PAUL AT THESSALONICA AND BEREAE—Acts 17:1-32

Seeking New Fields.

Paul and Silas, with their backs still smarting from the blows of the Fetters...

To do this, its adherents must put forth tireless energy, counting no cost too dear, regarding no rebuff, resentment, or opposition as too strong...

Paul's Methods of Evangelizing. He would enter a new city without ostentation. He would do nothing to attract unusual attention.

world. He would take his seat quietly in the congregation at the synagogue services. And at the time when any one present in the audience was asked to speak a word to the worshippers...

The preaching of a pure gospel always draws a line of division in a community where it is not unanimously accepted and obeyed.
