THE ARMY AND NAVY

Gives Credit to the Greatest Medical Triumph of the Century.

Paymaster Collier says: "I Have Taken Pe-ru-na."

It Will Do All That Is Claimed For It."

WM. A. COLLIER, PAYMASTER OF THE U. S. NAVY.

One of the most responsible positions in the practical management of the United States navy in the paymaster's office. Only men of great executive and clerical ability can fill such a position.

Such a man is Hon. William A. Collier, assistant paymaster of the United States navy. Even men of his splendid physique and magnificent bodily vigor have sometimes to make use of reliable remedies for some trifling ailment.

It takes longer to cure a case of catarrh in the winter, generally, than in the warm season. Spring is here. Now is the time favorable to the treatment of old and especially stubborn cases of catarrh.

Major Algernon A. Mabson, of the Tenth Volunteer regiment, stationed at Macon, Ga., in a recent letter to Dr. Hartman of Washington, D. C., says: "I think there is no better medicine on earth than your Peru-na for catarrh. It has surely cured me. It would take a volume to tell you all the good it has done Major Mabson."

Peru-na attained great popularity among the officers of the army during the late war with Spain. A great many letters were received from field and hospital corps, indicating that this popular climatic remedy has become well nigh indispensable to them.

Peru-na is not only a national remedy, but has proven itself a national blessing.

Chronic catarrh is often a very stubborn disease to cure. Some cases will resist the best of treatment during the winter months. To catch cold during the treatment of chronic catarrh is to delay the cure, if not entirely defeat it.

The spring months are far the most favorable for the treatment of this disease. Two weeks treatment may now prove to be of more value than two months' treatment during the winter season. No one should neglect this opportunity.

FIVE DECISIVE BATTLES.

But the List Has Been Growing of Recent Years.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

A prolific subject for dispute among historians is a list of fifteen great battles of the world, prepared in 1851, by Professor Creasy, of Cambridge.

Creasy predicted that no two historians would agree in their lists of decisive battles. As may be imagined, the author was correct in this view.

A controversy raged about his list, and his name was even transformed into "Crazy" by envious eyes.

In his preface Creasy said that "different minds will naturally vary in the impressions which particular events make on them, and in the degree of interest with which they watch the career and reflect on the importance of different historical personages."

The interests of many states are often involved in the collisions between a few, and the effect of these conditions is not limited to a single age, but may give an impulse which will sway the fortunes of successive generations of mankind.

Eighty-four years have passed since the battle of Waterloo, with which Creasy closed his list. There have been decisive battles since then. Here is his list of fifteen decisive battles: Marathon, B. C. 490; defeat of the Athenians at Syracuse, B. C. 413; Ar-bela, B. C. 331; the Metastasis, 45, C. 287; victory of Arminius over Varus, A. D. 9; Chalons, A. D. 451; Tours, A. D. 732; Hastings, A. D. 1066; Orleans,

A. D. 1429; defeat of the Spanish Armada, A. D. 1588; Elenheim, A. D. 1704; Pultowa, A. D. 1709; Saratoga, A. D. 1777; Valmy, A. D. 1792; Waterloo, A. D. 1815.

A supplementary list has been prepared by the New York Times. It is as follows: Inkermann (the Crimean war), 1854; Gettysburg (American civil war), 1863; Sedan (Franco-Prussian war), 1870; Yevna (Franco-Turkish war), 1877; battle of the Marikava (Japanese-Chinese war), 1894.

Some students might include Solferino of the Italian-French war of 1859, and Navarino of the Turco-Grecian war of 1827 in this supplementary list.

TOLD BY FIGURES.

The most highly paid ruler is the emperor of Russia, who receives the nice little salary of 22,200,000 per annum. The sultan of Turkey gets 21,600,000 a year; the emperor of Austria manages with 20,000,000; the king of Prussia only 479,000 a year. Lower still is the king of Italy, with 285,000, while Queen Victoria has exactly the same income, which is more, seeing how much greater her empire is. The president of the French republic gets 235,000, but the king of Belgium can boast only of 125,000.

There are now about 30 public libraries in Great Britain. These libraries contain over 5,000,000 volumes and issue about 77,000,000 books each year. The annual attendance of readers is about 60,000,000. In comparison with the figures the following, recently published, will be interesting. There are 818 public libraries in Australia, with 1,400,000 volumes; 228 with 220,000 volumes in New Zealand; 189, with 200,000 volumes in South Africa. In Canada the public libraries contain over 1,500,000 volumes. In 1897 the United States, according to government statistics, possessed 4228 public and school libraries, containing 25,617,722 volumes.

The oldest inhabited house in England stands close to the River Mer and about 250 yards from St. Albans abbey. It was built in the time of King Offa of Mercia, about the year 725 and thus is over 1300 years old. It is of octagonal shape, the lower portion being of oak, and the tower has walls of great thickness. Last century it was a famous resort for witnessing cock fights. At one time it was fortified, and bore the name of St. German's gate.
