It will be too far to ship them with any profit. Already there are forebodings that all game will be unusually high this coming season. It appears that this is to be a winter of high prices in all the food supplies in the Washington market. Practically no duck or plover have made their appearance on the market yet.

Cranberries are still about 13 cents a quart, celery 10 cents a bunch, and winter squash range anywhere from 10 to 25c. There is still a quantity of tomatoes on the market. Salt water oysters are picking up and so is the demand for them. The second of the R months is here and the trade will soon be good. Dealers are shipping larger supplies here, though most still come from Maryland and Virginia beds. There are, however, a number of oysters shipped here from the North, even now. Blue Points are to be good this year, according to forecasts by the dealers.

The fish market continues good. Eggs are still 28 cents. Butter and cheese remain about the same.

The singing was followed by recitations by Miss MacLaran, of New York. Music was furnished by the association mandolin club, led by W. E. Todd, and the association orchestra, under the leadership of Lieut. D. B. Mel-Loud.

A "single-stick" practice exhibition and a fencing bout were given on the third floor, and refreshments were also served there during the reception. Thirty of the association's crack athletes gave an exhibition in the gymnasium.
