

DAY'S DOINGS OF NORTH SCRANTON

"TOO MUCH ANTHONY" BEFORE ALDERMAN ROBERTS.

A Batch of Five Defendants in One Case Contained Four Anthonys. Peculiar Accident to a Leggett's Creek Miner—Reception for Master Eddie Fagin, of Avoca—Lamp Explodes in a Polish Boarding House.

A case of "Too Much Anthony" was tried before Alderman Roberts last evening. The defendants were: Anthony Domiskey, Anthony Smith, Anthony Nourish, Anthony Scuminsky and Peter Brown, Polish residents of Theodore street.

Michael Hennlein, the plaintiff in the case charged the defendants with operating on the products of his farm in Keyser Valley. The raids of invasion have been perpetrated for many months past and he has been a heavy loser in vegetable. The accused gave conflicting stories in defense. Bail was required of each.

AN EASY ARREST. Thomas Sullivan walked into the station house Sunday night while under the influence of drink and commenced to abuse the officers. He used very language and was warned, but still continued. He was accompanied. The cell door stood right behind him, where he found himself with a sudden impetuous propulsion.

MINER INJURED. Patrick Loftus, a miner in the Leggett's Creek colliery, was painfully injured Saturday by being struck in the forehead with a hammer. He was assisting his laborer in standing a prop to support a dangerous portion of the roof. The latter was twisting the timber in desired position with a hammer. He missed his mark and struck Mr. Loftus. The blow rendered him unconscious and inflicted a wound which bled copiously. A physician checked the flow and stitched the cut.

LAMP EXPLODED. A hanging lamp, suspended over a table in a Polish boarding house on Lloyd street, around which several of the boarders were engaged in a game of cards, exploded Sunday night. Burning oil was scattered promiscuously about the room but the flames were subdued with slight damage to the room and no casualties to the boarders.

MASTER FAGIN'S RECEPTION. Mr. and Mrs. John Flannery, of Oak street, gave a reception Saturday evening in honor of their guest, Master Eddie Fagin, of Avoca. Those present were: Misses Harnab Hayes, Jennie Purcell, May Flannahan, Anna Morgan, Marcella Stone, Maria Pali, Lelia Murray, Mary Shields, Nellie McDonold, Alice Fadden, Clara Devine, Magdalen McDonough, Messrs.
