JAPS DEMOLISH THE OUTER WORKS OF ERLUNGSHAN

Mikado's Troops Occupy Position in Principal Fort.

OYAMA'S TRAP FAILS

Attacks and Counter-Attacks Without Decisive Results.

TOKYO, Nov. 21.—A dispatch just received here announces that the Japanese undermined and occupied the counterscarp of Fort Erlungshan on Saturday last.

Fort Erlungshan is one of the principal forts surrounding Port Arthur.

OYAMA'S TRAP FAILS.

ROME, Nov. 21.—A message from Tokyo states that Field Marshal Oyama has wired the government that his attempts to draw the Russians into a trap have been frustrated. The Japanese army is now excellently situated in fortified positions.

A dispatch to the "Giornale" from Mukden says that there have been many attacks and counter-attacks by the opposing forces during the past few days, but without any result. In a sanguinary struggle on the Hun River the Russians lost heavily.

Continuing, the dispatch says that the Russians now have 270,000 men and 1,000 guns at the front, and that the Japanese have 300,000 men and 1,300 guns.

JAPS LEAVE 83 DEAD.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The correspondent of the Central News at the Shangkai River, in a dispatch dated Chansia Mountain, says that after a night attack on the Russian front near Putloff Hill, eighty-three dead Japanese were found on the battleground.

The last twenty-four hours, he says, have passed in quiet.

JAPS BLOW UP ERLUNGSHAN FORT

TOKYO, Nov. 21.—A report received from official quarters states that in consequence of the blowing up of the Sunshushan fort at Port Arthur the Japanese occupation of the outer embankment became complete on Friday. No definite statement has been received regarding the reported blowing up of the Erlungshan fort.

It is officially reported that the fire from the Japanese naval guns caused the explosion of the powder magazine yesterday near the arsenal in Port Arthur.

The report adds that the Japanese land batteries are attacking the forts and are progressing as planned.

Dysentery and typhoid fever have appeared in the fortress. It is said that the deaths from these diseases average ten daily. It is also stated that there is dissension among General Stoessel's subordinates.

It is reported here that a large part of the Japanese army has crossed the Shangkai River at an unknown point. An official reports states that the Russian artillery dispersed the Russian infantry near Luchangtun. Otherwise everything is quiet in Manchuria. Field Marshal Oyama reports important skirmishes on the Shangkai River on Friday.

RUSSIANS BRUTAL WHILE AT CRETE

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The "Express" prints a dispatch from its correspondent at Canea, Crete, saying there were shocking scenes there during the stay of Rear Admiral Voelkerahn's division of the Baltic fleet.

Many of the officers and men were continually intoxicated. They roamed the streets insulting and assaulting the inhabitants. According to the correspondent they murdered at least five persons in drunken brawls.

About forty seamen deserted their ships. They openly declared they had no confidence in their officers. Most of the vessels comprising the squadron are of an obsolete type. Some of the workmen who were employed on board of them at Canea say they are in bad condition.

There is no confirmation of this story from any other source.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

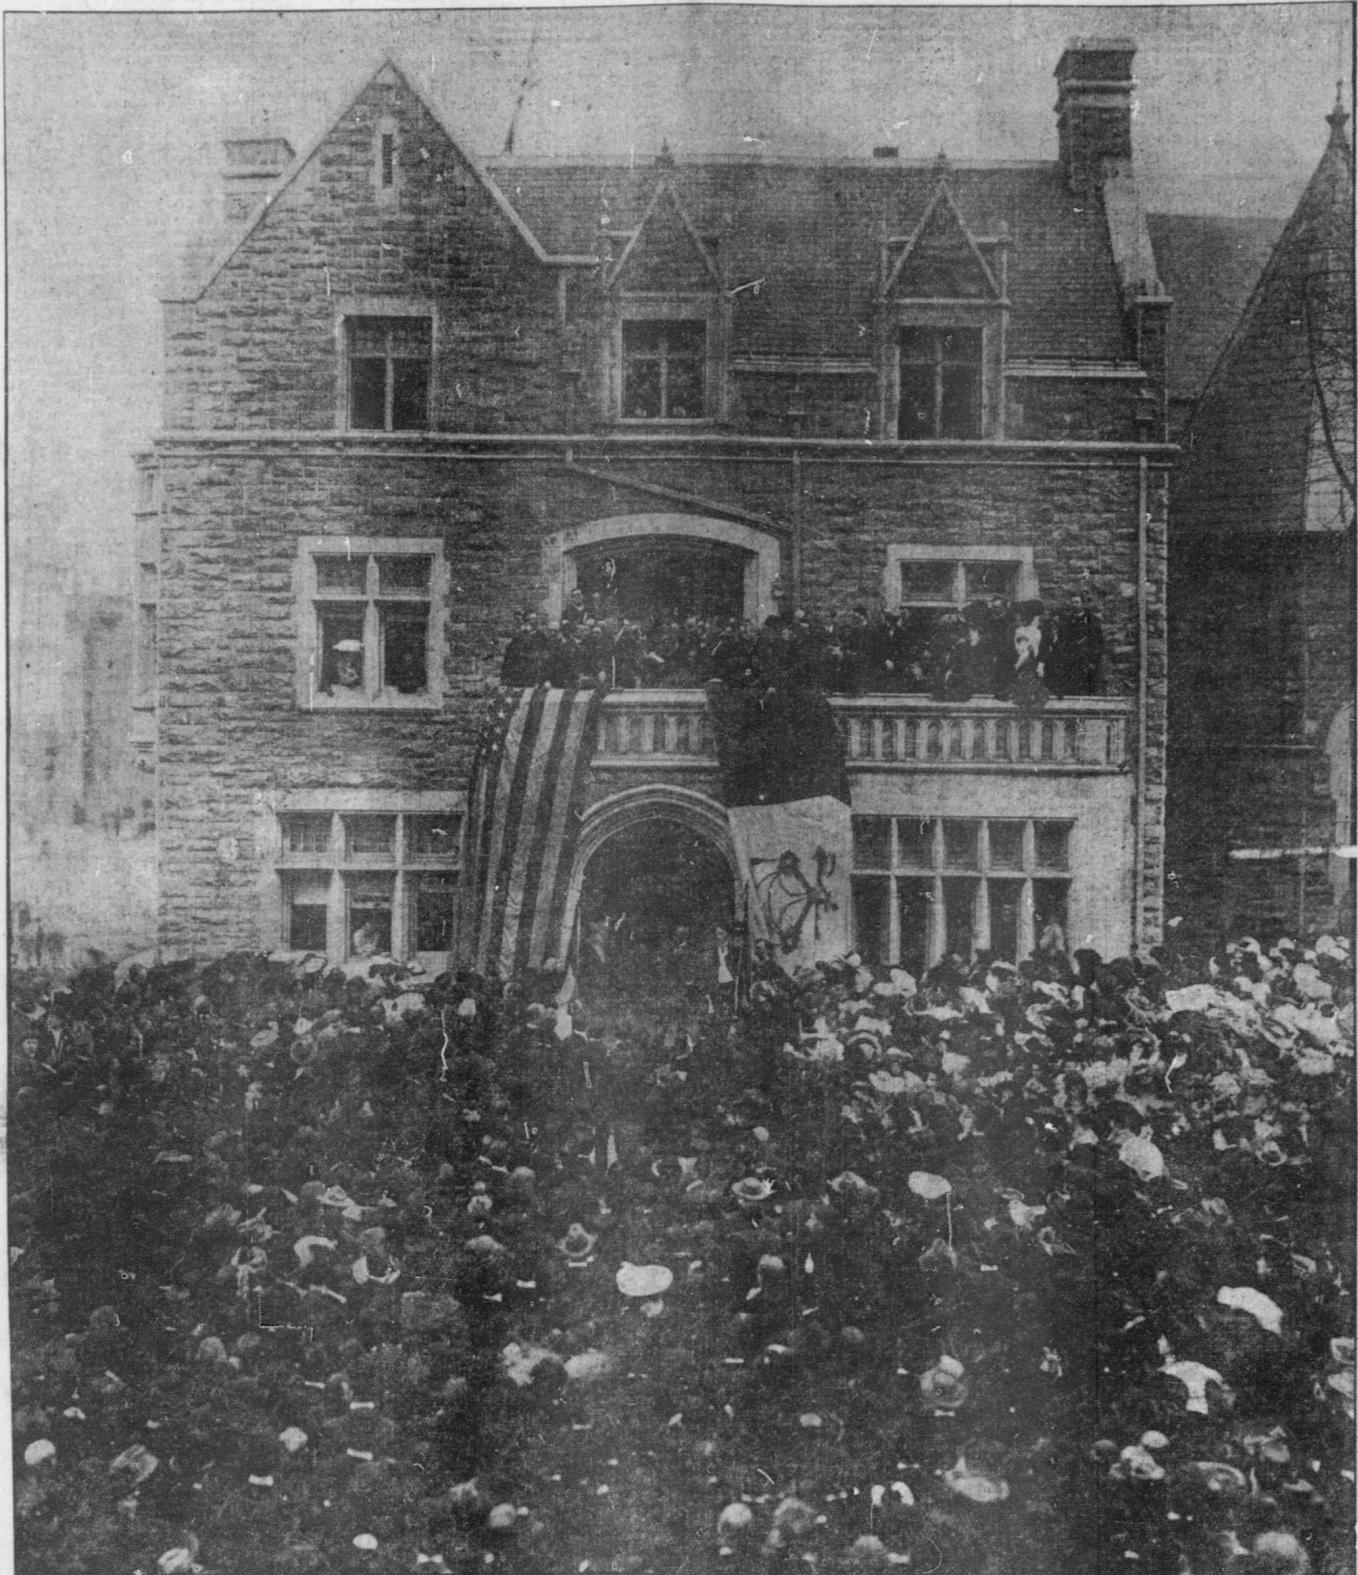

It will be colder tonight in the East and South generally, except eastern Florida, and colder Tuesday along the south Atlantic coast. On the middle Atlantic coast the winds will be fresh west to northwest, becoming variable; on the south Atlantic coast light to fresh and variable; on east Gulf coast fresh and variable, and on the lower lakes fresh west to south.

BLACK ARROW GOLD FOUND WITH EASE

Two Men, Boy, and Woman Locate Black Arrow Envelopes Before 11 o'Clock. Thousands in the Search.

WHERE THE MONEY WAS FOUND AND THE LUCKY FINDERS

LINWOOD KLEINDIENST, of 330 E Street northeast—$20: behind a sign on Eighth Street northwest.

PRIVATE WILLIAM G. STOTT, of the Marine Corps—$30: in a hedge on Seventeenth Street northwest.

EDWARD BURNS, OF BROOKLAND, D. C.—$20: behind a curbstone at Dupont Circle.

LUCRETIA SEAMAN—$30: under a notion tray on a counter at Woodward & Lothrop's, where she is employed.

These are the lucky persons who today solved the mystery of the Black Arrow. Without undue expenditure of energy they traced the clues leading to the places where the money was concealed, and while other searchers were scurrying hither and thither on the same quest, they—this lucky quartet—located the envelopes.

Anybody else could have done the same thing, but it simply fell to the lot of these to be the ones for whom Dame Fortune had prepared her smile. With an interest greater than ever before shown, the people of Washington today took up the search for the hidden money. Where hundreds last week participated in the quest for the envelopes, there were thousands looking for the Black Arrow this morning, and it was

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS AT ST. PATRICK'S

Crowd Gives Three Cheers to the President.

THE DEDICATION CEREMONY

Cardinal Gibbons and Eminent Prelates of the Catholic Church Take Part.

On a platform with Cardinal Gibbons and high dignitaries of the Catholic Church beside him, President Roosevelt yesterday afternoon addressed an immense audience at the dedication ceremonies and celebration of the one hundred and tenth anniversary of St. Patrick's Church.

The President talked of the duties of citizenship as related to the church. It was his first public appearance since the election. His presence accentuated a ceremony which for its importance and its picturesqueness has seldom been equalled in Washington.

So dense was the crowd that packed the streets on every side of St. Patrick's rectory that women fainted in the crush and cars on G Street were blocked during nearly the whole ceremony. The day was fine and clear and thousands of people, Protestants as well as Catholics, were attracted to the scene of the dedication.

PATTERSON TRIAL OFF IN FULL SWING

Prosecution Bitterly Arraigns the Actress. Reviews the Life of Caesar Young as Well as Defendant.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The outline of the people's case against Nan Patterson, the actress, charged with the killing of Frank Caesar Young, was presented to the jury today in the trial of the young woman before Justice Vernon Davis.

Dramatically, Assistant District Attorney Rand told of the relations of the defendant and the bookmaker, and then dwelt upon the alleged motives, which the prosecutor charged were the actual causes for the murder.

Miss Patterson sat through the ordeal with tense expression, while every now and then she convulsively clutched her father's hand when the prosecutor cut her to the quick with some stinging reference to her character.

Former Husband Calls.

Lewis Martin, the divorced husband of Miss Patterson, called upon her in the Tombs again this morning before the court opened, and cheered his former wife with comforting words.

When court opened Elwood Hendricks, foreman of the jury, asked to be excused on account of the illness of his mother-in-law. His request was denied by Justice Davis, and after Mr. Hendricks had taken his place in the jury box, Prosecutor Rand began his opening address. He spoke of the extreme caution with which the jury should approach its work, and called attention to the seriousness of the jury's function.

Duty of the Jury.

"And yet, your duty is simple," said the prosecutor, "as your duty is to maintain truth and execute justice."

Prosecutor Rand said that the jury must remember that the defendant came before it innocent in the eyes of the law, and until the case was proved that presumption of innocence did not leave her. Mr. Rand said that an indictment by a grand jury was not to be taken against the defendant.

"Now, gentlemen of the jury, the manner of living of this young woman must not be held against her. Her chastity and virtue are not on trial here. Unless you are satisfied that she committed the crime charged, you must acquit her. Of course, her dependence on the dead man is of the highest importance, and must be considered."

Prosecutor Rand took up the weight

TRUESDELL SENDS DECLINATION TO THE REFEREE

Will Not Have Trusteeship in Waggaman Case.

NO TIME FOR THE WORK

It Is Also Said That Slender Chance of Making Money Was Considered.

George E. Truesdell will not be trustee for the bankrupt estate of Thomas E. Waggaman. A formal announcement of his declination of the office to which he was almost unanimously elected by the Waggaman creditors on November 12 was made by Mr. Truesdell this morning.

When seen by a reporter for The Times, Mr. Truesdell declined to give any other reason for his action than that he had other interests which would prevent his acting as trustee.

At the first meeting of the creditors, which was called for the purpose of electing a trustee, Judge C. C. Cole and Attorney J. J. Darlington, who represent a large number of claims against Waggaman, announced that Mr. Truesdell would act as trustee if elected, and moved to postpone the election until the creditors could be informed of this fact. Referee Andrew Y. Bradley refused to postpone the election on such grounds, but did postpone it until interest on the claims could be calculated, several attorneys having requested this.

In mentioning Mr. Truesdell's name for the trusteeship Mr. Darlington said he had received from Mr. Truesdell, who was then in Paris, a cablegram saying he would serve if elected.

Slender Chance to Make Money.

Friends of Mr. Truesdell, with whom he consulted upon his return to Washington regarding the condition of Waggaman's affairs, say that he soon found what a slender chance he had to make any money out of it. A prominent financier who is fully informed on all the ins and outs of the Waggaman case, told Mr. Truesdell he doubted if even the referee would get enough out of it to pay for his time and trouble. When Mr. Truesdell considered this phase of the case and thought over the amount of work he would have to do, he came to the conclusion that he would decline the honor thrust upon him.

In addition to his private business, Mr. Truesdell will, as a trustee of the Episcopal Cathedral and chairman of the building committee, have a great deal of work to do on the erection of the new buildings that will go up on the Cathedral site in the near future, and this will occupy a large part of his time.

Election Probably December 3.

The refusal of Mr. Truesdell to act as trustee for the Waggaman estate will necessitate the holding of another election and the consuming of much time and trouble on the part of Referee Bradley. A formal letter from Mr. Truesdell reached Mr. Bradley this morning notifying him of the decision. The referee will now send out about 1,500 notices to creditors to the effect that another election will have to be held. If the grand jury room at the City Hall can be had on December 4 Mr. Bradley will call the election for that day.

The creditors and their attorneys seem to be at sea on the question of who will be elected trustee to succeed Mr. Truesdell. The names of W. W. Millan, Louis P. Shoemaker and E. S. McCalmont are being put forward by those who favor the plan of having three trustees, while that of Hugh T. Taggart is mentioned by those who stick to the idea of having but one.

Fight May Be Renewed.

The indications are that there will be a renewal of the fight on the number of trustees to be elected, as many who favored having three trustees gave in because they thought Mr. Truesdell would take hold of the work. In case those favoring three trustees win out the chances are very strong that McCalmont, Shoemaker and Millan will be elected. There is doubt but that the two attorneys, Millan and McCalmont, both of whom have had experience with bankruptcy proceedings, the one as a trustee and the other as a referee, will serve if elected. In the case of Shoemaker, the real estate man, there is doubt, but his friends express the opinion that he will consent to act if elected.

Investments by Monsignor Sbarretti.

A claim of $22,070.88, the aggregate of various sums entrusted for investment to Thomas E. Waggaman by the Most Rev. Donato Sbarretti, papal delegate to Canada, was filed against the bankrupt estate this morning by the law firm of Ralston & Siddons. The firm represents John S. Ewart, of Ottawa, to whom Mr. Sbarretti has assigned his claim.

In addition to the principal sums advanced, the claim includes for interest for six months and also claimed. Mr. Ralston said today that the bankrupt had given two checks for payment of certain parts of the interest and that these checks were protested for non-payment when presented.

The investments made by Mr. Sbarretti with Mr. Waggaman were of $6,542, $1,784, $1,500, $1,777, and $6,000, respectively.

Amounts brings the total claim up to the amount originally named.

In the claim filed with Referee Bradley no suggestion of security is made. Whether these sums are ostensibly secured on the now celebrated "List No. 1," does not appear. Monsignor Sbarretti has assigned the claim to Mr. Ewart, who is an Ottawa barrister, in order probably to avoid the trouble and annoyance of a personal appearance in Washington, and a personal advocacy of his interests. He is one of the several church dignitaries who entrusted Mr. Waggaman with funds for investment, because of the latter's high standing and official position as treasurer of the Catholic University of America.
