FULLER-SANDERSON. Charming Wedding at the Second Presbyterian Church Last Night. No prattier wedding was ever seen in Scranton than that of last night at the Second Presbyterian church, when Miss Grace Sanderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Sanderson, was married to Mr. Ray Woolworth Fuller, a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fuller, of Green Ridge. The church was elaborately decorated by Morel. A charming feature of the arrangements was a frieze of laurel, which garlanded the organ. Palms and ferns made an effective setting for the pretty grouping of the bridal party. The bridesmaids walked up the center aisle, followed by the maid of honor, who preceded the bride with her father. The bride's gown was strikingly beautiful. It was made entirely of Irish point lace over chiffon and white satin, with chiffon platings. It was cut in princess style. Her veil was fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms, first worn more than fifty years ago. She carried white sweet peas. Stately and tall, she was a singularly attractive bride. The maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Sanderson, wore a lovely gown of white point d'esprit over white silk, with many accented platings and trimmed with small pink roses. She carried pink sweet peas. The bridesmaids were Miss Susan McMahon, of New York; Miss Lella Felver, of Easton; Miss Helen Hand, of Easton; Miss Emma Burns of this city. They were dressed precisely alike, in white chiffon mousseline, exquisitely fashioned, with yokes and sleeves of point d'alence lace. They wore pink liberty satin sashes and had pink roses in their hair. All carried large bouquets of sweet peas, and wore monogrammed neckties and cuffs of the gifts of the bride. The best man was Mr. Howard Fuller, a brother of the groom. The ushers were: Messrs S. W. Stonecipher, of Pittsburg; L. C. Bixler and H. P. Reed, of Easton; E. A. Yetter, Floyd Fuller and Raymond Sanderson, of this city.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Dell, pastor of the Second church, and was witnessed by a large company of guests, including the representatives of the leading social circles of the city. A reception followed immediately at the beautiful home of the bride's parents, on Clay avenue. The decorations here were exceedingly attractive. The mantel in the library was a mass of pink carnations and ferns. The round table in the dining-room had festoons of pink roses and pink ribbons hung from the chandelier. The centerpiece was a mass of pink roses, and every available spot in the large rooms held vases of June roses.

The bride party and Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fuller received the guests in the front drawing-room. Mrs. Sanderson wore a very elaborate gown of lavender brocade, the bodice and skirt richly trimmed with rose point. She wore diamond ornaments. Mrs. Fuller's costume was especially handsome. It was of pearl-grey brocade, combined with point lace and pink velvet, embroidered in black. Mrs. E. W. Constable, of Erie, wore grey crepe de chine and point applique, and magnificent diamonds. Mrs. Alfred Hand's gown was of lavender brocade, with point lace. Mrs. W. J. Hand wore white Paris mousseline with point applique lace. The wedding supper was served by Hanley. The bridal party had refreshments in an upper room, which was lavishly decorated with red roses. An unusual quantity of costly and beautiful gifts were received. These included checks amounting to $2,000 in value, rare inlaid mahogany furniture, cut-glass, china, silver services, etc.

The bride, who is a niece of ex-Justice and Mrs. Alfred Hand, is possessed of rare charms of personality. Perhaps those who know the influence of her lovely character in her home life and in her immediate circle of friends can best value her worth. She has many accomplishments, and has devoted much time to works of charity and mercy. Mr. Fuller is connected in business with some of the leading industries of the valley, being identified with his father in the Scranton Stove company and other interests. Upon their return from an extended journey the young people will take up their residence in a home prepared for them at 845 Quincy avenue.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Constable, Mr. C. A. Constable, of Erie; Mr. Herbert Constable, of Pittsburg; Mrs. William Peavey, of Boston; the Misses McMahon, of New York; Dr. Marter, of Philadelphia; Miss Birdsall, of Honesdale.

SLICK 17-YEAR-OLD LAD. He Procured Strawberries Under False Pretenses. James Dougher, aged 17 years, residing on Gibson street, was committed to the county jail yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Miller, in default of $500 bail, on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses.

Young Dougher went into Chandler & Sibley's, at Lower Lackawanna avenue, on Wednesday afternoon and secured a crate of strawberries by representing himself as having been sent by S. Roos, the marketman on Pine street. A short time later he went to Pierce's wholesale market and asked for a crate of berries, claiming himself as a representative of Roos.

One of the clerks telephoned to Mr. Roos and was informed by the latter that he knew nothing of the young man. Dougher was then placed under arrest and was given a hearing by Magistrate Miller, who gave him a lecture and fined him $2.

The magistrate learned of the Chandler & Short case only yesterday, and he promptly issued a warrant for Dougher's arrest.

COURT HOUSE NEWS NOTES. The will of Margaret Simon, late of Scranton, was yesterday admitted to probate by Register Koch. Letters testamentary were granted to Edward J. Kloos and J. H. Gunster, Jr. In the case of Jennie W. Capwell against E. A. Peters, a rule to open judgment was yesterday granted by the court. Charles A. Spencer yesterday registered as a law student in the office of Attorney J. E. Burr. Mr. Spencer is a graduate of the Mercersburg academy in the class of 1900, and at present is a member of the Junior class at Dickinson Law school.

REVIEW OF THE STATE FIGHT. HOW LACKAWANNA FIGURED IN THE FRAY.

Interesting Summing Up of the Battle by Deputy Attorney General Fleitz—Going Over to Quay of the Watres Forces Had Influence on Wavering and Venal Delegates. Fidelity of Congressman Connell. Pennypacker's Election May Bring Opposition to Penrose.

Defeated but not dismayed, Deputy Attorney General Fleitz paused yesterday on his way to well-earned vacation. Mr. Fleitz was one of the hardest worked of John P. Elkin's lieutenants and also one of the most effective. He had special charge of the Elkin fight in Tioga, his former home, and the victory which Elkin won there against unprecedented odds was largely due to the campaign which Mr. Fleitz organized. Asked last night for his views on the convention, its work and the situation it creates in state politics, Mr. Fleitz said: "The friends of Mr. Elkin throughout the state have every reason to be proud of the splendid showing he made in the convention. When Senator Quay declared against Elkin's candidacy, the Philadelphia Press and other prominent state papers took it for granted that that was the end of the whole matter. He had then carried seventeen counties and had no less than forty-five delegates. In spite of the powerful combination of federal officeholders, a solid delegation from Philadelphia and unlimited cash, he continued the contest and on Monday before the convention, he had carried fifty-one counties with 194 delegates, having won every contest, where the rules permitted the submission of the matter to the vote of the people.

QUAY'S METHODS. "Quay knew on Monday that Elkin had won his fight, but with his wonderful resources he determined to change defeat into victory. How this was done is known to all who were at Harrisburg. Delegate after delegate who had been instructed for Elkin was gathered into the Pennypacker camp by promises of future political preferment or more substantial immediate reward. Northumberland county is a fair example. On a popular vote, Elkin received 4,000 votes to 400 for his opponent, Colonel Watres. Yet two delegates from that county were secured by Quay for Pennypacker, against their instructions by methods that were at least questionable.

"The same methods were used in a dozen other counties with more or less success, but the Elkin leaders never doubted success until the state committee packed with substitutes who held proxies for the regular members, deliberately and by main strength unseated four regularly elected Elkin delegates and gave their places to four Pennypacker adherents.

"The combination then effected by Senator Quay with the Watres forces stamped the wavering and venal delegates and Pennypacker's victory was assured. The remarkable thing about it is that 152 delegates, coming from forty-four counties, stood firm in their adherence to the cause of the popular young leader and fought stubbornly to the last ditch. The final figures show that Colonel Watres' twelve or fourteen delegates were not needed to make Pennypacker the nominee. However, the earlier combination had its effect in producing this result.

NOTE IN THIS SECTION. "The vote from this section of the state is interesting to study. Elkin had elected four delegates in Bradford, one in Wyoming, one in Monroe and nine in Luzerne. Quay had one in Sullivan, three in Susquehanna and one in Pike. Watres had eight in Lackawanna, two in Wayne and one in Luzerne.

"Quay stole one Elkin delegate in the Fourth district of Luzerne, against instructions; robbed him of two in Wilkes-Barre, by throwing out his delegates, and secured from Colonel Watres, five from Lackawanna, one from Wayne and one from Luzerne.

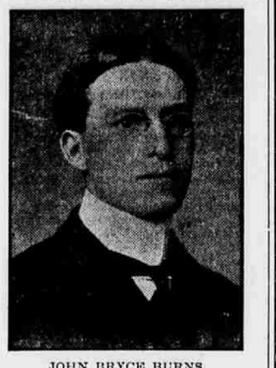

"Major Whitney, of Wayne, and Messrs. Allen, Van Buskirk and Mills, of Lackawanna, voted for Elkin. "Colonel Watres undoubtedly had assurance from a number of delegates in different parts of the state, but it is hardly likely that any of them would have resisted the blandishments of Senator Quay.

"How is the outcome likely to affect the distribution of state patronage in this section?" "I am sure I haven't considered that phase of the question. Aside from my own position, Lackawanna has but two appointments to be treated, one a clerkship, held by C. B. Penman, and a clerkship in the banking commissioner's office held by William Dawson. So, you see, it doesn't amount to much.

"Of course, General Elkin and all his lieutenants will get the ticket the warmest kind of support. Elkin's manly declaration in the convention that he would support the ticket with all his might is full guarantee of this. Judge Pennypacker is an excellent gentleman, of fine attainments, and will make an honest, conscientious governor. I have been acquainted with the two Browns for many years and know them to be good, capable, honest men."

"What effect will the contest have on Senator Penrose's candidacy to succeed himself?" "Time alone can answer that question. The people of the state, generally, are opposed to putting too much power in the city of Philadelphia, and the election of a governor from that city might induce some prominent candidate from the country districts to make a hard fight against Penrose, with good chances of success."

CLASS DAY EXERCISES. High School Graduates Hear from Their President, Poet, Historian, Orator, Prophet and the Like.

JOHN BRYCE BURNS.

The graduating class at the high school had its class day exercises in the high school auditorium last night. They proved very interesting both to the class and the overflowing audience. The beautiful platform decorations for commencement week, described in yesterday's report of the training school commencement, were augmented last night by the class motto, "Seek Wisdom," worked in letters of evergreen and framed in tiny incandescent lights, suspended over the platform.

The class marched to the platform from the rear door the two main aisles, the two lines meeting at the rear of the platform, proceeding to the front in couples, and then parting to the right and left and taking places in the tiers of seats. The girls wore colored dresses of light material. The boys were uniformly attired in white shirt-waists, black bow ties, and white duck trousers.

After an overture by Lawrence's orchestra, and an invocation by Rev. Hugh Davies, D. D., the exercises opened with the address of the president of the class, John Bryce Burns. He spoke of the mingled joy and sorrow of graduation time; expressed the thanks of the class to the faculty, the school board and all friends of the high school, and gave some well worded and timely advice to his classmates on making the most of every opportunity.

The class motto was interestingly sketched by Louis Nicot Ridenour. He made some happy references to the ups and downs of the high school paper "Impressions," and provoked rousing applause by his review of the school's successes in athletics. An interesting thing noted in his sketch was the fact that during its four years at the high school, the class has seen four different principals there.

The class poem was a clever composition. Its authoress was Miss Edith Walter. The title was "The Naughty Class of Naughty-two."

Rhys Howell delivered the class oration. His subject was "Expansion," and he treated it in a thoughtful, eloquent manner. He argued that it was the duty of a great nation to expand, if only for the reason that it raised other countries to a higher civilization. The conduct of the United States in Cuba, he said, was an earnest of this country can be trusted to expand without being tyrannical.

The class will be read by Frank De Salles O'Reilly. It was a cleverly prepared document and disposed of the class belongings in a way that must have been considered very appropriate judging from the laughter and applause which greeted the reading of the various items.

The class mantle was formally presented by Edwin Rafter to the class of 1903 and accepted by Frederick K. Gunster. The presentation was accompanied by an eloquent oration on "American Destiny."

ONLY ONE MORE POINT NEEDED. FRED GUNSTER IS NOW CLOSE TO SIXTH PLACE.

The Young Man from Green Ridge Doing Finely—The Marvelous Record of Oscar Kipp, of Elmhurst, Who Started to Work in the Tribune's Educational Contest Less Than Two Weeks Ago—Havenstrite and Johnston Both Improve Their Positions—Contestants Are Pretty Well Bunched.

Standing of Contestants. Points. 1. Charles Burns, Vandling, 300. 2. A. J. Kellerman, Scranton, 292. 3. Wm. T. S. Rodriguez, Scranton, 290. 4. Herbert Thompson, Carbondale, 154. 5. Maxwell Shepherd, Carbondale, 131. 6. Albert Freedman, Bellevue, 118. 7. Fred K. Gunster, Green Ridge, 117. 8. Oscar H. Kipp, Elmhurst, 102. 9. Harry Madden, Scranton, 58. 10. Wm. Sherwood, Harford, 57. 11. A. J. Havenstrite, Moscow, 51. 12. L. E. Stanton, Scranton, 50. 13. Homer Kresge, Hyde Park, 49. 14. Grant M. Decker, Hallstead, 37. 15. William Cooper, Priceburg, 34. 16. Lee Culver, Springville, 33. 17. Walter Hallstead, Scranton, 27. 18. Harry Danvers, Providence, 25. 19. Miss Beatrice Harpur, Thompson, 21. 20. Louis McCusker, Park Place, 20. 21. C. J. Clark, Peckville, 18. 22. Frank B. McCreary, Hallstead, 15. 23. John Mackie, Providence, 15. 24. Hugh Johnson, Forest City, 14. 25. Thomas Dempsey, Plymouth, 13. 26. Chas. W. Dorsey, Scranton, 13. 27. Miss Edna Coleman, Scranton, 12. 28. Don C. Capwell, Scranton, 8. 29. Walter Ellis, Hyde Park, 8. 30. Emanuel Bucci, Scranton, 7. 31. Chas. O'Boyle, Scranton, 7. 32. Louis Geer, Brooklyn, 5. 33. Miss Nellie Avery, Forest City, 4.

Eight of the workers in The Tribune's Educational Contest made returns yesterday. Oscar H. Kipp, of Elmhurst, increased his score by 23 points, this being the largest return. The others who progressed were Fred K. Gunster, 12; A. J. Kellerman, 12; Charles Burns, 3; Hugh Johnston, 3; J. A. Havenstrite, 3; Maxwell Shepherd, 3; and Charles W. Dorsey, 1.

Oscar Kipp, by his vigorous style of canvassing, is rapidly overhauling the leaders. He has won his way up to the commanding position he has in less than two weeks. Fred K. Gunster, of Green Ridge, is another young man who has but recently started in the contest, but he has done first-class work and this morning is only one point behind Albert Freedman for sixth place.

J. A. Havenstrite, of Moscow, advanced from thirteenth to eleventh place, passing L. E. Stanton and Homer Kresge, and Hugh Johnston, of Forest City, goes up four places with the aid of but three points. The contestants are so well bunched in the list that only a very few points are necessary to make radical changes in the standing. There is only nine points difference between the holders of ninth and thirteenth places, and three yearly subscribers would place a new contestant in fifteenth position. Eight of the contestants have now passed the 100 mark, but below them the field is open to any one who really tries to advance. It is a wonder that more young people do not see the excellent chance that presents itself to win an education.

Following is the record to date of the leaders for the "Special Prizes" for June:

Leading Contestants for June. First Prize—$10 in Gold. Second Prize—$5 in Gold. 1. Oscar H. Kipp, 69. 2. Fred K. Gunster, 51. 3. A. J. Kellerman, 47. 4. Maxwell Shepherd, 38. 5. Herbert Thompson, 35. 6. Albert Freedman, 30.

CUBA'S COMMERCE. Statement for the Ten Months' Period Ended April 30, 1902. By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Washington, June 12.—A statement showing in comparative form the commerce of Cuba for the ten months' period ended April 30, 1902, and 1901, was made public today. It is shown that the total value of merchandise imported during the ten months ended April 30, 1902, was $35,850,952, against $44,412,283 for the corresponding period of 1901. The exports of merchandise during the ten months ended April 30, 1902, amounted to $26,727,965, against $29,969,050 for the same period of 1901. The value of merchandise coming from the United States for the ten months ended April 30, 1902, was $23,827,048, an increase of about 2 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1901, while the exports for 1902 amounted to $26,727,777, a decrease of about $7,000,000. The loss in exports was confined almost entirely to the sugar and tobacco trade. Shipments of sugar for the period show a falling off of about $6,000,000. In the exportation of tobacco for the ten months ending April, 1902, it appears that the demand for leaf tobacco from practically all countries, particularly Germany, was materially less than during the corresponding previous period, this fact being accounted for by the inferior character of the export crop, due to heavy rains at an unseasonable period of the cultivation.

Bill to Favor G. A. R. Men. By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Washington, June 12.—Senator Mason today introduced a joint resolution, looking to the advancement of money out of the treasury of the United States to pay the expenses of members of the Grand Army of the Republic who may be called to attend the forthcoming annual encampment in Washington and who may not be financially able to pay their own expenses.
