

OBITUARY.

Our readers will have noticed in last week's paper the announcement of the death of one, who has become quite a celebrity, and was known to the traveling public for nearly forty years. We allude to Mr. David Starner, whose death took place on the 6th inst. Mr. S. was a native of this place, and at least forty years of his life was spent as a stage driver between Easton and Stroudsburg or between Stroudsburg and Milford. Indeed from quite young manhood, until some six years ago, since when he has been a sufferer from the disease of which he died, he may be said to have occupied the seat on the stage box, both night and day. He lacked the advantages of education, because his youth passed while educational advantages were rather sparse in this neighborhood—but he possessed truthfulness and a disposition to oblige, which made him as useful in his sphere, as are the best of those who occupy more exalted positions among men. Accommodating to a degree, he was to the people along the road what express companies are to-day, with this difference that his terms were moderate, and his good offices were always promptly discharged and to the satisfaction of his patrons. Many a trip to Milford, to Stroudsburg and to Easton were spared residents along the road, by David's perfect readiness and promptness, and frequently his stage box was literally packed with the fruits of his many commissions, and yet notwithstanding his illiteracy and his inability to read, he was never known to have made a mistake, nor to have failed in leaving the right package in the right place. His power of memory was but little short of miraculous, and whether with package or message, it was all the same, "Dave," as he was called by every one, was always ready to meet his customer satisfactorily so far as his share of the transaction was concerned. About six years ago, while in the pursuit of his avocation he was attacked with paralysis, and for most of the time since, he has been bed ridden. While we regret the death of one who in his day and sphere was as useful, we do not feel that we ever step the bonds of good heartedness when we say that death was a relief at which his own good soul rejoiced. He has left earth's trials and tribulations—earth's pains, and earth which had ceased to be earth to his clouded mind, and, doubtless, his step from time to eternity, was but a transition from life's trials to a far more glorious and never ending bliss in heaven. His remains were interred in the Cemetery on Friday last, preceded by solemn services and an appropriate sermon by the Rev. Mr. Carrow, at the Methodist Church.

The disturbances in the coal regions continue to attract general attention. Early last week, on the requisition of the Sheriff of Luzerne county, who declared himself unable to keep the peace, Governor Hartranft ordered a regiment of volunteers from Philadelphia to proceed to Hazelton. On their arrival the soldiers were distributed in squads to protect the mines where violence was expected. The object was not so much to proceed with the mining of coal as to prevent interference with the pumping, which is necessary to keep the mines from filling with water. The presence of the troops caused great excitement among the striking miners and their friends, and a committee was dispatched to Harrisburg to request the Governor to order them away. It was promised on their part that if this were done there should be no interference with "dead work" in the mines. The Governor declined to do so except with the concurrence of the Sheriff and operators of the mines. Public meetings have been held at Hazelton and elsewhere to give assurance that there will be no further violence, but it is admitted that the miners' societies can not control all their members in this respect. The leaders insist that there will be no resumption of mining in the anthracite region for months to come unless the owners come to the terms of the miners; and the operators themselves appear to be quite as determined in their course. The subject is a perplexing and troublesome one in all its aspects, but the declaration of the Governor that peace and order shall be maintained at whatever cost will be generally approved by the people of the State.—Bucks Co. Int.

The Clearfield, Pa., Republican says: "Instead of sending seventeen hundred rafts, or about ten million feet of lumber to the lower market, as we did last year, only about eight hundred or eight hundred and fifty rafts, or probably five million feet will be sent into market this year. The reduction will be severely felt by us in this county this year, and if the prices fall much below last year the depression will be awful. But there is no use of being discouraged. Let our timber stand, and our people go to work and raise wheat, corn, potatoes, beef and pork of their own, which is no harder work than timbering, and they need not send what little money they have out of the county for that which they can produce themselves."

The Reading Times has discovered that nimble old lady again: Mrs. Mary Koch, widow of Jacob Koch, aged seventy-eight years on the 11th ult, residing with her son-in-law, Mr. John Winters, at No. 812 Chestnut street, is the fortunate possessor of quite of the finest workmanship and most elaborate designs. She works with the needle at times till midnight and is very fond of dancing. She sometimes lays her work by and will dance a minuet with much grace.

AND now set hens. AND the gas project—don't let us forget that. THE frost is nearly all out of the ground hereabouts.

THE question with a good many now is—what has become of the garden tools?

AND now gate practice comes in play. Lovely evenings for billing and cooing.

OUR candidate for Associate Judge is Amanudus Orevus Greenwald. Mind that now.

New goods will arrive at N. Ruster's this week and next. Don't fail to call and see them.

THE rafting season has fairly opened on the Delaware. On Thursday last fifteen rafts passed down the river.

Those wishing to secure a good bargain will do well to call at N. Ruster's, as he is bound not to be undersold.

Goods cheaper than ever at N. Ruster's. He has them marked way down to bottom prices.

APRIL showers! Yes, we had rain on Sunday night, and snow on Tuesday morning to the depth of seven inches.

LOVELY month has been April thus far, with just storm enough to break the monotony of too much of a good thing.

THE stones are now loose, and it is about time that we get to work at those cisterns. Remember, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and that it is much better to build the cisterns now, than after a while feel sorry that we did not build them.

WE noticed Mr. Theodore G. Wolf, a former Stroudsburg boy, and now Superintendent of the Lackawanna Iron and Coal Company's rolling mills, on our streets during several days of last week. Dore was not looking as well as usual.

WM. H. WOLFE, of Scranton, spent several days last week on a visit to his father Mr. Peter Wolfe, in Smithfield. We regret to learn that the old gentleman is considerably under the weather. He has turned, we are informed, his 85th year. A ripe old age truly.

Simon Fried, dealer in clothing, &c., who recently returned from the city, is now displaying one of the finest and best assortment of goods in his line of business, ever offered for sale in Monroe county, which he will sell at the lowest rates. WILD PIGEONS have been unusually plentiful with us this spring. Large numbers have been shot and caught, and, they have been offered to our citizens at $1 per dozen. A flock settled down in one of our up town gardens last Friday, but they left before giving our hunters a chance at them. Our typographical fore went out last Saturday to "play havoc and let loose the dogs of war" among them and returned after a hard days work with 0-0-0. Bully.

MR. SAMUEL MELICK and lady, left here for their home at Newburg, on Friday last. It will be a pleasure for their many friends here to learn that the trip has resulted in an improvement in Mr. M.'s health, and for them to learn of the many wishes expressed that they may soon again be found visiting this the scene of their young man and womanhood. Of course, having tasted of the refreshing waters of Stroud's spring they can not stay away for long.

DECKER & Co., of the cheap auction store have a large advertisement in this week's paper, giving a description of their spring and summer goods just received and their astonishing low prices.

Some people on reading his advertisement may think it one of those humbugs that are often seen in print, and we too might come to the same conclusion, were we a stranger to Mr. Decker and his honorable way of dealing, but we know, for we have dealt with him a number of years. That his goods are among the best, and as he advertises them we venture to say, so you will find them. Look at his wonderful advertisement, then give him a call and satisfy yourself.

IMPROVEMENTS.—The improvements, hereabouts, are pushing along. Mr. Fulmer is pushing the work on the Stroudsburg House, and will have it completed as speedily as possible.

Stephen Holmes, Esq., broke ground for his new building, next above Brown's jewelry store on Monday. The building will occupy a law office, for the owner, among other things.

Windy White is erecting a dwelling for J. H. Stroud, Esq., near the old Presbyterian church, which Mr. White will occupy as a residence.

Our Boarding House Keepers, and landlords, generally, are brushing up for the summer campaign, and making things look spruce and shikey as a new pin.

The Wheat crop of Oregon has not been a failure ever since first settled by the whites, thirty years ago. What country on the globe can show a better record than that?

A kind hearted baker in Charlestown, Mass., who regularly filled a basket with broken bread for a female beggar every morning, was somewhat surprised the other day to ascertain that she was a boarding house keeper, and that ten people daily sat at her table.

Old Ben Wade declines running as a candidate for Governor at the ensuing election in Ohio. He gives several reasons for this course, the principal one of which is sufficient in itself, to wit: that for two years past his voice has been so used up that he has not been able to make a speech, and it is worse now than ever. The old gentleman is now in his seventy-fifth year.

The prospect of having so noted a champion as Wade for a Republican candidate was sufficient, while it was indulged in, to drive off all competitors; but now that he is out of the way it behooves the Republicans of Ohio to make choice of some one whose name will be strong enough to lead them to victory. Ex-Governor Noyes, ex-Governor Hayes, and ex-Governor Dennison have all been named, Hayes being the strongest of the lot. Sherlock J. Andrews, of Cleveland, and Professor Monroe, of Oberlin, are also named.

There is a snow-bank in Winnebago Co., Iowa, 28 feet high. The man on whose farm it rests is going to build a shed around it and keep an ice cream saloon next summer. He is denounced by his neighbors, who have only little drifts, 18 to 20 feet high, as a bloated and grasping monopolist.

The ruling of Judge Elwell in respect to the collection of school taxes has been reversed by the supreme court and the interpretation of the law by the school department sustained. The effect of this decision is to authorize school directors to assess a tax not exceeding fifteen mills on the dollar for school purposes.

The President on Rumors.

President Grant was interviewed by a correspondent of the New York Times, last Monday, in reference to recent rumors. In regard to Mexican incursions into Texas he said the accounts were exaggerated. A force of military has been ordered to the frontier to protect the settlers from the inroads of Mexican Guerrillas. There were no reasons at present for apprehension of a war between the two countries, and he said that nothing would be done by this Government to provoke such a result. He further said that the reported resignation of Commissioner Douglass was untrue, and that no changes that he was aware of were about to be made in the Cabinet.

STATE CAPITAL.

Bills Approved by the Governor. HARRISBURG, April 12—Governor Hartranft has approved the following acts of the last Legislature:—

- To repeal the Local Option law. To provide for the appointment of a State Board of Centennial Managers. To regulate the practice of medicine, surgery and obstetrics in this State. To provide for the election and appointment of trustees for the State Normal Schools. To authorize an additional law judge in the Nineteenth District. To establish a system of free banking, and to secure the public against loss from insolvent banks. To regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities, and to provide penalties for the illegal increase thereof. Authorizing and regulating the making of local appropriation to schools commonly known as homes for friendless children. To provide for the expenses required by an act entitled an act to provide for the continuance and maintenance of soldiers' orphans. To prevent the sale of intoxicating liquors and for the preservation of order at soldiers' encampments. To provide for printing and furnishing wrappers for the Legislative Record. To provide for settling the claims of E. Peters and John Laute. To reimburse A. H. Waters for clothing and funeral expenses of soldiers' orphans.

Another circumstantial account of further gold discoveries in the Black Hills comes from Yankton, Dakota. The Owens brothers, who are reported as bringing in the news, are well known on the border, and are men whose statements can be relied upon. Being out on a hunt with a party, and meeting some of the Black Hills prospectors, they were induced to venture on a prospecting tour, though lacking experience, and without tools. Camping some thirty miles south of General Custer's lines, they found gold within three days in such quantities that, leaving their companions to guard the spot, the Owens boys returned for supplies and equipment. They have no fears of the Indians, having met both Brule and Teton, Sioux, and maintained friendly relations with them.

The Cincinnati Commercial has a facsimile of the signature of Mr. J. C. Nowell, of the First National Bank of Indianapolis, the appointed successor of General Spinner as Treasurer of the United States. From this it would appear that the country is only to have a change from one remarkable signature to another. It looks like a handful of fish-hooks.

During the past few months the Agricultural Department at Washington has distributed 15,000 bushels of imported oats, and the same quantity of imported wheat; between a million and a half and two million bags of seed, containing corn, beets, carrots, onions, melons, pumpkins, &c., have been distributed through every State and Territory of our vast country.

The Rev. Father O'Hara, of Wilkesbarre, has been giving his flock good advice, with respect to the mining troubles. He advised them to keep aloof from the instigators of the troubles, whom he denounced as men unworthy of confidence or respect, that their past life was of doubtful character, and they only worked to the detriment of those who tried to make homes for themselves and families, by earning a livelihood through honest labor.

The high water at the recent flood washed about four feet of earth from ten to fifteen acres of land lying along the Tennessee river, near Louisville, Blount county, Tenn. When the water subsided a strange spectacle was presented. The whole of the denuded area was covered with skeletons. Some were straight, some reclining, some doubled up and some in a sitting posture. There were the osseous forms of infants, of children and of full grown persons. Over one thousand forms have been counted. Persons who have lived in the vicinity of this mysterious cemetery for more than half a century never heard of any human bones being discovered there before, and the skeletons are not found in a mound, nor in what appears to be an artificial formation of earth.

Governor Tilden of New York is determined to wage relentless war upon the old Tammany Ring, as well as the canal thieves. He last week pardoned James H. Ingersoll, one of Tweed's accomplices, who was serving out a term of five years in the penitentiary. Ingersoll was released for the purpose of using him a witness in the suits brought against Tweed, Sweeney and Connelly, to recover the money stolen by them from the city treasury. Although Tweed is in prison he has been dispossessed of none of his enormous wealth, and there seemed to be no way of regaining the proceeds of his robberies while in power. But with Ingersoll as a witness it is expected that several millions of this ill-gotten spoil will be recovered for the benefit of the plundered tax-payers. Governor Tilden has the good will of all honest citizens in his warfare against the thieves.
