

EVENTS OF DAY IN WEST SCRANTON

FORMAL OPENING OF THE KEYSER VALLEY HOSE HOUSE.

New Quarters Were Visited by Hundreds of People Yesterday Afternoon and Evening—Excellent Entertainment Provided by Members of the Company—Kalos Plegan and Plymouth Church Concerts—Weekly School Deposits—Dewey Day Eisteddfod—Other News Notes.

Hundreds of visitors inspected the new quarters of the Keyser Valley Hose company, on Jackson street, yesterday afternoon and evening, and admired the cosy building which has been erected for the use of the infant company of the city fire department.

The building is a two-story frame structure, the first floor being occupied by the team and hose carriage, which was received yesterday from the William Connell Hose company, and which has been transferred to the new company for service in that populous section of the Twenty-first ward.

The second floor is reserved for club room purposes and will be utilized by the members for social and intellectual pursuits. The location of the company and its up-to-date equipment is mainly due to the efforts of Connelmen Norton and McAndrew, who have worked untiringly in its behalf since the organization was formed.

There are twenty-four members on the roll, and the officers and roster of the company is as follows: President, Thomas Grant; vice-president, Peter Norton; financial secretary, Michael Monahan; recording secretary, John Harrison; treasurer, Thomas Gannon; trustees, Thomas Kennedy, William Grant, Michael May, Michael Norton, William Leonard; additional members, William Murtha, William Henry, Anthony McNulty, John Monahan, Henry Shindler, Michael McDonnell, Joseph Canterbury, John McDonnell, Edward Leonard, Louis Andres, Michael Shindler, John May, Thomas Gerrity and Michael Gerrity.

The house was fittingly dedicated last night with an entertainment, lunch and social, which was attended by such a large crowd that not half of them could be accommodated inside the building, and many were compelled to stand in the street and listen to the speeches and vocal and instrumental numbers.

School Controller E. J. Leonard was chairman of the exercises and made a brief introductory speech. He said the entertainment was provided with the view of raising funds towards paying for the building, and hoped that the residents in that section of the city would contribute liberally towards the fund.

The opening number on the program was "The Girl in the Barracks."

Loughlin McHugh followed with a splendid rendition of "In the South Before the War." Miss Needham recited a descriptive recitation about the bravery of firemen in a pleasing manner.

Attorney M. F. Conroy was the speaker of the evening and made a capital address along the line of patriotism and devotion to duty. He complimented the hose company on the erection of such a well-adapted building, and bespoke for the members a period of successful literary and intellectual attainments in the future.

He also told a thrilling story of a Chicago fire, adding that there is no organization more beneficial to a community than a hose company.

Miss Nellie Bresnahan dramatically recited "The Old Surgeon's Story" in a manner that elicited profound attention and won her merited applause. She possesses ability of a high order.

NORTH SCRANTON NOTES.

Walter Clegg Fatally Burned at His Home—Explosion of a Kerosene Oil Lamp Caused a Fire.

Walter Clegg, the two-and-a-half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hammond Clegg, of 17 Throop street, died yesterday morning of burns received last Friday afternoon. It seems that at that time the family were burning some rubbish in the yard and the child strayed too near it, causing his clothes to catch fire.

His screams attracted the attention of his home-neighbor-old brother, who rushed to the little fellow's assistance and tried to put the flames off with a rug which he was holding. This had the effect of increasing rather than diminishing the flames and a neighbor, who arrived on the scene, took in the situation and wrapped the rug around the child, thus extinguishing the blaze.

All the hair on the little fellow's head was burned off and the flesh on the face and on the body badly scorched. Under the care of Drs. Donahue and Robinson, however, he lingered until yesterday, when death put him out of agony. The funeral will be held tomorrow.

A LAMP EXPLODED.

The explosion of a kerosene oil lamp about 9.45 o'clock last night, in the home of Mrs. Mary Gallagher, of 1705 Brick street, North Scranton, caused a fire which destroyed the entire interior portion of the building, the damage being estimated at about $500, which is covered by insurance.

Mrs. Gallagher lives in the building with her son Edward. The house is a small frame building, two stories in height and about 18x25 feet.

Both Mrs. Gallagher and her son were out last night when the fire started. It was caused by a kerosene lamp exploding in one of the rooms on the ground floor. A fierce blaze immediately flamed up and in a moment the whole first floor was on fire and the flames soon extended to the second floor.

The fire was first seen by Miss Flynn, one of the neighbors, and an alarm was sent in from box 81, at the corner of Oak street and Brick street. The three North Scranton fire companies responded, the Liberty, Excelsior and Camberlands all turning out. A steady stream was turned on the flames, and after about an hour's work, they were extinguished. Through the efforts of the firemen and some of the neighbors, all of the furniture in the house was removed, without any damage being done.

TOLD IN A FEW LINES.

The funeral of John Owen, who died last Friday, was held yesterday afternoon from the home of his daughter, on Wayne avenue. Many friends of the family gathered at the home to pay their last respects to the dead.

Two Petticoat Windows

The above phrase sounds a little shoppy, maybe; nevertheless it expresses conditions exactly. When you pass the store tomorrow you'll find two of our display windows filled with the newest and best there is in Ladies' Underskirts. One window contains nothing but Real Silk Taffeta Petticoats; the other is given over to the latest triumphs in Mercerized Cottons, and, if you can tell which is which by the mere looking, you may safely claim to be gifted with an insight keener than the average mortal possesses, for ordinary people find it impossible to detect the difference unless they are permitted to handle the goods.

Genuine Silk and Mercerized Skirts Are Made Up in the Same Styles and it's for you to say whether you want the real thing or the new imitation, that looks as well and wears better.

Givenaurd Silk Taffeta Petticoats

You know the name. It tells a story of quality that never fails and service that is always satisfactory. As to styles, cluster effects seem to have the preference with buyers, but all the other popular effects are here also, in piping, accordeon pleatings, ruffles, etc. All the colors of the rainbow, and a few which have not yet been discovered in the prism, to select from, as well as black and soft tints. Prices from $5.00.

Mercerized Cotton Petticoats

In colors that are absolutely fast and a finish that will stand while the fabric lasts. Trimmings and finish are practically the same as in the silk goods, although the garment itself is a trifle heavier because of the difference in material.

Wash Fabric Petticoats

In Gingham, Seersuckers, Linen Crash, Cambrics, etc. When we say "wash fabrics," we mean more than is usually implied in that term, for these skirts will not only keep their colors perfectly after leaving the laundry, but will also retain the same finish as they show when you buy them; consequently they will be practically new every time they are washed. Come in and see the latest styles in these dainty summer undergarments. They're pretty.
