

Calendar for October 1909 showing days of the week and dates.

Republican Ticket. STATE. Justice of the Supreme Court, ROBERT VON MOSCHISZKER, of Philadelphia.

The fact that the American people spend $10,000,000 a year on automobiles may hint at extravagance, but it is not the kind of extravagance that is harmful to the wage-earner.

The November election occurs in just a little less than three weeks, and if you haven't given it much thought it is well to turn your attention in that direction somewhat, lest you might forget about it altogether.

The New York Sun takes a pessimistic view of the future of the aeroplane. "No aviator," it says, "dares to fly in a moderate breeze or dares to go up in a strong wind. The airship, unlike the ship of the sea, has no resisting and buoyant medium to save it from a blow; the genius of no inventor can make it ride out a storm; it is plainly at the mercy of the elements.

Sustain Republican Policies.

In our Republican form of Government the people who constitute the sovereign power of the country are responsible for the character of government we have. The people elect their own lawmakers and executive officers and, therefore, are responsible for the wisdom of their choice.

The Republican Party stands for protection to American industry. American labor and the American farmer. It also believes in sound money, the regulation of railroads and large corporations by law. It is not always running after false gods, theories and isms of all kinds as experiments to get into power.

The Republican party has kept its pledges, made last fall in the campaign, and has revised the tariff in accordance with the principles of protection. Since its enactment business is rapidly improving and increasing in volume all along the line.

When the facts show that the policies of the Republican party, enacted into law and enforced, bring the greatest prosperity and happiness to all the people, can any Republican be either indifferent or distoyal to his party?

Gov. Stuart Shows the Way.

[Special Correspondence.] Philadelphia, Oct. 12.

With Governor Stuart presiding at the opening meeting of the campaign, the largest Republican rally ever held in South Philadelphia, the canvass for the state and local candidates may be said to be fairly under way.

That every man on the Republican ticket will be elected by at least 50,000 majority is the confident prediction of those in a position to gauge public sentiment and that Judge von Moschiszker, Philadelphia's representative on the state ticket and his colleagues, Messrs. Sisson and Stober, will poll the full party vote, is conceded on every hand.

The great mass of the public spirited citizens are in line with the Republican party. Governor Leads the Way. Governor Stuart's attitude is truly representative of the thought of the best citizenship of the community.

In his address opening the campaign the governor among other things said: "I am here tonight in behalf of the Republican ticket, at a Republican meeting, to speak in favor and to use my best efforts, and by my presence to show my sympathy with the Republican ticket, and my interest in the success of that ticket in state, city and county, at this time, in Philadelphia."

"The state ticket is headed by a candidate whom you well know, and that position is justice of the supreme court. That gentleman has been nominated by the Republican party for the office of justice of the supreme court, and the name of the gentleman is Judge von Moschiszker, a resident of Philadelphia, county, and a member of the Philadelphia bar, and he has filled the position as a member of one of our courts for the past seven years; a young man of undoubted ability and integrity, and a man to whom you will make one of the greatest jurists of this commonwealth. By reason of his position as a candidate for the supreme court of Pennsylvania, he will not be here tonight."

He then paid a tribute to each of the local candidates, and in presenting Messrs. Sisson and Stober, the state nominees, who were present at the meeting, he was very felicitous.

Not only was the initial meeting of the canvass a great and imposing affair, but on the following night there was a great demonstration given in honor of Senator Penrose by the workmen of Kensington in recognition of his services in formulating the new tariff bill.

This was undoubtedly the greatest gathering of the kind ever held in this city. It was an expression of loyalty to the Republican party, which will be evinced, as they said, in a practical way in the vote at the coming election.

The nominees on the Republican state ticket had a conference with Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee, this week, and report that the receptions accorded them in every place they have visited have been spontaneous and cordial in their enthusiasm. They are assured that there are no defections or dissensions anywhere, and that they can expect the full party vote at the coming election.

The schedule of meetings for this week include visits to Uniontown, Greensburg, Huntingdon, Lebanon, Honesdale, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre.

Out of the Hymnbook. A minister, having given out his "notices," was about to read his hymn when he was reminded of one notice he had forgotten. Stopping, he made this announcement, apologizing for his forgetfulness. Then, much to the amusement of his audience, he began to line out the hymn as follows: "Lord, what a thoughtless wretch am I!"—Judge's Library.

Another Correspondent. On account of the extreme dry weather the forest fires are becoming quite numerous, the most extensive fire being near the large lumber operations at Six Mile. As yet no material damage has been reported, but one can never tell just when this dreaded calamity may swallow up his belongings.

With the open season for small game near at hand, those who always have the time to get in a few days ahead of the eventful day arrives, have been doing a good business the past ten days. One individual reports 18 woodcock for one day's shoot, while we know of several others who have been slaughtering the pheasants and squirrels. Even little bunny game had the ghost to some sport.

The writer has had his eye on a score of fine black squirrels for the past two weeks and at the last moment we learn that some party, who is not our friend, has been feasting on our game. Small game is not the only variety we have up here either, for last week a coterie of hunters succeeded in bringing down two bear. One was killed the first of last week, while the other one was bagged Thursday. These were fine specimens and were very fat.

By the bursting of a six-inch oil line, the property of the Standard Oil Co., at Hastings, one day last week, considerable oil escaped into Tionesta Creek. L. R. Brennan and Wm. Harrington placed a boom across the creek at Big Minister, five miles below the break, and succeeded in tanking about 300 barrels of the fluid. They placed several tanks on the bank and by using a steam pump gathered up all the fluid in sight. This amount remind the old timers of the balmy days on Oil Creek, when oil was more plentiful in the valleys than water is today.

Considerable comment is being agitated regarding the supposed petrified horse that has been viewed by many at the old abandoned camp at Four Mile. The horse is one that was owned by W. S. Gillespie, who was jobbing on Little Salmon Creek for the Salmon Creek Lumber Co. The incident occurred about 3 1/2 years ago, when the horse became unfit for work and was turned out to seek its living by grazing on the excellent pastures that abound around the vacant camps. Becoming restless and wishing to seek new pastures he hiked across the hills to the poor house, as it were, and took up his residence at the above named place. It is evident that the nag, in trying to avoid a rain storm, sought protection in a small building. Becoming weary of standing and to rest his aching joints he gently laid himself down and has continued to do so ever since. The room being much too small he was unable to rise and as no assistance was available his life soon ended. The first impression one gets upon looking at the horse is that of an animal resting with his head thrown back and looking you square in the face. After a close examination by the party, they are in almost every case sure to pronounce the animal quite extinct. Pronouncing it otherwise than a dead issue would be sure to be a horse on the individual. The horse was a large one when it met its fate but upon a recent visit it was found to have become much smaller by souvenir hunters removing what was easily secured by the assistance of a jack knife properly used. No doubt the real cause of the peculiar state of the animal is that the horse was fed large quantities of arsenic and other poisonous remedies and that this had something to do with the preserving of the body.

O. L. Johnson will remove his family from Kelleitville to Sheffield within the next ten days. Mr. Johnson has been associated with his father as assistant manager of the tannery here for a number of years and has thoroughly mastered the many difficult problems that are peculiar to a sole leather tanner. Oscar takes full charge of the Tionesta tannery at Sheffield today, Monday, and while young in years is old in experience, and we trust he will make a profitable showing for his employers. We do not welcome the removal of so estimable a family from our midst, but advancement in occupation must be met by business methods, and thus Kelleitville will lose one of her best families.

A. L. Waller was a Tionesta visitor Monday.

F. J. Henderson has been confined to his home for the past four or five days with an attack of the quinsy.

P. J. Cunningham and family were visitors in Tionesta last Thursday, Mrs.

Better Earning Power.

The Pennsylvania State College has five winter courses in agriculture beginning November 30, 1909. The object of these courses is to assist young men in increasing their earning power through study in the State School of Agriculture during the winter months. These courses are devoted to practical instruction in general agriculture, horticulture, dairy husbandry, dairy manufacture and poultry keeping. The student may select any one of the five courses. The mornings are devoted to lectures and recitations, and the afternoons are given to practical exercises, such as livestock judging, corn judging, field study of orchards, greenhouse work, creamery practice, and a score of other lines of practical work, each student dealing with the subject in his own course.

It is the experience of former winter courses students that twelve weeks given to association with other students and to study of fundamental principles in the care of soil, plants, animals and dairy products is very helpful. It gives one a better basis for successful work in life. Our well-equipped School of Agriculture, which has 258 men enrolled in its four years' course, makes special provision for these twelve weeks' courses. Our institution is maintained by the state because it serves those who want to fit themselves for better work. Young men who can give only the winter months to study of agriculture have the same right to aid as that enjoyed by students in longer courses.

A free winter course bulletin gives information concerning the courses. All people interested in a better agriculture may do good by sending us the addresses of young men who should have the benefit of this instruction. There will be room for one hundred and fifty winter course students this year. Address: Alva Agee, Secretary, School of Agriculture, State College, Pa.

WRIGHT FLEW IN CIRCLE

Kill in Operation Required to Cut Such a Small Figure. College Park, Md., Oct. 12.—Wilbur Wright, instructor of army officers in heavier-than-air flying machine technique, set a new world mark. In a flight of two minutes duration he traveled around a near-circle of about 850 feet in 17 3/5 seconds. Mr. Wright said that the best previous time for a circle, in his mind, was close to one minute.

Skill in operation above everything else is required in cutting such a small figure and Mr. Wright showed that he possessed much skill. At times during the circuiting operation Mr. Wright tilted the biplane over until it seemed to make an angle with the ground close to 45 degrees. Since he was eating up space at almost 40 miles an hour he felt that he had done fairly well.

"There is something," he said after he came down, "for the others to try to beat."

Mr. Wright made a second circle immediately after the first one and according to the stop watch got around practically the same course in 19 1/5 seconds.
