Archie Jones, who is president of the club, performed the part of humorist with dialects and impersonations. Mr. Jones kept his audience in an uproar of laughter.

Mr. Roberts, who has been closely connected with the Orpheus club since its organization, gave appropriate remarks in which he thanked his brother members and friends for their kind remembrance of him. The Orpheus club sang the closing selection, which was given in an excellent manner.

He was arrested last March for committing assault and battery upon his neighbor, Frank Miller, and in default of bail was committed to the county jail. Three days' confinement in prison developed in him strong symptoms of insanity and he was removed to the Hillside Home. Recently he gave evidence of return of reason, and yesterday he was committed to the asylum reported that they were ready to discharge him as being entirely cured.

His friends, upon learning of this, intercepted his return to jail by securing for him a bondsman, and late yesterday afternoon he was liberated on bail given before Judge Archbold. The case against him has been dropped, and when it is called up at the next term of criminal court it will be marked non-pros., which makes him as good as free, even now.
