

DEATH PURSUES THE HILLEARYS

Pneumonia Takes Two and Suicide One

MRS. HILLEARY NOW SICK

Body of Joseph Not Yet Recovered, Though Diligent Search Has Been Made in River.

Mrs. Mary Hilleary, who resides in Alexandria county, near Cherrystone, Va., the mother of Rennie Hilleary, who died about three weeks ago of pneumonia, and Joseph Clayton Hilleary, who ended his life by drowning himself in the Potomac, near the Chain Bridge the same day on account of his brother's death, for whom he bore great love and affection, lost her daughter, Mrs. Lula Brown on Thursday as the result of an attack of pneumonia. She had been ill but a little over a week. She was the wife of Walter Brown, who formerly resided in Georgetown. Her funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m., from Walkers Chapel, Cherrystone, Va.

The body of Joseph Clayton Hilleary has not yet been found. The Alexandria county authorities are keeping a sharp lookout for the body, though the task of dragging for the drowned boy has about been given up. Mr. Hilleary, as he was known, was but four or five years old, and had been working in Georgetown up to the time of his suicide. On Sunday on which his brother died he went out home to see him.

Went to River. Rennie died, a short time after the arrival of Clay. The latter left the house about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and was seen to go down toward the river. He was not seen after that. About 5 o'clock a cap and coat, which were identified as those of Clay Hilleary were found on the bank of the river near the Chain Bridge, by John Moody, a neighbor of the unfortunate Hilleary family. Tracks in the mud near the river, were also discovered to be those made by the missing boy. For a day or two after the supposed suicide, the members of the Hilleary family thought they had had a warning, and had been back to town to work, but now all hopes have been given up, and the suicide story is doubted by none.

Mrs. Hilleary is confined to her bed, and is in a critical condition.

PRAYER MEETING ENDS IN A FIGHT

Troubles in Mount Horeb Church Culminate in Small Riot, With Pastor's Arrest.

There was gun play at Mount Horeb Church, Sixteenth Street, between B and C Streets northeast, about 10 o'clock last night, and in consequence thereof, the Rev. Morris, the negro pastor, is held in $500 bond to await a hearing in the Police Court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. His case was called today, but he asked for a continuance until Monday, and Judge Kimball granted it.

Since the Rev. Morris took charge of the church, located on what is known as the "Commons," there have been frequent disputes. There are two factions in the church. One is in power, and the other is trying to get in. It is said the police of the Ninth precinct have frequently been called to the church because of the noise, although few arrests have been made.

Hands on Weapons.

It is also said that threats of personal violence were made against the Rev. Mr. Morris. Last night a prayer meeting was in progress, and the preacher noticed that several of the members of the congregation had their hands on their hips, and later he was called upon to stop the services and "clear out." Supporters of the Rev. Mr. Morris quickly rallied around him, and one of them is said to have handed Morris a revolver with which to defend himself. When the negroes saw the glitter of the barrel, and word was passed around that it was loaded, they began to yell and scream, and Policeman Allen, of the Ninth precinct, responded to their cries. He placed Morris under arrest and the preacher sent for friends who put up a $500 bond for his appearance in court.

Morris says he never owned a revolver in his life, and does not have to use one to defend himself unless his antagonists have razors. This, he avers, was the state of affairs last night when a friend passed him the revolver.

"DIPPY" INDIVIDUAL CLUNG TO THE PIER

Found in the Potomac River, clinging to one of the piers of the Aqueduct Bridge, about 5 o'clock this morning, August Goebel, twenty-one years old, of 2333 Prospect Avenue, Georgetown, was rescued by N. F. Turner, and afterward went to his home. He was intoxicated, according to the police reports, and was unable to say how he happened to be in the middle of the river at that unseasonable hour. The first intimation the police had of the affair was when Mr. Turner told a policeman he heard a man screaming for help in the middle of the river, and procured a boat. Turner rowed to Goebel's side and lifted him into the boat. The police say the man was not injured, and refused to go to any hospital. It is thought by the police that Goebel climbed up on the railing across the bridge when he reached the middle, and either jumped over into the water or lost his balance and fell.

CITIZENS TAKE STAND AGAINST A NEW LINE

McKee Reads a Letter. David R. McKee said he spoke "in behalf of himself and wife and a number of residents at M Street and Rhode Island avenue." He claimed this opposition was "of a broad public nature" and not for personal reasons. He enumerated the prominent citizens who had joined him in a petition against a cross-town road there, and said Rear Admiral Walker would have joined in a protest today if he had not been starting for Panama.

McKee then read a letter he had written, Commissioner West two months ago, referring to a conversation between them on the railway subject when they met "in the maddening crowd at the White House reception last night." Some amusement was caused among the spectators when Mr. McKee, in the course of the statement he was reading, advocated a road on Rhode Island Street, or even on L Street, although he thought damages could be recovered by property owners, because such had been the case in New York city in the construction of the elevated railroads.

Secretary Grumble asked why M Street crossed so much more dangerous for a crossing at Connecticut Avenue than L Street, which was Mr. McKee's objection on this point in the course of further questions from the South Dakota member of the committee.

DOCTOR DID IT

Put on Thirty-six Pounds by Food. Feed a physician back to health and he gains an experience that he can use to benefit others. For this reason Grape-Nuts is daily recommended to patients by hundreds of physicians who have cured themselves of stomach trouble. One doctor says: "Although a physician and trying to aid and assist my fellow-beings to enjoy good health it must be admitted I formerly did not enjoy the best of health myself. In January, 1899, I only weighed 119 pounds. At this time I was living in the Ohio valley and began to think I had about seen my best days. One day about three years ago I had an opportunity to try Grape-Nuts for my breakfast. I liked it so well that I ate it every ten or fifteen minutes three times a day and have regularly used it up to the present time, and I now weigh 155, a gain of 36 pounds, and enjoy the best of health.

"Not only has Grape-Nuts made this wonderful change in me, but through it I have helped my friends, relatives and patients. The sustaining power of this food is simply wonderful.

"I have one patient who is a section hand on the C. & O. R. who eats nothing in the morning but four table-spoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and yet does his very hard work up to lunch time and enjoys the best of health.

"I could name a great many cases like this and I still prescribe Grape-Nuts in my practice every day." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Ask any physician about the scientific principles on which Grape-Nuts food is made. He'll tell you the principles are: "Then a 10 days' trial proves that the principles are carried out in the food ("all the good of the grains so treated that anyone can digest it all"). Shown in renewed physical strength and brain energy.

"There's a reason." "Look at each a page for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Gov. Warfield Cannot Veto the Bill. GORMAN HAS FORCED WAR

State Senate Administers Final Snub to Executive in Matter of Negro Disfranchisement.

BALTIMORE, March 26.—War between United States Senator Gorman and the Democratic machine of Maryland on one side, and the Democratic governor, Warfield, on the other was declared when the State senate administered a final snub to his excellency in the matter of the negro disfranchisement act.

With State Senator Arthur Poe Gorman, Jr., as its mouthpiece, the machine served notice on Governor Warfield and the State that the Poe amendment, which includes the power to reject any and all votes by "the man at the window," will be the one submitted to the people, or none.

To terminate the dispute as to whether the act embracing the amendment, which was submitted to the people, shall or shall not be sent to the governor for his approval, as are all other bills, the Senate obtained the passage of an order directing the secretary of the senate to send the document to the clerk of the House, and to keep it until such time as it shall be necessary for the governor to proclaim it to the people, so that the bill in the fall of 1905.

This action deprives the governor of operating under the bill. No precedent for this action can be found, and it is believed to be entirely unprecedented in this country. All hope of compromise has now been abandoned.

FOUR LIVES LOST IN DORRANCE MINE

Cable Broke at Shieve Wheel and Safety Cogs Failed to Hold Weight.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 25.—Four lives are known to have been lost and the conflicting stories of the shute men make it probable that a fifth met a horrible death in the Dorrance Mine of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company this morning. The dead are:

WILLIAM CAVELEFSKI, aged 33, miner, leaves wife and one child.

BUD VAN HORN, aged 35, blacksmith; leaves wife and one child.

PETER CAVALOSKY, aged 25, laborer; unmarried.

Unknown miner, crushed beyond recognition. The men had gone into the Hillman vein, six hundred feet below the surface, about two hours before the accident. Van Horn worked for a time, shoeing a mule in the workings inside and with the foreign miners and laborers started for the surface. His companions drew a heavy cable, and the foot tender on the lift, who gave the signal to hoist, says Van Horn was joined by four miners and laborers who had found inside conditions or butties absent and quit work for the day.

Dashed to the Top. The carriage with the men aboard, ascended the shaft at high rate of speed and when the surface was reached the hoisting engineer failed to stop.

Before the gate tender at the head of the shaft could ring the bell and warn the engineer of his mistake, the heavy cables drew forty feet above the surface platform to the tower, where it crashed into the steel shieve wheel, causing the heavy cable to part. In an instant carriage and men fell to the surface landing. The drop was about 100 feet below the surface. Cavelofski was caught between the landing and carriage, and was almost decapitated, dying instantly. His companions were thrown off the incline platform to a horrible death at the bottom. 1,000 feet below the surface.

Ten men waiting to be hoisted on a second carriage, alternating the wrecked men, had miraculous escapes from an awful death.
