"SOMETHING DOING" IN NEWSPAPERDOM

CARBONDALE, EDITORS CLASH AND ONE GETS PUNCHED.

Edward D. Lathrop, of the Leader, Takes Exception to Articles in the Review, Published by Charles E. Munn, and Lies in Wait—A Short Encounter in Which Lathrop Gets Away with the Honors and Munn Takes to Flight.

Publisher Edward D. Lathrop, of the Carbondale Leader, "laid" for Publisher Charles Munn, of the Carbondale Weekly Review, yesterday morning, and in a very brief space of time convinced him that he could and would hold him personally responsible for a series of stinging articles reflecting on Mr. Lathrop's character. In the course of the encounter but one blow was struck, but that was all that was necessary, for as soon as Mr. Munn had recovered from his surprise at the onslaught, he fled, leaving his antagonist in a clear field and the honors of war.

For a long time, the Review, which is published each Saturday, and has a gratuitous circulation, has made it a leading feature of its columns to criticize the expressions used in the other two papers that were published here, since the Evening News quit this field a few weeks ago, the full force of the criticisms has been directed against the Leader. The grammatical construction of sentences, the claim of circulation, the manner of doing business in the Leader office, have all been held up to ridicule. As a consequence, the Review each week has been eagerly sought, for there was sure to be something "spicy" about the Leader and its publisher. Of late, the tendency has been to attack the personal character of Mr. Lathrop, and these articles seem to have gounded him almost to desperation. On only one or two occasions, however, has he deigned to notice them in the columns of his paper, and a number have commended him for his forbearance in not inflicting the public with a newspaper quarrel, while others have insinuated that his silence was an acknowledgment of the truth of the Review's articles.

On Saturday last the Review came out with its customary line of attacks on the Leader, and in its editorial column it said: "We have just learned of a joke on the Leader's vegetable editor, the details of which will appear in next Saturday's Review."

It seems that this is the straw that broke the camel's back. Mr. Lathrop's temper, long tried, mounted to boiling point over this insinuation. A long time ago the Review published an article telling about a gardener for E. E. Hendrick, who was arrested for stealing vegetables, confessing that part of his plunder went to Mr. Lathrop in return for money he owed him. This article was subsequently proven false, but the term "vegetable editor" stuck to Mr. Lathrop, and the publishers of the Review, Jones & Munn, who both worked for the Leader at the time, have each week published short notices referring to the "vegetable editor."

Mr. Lathrop was considerably cut up about this article on Saturday. He must have brooded over it on Sunday, and yesterday morning he left his home over an hour earlier than his wont, and on his way to the office, stopped on the sidewalk on Church street, near Salem avenue, outside Munn's home, and waited for him. It was nearly an hour that he paced back and forth, and then Mr. Munn's little sister came out and started to go in the house next door. Mr. Lathrop called to her and requested her to tell Charlie that he wanted to see him. Then Mr. Lathrop, who is near-sighted, took the precaution to remove his spectacles and place them in an inside pocket. For about ten minutes longer he waited and then Mr. Munn came sauntering along, with his overcoat buttoned up, his umbrella held diagonally across the front of it, and his face filled with an expression of anticipation. Mr. Lathrop stepped quickly in front of him and asked: "Did you write that article referring to the 'vegetable editor' in Saturday's Review?"

"I suppose I did," was Mr. Munn's reply. "Will you tell me who you mean by the Leader's 'vegetable editor'?" was the next question fired by Mr. Lathrop in tremulous tones, as if in suppression of feeling. "Let me pass! This is a public highway and I demand the right to pass!" said Mr. Munn, drawing himself up and attempting to crowd by the short but sturdy frame opposing him. Again Mr. Lathrop demanded to know who was meant by the term of vegetable editor, and once more Mr. Munn said, "Let me pass!"

"I'll let you pass! Take that!" and a powerful fist shot out for Mr. Munn's eye. He saw it coming from the corner of his optic and ducked. The fist shot past, but it made a carrom on Mr. Munn's cheekbone, the inside of the wrist grazing the skin. Mr. Munn's hat flew about ten feet, he made a grab for it from the gutter and then glanced over his shoulder at Mr. Lathrop, who did not follow up his advantage, but stood with parted feet and his fists ready in true pugilistic attitude for a counter attack. But Mr. Munn had had enough. He plunged his hat back on his head, ran across the street, measured the distance to the corner with one glance and started on a run for the sidewalk, taking a diagonal course to avoid Mr. Lathrop, who made no effort to pursue him. Mr. Munn continued on his way in double-quick time to Main street and then went around to Alderman Jones' office and laid an information against his antagonist. Mr. Lathrop, when he saw that Munn did not hanker for a fight, argument, went to his office. He had not been there more than five minutes when some one told him that Mr. Munn was seeking legal redress for the injuries he had borne. Mr. Lathrop then went around to the alderman's office. On entering, he said: "Well, here I am, ready to give myself up. Alderman Jones heard the story of the assault and proceeded to give some fatherly advice to the disputants. But that did not satisfy the publisher of the Review. He persisted that Mr. Lathrop be held under bonds to keep the peace and swore that he was in fear of bodily harm. So Alderman Jones held Mr. Lathrop in $500 bonds to keep the peace. The latter offered to write a check for the amount, but the alderman preferred regular surety, so George S. Kimball furnished the amount of security, and the combatants wended their separate ways. The city is full of excitement over the fracas. Yesterday it was the prime subject of discourse, and while many severely criticized Mr. Lathrop for attacking a man physically smaller than himself, others condoned it on the ground that he was justified by the long course of patience he had practiced in going to such great lengths. The evening the Leader had nothing to say on the subject. Mr. Lathrop had considerable to say during the course of the day to the many who called at the office. He talked freely of the fracas and seemed rather glad that he had vindicated himself in the way he had. He confessed that as long as the Review had confined itself to attacking his newspaper and its circulation he had let it pass, regarding that merely as one of the incidents of business, but when his personal character and reputation were held up to ridicule and vituperation then he thought it was time to take the only justification he considered was left him—a public chastisement. The appearance of the Review on Saturday is eagerly looked for. It is a question if Mr. Munn can continue his articles in view of the fact that Mr. Lathrop is bound over to keep the peace. It is sometimes the case that an irate citizen publishes an article, but this is a new departure, one publisher inflicting corporal punishment upon another.

The Teachers' Institute.
The teachers' institute opened in the Central school building yesterday with a large attendance. The programme for the day was successfully carried out. History was taken up by Dr. Elson, advanced arithmetic by Superintendent Coughlin, and English grammar by Dr. Lytle. The programme for today will be:
9:30—Music.
10:00—English Grammar, Dr. E. O. Lytle.
10:20—History, Dr. H. W. Elson.
11:00—Music.
11:30—Advanced Arithmetic, Superintendent James M. Coughlin.
AFTERNOON.
1:30—Music.
1:40—History, Dr. H. W. Elson.
2:30—English Grammar, Dr. E. O. Lytle.
3:00—Geography, Supt. James M. Coughlin.
EVENING.
8:00—Music.
8:10—Recitation.
8:20—Lecture, "Daniel Webster," Hon. Champ Clark, M. C.

First Institute Lecture.
The first lecture of the course, which will be given in the week in the auditorium of the High school, was opened last evening with a selection by the glee club. It was very nicely rendered. The recitation, "The Drunken Organist," by James Kilpatrick, was very well received. The Misses Gramham, Frank and Watt rendered a piano trio in an exquisite manner. The next on the programme was the lecture, "Character Building," by Superintendent James M. Coughlin, of Wilkes-Barre. He handled his subject very ably. In his opinion, he thinks the most important duty of this generation is to prepare those who are to take our places in the years to come. The teachers should lift their students to the higher plane of life. It is the cooperation of the home, the school and the community that should help the teachers in this line of work. The purpose of education is to train the hand and the mind together. The mind should direct the hand to execute; the mind in a general sense to take hold of all the great problems of life, the hand to work out in a skillful manner these problems and give them to the world. We are especially anxious that our boys and girls should be so trained that they will have correct judgment. "We discover in our nature a tendency toward action and these actions repeated become habits, and these habits repeated become character. It is the effect produced upon the individual that is the important problem in these lessons. "The greatest element in life after all is to learn to be useful to mankind. Those who work for others are on the broad road to prosperity. Character is really what we are. Character differs from reputation in this: Reputation is what the world may say of us; character is a growth that comes to us through all the years of our developing life. Reputation is a fleeting thing; character always remains with us. Character is the thing that we are looking after in this world and we must seek to acquire it. The aim of life is rather to point out the direction toward the formation of good character." He then said that for Mr. Munn's eye, he cited the parts, bringing his lecture to a close by using the story of "The Great Stone Face," by Hawthorne.

The Re-dedication.
The date for the opening of the remodeled Roman Catholic church of St. Rose de Lima is changed from Dec. 15 to Dec. 16, in accordance with the notice published in yesterday's Tribune. The prices of admission to the ceremonies have been fixed at $1 and $1.50 in the morning. Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, will say mass, and in the evening the sermon will be delivered by the Right Rev. Tealy, president of St. Michael's College, Toronto, Canada. No admission fee will be charged in the evening.

Hope Is Past.
The wife of Councilman James Thompson, of the Sixth ward, was summoned to Scranton the latter portion of last week to be with her brother, Dennis Donovan, who was dangerously ill. Yesterday morning Mr. Thompson received word that all hope for Mr. Donovan's recovery had been abandoned by the attending physicians and he at once went to Scranton to render what assistance he could in the sad hour of affliction.

Back to Their First Love.
Thomas Arthur and family, who moved from Belmont street to New Rochelle, N. Y., a year ago last September, have come back to their old home and will reside in the future on Belmont street once more.

Amusements.
At the Grand Opera House: Wednesday night—Mildred Holland, in "The Power Behind the Throne," Thursday night—Aerial Ladies' Sextette concert.
At the Central School building: "Tonight—Champ Clark, M. C., lecture on Daniel Webster."
Wednesday night—Lecture by Colonel Firth will furnish the music.

K. of C. to Go to Binghamton.
A delegation of the local Knights of Columbus will go to Binghamton on Thursday to attend the working of the fourth degree of that order, this being an event that seldom takes place outside of the largest cities. The number of candidates to take this degree is 180. Besides this, the other three degrees will be worked, it being the first time in the history of the or-

The Scranton Tribune has opened a Branch Office in Carbondale and prints a daily edition devoted to the interests of the city, supplying Carbondale with a daily morning paper, containing all the news of the Pioneer City. Communications of a news nature, personals and all items for publication may be left at the new offices in the Burke Building, or sent by mail or phone. E. L. Hatfield, manager of the Carbondale edition, will be pleased to receive callers seeking information or desirous of imparting it. Telephone numbers: New, 286; old, 0423.

The Lecture of Mr. Clark.
Congressman Champ Clark, of Missouri, appears at the Central school building this evening in the course of the Teachers' institute lecture. He is well known all over the United States for his wit and keenness of speech. This is what a western paper says of this speaker and his lecture: "A large and cultured audience greeted Congressman Champ Clark at the Central High School auditorium yesterday to listen to his lecture on Daniel Webster. They came to hear and remained to applaud. From start to finish it was a keenly appreciative audience and the speaker was frequently interrupted by laughter and applause. "The address was a marshaling of great thoughts in strong, elegant, clear English. It abounded in happy illustrations, well chosen anecdotes, pithy epigrams, in humor, pathos and patriotism. The lecture was delivered with that persuasive eloquence for which Mr. Clark is so justly distinguished. "Among the many strong points of the lecture were the side-lights thrown upon Webster's contemporaries—Clay, Calhoun, Hayne and Benton. Mr. Clark is one of the few congressmen who have a passion for history, biography, poetry and art. The auditor is reminded of what Benton says of John Randolph, of Virginia; that he would exhaust enough historical allusion, apt quotation and pertinent anecdote on one speech to adorn a dozen efforts of a less gifted orator."—Kansas City Times.

Hospital Inmates to Be Remembered.
The unfortunate who will be compelled to spend Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's in the hospital will be provided with holiday dinners this year by six of the local churches. The institution has each year been supplied with good things by individuals, and this year the supply will be more bountiful than ever. Everybody in the city will be given an opportunity to give something. The Episcopal and Congregational denominations will provide the Christmas dinner, while the members of St. Rose and Berean Baptist churches will supply the good things for New Year's day. The First Methodist and Presbyterian congregations have taken upon themselves the responsibility of providing for a Thanksgiving dinner for the patients and the members of these bodies who wish to contribute are asked to send them to the Sunday school room of either of the churches named on Wednesday afternoon. It is hoped there will be a ready response to this appeal.

A Slight Error.
In the article of a few days ago relating to the gift of a set of china dishes and a set of silver knives and forks to the Carbondale hospital credit was given to the wrong parties for the donation. It was the Ladies' auxiliary of the Episcopal church, and the ladies who were so kind and generous in helping a worthy institution. The hospital people are very grateful for this good deed and the ladies who originated the happy idea should certainly be most pleased with the success with which it was carried out.

A New Kind of Thimble Tea.
The city for the last few months has become quite used to thimble teas, many of them having been held at different homes for different purposes, social and charitable. This afternoon there will be given in the kind of tea developed. Miss Helen Patter, of Lincoln avenue, has issued invitations for a "conundrum" thimble tea to be given at her home on Lincoln avenue, in honor of her guests, Miss Lucia Shide, of Onondaga, and Miss Louise Fowler, of Honesdale.

A Nice Window.
A. Berry, the main street furniture dealer, has a fine window display appropriate to Thanksgiving. It represents a dining room, with a snowy cloth and a glistening table, and chairs ranged around it. The window attracts attention and universal admiration.

A Night of Merriment.
The Recheche Dancing school will give one of their famous thimble teas on Thanksgiving night. Over 200 invitations have been issued and it is expected that this class will hold up its past reputation in catering to the pleasure of its guests. The event will take place in Burke's hall and Prof. Firth will furnish the music.

To Take Church Census.
Bishop Hoban has issued orders to the pastors of the Scranton diocese to take a census of all Catholics. This work must be done by the priests and their assistants. The work in the St. Rose parish, of this city, will soon be commenced. Rev. Father Coffey will deliver the notice at Sunday's mass.

der that four degrees will be worked on the same day and at the same place.

Mildred Holland.
The first act of "The Power Behind the Throne," the new play in which Miss Mildred Holland will begin her starring tour on Nov. 22, is described as being one of the most beautiful exterior stage pictures ever presented. It represents an Austrian willow grove and walled-in flower garden, with an old German cottage on one side. To produce the desired effect, thousands of plants and vines of various varieties are carried. The other three acts will be equally perfect in every detail, all the necessary furniture was especially built for the production. The locale of the play is laid in an Austrian province at the end of the eighteenth century. The story is a typical one of intrigues of that time, from which the author has evolved an exceedingly intense and interesting drama, replete with many strong situations. The production will be on an elaborate scale with historically correct scenery, furniture and other accessories, while the company will be made up of well known artists, comprising over thirty people.

William Lindsay Buried.
The funeral of the late William Lindsay, whose obituary appeared herein yesterday morning, was held yesterday afternoon. The procession left the house, on Canaan street, at 2:30. At Trinity parish house services were conducted by the young man's rector, Rev. Rollin A. Sawyer. The vestal choir of the church sang several appropriate anthems and hymns. The remains were conveyed to Maplewood cemetery, where interment was made. The obsequies were held under very melancholy conditions, there being a slight downfall of rain, but despite this fact the cortege was a large and representative one. A number of pretty floral pieces told of the kindly regard in which he was held. One of the prettiest of these offerings was presented by the Sunday school, in which deceased was such an active worker and an officer. The flower-bearers were Alger Sawyer and Winfield Smith. The pall-bearers were Joseph Jenkins, Charles Campbell, R. Stanley Rettew, James Llewellyn, August Bruner and J. Norman Gelder.

No Quorum Present.
Last night was the regular meeting of common council, but other matters engaged the attention of a majority of the members, only Messrs. Thompson, Collins, Loftus, Nealon and Wedeman being present. The hospital sewer ordinance was the most important matter scheduled for consideration. M. F. Norton, of the hospital board, was present and expressed regret that immediate action could not be taken. The members adjourned to meet tonight.

A Little Relaxation for Nurses.
The nurses and lady attendants at the Carbondale Emergency hospital will have a social hour or two on Thanksgiving evening. Refreshments will be served and a couple of hours passed in pleasant converse. Only the female portion of the hospital staff will have this opportunity to celebrate Thanksgiving.

Meetings Today and Tonight.
Carbondale Teachers' Institute, Division No. 11, A. O. H. St. Vincent de Paul. Rebeccah. Lackawanna Tribe, No. 208, I. O. R. M. Knights of Honor. Chautauque night at Y. M. U.

A Happy Man.
Edward Canfield, of Belmont street, was in an elated mood yesterday morning. He was busily engaged the large part of the day in holding up his friends telling them all about it. And when these friends—they are many—heard it, they were eager in proffering congratulations. It was all about a wee mite of a girl that was presented to him by his wife earlier in the day.

A Barn Burned.
At 7:45 o'clock last night an alarm of fire from Box 43 was turned in. The fire was in a barn on the premises of Frank Cannon, 54 Washington street, and by the time the firemen got there, flames were bursting through it on all sides. The barn and its contents, which included $75 worth of carpenter's tools, were a total loss. Damage, $250.

A Forest City Dance.
Prof. Will Collins goes to Forest City tomorrow evening, where he will be director of a high-class dance to be given by a number of Forest City's prominent young people. Prof. Collins is director of a couple of large dancing classes in that borough.

Germania Singing society will give a Thanksgiving eve social on Wednesday evening. The society is noted for its hospitality, and a large crowd will no doubt be in attendance.

The Passing On.
John Peel and John Loftus, of this city, attended a dance in Forest City. Miss Mabel Jadin, who has been visiting in Philadelphia for some weeks, returned home on Saturday. Charles Perkins went to New York on Saturday, where he and Mrs. Perkins, who preceded him there by a few days, will visit friends. George Clewell, formerly of this city, but who has not been here for some years, was in Carbondale yesterday, renewing old friendships. Mrs. Lola Harvey, wife of James Harvey, formerly of this city, who returned to Chester some time ago, is in Carbondale, visiting her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Saunders. Alford Hulbert, of the United Gas Improvement company, of Philadelphia, who is starting the new gas improvements here and turning the product into the mains for the Carbondale Gas company, spent Saturday and Sunday calling on relatives in Honesdale.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.
An official notice was posted at the Delaware and Hudson breaker yesterday granting about all the demands the committee some weeks ago asked of the company. The concessions to be made are the adoption after Jan. 1, 1901, of the monthly pay, the permission to the men to employ check weighman and the restoration of all coal falling from cars or dumped from cars while en route from the chamber or gangway to the breaker, to the men. For some years past the company has reloaded this coal and the miners have received no allowance for it. The notice was very favorably commented upon and the men are apparently well satisfied with the concessions.

A special meeting of the Mayfield borough council held last evening the ordinance giving the Mayfield Light and Power company the contract for lighting the borough streets for ten years was passed. John T. Williams, of Second street, who had his hip dislocated over a year ago at work in the mines and who since has been badly crippled, will undergo an X-ray examination at Dr. Thompson's hospital at Scranton today. Mrs. Tamson Roberts, of Bacon street, who has been seriously ill of pneumonia for several days, was in a most critical condition last evening and without hope of recovery. Harry Van Kleeck is moving to Jordan Hollow, Pa. Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy, of South Main street, a son. R. H. Williams, of Hyde Park, past grand master of the supreme court of the Grand lodge, Ancient Order of Yorks, Grand Secretary John Evans and Grand Treasurer Roger Evans, paid a fraternal visit to Caswallon lodge, No. 16, on Saturday evening. William B. and John O. Powell, of Providence, were on Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Penderfer, Jr., of Second street. Dr. Thompson, of Scranton, was a caller here yesterday. Misses Bessie and Lily Brown, of the Derrington farm, Greenfield, were the guests of Mrs. John Solomon, of Main street, on Sunday. Mrs. Mary Osborne, who has been visiting here, returned to her home at Canitor, N. Y., yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis, of Second street, spent Sunday with Avoca friends.

OLYPHANT.
The ladies of the Presbyterian church will hold an "octagon" social and entertainment in the social rooms of the church tomorrow evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend. E. C. Harnden, of Carbondale, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Harnden over Sunday. The members of the Blakely Social club, were entertained at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hull last evening. Several pleasant hours were spent in card playing, after which delicious refreshments were partaken of by the guests. P. E. Hamal and D. J. Hopkins, of Scranton, were callers here on Sunday. Eugene McNamara and William Weegle, of Hawley, were visitors in town yesterday. Mrs. Georgia Thomas, the efficient assistant at the postoffice, is ill at her home on Delaware street. William Winters had an operation performed on one of his eyes by Dr. J. F. Grant at the Scranton Private hospital on Sunday. John Reddington has returned home from Nevada, N. J.

MOOSIC.
H. G. Doud, of Washington, is spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Doud. A lecture will be given in the Methodist Episcopal church this evening, Nov. 27, by the Rev. O. L. Severance, Ph. D., of Pittston; subject, "The Battle of Gettysburg." A free-will offering will be taken at the close of the lecture. Miss Elizabeth Green has returned home after a week's visit in Philadelphia. Charles Snyder spent Sunday with his parents in Gracedale. Yesterday occurred the funeral of Mrs. Lancaster, from the home of her son, C. M. Lancaster, of South Main street. The remains were taken to the Lackawanna depot, and thence to Moscow. Walter Hinds is ill at his home on Main street, with influenza. Miss Maud Smith was a caller in Pittston yesterday. The choir of the Presbyterian church will meet this evening to practice for their Thanksgiving entertainment. Hanson Havelock, of Wilkes-Barre, is spending a few days at the home of his uncle, W. S. Hutchings. There will be Thanksgiving services in the Methodist Episcopal church at 10 a. m. Thursday. Services conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. N. Bailley.

weather is favorable, gospel meetings will be held in the church every evening this week, except Saturday. Harrison Colvin, one of the oldest and highly respected residents of this vicinity, is seriously ill at his home. Considerable repairing has been in progress on the street leading to Snyder's mill the past week. Clarence Stone has placed a furnace in his house. Mrs. William Evans, who with her two children has been visiting her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Somers, returned to her home in Scranton yesterday. Joseph C. Northup is serving as juror this week at the county seat. S. E. Finn is doing an extensive business this fall in buying and shipping apples. John A. Woodbridge, the borough assessor, is busy now seeking for men, horses, dogs and everything that is taxable.

TAYLOR.
Sunday marked the ninth anniversary of Rev. H. H. Harris, Ph.D., as pastor of the Calvary Baptist church. Dr. Harris delivered a special sermon in the evening, which was eloquent and forcible. During his pastorate the church has rapidly pushed forward and many things have been accomplished. Through hard work the pastor, ably assisted by his congregation, has erected a handsome church building and parsonage, and has drawn together a large congregation. Dr. Harris is to be congratulated on his excellent record. The members of J. F. Tubbs' Sunday school class of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold a Puritan social on Thursday, Thanksgiving night, commencing at 6 o'clock. All the delicacies of the season will be served. Admission to supper, ten cents.

The Taylor Choral union is now fully organized and ready for hard work. On Thursday evening the Young Men's Christian association will banquet in their rooms, on South Main street. Extensive preparations are being formed by the committee to make the event a grand success in every particular. Cream, cake, sandwiches, etc., will be served and the evening will be spent in a social way. Previous to the supper a foot ball contest will be played between two teams picked from the association. All members are requested to be present. The Archbold mine was compelled to suspend operations yesterday, owing to the carriage being caught in the grid-iron in the shaft. Local union, No. 1013, United Mine Workers of America, will meet this evening in important session. The building of the Lubina & Co. silk factory, on High street, has been completed. The congregational meeting of the Presbyterian church will be held this evening.

Miss Grace Davenport, of South Taylor, who has been the guest of Miss Gertrude Aten, at Bald Mount, has returned home. An important session of the Lackawanna lodge No. 115, American Protestant association, will be held this evening in their rooms. All members are requested to attend. Insurance Agent L. M. Williams, of West Scranton, was a business caller in town yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Stanton and Mr. and Mrs. Carey have returned to their homes in Fleetville, after being guests of friends here. Maud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Jones, of the flats, is seriously ill at her home with pneumonia. Miss Olwen M. Howells, of Main street, sang a contralto solo at the Dudley Street Baptist church in Dunmore on Sunday evening.

WOMAN SHOTS AT A JUDGE.
Fires on a Man Who Sent Her Son to an Asylum.
By Exclusive Wire from the Associated Press—Springfield, O., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Bridget Sullivan entered Probate Judge James P. Goodwin's office this afternoon and shot at him with a 32-caliber revolver. The bullet lodged in a box containing papers two feet above the judge's head. As soon as the shot was fired the judge grabbed her; then a terrible tussle took place. Mrs. Sullivan got the judge's thumb in her mouth and chewed it. Deputy Sheriff John Sheets took her to jail. Mrs. Sullivan became enraged at the judge for committing her stepson, Frank Shafer, to the Columbus asylum.
