MOTHER GAVE THIS DELICATE CHILD VINOL

And He Got Well and Strong. That's True

Monaca, Pa.—"My little boy, who is the youngest of three, was weak, nervous and tired all the time, so he was most unfit at school, and nothing seemed to help him. I learned of Vinol and gave it to him. It has restored his health and strength and he has gained in weight."

the Y. W. C. A., in speaking before the student body of the State Normal college Sunday night, said that "in another city there are 1,100 little girl mothers as a direct result of a training camp for the duration of six months."

Isn't it also "a frightful indictment" against the home training of the girls? Girls who are properly trained at home and who are not permitted to run at large at will, without protection, do not fall so easily.

St. Paul Will Come Up With Her Part. St. Paul Messenger. The three churches here, met together in a Y. M. C. A. rally Wednesday night at the Baptist church.

Suffered Several Years. PERUNA MADE ME WELL Its My Standby for a Cold. Mrs. Elizabeth Reuther, 1002 11th St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I endorse Peruna as a splendid medicine for catarrh and stomach trouble, from which I suffered several years. I took it for several months, found my health was restored and have felt splendidly ever since. I now take it when I contract a cold, and it soon rids the system of any catarrhal tendencies."

WOODS SUPPLY FUEL TO AID COAL SHORTAGE Thousands of Dollars Spent for Coal in North Carolina Could be Saved. Thousands of dollars spent for coal in North Carolina could be saved and farm woodlots could be improved at the same time if the farmers of North Carolina would supplement with wood the coal used for various purposes, according to information furnished by the Agricultural Extension Service of the college and department of agriculture at Raleigh. In many of the woodlots there is considerable waste fire wood, dead trees, and different kinds of other underbrush that we might call "weed" trees which could be used for fire wood; and when two pounds of seasoned wood is approximately equal to one pound of coal in heating value, this would mean a considerable saving in coal. Quite a few cities in the State have already taken notice of this fact by establishing municipal wood yards and otherwise encouraging the selling and buying of this commodity. The Ohio Experiment Station has found that a cord of hickory, oak, beech, birch, cherry, hard maple, ash, elm, or locust is equal in fuel value to a ton of coal. The same heat value exists in a cord and a half of cypress, soft maple, hemlock, or in two cords of poplar, catalpa, bass wood or white pine, as in a ton of coal. Owners of wood lots can easily cut enough fuel for themselves and even supply the same to local markets through the winter and will thus use their spare time to good advantage, as well as the time of their hired men who probably have a lot of extra idle time on their hands. In this way they might make a profit for themselves, as well as use a lot of wood that is now wasting away and which might displace much high price coal. Much of the many thousands of acres of woodlots in North Carolina could be cleared of waste wood at a profit this year, and be improved in addition. Some trees are old and decrepit, and others are spreading and bushy in growth. Useless themselves for lumber, they crowd out thrifty young trees or prevent seedlings from starting. When such weed trees are removed young seedlings spring up naturally and soon grow into timber of value. Indict the Homes, Too. Statesville Landmark.
