 A fall from a ladder resulted fatally yesterday afternoon for J. T. Minor, an aged negro, of 1440 Madison Street northwest. While cleaning windows at 1222 M Street northwest, he lost his balance, and fell to the ground, receiving injuries which caused his death a few moments later.
 Joseph Grant, aged twenty-one years, was admitted to the Emergency Hospital yesterday, suffering from a badly bruised side and hip. He sustained the injuries by a fall into the basement of a new building at Tenth and G Streets. He was later discharged from the institution.
 For just seven days Sallie Wilson, a seventeen-year-old negro, lived as a white girl. She ran away from her home in Baltimore a week ago, came to Washington, registered at the Logan Hotel, passed as a white girl, was arrested yesterday, her father sent for, and she was taken home last evening.
 Bennett Willis, aged twelve years, had his leg broken by a fall while playing in a lot at Nineteenth Street and Columbia Road yesterday. He was conveyed to his home, 1801 Oregon Avenue. Bennett is the son of James Willis, an insurance agent of Washington.

SUES FOR LIMITED DIVORCE.

Mrs. Kate F. Willis yesterday instituted proceedings in the Supreme Court of the District against Turner Willis for limited divorce and maintenance. She also asks that her husband be restrained from molesting or interfering with her in the management of a boarding house which she conducts. Her petition was presented to Justice Gould by her counsel, Lambert & Baker, who issued an order enjoining Mr. Willis from interfering with his wife. The matter will come up for a preliminary hearing on April 6 next.

WHEELER INQUEST POSTPONED.

Owing to a relapse in the condition of Policeman John Sawyer, who shot and killed William Wheeler, a negro, while the latter was endeavoring to escape from the prison van at the Georgetown station, the inquest into the man's death will be indefinitely postponed. The body was yesterday turned over to a sister, who made arrangements for its burial. The funeral will take place next Sunday. Sawyer's condition is not serious. He will probably recover in a few days.

MEETING OF PAPERHANGERS.

A special meeting of the Brotherhood of Paperhangers has been called for tonight. Harry J. Wells, the business agent of the organization, has been unusually active for the past few days, and called the meeting for the consideration of several "troubles." The members of the brotherhood say they do not know what is to be done at the meeting.

NO BUSINESS DONE

AT THIS MEETING

South Washington Citizens Listened to Addresses.

Routine business was mostly left aside last night at the meeting of the South Washington Citizens' Association and the members listened to addresses from several invited guests. The meeting was held in Grace Chapel, Ninth and D Streets southwest, and James J. Scaggs presided.
 Commissioner Macfarland was the guest of honor and addressed the meeting. He said it was a good thing for the Commissioners to receive the calls made upon them by citizens. The Board prized highly every exhibition of interest which citizens take in public affairs. Especially, he said, do they prize the work of the citizens' associations. Mr. Macfarland spoke of present conditions in the District, and urged his auditors to continue the good work of intelligent participation in public matters. He believed it would result in good.
 Barry Bulkley, secretary of the Business Men's Association, adverted to the action of President Roosevelt in reappointing Commissioner Macfarland and spoke of the latter in complimentary terms. Mr. Bulkley also commended the work of the association in bringing Southwest Washington into new prominence. It had once been the most fashionable section of the city, and he believed something of the ancient grandeur might return.
 Major Richard Sylvester spoke of the relation between his department and the public. He said one side of a policeman's life and character was presented at headquarters and another side to the people on his beat. Major Sylvester said he was always glad to hear from citizens "the other side" of the policeman's life. He spoke at some length, pointing out how the Police Department and the public could work in harmony for better order and morality.
 Letters of regret were read from Commissioner West and Thomas W. Smith, president of the Board of Trade.
 After the addresses an impromptu reception was given to the guests by the association.

VESTED WITH TITLE BY

ADVERSE POSSESSION

Decree for Elizabeth Thomas in Her Suit to Establish Her Rights.

Justice Hagner has rendered an opinion in favor of the complainant and signed a decree in the case of Elizabeth Thomas against Edward D. Johnson and others. The suit was filed some months ago for the purpose of having the title to certain property at Brightwood in the District of Columbia, declared vested in the complainant by adverse possession.
 By the term of the decree the complainant is vested by adverse possession with a fee simple title to lots 3 and 4 containing three acres in Normen's subdivision of part of the tract of land known as Woodward's Lot. The defendants are enjoined from setting up or attempting to set up any claim or title to the real estate mentioned.
 The complainant was represented at the hearing by Attorneys Andrews & Andrews and Lambert & Baker, while Attorney S. Herbert Giesy appeared for the defendants. Counsel for the defendants in open court noted an appeal of the case to the Court of Appeals.

PLAN FOR NUMBERING

KENESAW AVENUE HOUSES

On motion of Engineer Commissioner Biddle, the Mount Pleasant Citizens' Association will be informed of the plan suggested for the numbering of houses on Kenesaw Avenue, between Fourteenth and Sixteenth Streets. At present some confusion exists, and the matter was the subject of a complaint by the association.

Colonel Biddle says there is no intermediate street, and not likely to be unless Congress authorizes the opening of School Street to Kenesaw Avenue. He says School Street will not probably be extended beyond that point. The block is so long that following the usual policy of the department, Colonel Biddle says, of six numbers for every 100 feet, the figures would run above 1,600. It is therefore proposed to break the numbers at the alley between the two streets and number the houses in that manner, at least until School Street is cut through, which would form the proper basis for numbering.

TO BUILD MODERN

APARTMENT HOUSE

Negotiations Completed Upon Property in H Street.

Negotiations have been completed by which the property at 1735 H Street northwest passes into the hands of a syndicate for the erection of a modern apartment house.
 William Corcoran Hill, of 734 Fourteenth Street northwest, has sold the property to a local dealer, who is acting for the syndicate. The syndicate is composed entirely of Washington men, and the erection of an apartment house in this vicinity will supply a great need for the business and club members of that section.
 The property fronts about 45 feet on H Street, and runs to a depth of about 90 feet. A lot facing about 15 feet on Eighteenth Street has also been purchased for the purpose of giving the house an entrance on Eighteenth Street.
 The work of tearing down the frame dwelling on the Eighteenth Street lot has already been begun, and it is anticipated that on the final completion of the H Street deal, work on this portion will immediately begin.

MUTE PLEADS GUILTY ON

HOUSEBREAKING CHARGE

Penalty Imposed on Prisoner in Writing by the Court.

Frederick Hall, colored, a deaf mute, yesterday pleaded guilty in Criminal Court No. 1 to an indictment for house-breaking. He was sentenced by Justice Anderson to imprisonment in the District jail for one year.
 Hall, who has an intelligent countenance, was well dressed. Not being able to hear, he was informed of the sentence of the court by Justice Anderson, who wrote the penalty he was to suffer on a piece of paper, which was handed to the prisoner.
 The prisoner was accused of breaking into a house and stealing some jewelry.

Among the illustrated local features for tomorrow may be mentioned the following:

The true story of the "Widow's Mite" estate; how Mrs. Noyes lived for years a captive of the Anacosta Indians in the dense forest that once covered the land where Washington now stands. The venerable oak tree under which the Indians camped still flourishes on the Dean estate, corner of Connecticut and Florida Avenues. A romantic tale full of absorbing local interest.

The Newsboys of Washington—how they live, and how they compare with the little street Arabs of other cities. Some facts about the future merchants and professional men of the Capital City that you did not know.

An hour among the prisoners in the District Workhouse—something about the small army of petty lawbreakers who are not rich enough to buy their liberty. How they are housed and fed, and what they do to work out their time.

Palaces of wealth and humble homes as close neighbors on fashionable Washington residential streets and avenues—some striking architectural contrasts seen in this city—"Living in Sixteenth Street" or "in Connecticut Avenue" does not always mean what it would seem to imply.

Departed glories of the old port of Georgetown—George Washington once said that it would one day become one of the great commercial centers of America, but he was mistaken. The Times tomorrow will tell of the causes which upset the calculations of the Father of His Country.

If all the damage suits now pending against the District were to be ordered paid by the courts, the people of Washington would have to go down in their pockets for $7,000,000 to settle the bill. See the special article on this subject.

Washington has its "Chinatown," and chop-suey slumming parties are now all the fad. Some good reading about the almond-eyed caterers, and their patrons representing all classes of society.

Corbin Thompson, proprietor of the Sharon Dairy, has written to the District Commissioners about the matter, and has asked a hearing at which the milkmen may have opportunity to state their views on the subject.
 Mr. Thompson estimates that the enforcement of the regulation will entail a cost of $1,500 a year to him, and he characterizes the law as a fadism not at all required by existing conditions.
 The hearing will be granted.

REPAIR OF RAILROAD TRACKS.

A permit has been issued by the District Commissioners for the repair of the street railway tracks on Connecticut Avenue at its intersection with L Street.
