CHESBRO'S TWIRLING SENATORS' UNDOING

Clarke Griffith's Men Trounce Local Team to Tune of 11 to 1—Wilson's Debut as a Pitcher a Sad Failure.

New Yorkers Bat Him All Over the Lot and Fatten Up Their Averages—Delehanty's Brilliant Fielding.

New York 11, Washington 1. The above score eloquently tells the story of the alleged game of baseball played at American League Park yesterday afternoon, when the team known as the Senators gave a brilliant exhibition of how the game should not be played.

Five errors are recorded against the local aggregation, all of which came at critical stages and materially added to their opponents' run column. Robinson and Carey were the principal offenders. In a way, the former redeemed himself by afterward making several brilliant plays, but Carey's work at all stages of the game was ragged, loose, and listless, both in the field and at bat.

The one bright spot in Washington's game was Delehanty's fielding, he accepting eight chances without a miscue. Three of these bordered on the sensational, especially his one-hand catch of Ganzel's long drive in the ninth, when the big fellow, after a hard run, dived after the ball and caught it a few inches from the ground in his unglazed hand. At the bat, however, he failed utterly to connect.

Wilson's Yellow Debut. Wilson, Loftus' latest acquisition, essayed to do the twirling and started out like a nine times winner. The first two balls pitched were strikes, and when Davis rolled arseaway grounder into Carey's hands it looked all over but the shouting, but George's fingers were evidently well buttered, since the ball juggled all around him and "Lefty" was safe. This started the ball rolling, and from then on Wilson went to pieces and was tamped at will by the jeering invaders. Luckily for the newcomer, the threatening weather saved him from a worse drubbing than he would otherwise have gotten.

After rolling up eight runs in the first two innings, the New Yorks let up in their work and made no effort to prolong the game for fear rain would put a stop to the contest before four and one-half innings could be played.

Wilson comes well recommended and heralded with a string of victories to his credit, yet there was little in his work yesterday to characterize him even as a mediocre twirler. He lacked both speed and control and lobbed them up to the batsmen in an aimless, lazy style, and when he succeeded in locating the plate the sphere was caught squarely on the end of the bat and sent whizzing into the ambient space. Wilson will have to show a decided improvement in form if he is to be retained on the Washington club's roster. The Goatville team, profiting by the utter demoralization which pervaded the Senatorial ranks, fattened up its batting average and to a man played fast and glib-edged ball.

Chesbro's Field Day. Chesbro, the sturdy lad who pitched the first game of the present season, smarting under the pounding then administered to him, was eager for an opportunity to redeem himself, and went in the box with the grim determination to do or die. He did, however, and made our sluggers look like a lot of sandlotters, when they faced him from the home plate. He had speed to throw away, and mixed them up in a manner to completely dumbfound the home club.

He was steady at all times and found no difficulty in splitting the plate with his swift benders. Williams led the assault on Wilson with a triple, a double, and a single. Jimmy scudded around the bases with ghoulish glee and for the once led the mighty Keeler and Delehanty at the bat. Keeler had a triple and a single to his credit, which record was equaled by Ganzel, Conroy coming next in the batting feast with a double and a single as his portion.

Loftus was deaf to the loud wails of the audience, who loudly implored that Wilson be taken out of the box after the first inning. Whether he was hoping against hope that the rain would put an end to the game, or he determined to make Wilson stay in and take his medicine is not known, but in any event it is a bad precedent to establish. With Orth ready to take his turn in the box, the tide might have been stemmed and a different story related.

Game in Detail. Davis opened the matinee with a slow grounder to first, which Carey fumbled. Wilson hit Keeler on the shoulder, forcing Davis to second; Fultz hit to Robinson, who threw Keeler out at second. Williams planted the ball against the left field fence for three bags, and Davis and Fultz scored. Robinson let Ganzel's grounder get through him, and Williams ambled home. Conroy met an outshoot on the nose for a two sacker, sending Ganzel to third. Courtney showed himself in front of a slow one, filling the bags. O'Connor was retired, Coughlin to Carey, Ganzel tallying. Chesbro put an end to the misery by striking out.

The invaders repeated the dose in the second inning, putting four more dents in the home pan. Davis thrice swiped the atmosphere, and retired to the bench. Keeler planted one in the outer garden, and ambled to second, when Fultz went out, DeMont to Carey. Wil-

Williams was given a ticket to Carey land, when Wilson lobbed up four wide ones. Keeler and Williams chased home when Ganzel ripped off a three-sacker to left. Conroy deposited a single back of third, and Ganzel trotted to the counting block. Conroy repeated the latter's performance when Courtney slashed a hot one past Coughlin. He pirouetted second, but died there, as O'Connor flied out to Robinson.

No more damage was done until the sixth turn at bat, when New York added two more runs to its credit. Wilson and Carey disposed of Chesbro, and Del captured Davis' fly. Keeler knocked a three-bagger to the club house, and came home when Carey dropped Robinson's throw of Fultz's hit. The latter stole second, and scored on Williams' two-base hit to right field. Ganzel ended the inning by flying out to Delehanty.

New York tallied again in the ninth on Fultz's two-bagger and Williams' single.

The Senators were blanked up to the ninth inning. Selbach then led off with a three-base hit to left field, but was caught between third and home when Delehanty hit to Chesbro. Del worked his way to second on the play, going to third on Courtney's error of Ryan's hit, and scored on Carey's long fly to Keeler. Coughlin flied out to Keeler, and the agony was ended.

Wanted—Two first-class pitchers. Apply to Tom Loftus. Demonteville's bad leg seriously hampers his playing. Courtney, Williams and Ganzel worked a lightning double play in the second. Chesbro watches his bases like a hawk. He allows few liberties on the bags.

The bleachers were well filled, but there was plenty of room in the grandstand. Jimmy Ryan got in his double, but Carey retired the side, and he died at second. Delehanty has many more days like yesterday he won't be bothered by superfluous flesh.

Robinson's game is a peculiar one. He accepts seemingly impossible chances and falls down on easy ones. Selbach laced out a beauty triple in the ninth, but was caught off third a moment later on Del's infield hit.

Uncle Nick Young and Ban Johnson occupied a box together and were interested spectators of the batting bee. Clarke Griffith warmed up before the game and many thought he would pitch. Possibly discretion is the better part of valor.

ATHLETICS UNABLE TO FIND HUGHES' DELIVERY

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—Hughes' pitching was entirely too much for the Athletics this afternoon. They made but four hits, too widely separated to be productive. Waddell, on the other hand, was hit quite freely, although he succeeded in striking out eleven men. The fielding of the visitors was faultless. Attendance, 8,066. Score: BOSTON. AR. R. IB. PO. A. E. CLEVELAND DEFEATED IN A PITCHERS' BATTLE

DETROIT, Mich., April 25.—The home team made it three straight from Cleveland in a pitchers' battle today. Eason had all the best of it. Detroit played a fast game in the field, and its only error was made by Elberfeld on a hard chance and bad throw. Gochbauer was the only Clevelander able to touch Eason. The visitors played well, but hopelessly. The weather was clear, but the cold northeast wind chilled the spectators to the marrow. Attendance, 8,429. DETROIT. AR. R. IB. PO. A. E. FEATHERWEIGHTS TO WRESTLE ON SATURDAY

Frank Huseman, of This City, and "Young Muldoon," of Baltimore, Sign.

Frank Huseman, the greatest little knight of the mat ever seen in action in the National Capital, and an athlete of whom Washingtonians should be proud, has completed the arrangements for his wrestling bout with "Young Muldoon," of Baltimore, the self-styled featherweight champion wrestler of the world. The match will take place in Odd Fellows' Hall, Seventh Street, between D and E Streets northwest, next Saturday evening, and Joe Grant will referee the bout.

The bout will be for the featherweight championship of the world, and a purse of $200. The men agreed to post forfeits of $50 each when the articles of agreement were signed a week ago. The local lad put up his part immediately, while Muldoon's manager, Sam Harris, not Terry McGovern's manager, arrived in Washington last evening. Besides posting the forfeit money, he exhibited bunches of "long green," which he said he wanted to bet on Muldoon.

Now that the forfeit money is up, the place and time agreed upon, and the referee chosen, the hundreds of friends and admirers of Huseman are more than anxious to see the "mill."

Muldoon and Huseman are bitter rivals. It is a well-known fact that the Baltimore Babylonian recognizes in Huseman a man worthy of his steel, and also one in whom he has excellent reasons to expect a hard fight. The men have met once or twice before, when Muldoon traveled with a burlesque troupe, and met all comers. He failed to throw Huseman within the time limit, and barely escaped being thrown himself. So evenly matched are the men that the coming match was arranged to settle the question of mat supremacy.

Two preliminary bouts have been arranged for Saturday night, one for the lightweight championship of the South, and the other for the featherweight championship of the District of Columbia. Frank Hoover will challenge the winner of the Muldoon-Huseman bout.

The Cardinals have released Pitcher Wicker to Chicago, N. L. "Jack" Doyle is playing a superb game for Brooklyn.

Pittsburg's salary list is only a guess and a bad one at that, for there are some sliding contracts.

Davy Brain is the sensation of the Cardinal camp, and the punsters are telling of the Brainy plays he has made.

Umpire Hank O'Day says that Otto Williams, the new shortstop of the St. Louis Nationals, is a wonder both at the bat and in the field.

Clarke Griffith held several of the Greater New Yorkers down to two meals a day on the training trip in order to get them down to playing weight.

There is some probability that the Sunday games, scheduled for Detroit may be played in Toledo. Negotiations between Angus and Strobel are pending.

MORGAN HERO OF THE DAY

Future Admirals Put Up Game Fight, But Are Finally Vanquished. Heavy Hitting the Feature.

(By a Staff Correspondent.) ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 25.—Victory perched upon Georgetown's sinner blue and gray banner this afternoon as it waved triumphant over the blue and gold pennant of the United States Naval Academy after the baseball game on the parade grounds, in which the Middies went down in defeat to the tune of 8 to 7.

The contest was hard fought from the outset, and it was one of those struggles which send the most phlegmatic rooster's blood rioting tumultuously through his veins. The audience which saw the game was one of the largest and most select seen at Annapolis for many years. Visitors' Fast Work. The visitors at times put up a great article of ball and held the spectators spellbound by their clever and accurate fielding as well as by their remarkably heavy hitting. Morgan, "the boy with the auburn hair," at third for the Blue and Gray boys, was the particular bright star of the game, and occupied the center of the stage where the calcium shines. He made one of the greatest catches seen here this year. Spofford, of the home team, the first man up in the ninth inning, when things looked dubious, who hit for a homer in the initial inning, popped up a foul ball among the spectators near third base. Morgan, after a hard sprint, succeeded in getting under it and raked it in with one hand.

Little Johnnie Dorman, at shortstop, played a fast game and accepted his four difficult chances in veteran-like style. Like all other Georgetown-Annapolis contests, today's was replete with sensational plays and hitting. The long distance swatting done by Captain Apperious and Morgan, of the visiting aggregation, was something worth taking a long walk to see. Both are credited with three hits, with a home run apiece. Apperious also worked in a two-bag wallop before the final curtain fell.

The Navy boys went after their opponents with a rush, and until Drill was taken out the local boys had the game well in hand. Petzet ran his team with good judgment and threw to the bases with surprising accuracy, while Second Baseman Smith ate everything alive that came his way, his ten chances being handled admirably. Spofford led in hitting for his side, he having three hits.

How It All Happened. Georgetown scored one in the first on a clever hit by Captain Apperious into deep center, he making the circuit on the swipe.

In the second, McGettigan was given a base, went to third on a passed ball, and scored on Dowling's single.

One more was added in the third, when Morgan sent one to right, which was good for four sacks. The fourth and fifth brought forth goose eggs.

With the score 6 to 3 against them, in the sixth, the visitors worked in two more runs. Hart singled to center. McGettigan was given his base on balls. Burns flied out, while Drake was safe on Spofford's error. Hart scored. Dowling hit one to Pegram, who allowed it to get away from him. McGettigan took advantage of the error and scored. The seventh inning they tied the score. Hart singled, went to second on an out, and came home on a two-bagger to center by Burns.

Won Out in Eighth. Georgetown won the game in the eighth. Dowling singled, Fay sent one to right, which McWaters contrived. Dowling stole second, and Dorman sent another to right, which was taken in hand by McWaters. Morgan singled, scoring Dowling. Apperious following with a two-bagger, which scored Morgan. In the ninth the visitors went out in order.

The Navy, with Spofford's assistance, who got a homer to left, scored one in the first. The second was a blank. In the third Potetz singled to right. Smith went out on a fly to Drake. Dowling was credited with an error on Bassett's line drive, the latter getting a life, Potetz going to third. Spofford singled, scoring the former. Anderson forced Spofford at second, Bassett scoring on the play. Ryden hit a hot one to right, scoring Anderson. Total, 3 runs. The fourth was a blank.

In the fifth the Navy jumped on Drill right, the first three men singling. Pegram was given a base, forcing in Bassett. McWaters forced Pegram at second. Spofford scoring on the play. Score: Navy 6, Georgetown 3. Nothing was done with Fay's delivery in the sixth, eighth, or ninth. One score, however, was made in the seventh on a single, a steal, base on balls, and a throw to second to catch McWaters.
