LECTURE RECITAL.—Miss Jean Howland of Perth Scotland, will give a recital from 7 to 9 o'clock on Monday evening at the Guernsey hall on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The Wilkes-Barre Leader says: "The diaphanous Miss Howland, so easy and pleasing in her manner, has a good command, and there were many in the audience who had difficulty in understanding the stories in the book as they had read, who, by their rapt attention, made clear to them as they listened to the Scotch lecturer last night. Jan MacLellan has an able exponent of his work in the person of Miss Howland."

INDEBTEDNESS HEARING.—At Saturday's hearing before Judge J. J. Quinn in the Lackawanna township indebtedness matter orders to the amount of $1,000 held by Judge & Co., of Taylor street, and hearing of ex-County Commissioner James Ward, were up for consideration. The attorneys engaged in fighting the claims allege that all these orders are erroneous. Claims amounting to $125, held by ex-Supervisor Patrick Coyne, were presented by Attorney John J. Murphy. They were in the shape of orders given by Mr. Coyne as supervisor to William Conry for team work and after-wards assigned to Mr. Coyne. He could not identify the orders for the reason that his wife did all his clerical work and any orders issued by him were made out by his wife.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE.

Conducted in the Penn Avenue Baptist Church by Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce, the Pastor—Many Soldiers Present.

Colonel L. A. Watres and several of his staff, three line officers and a number of the members of the Eleventh regiment's Scranton companies, all in uniform and the officers without side arms, attended a special service last night at the Penn Avenue Baptist church, by invitation of the pastor, Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce.

The men marched from the armory on Adams avenue to the church. Colonel Watres was accompanied by Adjutant D. B. Atterton, Quartermaster F. M. Vandling and Lieutenant Rees Watkins, inspector of rifle practice. Captain Dimmick was in command of Companies K and Captain Fremont Stokes and Lieutenant C. P. Pross, of company D. No officers of Company G responded to the invitation to the service and the men of that command were attached to the other two companies. There were about 55 non-commissioned officers and privates in charge of the two companies.

Rev. Pierce's invitation had also been extended to members of the Grand Army of the Republic, but they came as individuals and not in a body. The soldiers occupied seats reserved for them in the front of the church. All the services were conducted by one of the largest congregations of the year. Flags were generously used in decorating the pulpit and organ loft.

The sermon was on the topic "Our Country: Its Dawn, Its Defenders, Its Destiny." The programme of service was especially arranged for the occasion and was patriotic in character. "The Star Spangled Banner" was played for an organ prelude by Professor Hayden Evans. Following a chant by the choir there was a responsive reading, a prayer for the nation and the devotional. An anthem was sung and prayer was offered by the pastor. "Tenting Tonight" was sung in soprano solo and chorus as an offertory.

The topic of Mr. Pierce's discourse in the patriotic matter. It was from the text Gal. 3:13: "In this shall all nations be blessed." God made that promise to Abraham and it was literally fulfilled in after years. The words could be used to indicate a prophecy for Greater America. Freedom and liberty, the words graven on the escutcheon of American's national honor would be proclaimed throughout the world. Freedom was, and shall be, the keynote of our national life.

Applause was evoked by one utterance of the speaker. He had referred to the gradual and rather reluctant way in which the United States had entered the circle of first-class powers and to the odium cast upon her during the process. "But," he exclaimed, "other nations have laughed at America for the last time in the world's history!"

With some spirit Mr. Pierce spoke in favor of an alliance with Great Britain, a moral alliance at least, for civil and religious liberty.

HE IS A STRONG FAVORITE.

That's What the Philadelphia Inquirer Says of Mr. Farr.

The Philadelphia Inquirer of yesterday contained the following with reference to the fight for speaker of the house of representatives:

John R. FARR, of Lackawanna, continues to be a strong favorite in the race for the speakership of the house of representatives. The suggestion of Farr as "a harmony candidate" for the Republican caucus nomination for this honor has been favorably received in many quarters. It is true that some of those who might be designated as radical Quay men have not taken kindly to the proposition, because Farr's vote for Waukegan for United States senator in the Penrose contest, yet other friends of the senior senator concede that it would not be wise for political to antagonize him purely on that score. Farr gracefully acquiesced in the action of the caucus and he has now announced his determination if elected, to be fair to all factions and to do his utmost to bring about harmony in the Republican party.

Secretary of the Commonwealth Martin's prediction that all his friends in this city will be found supporting Farr will undoubtedly be borne out in a few days. Representative-elect Reed, of the Third ward, Stubb, the Tweeds, and Yates, of the Thirtieth, were yesterday quoted as having fallen into line for Farr. The announcement that the three Republican members from Erie county and that Dr. Mackey, of Luzerne, had joined the Farr forces encouraged the backers of the Lackawanna man yesterday. Before there shall be a general caucus of the Philadelphia delegation to the house the Quaker City members-elect who are claiming the speakership of the Martineau will hold a meeting this week and formally go on record for Farr. Senator Marce, of Pittsburg, is expected to have his friends in this city.

Misses of Delaware; McClain, of Lancaster; Voorhees, of Philadelphia; Kreps, of Franklin; Marshall, Ford and Hasack, of Luzerne, are all being talked about for the speakership, but the lines are likely to be drawn in a few days, and there will be a strong drift to Farr.

MARRIED.

THOMAS—EVANS.—At Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 17, 1898, by the Rev. John R. Davies, D. D., Mr. John R. Thomas and Miss Lolla P. Evans, both of Scranton, Pa.

FOURTH SERMON
IN THE SERIES

DELIVERED LAST NIGHT BY REV. J. P. MOFFATT.

It Dealt with Home and the Duties of Husbands and Wives—Home Is the Great Bulwark of the Country, and Should Be a Most Sacred Spot. Plain Words About America's Greatest Sin—Be It Ever So Humble, There's No Place Like Home.

The series of four sermons upon the topic, "The Bulwark of Home," of which Rev. J. P. Moffatt, pastor of the Washington Street Presbyterian church, had already preached three, was concluded last evening with the fourth of the series. The main thought of this sermon was the "Home, Duties of the Husband and Wife—One to the other, and Caring of Family." Covering these points the speaker used the following texts: "Husbands love your wives, as you love yourselves; your own flesh and your own bone," Ephesians, 5:1; "Children are an heritage of the Lord," Psalm 127:3. "Happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them," Psalm 127.

In the introductory, the pastor reviewed the first three sermons of the series and pointed out the salient points therein. The three sermons treated the subject, beginning with the possible hereditary influence from the parents to the child's early training (later development) her connection with and part in society, that reality's duty toward her; the educating of her moral, spiritual and physical nature in order to realize a practical and Christian woman; her duty while in her courtship, and later married; and lastly the sort of young men who would make the best partners of such a daughter and whom she should seek. He said:

THE NEW HOME.

In this, the concluding sermon, we have come to the consummation of all that we heretofore have been considering—the marriage and the establishment of the new home. To be happily married and to remain so through life, is the highest aim for a man and woman in this world. Let us, therefore, consider the duties of a man and woman in this regard. A wife is essentially a woman. She is not a man and she will never be satisfied until she has found a place that she can call her own.

The adaptability to each other's nature cannot be taught outside of one's own home. For the husband and wife who are to be happily married must be so in their hearts and in their lives. The husband and wife who are to be happily married must be so in their hearts and in their lives. The husband and wife who are to be happily married must be so in their hearts and in their lives.
