DIPLOMAS FOR THREE NURSES

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE HAHNEMANN HOSPITAL.

Exercises Conducted Last Night in Guernsey Hall in the Presence of a Large Gathering—Addresses were Delivered by Rev. Dr. Rogers Israel and Dr. Charles Mohr, Professor of Materia Medica in Hahnemann Medical College—Report of Miss Tenney, the Secretary.

The annual meeting of the Hahnemann hospital and the graduating exercises of the training school for nurses connected with that institution were jointly conducted last night in Guernsey hall in the presence of a large gathering of interested well-wishers and friends of the three young women who graduated and of the hospital itself.

The stage was beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers, and seated upon it in addition to the nurses from the training school were Mrs. C. H. Welles, president of the board of directors; Mrs. Henry Bell, Jr., treasurer; Foster Judge Alfred Hand, who presided; Rev. Dr. Rogers Israel, rector of St. Luke's church; Dr. Charles Mohr, professor of materia medica at the Hahnemann medical college in Philadelphia; Dr. J. L. Peck and Dr. H. B. Ware, of this city.

Dr. Peck read the minutes of the last annual meeting and the exhaustive report of the year's work prepared by the corresponding secretary, Miss Louise Tenney. In beginning this report Miss Tenney explained that during the year just ended, the general public was found to be more willing to assist in aiding the institution.

Work of the Hospital. The statistical report was a most interesting one. The year was begun with twenty-one patients and during the year 334 were admitted, making a total of 355 altogether, an increase of 277 over the previous year. Of this number there were: Discharged, 215; discharged, improved, 94; discharged, unimproved, 13; number of deaths during the year, 16; number of patients remaining Nov. 1, 1902, 17; total, 355; deaths on surgical side, 6; deaths on medical side, 10; the percentage of death to the number of cases, was 3.94 percent.

The number of fully paid cases was 91; number of partially paid cases, 7; number of gratuitous cases, 257; total number of prescriptions compounded in hospital, 1,651; number of days of hospital care for inpatients, 6,894; or an average per patient, 19.4 days; average weekly cost per patient, $7.15; total number of cases treated in hospital since its organization, 1,322.

Mention was made in the report of the training school for nurses which had a class of ten during the year just ended. Eighty lectures were given by the staff physicians and surgeons and twelve lectures on cooking by Miss Wilhelmie Brickson. A reference was also made to the visiting nurse, Miss Catherine Cobb, whose salary is furnished by the hospital, and who gives hourly service in the homes of the sick poor. Miss Cobb has made 278 visits since she began her work on January 2, last.

The splendid service rendered the hospital by the new president, Mrs. C. H. Welles, by the treasurer, Mrs. Henry Bell, and by the chairman of the house committee, Mrs. A. M. Decker, was favorably commented upon and great regret expressed at the resignation of Mrs. T. H. Watkins, who was for several years, the chairman of the finance committee, whose ability and skill in devising plans for raising funds are greatly missed. Satisfaction was also expressed at the work of Mrs. Oakford, chairman of the purchasing committee; of Mrs. A. H. Storrs, of the desert committee; of Mrs. J. A. Price, of the library committee, and of Mrs. Law, of the religious committee. Continuing, she said:

Generous Donations. We cannot speak of all the many generous donations during the year but we feel we must mention a few, among them the services of Mr. Atch and young ladies of the Gales Reformed church every Wednesday evening at the hospital, and of Miss Florence Wair who came with them, but who has now accepted a position in New York city. We would speak also of the donation made by Miss Dorothy Wierke, a young girl residing in Moose, who gave an entertainment at her home, printed tickets and sold them at five cents each, and presented the proceeds, $1, to the hospital.

A bare outline of facts and figures shows only the practical side of our work. You who have visited the institution on our reception days must have been pleased with the air of comfort which pervades the wards and private rooms. Can you imagine the feeling of a person racked with fever or pain removed from an untidy, ill ventilated room or picked up after an accident, and placed in one of our dainty beds, where everything works together for quiet and healing? Surely from these rooms accrues many a word of thanksgiving to the donor or friend who has made all this possible.

If there is one who has not been interested heretofore, we beg of you to investigate our needs and help carry on the Christ-like work. We cannot for a moment lose sight of the fact that our work is inter-dependent to the state and our fellow citizens. The hopes for the assistance of the hospital as our work increases. The call upon humanity is strong. The board of directors can not stand alone and do the work we shall give.

"Honor to those whose words or deeds 'This help us in our daily needs.'"

The report of the treasurer, read by Henry Bell, Jr., showed that the total receipts from all sources for the year were $15,783.87, and the total expenditures were $13,313.32, leaving a balance in the bank of $2,470.55.

New Students Admitted at Any Time.

the groom were Arthur Kieseling, brother of the bride, as best man, and his brother, Charles Berghauer, as groomsmen.

The bride was beautifully attired in a gown of white imported Parisian lawn, trimmed with Parisian lace, and carried a beautiful bouquet of white bridal roses. The maid of honor and bridesmaid were similarly attired.

The maid of honor was Miss Annie Kieseling, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaid, Miss Annie Berghauer, the groom's sister. The groom was attended by his brother, Charles Berghauer, and the bride's brother Arthur Kieseling. The bride and her attendants were beautifully costumed.

After the marriage ceremony there was a reception and wedding supper, and at midnight Mr. and Mrs. Berghauer left for Washington upon a wedding trip. The guests present at the wedding were:

Mr. and Mrs. John Kieseling, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Berghauer, Mr. and Mrs. Casper Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kieseling, Mr. and Mrs. William Kieseling, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Kieseling, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hepler, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Christopher, Mr. and Mrs. P. Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. F. Terwilliger, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Berghauer, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jones, New Jersey; Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Phillips, Rev. and Mrs. Kunkle.

Misses Caroline Berghauer, Anna Berghauer, Minnie Berghauer, May Burke, Dora Davis, Katherine Roberts, Plymouth; Mary Christophle, B Christophle, Azuba Swartz, Lulu Haas, Essie Meehan, Lizzie Meehan, Mamie Meach, Viola John, Oliva Weaver, Ruth Kieseling, Mrs. Lindner.

J. Henry Schwenker, Charles Berghauer, John Haas, Arthur Kieseling, Henry Sames, Samuel Bisbing, John Richardson, Walter Jones, Arthur Jones, of Newark, N. J.

Mr. Berghauer has been for a number of years employed in the store of the Foot & Shear company, and is a young man of fine character. His bride is one of the most popular of North Scranton's young women. Upon their return from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Berghauer will live on North Main avenue.

WAS EXPELLED FROM UNION

CORPORAL TAMM PUT OUT BY THE PAINTERS.

He Is a Member of Company F, Thirtieth Regiment, and Says He Was Dropped Because He Refused to Resign from the Militia—Business Agent Holton, of Local Union No. 218, Denies This and Says Tamm Was Expelled Because He Didn't Pay His Dues.

Since the recent action of the Painters' union of Schenectady, N. Y., in expelling William Potter from membership because of his connection with the National Guard, it has come to light that Corporal George Tamm, of Company F, Thirtieth regiment, was put out of Painters' union, No. 218, because, according to his own story, he refused to resign from the militia. Business Agent P. F. Holton, of the union, denies this and says Tamm was expelled because he didn't pay his dues.

Tamm, who lives at 113 Lloyd street, has been a painter for several years and a member of Local union, No. 218, in good standing. He first enlisted in the Thirtieth regiment on April 25, 1899, and was honorably discharged on April 27, 1902, after having attained to the rank of corporal.

His comrades endeavored to persuade him to re-enlist, but he refused, first, saying that his fellow-members in the union were importuning him to keep out of the guard. He finally decided, however, to again enter the regiment and on July 1 he re-enlisted.

He went to the state camp with his command, and shortly after his return told Capt. Merriman that he had been waived upon by a committee from the union, which requested him to resign as instanter from the regiment or lose his membership in the union. It is understood that Tamm's backbone stiffened at this, and that he told the committee that they could go to a place where the climate is considerably warmer than that of Florida.

Was Expelled. At the next meeting of the union Tamm was expelled by a unanimous vote, and when he asked for a reason for this action he says he was told that the constitution of the painters' national organization prohibits any person belonging to the National Guard of any state from becoming a member of the organization.

"Tamm is one of the best men in my company," said Captain George C. Merriman yesterday, "and I am glad to say that he has not lost any work because of this action of the union. I understand that he has been working regularly since his return from our recent service at Olyphant."

"It is certainly a deplorable condition of affairs that when a man who, recognizing the protection of life and property to be one of the fundamental requisites of all government, joins the National Guard he should be expelled from the labor organization to which he belongs, simply for that reason."

"Not the painters alone, but many of the other unions object to having their members belong to the guard. I have been forced to recommend the discharge of some of the very best men in my company for this very reason. They want to come to me and advise if they didn't leave the guard they would either lose their means of livelihood or be obliged to suffer all manner of persecutions from their fellow-workmen, and so impressed would I become with the truth of this that I have felt it to be my duty, from a humanitarian standpoint, to approve their petitions for discharge."

Colonel L. A. Watres has considered the matter, it is understood, but has decided that the officers of the guard can do nothing for Tamm, and that his only redress lies in the courts.

The Painters' Version. Business Agent P. F. Holton, of Painters' union, No. 218, stated last night to a Tribune man that Tamm was not expelled from the union because of his membership in the National Guard, but because he was behind in his dues.

"There is a section in the national constitution," said he, "which provides that no person who is a member of the National Guard shall be eligible to membership, but this has been construed to mean that the person shall not be a member of the guard when he joins the union and does not prevent his entering the militia after he has joined the union."

"Tamm was expelled from our union solely because he was three months behind in his dues, and for no other reason. He joined the Thirtieth regiment after he had joined the union, and so in our opinion that section of our constitution which I have referred to could not apply to him."

"I am sure no committee waited upon him and requested him to resign from the regiment. I waited on him and told him he would be expelled if he didn't pay his dues, but I told him nothing else. Our rules provide that any member who is three months behind in his dues shall be dropped from the roll and that's what we did in the case of Tamm. If he's saying he was dropped because of his membership in the guard he's saying what is untrue."
