

Official Whig Platform.

The Whigs of the United States, in convention assembled, firmly adhering to the great conservative principles by which they are controlled and governed, and now, as ever, relying upon the intelligence of the American people, with an abiding confidence in their capacity for self-government, and their continued devotion to the Constitution and the Union, do proclaim the following as the political sentiments and determinations, for the establishment and maintenance of which their national organization as a party is effected:

1. The Government of the United States is of a limited character, and it is confined to the exercise of powers expressly granted by the Constitution, and such as may be necessary and proper for carrying into effect the powers so granted; and that all powers not thus granted or necessarily implied are expressly reserved to the States respectively and to the people.

2. The State governments should be held secure in their reserved rights, and the General Government sustained in its constitutional powers, and the Union should be revered and watched over as the palladium of our liberties.

3. That while strengthening freedom, everywhere, and with the warmest sympathy of the Whig party, we adhere to the doctrines of the Father of his Country, as announced in his Farewell Address, of keeping ourselves free from all entangling alliances with foreign countries, and of never quitting our own soil to stand upon foreign ground. That our mission as a Republic is not to propagate our opinions or impose our will upon other countries, but to teach by example, and show by our success, moderation and justice, the blessings of self-government, and the advantages of free institutions.

4. That where the people make and control the government, they should obey its constitution, laws and treaties, as they would retain their self-respect, and the respect which they claim and will enforce from foreign powers.

5. Government should be conducted upon principles of the strictest economy, and revenue sufficient for the expenses thereof, in time of peace, ought to be mainly derived from a duty on imports, and not from direct taxes; and, in time of war, should be raised by duties on a just discrimination and protection from foreign goods, and by specific duties, when practicable, whereby suitable encouragement may be assured to American industry, equally to all classes and to all portions of the country.

6. The Constitution vests in Congress the power to open and repair harbors, and remove obstructions from navigable rivers; and it is expedient that Congress shall exercise that power in never such manner as to be necessary for the common defence, or for the protection and facility of commerce with foreign nations or among the States; such improvements being, in every instance, national and general in their character.

7. The Federal and State Governments are parts of one system, and necessary for the maintenance of peace and security, and ought to be regarded alike, with a cordial, habitual and immovable attachment. Respect for the authority of each, and acquiescence in the constitutional measures of each, are duties required by the plainest consideration of national, of State, and individual welfare.

8. The series of acts of the 31st Congress, commonly known as the Compromise or Adjustment (included) are received and acquiesced in by the Whigs of the United States as a final settlement, in principle and substance, of the subjects to which they relate, and so far as these acts are concerned, we will maintain them, and insist on their strict enforcement, until time and circumstances shall demonstrate the necessity of further legislation to guard against the evasion of the laws on the one hand, and the abuse of their powers on the other, not impairing their present efficiency to carry out the requirements of the Constitution, and we deprecate all further agitation of the questions thus settled, as dangerous to our peace, and to the successful efforts to continue or renew such agitation, whenever, wherever, or however made; and we will maintain this settlement as essential to the nationality of the Whig party and the integrity of the Union.

9. JOHN G. CHAPMAN, of Maryland, President of the Whig National Convention.

The New York Times, one of the leading Seaward organs in New York, gives us the following piece of testimony as to what the Seaward whigs demand and expect of him:

"The Express, which makes it a point always to advertise its virtue as decidedly the easiest in the market, thus distinctly puts in its bid:

"Nobly ought to know better than himself (General Scott) to make a bid for the office of President, when there is a deep distrust or mistrust of those who have been so largely instrumental in his nomination."

Acceptance of Gen. Scott of the Whig Nomination. WASHINGTON, June 24, 1852.

To the Honorable J. G. CHAPMAN, President of the Whig National Convention.

Sir: I have had the honor to receive from your hands the official notice of my "unanimous nomination as the Whig candidate for the office of President of the United States," together with "a copy of the resolutions and proceedings in the manner of his opinions upon some of the most prominent questions of National policy."

This great distinction, conferred by a numerous, intelligent, and patriotic body, representing millions of my countrymen, sinks deep into my heart, and, remembering the very eminent names which were before the Convention, in amicable competition with me, I am made to feel impressively the weight of responsibility belonging to my new position.

Not having written a word to procure this distinction, I lost not a moment, after it had been conferred, in addressing a letter to one of you members to signify what would be, at the proper time, the substance of my reply to the Convention, and I now have the honor to do so in the manner of the occasion justly demands, that I accept the Nomination with the Resolutions annexed.

The political principles and measures laid down in those resolutions are so broad that but little is left for me to add. I therefore barely suggest, in this place, that should I, by the partiality of my countrymen, be elected to the office of President of the United States, I shall be ready, in my connection with Congress, to do all in my power to approve of measures in regard to the management of the public domain, so as to secure an early settlement of the same favorable to actual settlers, but consistent, nevertheless, with a due regard to the equal rights of the whole American people in that vast national inheritance; and also to do all in my power to support the measures of our naturalization laws, suggested by my military experience, viz: giving to all foreigners the right of citizenship who shall faithfully serve, in time of war, one year on board of our public ships, or in our land forces, regular or volunteer, on their receiving an honorable discharge from the service.

Crops of all kind, in this part of the country, are generally very promising this season.—Satisfactory Waterman.

A Big Fish.—The Mobile Register of Tuesday, 25th inst., says:

There will be a public Meeting of Black River Division SONS OF TEMPERANCE, at Back River Chapel on Friday, 16th July, at which time the Ladies will present the Division with a Bible; and in the afternoon of the same day the Ladies BENEVOLENT SOCIETY will hold their Fair (heretofore known as the Ladies' Fair) at the residence of Mr. W. H. Smith. The friends of Temperance and the public generally are cordially invited to be present, and participate in the pleasures of the occasion. July 2—43-25.

CANDIDATES FOR SHERIFF. We are authorized to announce JOHN D. MOORE as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of New Hanover county, at the ensuing August election. April 9th, 1852. 30-16

From Tenneyson's "Princess."

Tears, idle tears, I know not what they mean, Tears from the eyes of ABLETTA, bright, Rise in the heart and gather to the eyes, In looking on the happy autumn fields, And 'thinking of the days that are no more.

Ab, and strange, as in dark summer dawns The earliest pipe of half-waken'd birds To dying stars, when unto dying eyes The casement slowly glows a glimmering grey So sad, so strange, the days that are no more.

Dear as remember'd kisses after death, And sweet as those by hopeless fancy feign'd On lips that are for others; deep as love, Deep as first love, and wild with all regret; O death in life, the days that are no more.

A New Printing Press. An intelligent machinist, by the name of Pratt, has invented a new printing press, which, for simplicity and cheapness of construction, appears to have the advantage of any press now in use.

Presses like the one shown us, the proprietors assure us, can be made for five hundred dollars, while the additional cylinder necessary to double its productive power, will cost only from one to two hundred dollars more.

The opinion of the practical printers, who were looking at its performance on Thursday, was altogether favorable to it. Doubts were intimated about the security of the type in the forms, they being merely secured at the end, with movable rules.

Whether such changes will be sufficient to resist the centrifugal force of the cylinder at full speed, is a question which can only be satisfactorily tested by experience.

Mr. Pratt's press is remarkable for its simplicity, and if found to operate according to its expectations, will be less liable to derangement, and cost less for repairs and management than any other now in use.

An Editor in Heaven.—A Southern Editor gives a long obituary of one of his brethren of the quill, who died on the 21st inst. The closing paragraph of itself forms a glowing picture:

"Are we not also glad that such an editor is in heaven? There is no cry of 'more copy' shall fall upon his distracted ears. There he shall never be abused any more by his political antagonists, with lies and detraction that should shame a demon to promulgate. There he shall no longer be used as a ladder for the aspiring to kick down as they reach the desired height, and need him no more. There he shall be able to see the immense masses of mind he has moved, all knowingly and unknown as has been during his weary pilgrimage on earth.—There he will find all his articles credited—not a clap of his thunder stolen—and there shall be no horrid typographical errors to set him in a fever."

Smithers, says the Albany Dutchman, on going home the other night, was run against by a two-story house which was chasing a lamp-post up Canal St. On coming to, he thus reasoned with himself: "Is that mud [hiccup] or is it brains [hiccup]?" "If it's mud I'm mortally 'toxicated. If it's brains [hiccup] I'm slightly dead [hiccup] that's all." When we left he was trying to persuade a free-stone post that it was unconstitutional to leave awning posts out of doors after night fall.

GENEROUSITY.—A young gentleman recently found himself in company with three young ladies, and generously divided an orange between them.

"Not at all," replied the innocent, "I have three or four more in my pocket."

A Great Blessing to the Afflicted.

Dr. M'Lane, the inventor of the celebrated Liver Pills, used these Pills for several years in his practice, before he could be induced to offer them to the public in such a manner, as to make them known through the country. His learned physician felt the same repugnance that all high-minded men of science feel in entering the lists against those unscrupulous empirics who obtrude their useless nostrums upon the public, and rely upon a system of puffing to sustain them.

They may be had at W. H. LIPPITT'S, Druggist, Wilmington, N. C. Also, by Druggist and Dealers generally.

THE GOOD DIE YOUNG. Died, about 4 o'clock, A. M., Tuesday last, the 15th inst., Mrs. ANNE HUNTER, aged about 27 years, wife of Wm. Hunter, Esq., of this town, and daughter of the late A. S. Hunter, Esq., of Camden, S. C.

She died in the full faith of an eternal reward; and, in order that our last end may be like hers, we should imitate her, the Church has lost a humble but zealous and efficient member; society, one who announced and refined the circle in which she moved; as a wife, as a sister, and as a friend, she was a blessing to all who were united to her, and endeavor to attain the conviction that this blow has been inflicted by the great Disposer of events for some good purpose.
