CHURCH SERVICES TO BE HELD IN DARKNESS

THE SECOND CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, MOVED

The Second Church of Christ, Scientist, congregation last week moved from their hall, in Twelfth Street, to Robinson's Hall, 1522 Fourth Street northwest, two doors north of P Street.

The church is in a prosperous condition. The services yesterday were largely attended. The platform was decorated with palms, ferns, and cut flowers, and presented an attractive appearance.

DEAN HODGES PREACHES.

At Trinity Church yesterday, the Very Rev. George Hodges, D. D., D. C., V. L., dean of the Theological Seminary at Cambridge, Mass., preached at the morning service. His address dealt chiefly with the observance of Epiphany, the story of three wise men, and the latter-day lesson to be derived from their loyal faith in the star of Bethlehem.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

The Rev. Mr. Moot reviews Its Sixty Years' Work

Impressive services marked the celebration yesterday of the sixtieth anniversary of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, at the corner of Eleventh and H Streets. A feature of the occasion was the presence of many of the former members of the parish, who are now communicants of other churches.

At both the morning and evening services the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was celebrated. Two sermons were delivered by the pastor, the Rev. F. W. Moot, who had for his themes, respectively, "In Remembrance" and "How Old Art Thou?"

"The question of age is often a question of curiosity. The idle, the kittle, the curious, often ask the age simply to note the number of years. But the serious and the considerate, when they ask 'how old art thou?' seek a deeper, broader meaning.

"What have the years of this church been? Let her historian tell us first. Lutheranism in the city of Washington begins with the German Concordia Church, organized in 1833.

The following lectures, with their dates, will be given by Dr. Radcliffe on "Tableaux of an Iron Age," January 11, "Portrait of a Child," January 18, "A New Mantle," January 25, "A Pilgrim Ark," February 1, "A Disappointed Patriot," February 8, "An Historic Theater," February 15, "The Challenge of a Life," March 1, "The Bleat of a Sheep," March 8, "The Transformed Nation," and March 15, "The Prophet Specter."

"The church has passed through many struggles and trials. In her early history there were financial and other difficulties, while in the civil war various opinions of that day had their effect upon the church."

In concluding Mr. Moot said: "What have the sixty years been to those who have worshipped at its altars? Many homes have been brightened, many parents have been made glad, many have found here the Christ, and many have been comforted and strengthened by the ministry of the pastors.

TEMPERANCE WORKERS MEET.

A number of local and national temperance workers began the first of the series of evangelistic meetings at the Central Union Mission last night. The services were opened with a prayer by Director Boyce, of the mission, followed by a cornet solo by Dr. F. A. Swartwout.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

The week of prayer will be observed at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church this week with services every afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, except Saturday. Following is a list of the subjects: Monday, "The Holy Spirit," Tuesday, "The Confession," Wednesday, "The Witness Bearer," Thursday, "The Church," and Friday, "The Young People."

DR. RADCLIFFE TALKS OF "THE IRON AGE"

Interesting Lecture at New York Avenue Church.

A large congregation heard the Rev. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, D. D., pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, deliver the first Sunday evening lecture of his winter course on "Tableaux of an Iron Age."

"The Iron Age is the age of expedience, experience, and transition. Israel failed in holding distinctly the idea of God. The old order must pass away that the new order may do the work. No old ruler passes without the appearance of a great man. Sometimes it is the man on horseback. The story of Israel is a parable of human life.

"I believe it is our duty to help them as far as it is possible for us to do so. Let me cite to you three instances that go to show the condition in Japan. A certain member of the imperial household of that island empire is immersed in immorality. The president of a college in Japan has just published an article in a woman's magazine of that country defending immorality as a means of livelihood, and a famous priest of Japan is known all over the nation for his immoral practices.

"It is impossible for us to convert the older men of both China and Japan, and, besides, we have not the money necessary to do the work. We can, however, convert the young men, and it is the duty of young men to inaugurate the movement."

Prof. Mott concluded his address with a description of the work now done in the three Asiatic countries by the Y. M. C. A. To carry on the work there he needed four classes of men—native young men, to preach to their own people; young men from this and other Christian countries to organize Y. M. C. A.'s; established business men of this country to manage the finances and assume the expense of secretaries, and the vast army of young men to give financial aid.

YOUNG MEN NEEDED FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS

Prof. Mott Tells of Conditions in Japan

Although the weather was inclement, a large audience greeted Prof. John R. Mott, the speaker yesterday at the Lafayette Square Theater before the Sunday meeting for men held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., of which he is one of the national leaders.

"Several years ago," he said, "before I had spent much time in the Asiatic countries, I was of the firm opinion that we had no business thrusting our Christianity upon them when we were so far from perfect ourselves. There are, no doubt, some of you today who think this way, but to you who do I say go abroad to those countries, study their conditions, and then tell men if you have not been converted.

"The indignation among the congregation at that time, high as it was, was mild to that which followed the sermon of yesterday morning. There was talk of direful results to the rector should the powerful personages who sit under his preaching choose to act in the matter. There is no indication that the rector has given a thought to the consequences.

CLERGYMAN DENOUNCES SOCIETY AS VICIOUS

The Rev. Mr. Richardson Severe on "The Smart Set."

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—Twice within the last eight months the vices of society have been denounced from fashionable pulpits in this city. The first broadside against the habits and amusements of the elite was delivered last spring by the Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Torakis, rector of Holy Trinity Church.

He asserted that society's devices are a menace to the institutions of the country; that young women high in the social life of the city drink, smoke cigarettes and gamble; that on their breath can be detected the smell of tobacco and the fumes of liquor, and that their pin money is too often won or squandered at the gaming table.

"This attack is not the first that the Rev. Mr. Richardson delivered from the pulpit of St. James. His fashionable congregation has not yet fully recovered from the shock he gave them soon after the great missionary council held in this city.

"It is thought by some that so great a body of church dignitaries should be immune from criticism of every sort, but apparently, Mr. Richardson did not share the belief. He treated the subject of the missionary council without gloves, arraigning the members for prying so much attention to work in other lands, while forgetting the needs of the negroes in America.

Next Sunday a number of Washington congregations will celebrate the event with appropriate services. At these exercises, members of the association will be present and speak. On the evening following the banquet at the New Willard, a jubilee meeting will be held.

ROCKEFELLER PLANS TO BUILD IMMENSE CASTLE

Standard Oil Magnate Buys Land in New Jersey.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 5.—That John D. Rockefeller wants to buy the hamlet of East View, that adjoins his place on the south, is said to be evidenced weekly by his purchases of property in that vicinity. Mr. Rockefeller a few weeks ago bought the Lyons farm and this week he has added a strip of land over a mile long near Buttermik Hill, one of the highest points in Westchester county.

Mr. Rockefeller now owns over 2,000 acres, extending from North Tarrytown back to East View and Hawthorne. He intends laying out large parks and beautiful roads all through this land and he is to install an electric light plant to light his estate. As his country seat has been destroyed, he plans to build a castle on the hill.

On the summit of Buttermik Hill is a stone weighing at least 2,000 tons and which is called Raven Rock. This rock is on the Henry Lyons farm, which was recently bought by Mr. Rockefeller. There are about thirty-five miles of macadamized roads in the tract owned by Mr. Rockefeller. These roads he built, and he is carrying out a plan of building on the tract five miles of the same kind of road each year. While these roads are private, Mr. Rockefeller permits anyone to use them except persons in automobiles, according to one who is acquainted with him.

A number of owners of automobiles seemed to find considerable pleasure in using the roads for speeding. They ran their vehicles, at a rate of speed which endangered life and property and frequently frightened horses which Mr. Rockefeller keeps on the tract for his own use.

To be a member of the club is both expensive and an annoyance to the husbands and the members, and several have banded together for the purpose of fighting the club.

Euchres and club meetings take up so much of the time of their wives that several men have recently been compelled to prepare their own suppers.

Recently one man was called upon to spend $50 during one month for the club's benefit in some way or other and he declares that if the club does not soon go out of existence, he will, financially. While some of the men interested are substantial business men of the borough, they declare that they cannot keep up the style which the club is leading.

DEATH FROM WANT IN CELLAR ENDS OLD MAN'S LOVE STORY

Emaciated Body Found Wadded by Faithful Cat.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—In a dark and noisome cellar, alone and unfriended, a "gentleman of the old school" starved to death in Philadelphia more than a week ago.

Until yesterday his wasted body lay there, guarded only by a black cat that had been the sole companion of his last days. Perched upon his breast it was when he was found, and it fought so fiercely against intrusion that it had to be killed before the body could be moved.

Such was the end of Henry Pharazen, a relic of the days of fashion and gallantry, a beau and a patron of the arts; a scholar, a gentleman and a lover, whose life was as romantic as his death was bizarre.

Pharazen was seventy-one years old, and for perhaps the last twenty of those years had lived in what was called by courtesy the "basement" of 507 South Ninth Street. That is an old-fashioned three-story house, the upper part of which is occupied by a family named Lafollette.

Few knew him by his right name. Years ago he had chosen to call himself Brown, and because he had occasionally sold herbs and strange decoctions of his own to superstitious negroes of the quarter, the title of "Doctor," had been bestowed upon him.

The earliest and the latest recollections of Pharazen picture him in the quaint costume of a half-century ago, for he would wear no other, for a reason associated with the romance of his youth.

The son, himself about fifty years old, was called "Crazy Brown" by those who knew him, and the sequel proved the justice of the epithet.

Until a few months ago he eked out a precarious living for them both by doing odd jobs when he could get them. But one day "Crazy Brown" was stricken with paralysis. What little mind he had was altogether gone then. He was taken to the almshouse and the old man was left alone, without food and money and without means to procure either.

DEBT VANISHED AT THE DEDICATION SERVICES

Freed from debt by prompt offerings, the new house of worship erected by the congregation of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Gaithersburg, Md., was formally dedicated yesterday. A love feast was held in the morning, conducted by the Rev. Charles E. Ely, pastor, followed by a sermon by the Rev. Henry R. Naylor, D. D., presiding elder of the Washington district. The formal dedication ceremony then took place.

The board of trustees, composed of Albert O. Appleby, James Bradley Dorsey, Nelson G. Jones, John L. Best, and Perry E. Waters, presented the building. Presiding Elder Naylor was assisted by the Rev. S. MacBurney, D. D., of the Philadelphia Conference, and the pastor.

At the afternoon service the Rev. Dr. MacBurney preached and in the evening the same clergyman occupied the pulpit, inaugurating an eight-day revival. It was these meetings the pastor will be assisted by the following well-known Washington Methodist preachers: The Rev. Luther B. Wilson, D. D., the Rev. S. M. Hartsock, D. D., the Rev. Edward L. Hubbard, D. D., and the Rev. T. E. Copes, and the Rev. Frank T. Griffith, of the M. E. Church South, at Darnestown.

A deficiency of between $400 and $500 in the cost of about $2,500 to erect the new church was provided in the offerings given yesterday.

HOUSE OF ABSENT FAMILY LOOTED BY BURGLARS

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 5.—The house of W. H. Johnson, in Highland Park, was looted Friday night. Silverware, jewelry, and Christmas gifts were stolen. The family is in New York. The key was given to Harold Greenblatt, a relative, whose house was robbed Wednesday night.

EUCHE CLUB CAUSES AN INCIPIENT MUTINY

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 5.—A euchre club in Montookh borough promises to cause domestic difficulties. Several well-known business men, whose wives are members of the club, have appealed to a justice of the peace of that borough to see if there is no method of procedure which could be instituted that would keep their wives away from the club's euchres.

To be a member of the club is both expensive and an annoyance to the husbands and the members, and several have banded together for the purpose of fighting the club.

Euchres and club meetings take up so much of the time of their wives that several men have recently been compelled to prepare their own suppers.

Recently one man was called upon to spend $50 during one month for the club's benefit in some way or other and he declares that if the club does not soon go out of existence, he will, financially. While some of the men interested are substantial business men of the borough, they declare that they cannot keep up the style which the club is leading.
