A STRONG CANDIDATE

Story of the Career of Republican Nominee for State Treasurer.

AS FARMER AND WOODSMAN

From An Humble Boyhood He Has Risen to a Position of Prominence and Influence—His Loyalty to Party Has Merited Recognition Given Him.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—As the campaign progresses interest increases in the personality of each of the candidates on the Republican state ticket.

The Republican nominee for state treasurer, Hon. Frank G. Harris, of Clearfield, is perhaps the best known, on account of his activity in public life and his official career as a member of the general assembly. Mr. Harris will probably be called upon to take the stump later in the canvass, but his colleague on the Republican ticket,

HON. FRANK G. HARRIS,
Republican Nominee for State Treasurer.

Justice W. P. Potter, of Allegheny, on account of his occupying a seat on the supreme bench, to which he aspires to election by the people, will make no speeches, and will not otherwise take any part in the campaign.

Mr. Harris was born at Karthaus, Clearfield county, Pa., November 5, 1845. He is the second son of John Harris, a native of the city of Glasgow, Scotland, who came to America in 1840, and settled in Clearfield county and worked as a miner and farmhand. His mother was Eleanor Graham, who was born in Centre county. The mother died when Frank was but 3 years old, and was buried at Polk Furnace, Clarion county, Pa.

At the death of his mother the home was broken up and the boys found a home among friends. Frank G. Harris, the subject of this sketch was taken into the home of Samuel C. Patchin, who married his aunt, Hetty Graham, where he lived and grew to manhood. John Harris, the father of Frank G. Harris, was married a second time, his second wife being Eliza Scott, of Brookville, Pa., where the father died in 1855. Frank G. Harris and his younger brother, Bruce, are all that remain of the family. From the time he was 12 years of age, when his early school life ended, Frank worked on the farm in the summer and in the winter worked in the lumber woods and on a saw mill, and became a practical farmer and lumberman. At the age of 18 he made his first trip down the Susquehanna as a rafterman, and at 20 he was one of the best pilots on the river. Frank G. Harris early inherited his Republicanism from the Patchins and from George Atchison, a stalwart Irish Abolitionist, who lived a neighbor to the Patchins, and who kept a station on the underground railway for runaway slaves and often employed young Harris to drive his team, at night, to Sammy Rank's in Indiana county, where the escaping slaves were turned over to Rank to be hurried on to the next station.

AS SCHOOLMASTER AND LAWYER.
At the age of 24, Frank G. Harris entered Dickinson Seminary at Williamsport, Pa., from which he was graduated in June, 1873. In September, 1873, he entered Lafayette College at Easton, and graduated from that institution in the famous class of 1876. In the fall of 1876 he was elected principal of the Clearfield grammar schools, which position he filled until 1881. On January 14, 1879, he was admitted to the Clearfield county bar as a student of Murray & Gordon, and on April 15, 1879, he married Elizabeth F. Baird, daughter of Benjamin Baird, of Clinton county, Pa., his wife having been a teacher in the seminary where he met her when a student. For 23 years Mr. Harris has been a successful practitioner at the Clearfield bar, and during all his life he has been a stalwart Republican, serving his party as chairman, as delegate to state conventions and upon the stump faithfully and well.

Much of the credit of turning a Democratic majority of 2,500 into a Republican majority of 1,500, and making Clearfield county a stalwart Republican county, is due to the able leadership of Frank G. Harris. In 1896, Mr. Harris was urged to become a candidate for the legislature, to which he was elected by 1,400 majority. He was re-elected in 1898 and again in 1900. In 1899 he served on the judicial general committee, and other important committees, and as chairman of the committee on fish and game, and was the author of the game law of 1897.

During the session of 1899 Mr. Harris served as chairman of the judicial general committee, the most important legislative committee in the house, and because of his fairness and ability he was reappointed chairman of the same committee for the session of 1901. In 1901 he was a candidate for the speakership, but withdrew in the interest of harmony and supported Hon. W. T. Marshall for that place.

BELIEVES IN MAJORITY RULE.
Believing in the principle of the right of the majority to rule, Mr. Harris voted for Hon. Boies Penrose for United States senator in 1897, and for Hon. M. S. Quay in 1898 and in 1901. Many of the most important bills that have become laws since 1896 were introduced and supported by Frank G. Harris; and the famous anti-oleomargarine law of 1901 in the interest of the Pennsylvania farmers was introduced into the house and supported by him. The whole legislative career of Frank G. Harris has been fair, upright and honorable, and his ability and integrity are unquestioned.

Hon. W. O. Smith, of the Pottsville Spirit, who has known Mr. Harris for many years, and who served with him in the legislature, says: "Frank G. Harris, our neighbor from Clearfield, who received the nomination for state treasurer, is a man of sterling qualities, who will perform the duties of that office in a manner that will reflect credit upon his party and upon the state. He is a man for whom everybody who admires pluck and perseverance should take pleasure in voting. Left an orphan boy in early childhood, he struggled up through poverty and toil to an honorable position among men. Mr. Kelley, in placing him in nomination, said he had known Frank Harris from childhood, and had never known him to do a dishonorable act. Men are true to their characters, and a man who has kept his integrity for more than 50 years and won the confidence and esteem of his neighbors, is a safe man to trust."

A DEMOCRATIC TRIBUNE.
And Matt Savage, of the Public Spirit, the leading Democratic paper of Clearfield, Mr. Harris' home, says: "Mr. Harris is known at home and abroad as a man of high character, strictest integrity, undoubted honesty and unquestioned ability." For 20 years Mr. Harris has been an acceptable member of the Methodist Episcopal church. He is a member of Clearfield Lodge, F. and A. M.; past high priest of Clearfield Chapter, Royal Arch Masons; past eminent commander of Moshannon Commandery, Knights Templar, and a member of Zem Zem Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at Erie, Pa.

A MODEL JUSTICE

Republican Nominee for Supreme Court Has a Brilliant Record.

THE STORY OF HIS CAREER

A Hard and Devoted Student and a Successful and Popular Member of the Bar, Who Has Won the Respect and Admiration of the People.

The Republican candidate for associate justice of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, Hon. William Plumer Potter, of Allegheny county, has had an interesting career. He will not be present at any of the political patherings during the campaign, but the orators will have an opportunity to speak for him and in his behalf, and they can point with pride to his brilliant record as a member of the bar and a justice on the supreme bench. Justice Potter is a man whose instincts and training combined give him especial qualifications for the supreme bench. When his name was first mentioned in connection with the supreme judiciary bench and bar of Allegheny county were of one accord in acknowledging his possession of that even tempered nature and broad and generous culture which are so essential to the judge in the minds of all who cherish high ideals in government. With potential friends in nearly every craft and calling in the community, the satisfaction over his appointment to the supreme bench in September, 1901, was universal in the community in which he has resided and is so widely known. Justice Potter was born in Iowa April 27, 1857, being a son of James H. Potter, a Presbyterian clergyman. He is of Scotch-Irish ancestry, his great grandfather, Henry Potter, having emigrated from the north of Ireland about the year 1800, and settled near Pittsburg, where the subject of this sketch now resides with his wife and two daughters, he having married Miss Jessie Deacon, of Des Moines, Iowa, in 1884.

His early life revealed an ambition to accomplish something in the world and that youthful restlessness so common to the majority of ambitious young men, induced him to leave Lafayette College at Easton, before his course had been completed in order to accept a position in a bank and earn his own livelihood.

His love for books, however, continued to assert itself and a strong predilection for the law finally led him to enter upon a course of legal studies, as a result of which he was admitted to the Iowa bar in 1885. In the following year he returned to Pittsburg, where he devoted himself to an additional and thorough course of study, qualifying himself for a rigid examination for admission to the Allegheny county bar, of which he became a member in 1887. After six years' practice he formed a partnership with William A. Stone, then a member of congress and at present Governor of Pennsylvania.

SECRET OF HIS ADVANCEMENT.
From the date of his admission to the Pennsylvania bar he made steady and substantial progress, and if the query were asked, what has been the secret of that advancement the answer would be this:

Eighteen years of unremitting toil over books and briefs; 18 years of battles with the most astute adversaries of the profession from all of which struggles he emerged with honor and from most of which he emerged with victory, 18 years of determination to win the esteem of his contemporaries by keeping abreast with the progress of thinkers and workers of his time. His practice at the bar while touching almost every branch of the law has been principally directed to commercial causes. His widely known devotion to the law, his skill in the conduct of critical cases and his marked fidelity to the interests of his clients brought him an enormous practice, an idea of the extent of which may be gleaned from the fact that during the two years immediately preceding his appointment to the supreme bench he tried more cases than any other of the 800 members of the Allegheny county bar. His direct examination of witnesses was always concise, clear, and thorough, bringing out all the pertinent facts in an orderly manner enabling the jury to grasp every detail. In cross-examination he excelled, and during the latter years of his practice he was regarded by the bar as one of the leading authorities on medical jurisprudence.

ALWAYS COURTEOUS; ALWAYS CLEVER.
Invariably courteous to witnesses and opposing counsel, he succeeded in developing his own case and weakening the force of adverse testimony, while retaining the good will of even his opponent. While invective formed no part of his nature, he could still be sufficiently severe with a dishonest or untruthful witness to break the force of his testimony before the court and jury. His questions, though they came like thunderbolts, were so evidently fair that they aroused no prejudice against him.

Uniformly considerate of his brother lawyers, he retained their good will even after the hardest fought legal battle. While not afraid to antagonize the position of the court if he need be, his demeanor towards the bench was always most profoundly respectful and his arguments were always listened to with the most careful attention.

One of the most effective testimonials to his high standing at the bar is to be found in the fact that in presenting petitions and documents for the signature of the judges, Mr. Potter's brief verbal statement of their contents seemed always sufficient to secure the proper action without further scrutiny by the court as to what the papers contained. This confidence in him on the part of the court, as in all other cases, was gained only by years of the strictest adherence to truth in all his dealings with the bench and bar.

His early association with banking developed a taste for economics, and he has been for many years a careful student of finance and kindred subjects and has acquired a reputation in that field. His intimate knowledge of corporation and fiscal matters give him a leadership in a community in which he organized and developed to successful operation a number of financial institutions. Trust companies, national banks, state banks, insurance companies and corporations of a general nature of a long practice at the bar, and by his ability plotted to prosperity. In many of these he was a director, and for all of them he was counsel.

A HARD AND DEVOTED STUDENT.
He is a hard student in the very broadest sense, having acquired a fine library covering the very widest range of scientific study; he is, moreover, a devoted student of current history and keeps thoroughly informed of all the passing problems of any moment.

As the best key to a man's real character is always the reputation he enjoys among those with whom he comes in daily contact, it would gratify any citizen of the commonwealth interested in the supreme bench to hear the unvaried expressions of members of the legal profession and others who are familiar with the character and ability of Mr. Justice Potter. His whole life has been characterized by industry and integrity of the highest order. His standing in a community as a citizen, a business man and a lawyer form the basis of that firm confidence which the community at large has in his future, as one of those into whose keeping has fallen the most sacred trust of the commonwealth.

Viewed from the standpoint of the lawyer, in that cold, unsympathetic light under which the legal profession scrutinizes the judge, he is a reliable and substantial figure. In brief, he is a man whose nature abounds in those sturdy qualities which dispense pedantry and pretense and look assistance upon sham and sophistry.

He brought to his present position a broad general equipment and a deep firm sympathy which has made him a most valuable acquisition to the bench.

FIRM AND COURAGEOUS.
While possessing a demeanor that is simple and unaffected and a modesty that is naive, his bearing is such as always to bespeak that dignity which is so becoming to the exalted position to which he has attained.

Justice Potter, while firm and courageous in his convictions, is of a kindly, chivalrous disposition, and with a charming magnetism of person that makes lasting friendships, and it was these characteristics that enabled him, eral character were successfully established in which he was often obliged to employ the utmost limit of insistence with his brother attorneys and the court, in the trial of causes, to lay aside the weapons of forensic strife, and take with him the respect and hearty good will of his late opponents at the bar.

Justice Potter is a staunch Republican, and in state and national politics always took an active interest, believing that the good citizen should enlarge his field of usefulness by embracing all the opportunities afforded to aid in the selection of properly equipped public officials. He is eminently equipped, both physically and mentally, to discharge the trying duties devolving upon a justice of the supreme court, with ability, fidelity and fearlessness, and an examination of his opinions, already filed, shows evidences of legal ability of a high order, and bespeaks for him a long and useful career.

Rule of the Minority.
"Do you believe minority rule can be successful?"
"Of course. For example, if the father and mother like you and the girl doesn't, there you are. But if the girl likes you and the father and mother don't there they are."—Chicago Record.

THREW HIM OVERBOARD.
Crew of Oyster Sloop Drowned Truander of 204-Water.
NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 21.—The captain of a small oyster sloop which has been drifting in the upper Chesapeake bay and which arrived here yesterday, states that about 10 o'clock yesterday morning a sloop was seen at the bivalve market and secured a place as hand on a sloop whose master is named George Rowell.

The man was fairly well dressed and was educated. He told the oyster men that he had come from a good family, but was cut off from them with a small allowance.

The day after the president died a passenger on a passing steamer threw a newspaper containing an account of the death aboard the sloop. The Pole secured it and while the crew were waiting for him to read the story he exclaimed: "Good, and Tolly will be the next in a short time."

The crew set upon him and severely beat him, rendering him unconscious. The captain and mate intervened, but when the oyster men again at the crew picked the unconscious form up and threw it overboard.

Elizabeth Resented It.
The reign of Victoria has often been compared to and contrasted with that of Elizabeth, and it is one of the curious coincidences of history, as well as another illustration of the continuity of life in England, that each great sovereign at an interval of 200 years had for her chief minister of state at the close of her reign a Robert Cecil, Lord Salisbury.

When Queen Elizabeth had sunk into her melancholy state, reclining at a table and sitting up day and night, supported by pillows on a stool, Burleigh's son ventured to tell her she must go to bed.

"Must!" she cried. "Is 'must' a word to be addressed to princes? Little man, little man! Thy father, if he had been alive, durst not have used that word. Thou art so presumptuous because thou knowest I shall die."

Unknown to Women.
Every woman should read, without fail, the following paragraph. She will learn something about herself she never knew before.

Thompson's Barossa is not only a wonderful kidney, liver and bladder cure, but has a richer advantage as a remedy for Chronic Female Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, bearing down sensations, Nervous Debility, Leucorrhoea or Whites and Dropsical Swellings. Its peculiar advantage lies in the fact that it is both a female regulator and kidney, liver and bladder cure. The womb is situated back of and very close to the bladder. A woman having any pain or distress in the back or side, at once attributes it to female weakness when many times her trouble is entirely from the kidneys or bladder. Hence a woman making this grave mistake will find a sure remedy in Barossa, for whether she is suffering from womb disorder or any disease of the kidneys, liver and bladder, Barossa will effect a permanent cure. For this two-fold reason Barossa is the best woman's remedy on the market. Thompson's Dandelion and Mandrake Pills should be used with the Barossa, for the liver and constipation. They are purely vegetable and do not gripe.

Was Losing Control of Her Mind.
I was losing control of my mind and could not remember names of people, caused by female weakness, chronic inflammation of the liver, kidneys and bladder, scaling of urine and non-retention of the same, which had troubled me, making me very nervous, the past twenty years. All the medicines I used only relieved me for the time. You don't know how delighted I am to think I am so much better and stronger all through my system, and Thompson's Barossa, KIDNEY, LIVER, KIDNEY and LUMBAR cure did it. I used six bottles. It was worth more than money to me. It gave me health and strength, as I was very weak and miserable before.
