

1913 APRIL 1913 calendar grid showing days of the week and dates from 1 to 30.

In the elections which were held in Michigan last week the Republicans swept the state, electing every candidate on their ticket by decisive majorities.

"Cheaper living," during the fall campaign was a howling political success. Now that the Democrats have both houses of Congress and the President they must be held responsible for results of the theory of a tariff for revenue only.

THE Pymatuning Spirit reminds us of the fact that the Populist Party, which cut some figure in National politics from 1890 to 1900, advocated a number of measures that have since been adopted.

At last William H. Berry, once State treasurer of Pennsylvania, has been "placed" by the Wilson administration, and it's not a cabinet "sit" either, but the collectorship of the port at Philadelphia.

LET the country see once more, after nearly a score of years of prosperity, what it costs to adopt the Democratic doctrine and carry it out in practice. It seems that every generation has to have a lesson of what Democratic domination means and what disaster it brings.

SENATOR John Sharpe Williams, of Mississippi, in opposing the House resolution providing for a joint session of the House and Senate to listen to the reading of the President's message by President Wilson himself, said: "This proposed speech from the throne, along with the elaborate inauguration ceremonies, is a cheap and tawdry imitation of the pompous and cavalcading of monarchial countries. I hope that tomorrow's address will be the only instance of the breach of a perfectly simple Democratic and American custom of messages in writing which Thomas Jefferson instituted."

The Pymatuning Water Snake

The Evening Record, of Greenville, argues that the bill giving a water commission power to take over the public waters of the state and do about as they please with them is not such a bad bill, though it admits it has features which ought to be stricken out. We recently said it was the worst bill we have ever seen and what the Record says confirms the idea. But our contemporary thinks that a water commission might safely be given permission to construct conservation dams to regulate the flow of streams.

The Greenville Record, above referred to, is published by our friend John L. Morrison, whose activity in behalf of the Progressive party last fall is well known to the people of this community. If he is advocating the passage of the big "Water Snake" bill now before the legislature, and which the people of this whole region of country stand in such mortal fear of, we would advise that he keep the fact hidden should he ever get over here on another political mission.

You know what happens in a house in which the plumbing is in poor condition—everybody in the house is liable to contract typhoid or some other fever. The digestive organs perform the same functions in the human body as the plumbing does for the house, and they should be kept in first class condition all the time. If you have any trouble with your digestion take Chamberlain's Tablets and you are certain to get quick relief. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

TENER ACTS ON SEVEN BILLS

Two Measures Are Signed and Five Vetted by Governor. Governor John K. Tener signed two bills and put his stamp of disapproval on five.

The Stein bill, to authorize and empower the courts of common pleas to fix by rule or standing order the return day of all writs of execution and final process, was signed.

The Mellhenny bill, to standardize the supplies of the state and change the date for opening bids from June 1 to May 1, was signed.

The Allen bill, to repeal the act of 1875, requiring that bread should be sold by weight, was vetoed.

The act of assembly sought to be repealed here has been in force for more than a century," said Governor Tener. "I am not advised that it has worked any hardship, nor am I advised of any good reason for its repeal at this time."

The Frey bill, to amend the act of 1834 so that more court criers could be appointed in courts, was vetoed.

The bill of W. H. Wilson, Philadelphia, to permit cemetery companies to remove bodies and sell the real estate, was vetoed.

Sinclair Sentenced For Kidnaping. Samuel Sinclair, Jr., of Kennett Square, Pa., pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated assault and battery in connection with the kidnaping of Miss Anna E. Stecker in Allentown, Pa., last January. He was sentenced to six months at hard labor in the Lehigh county jail and was fined $300 and costs.

Get Inheritance in Advance. H. S. Bierly, a retired business man of Herndon, Pa., had his six married children to his home to engage in a turkey dinner the other day. After saying grace he gave a signal for the feast to proceed. As the guests turned over their plates each one found a $1,000 check in his credit and signed by the host. He said he thought that they would enjoy the money better while he was living than after his death.

Legs Severed by Train; Dies. George R. Selwitz, aged twenty-five, a Pennsylvania railroad mechanic, stepped safely away from an approaching locomotive while crossing the tracks in the yards in Altoona, Pa., and walked blindly into the pathway of a freight train. He was thrown under the wheels and both legs were cut off. Death followed shortly afterward.

Hen's Peck Kills Woman. A pet chicken was directly responsible for the death of Carlisle, Pa., of Mrs. Ruth Coble, a widow, seventy-three. She was pecked on the hand by a chicken that always had been regarded as a pet. The wound apparently was trivial, but several days ago gangrene developed, which resulted in death.

Life Savings Stolen. Thomas McCullough of Farrell, Pa., saved $1,300, with which he expected to purchase a home in Masury, and with this money in a box he started for that place in a street car. On leaving the car he discovered the box was gone. He is supposed to have been robbed by a passenger.

Cash Display Tempts Thief. At Altoona, Pa., eighteen $2 bills which were exhibited in the windows of a hat store and twelve $1 bills similarly shown in another store window were stolen. An expert picked the locks on the front doors and gained entrance to the establishments.

Overcrowding Forbidden. In Altoona, Pa., it has been lately discovered that the new building code recently passed by council and now a law prohibits the overcrowding of churches, theaters and other halls, and as a result the "standing room only" sign will be a thing of the past there.

Furnace Worker Scalded in Vat. Falling over the side of the vat pit into a vat of scalding water at the Fannie furnace at Sharon, Pa., George Watch, aged twenty-five, was literally boiled to death. The man was taken out with hooks and died within a short time.

McCrea's Will Filed. The will of James McCrea, former president of the Pennsylvania railroad, who died recently, was admitted to probate in Norristown, Pa. It leaves an estate valued at $50,000 and upward to the members of his family.

Child Burned at Brush Fire. Estella McBride, aged five, died at the hospital in Latrobe, Pa., from burns sustained on the farm of her parents near New Florence. Laborers were burning brush and the child's clothing was set on fire.

Leaps From Raft to Death. When he became frightened and jumped from a raft when it began to take water, Sidney White, aged fifteen, was drowned in a pool in the Allis-ho stone quarries at Greensburg, Pa.

$750,000 Aim of Campaign. The Young Woman's Christian association will begin a campaign in Philadelphia next Tuesday in an effort to raise $750,000 "for the needs of young women without homes."

Flames Destroy Church. The Centerville Methodist Episcopal church, near Centerville, Washington county, Pa., was destroyed by fire with a loss of $5,000.

Look to Your Plumbing. You know what happens in a house in which the plumbing is in poor condition—everybody in the house is liable to contract typhoid or some other fever. The digestive organs perform the same functions in the human body as the plumbing does for the house, and they should be kept in first class condition all the time.

There is no use of our "beating around the bush." We might as well get it first as last. We want you to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the next time you have a cough or cold. There is no reason so far as we can see why you should not do so. This preparation by its remarkable cures has gained a world-wide reputation, and people everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. It is for sale by all dealers.—Adv.
