worthy cause. Thousands of dollars have been given by our citizens to send choral societies, but where are these societies today? They do not exist. As Mr. Hamburger said last year, while here, "that a symphony orchestra in this city was our first step, and where are these societies today?" It is to be hoped that our citizens will take more of an interest in this organization which certainly deserves a financial backing. The first of this season's concerts will be on Tuesday evening the 30th of next month.

The full choral society will assist in the Thanksgiving music at the Second Presbyterian church. Miss Black, who has been ill for some weeks, will return to her post in the Second Presbyterian church one week from tomorrow. In her absence Miss Sailer has been the soprano soloist. Miss Jordan, whose beautiful contralto voice attracted much attention when last she sang in public, will sing Monday evening at the Second Presbyterian church for the Christian Endeavor music. Miss Jordan is a pupil of Mrs. Catherine E. Wilcox, and does great credit to her instructor.

The program on this occasion will be given by Mr. Chance, Mr. Croft, Mr. Williams, Miss Ruth Hanley and the orchestra.

The music by the choir of the Second Presbyterian church at the evening service will consist of an organ prelude by Mr. Smart, Fables a beautiful hymn, "Hark, Hark My Soul," by the full choir; central solo by Miss Gargan, and organ postlude by Salome. Mr. J. W. Chance, director and organist.

Miss Olive Withers, of Sedalia, Mo., is spending the winter in this city studying singing and piano with her former teacher, Mr. J. M. Chance.

Sunday afternoon at the Young Men's Christian association service a show programme of orchestral numbers will be given.

Religious News

At the Jackson Street Baptist church tomorrow "Harvest Day" will be celebrated. Rev. Thomas de Gruchy will preach at 10.30 on the subject "The Bountiful Harvest." The following programme will be rendered in the evening and by request the same will be repeated Wednesday evening.

Children's chorus and full choir, assisted by Mr. Stanton, cornetist, and Mr. Allen, violinist. On that occasion a silver collection will be taken at the door and the church decorations will remain as arranged for tomorrow. The programme:

- Chorus.....Sing Unto the Lord Prayer.....Howard Griffin Responsive Reading.....Annie Thomas Chorus.....The Harvest Reclamation.....Cora Jones Recitation.....William Nicholas The Orchard.....Choir Recitation.....Ethel Lewis The Forest.....Chorus The Flood.....Chorus The Flood.....Chorus Recitation.....Nellie Lance Solo and Chorus.....Allie May Williams Selection.....Choir Echo Song.....Chorus Remarks by the Pastor. Thanks Be to God.....Chorus Finale.....My Country 'Tis of Thee Benediction.....

Mrs. Norvell of the Bible training school, Northfield, Mass., will return again to Scranton and under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian association will hold a series of devotional meetings. The first service will be held Sunday afternoon at 3.45 in the Penn Avenue Baptist church, to which every body is invited. Commencing Monday night and continuing during the week will be held meetings under Mrs. Norvell's leadership at the Young Women's Christian association rooms. Mrs. Norvell is too well known here to need any comment upon her work. We only urge a liberal patronage. Both men and women are welcome at all her meetings.

The Ladies Aid society of Elm Park church has announced a unique entertainment for the evening of the first supper in December. It is to be in the form of a contribution to the society of one dollar, which each person is to earn, either by actual effort or by some sacrifice. The entertainment feature will consist of a recital in rhyme by each contributor, telling how the dollar was earned. It is probable that some enterprising person of a poetical turn of mind may earn several dollars by writing the rhymes for the others, as the average practically inclined individual of these days would prefer to pay a dollar any time than endeavor to express thought in verse.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The Ladies Aid society of Elm Park church has announced a unique entertainment for the evening of the first supper in December. It is to be in the form of a contribution to the society of one dollar, which each person is to earn, either by actual effort or by some sacrifice. The entertainment feature will consist of a recital in rhyme by each contributor, telling how the dollar was earned. It is probable that some enterprising person of a poetical turn of mind may earn several dollars by writing the rhymes for the others, as the average practically inclined individual of these days would prefer to pay a dollar any time than endeavor to express thought in verse.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.

The western woman who advised her sisters to withdraw from active work in the Methodist church and to refuse to teach in the Sunday school until they were admitted as delegates to the general conference, fortunately has few proteges among the women of the east. Thursday afternoon, in Elm Park church, there was a meeting of the Wyoming conference of the Reformed church, having within its bounds over 100,000 members. It is with great pleasure that the members of Holy Trinity Lutheran church rally to the support of their new pastor in the person of Rev. Charles G. Spicker, formerly of Clarendon, Ohio. Rev. Spicker is a man of excellent qualities for the position to which he has been called. The Rev. James Hughes, late of South Africa, will preach in English on the beginning of the Reformation at the South Main avenue, Hyde Park, Morristown, N. J., at 8 o'clock, subject, "What Becomes of the Children Who Die in Infancy?" Evening, 6 o'clock, subject, "The Departed Spirits Know Our Movements and Intentions." The mission band of St. Mark's Lutheran church meets every Saturday afternoon in the church. The attendance has been well so far. The object of the mission band is twofold. First, to impart information on mission topics; second, to make and collect articles for the missions in India. This latter feature embodies the industrial idea of education. The 31st of October is universally observed throughout the Lutheran church as the beginning of the Reformation of the Christian church in the year 1517. On that day Dr. Martin Luther nailed ninety-five theses to the church door at Wittenberg. In these theses the scandalous sale of "Indulgences" as carried on by John Tetzel was attacked and criticized by Luther. This occasion served as a spark to the smoldering opposition of awed abuses in the then existing ecclesiastical institution. The world knows the outcome. The development of the doctrine of justification by faith, over against merits of works, which has become, as in reality it always has been, the true Church of Christ, the cardinal doctrine of Salvation. It is, then, eminently fitting that the anniversary of this day be duly observed by those who adhere to the Evangelical faith.