

RAIN CHECKS WORK UPON THE STANDS

Virginia Regiment Would Act as Personal Escort.

REHEARSAL OF ORCHESTRA

Four Veterans of Mexican War Will Occupy Seats on President's Stand.

The rain and snow today put a stop to work on all inaugural stands. Hardly anything was done during the day beyond the hauling of a few wagon loads of lumber.

General Wilson has received an offer from Col. H. N. Higgins, of the Seventy-first Virginia, to march his regiment as part of the President's personal escort. This is the first time since the civil war that a Southern regiment has voluntarily offered its services as a personal escort to a Republican President in an inaugural parade.

General Wilson replied to Colonel Higgins that such a multitude of similar applications were being received from the National Guard regiments, that the grand marshal had been compelled to decline all offers.

Rehearsal of Orchestra. With an orchestra already augmented to 107 men out of the complement of 125, who will give the orchestra music at the inaugural ball, Director William A. Halsey held his first rehearsal yesterday morning in Carroll Institute Hall, Tenth street, between K street and Massachusetts avenue northwest.

For four hours the various numbers of the selected dance program were tried, and great progress toward perfection was made. The results surpassed the work at any first rehearsal and was due largely to the personnel of the orchestra, which practically exhausts the best local talent.

Not only does the orchestra include the best musicians in the city, but the entire organization is composed of local men and nearly every one of them is a member of the local musician's union.

There was much enthusiasm shown and the men worked hard and sympathetically to secure results. The music program includes many of the new airs which have gained recent success in Europe. These are all dainty and are full of rhythm, and will put activity into the feet of dancers.

Mexican War Veterans.

The Mexican war veterans will be represented on the President's stand by four members. They will be General H. G. Gibson and Judge Silas Hare, of this city, and Capt. Francis J. Keller, of Philadelphia, and Capt. L. F. Butler, of Baltimore.

Another North Carolina troop has written Chairman Weller that it will be here during the inauguration. This troop is a branch of the volunteer cavalry of the Tar Heel State, Battery A, of Charlotte, Capt. R. E. Davidson. The company numbers fifty men, who are the pride of Charlotte.

The St. John's Military College, of Manlius, N. Y., has rented Northeast Temple. Battery B, First Battalion, First Artillery, of Norfolk, Va., has added its numbers to the Virginians who are coming to the inaugural. There are seventy men in this company.

Idaho to Be Represented.

The State of Idaho has come forward from among the far Western States, and will be represented at the inauguration by William H. Roberts, a member of Governor Gooding's staff.

Chairman Weller is receiving hundreds of applications of boards during the inauguration ceremonies. Many thirty housekeepers in Washington see an opportunity to make a few extra dollars by boarding visitors, and are giving their names to Chairman Weller.

The names of the board of board can be secured will be placed on file and kept in three different offices. There will be two information booths, one at New York avenue in Eckington, and the other immediately west of the Pennsylvania station. Here visitors can secure guides and any information necessary. The offices of the committee in the Corcoran building will also be kept open.

The Illinois Republican Association has secured the parlors of the Riggs House as their headquarters.

GASSENHEIMER CASE NEARING ITS END

Argument to Be Concluded Today. Justice to Charge the Jury.

The arguments in the Gassenheimer case will be concluded late this afternoon, and Justice Wright will begin his charge to the jury.

Attorneys H. E. Davis and E. W. Baker, for Gassenheimer, attacked the veracity of the State witnesses, especially that of some of the detectives.

United States District Attorney Eashy-Smith and Keenan spoke for the Government. It is expected the case will go to the jury late this evening, and the result of the third trial of Gassenheimer will be known in the morning.

AUTHORITIES PUNISHED FOR THE WRONG FIREMAN

He has recommended that the order recently issued depriving Private E. L. Moffet, of Truck Company A, of his days off for a period of sixty days be rescinded and that the same penalty be inflicted on Private F. H. Buehler instead. LUXOR TOMB SHOWS FINEST TREASURE

Complete Chariot Covered With Gold.

CARVED GILDED CHAIRS

Other Relics of Value in Mausoleum of the Ancient Queen of Egypt.

CAIRO, Feb. 20.—Particulars are now to hand regarding Theodore M. Davis' discovery at Luxor.

The tomb is that of the daughter of King Amenhotep III, and of the father and mother of the wife queen.

The mummies of her father and mother had been unwrapped and searched for jewels, possibly by the ancient Romans, but nothing had been disturbed beyond this.

The tomb is crowned with coffins, covered with gold leaf, carved gilded chairs, alabaster jars, and religious symbols of the finest quality. A complete chariot, with wheels and pole, the neck yokes, has also been found, the body of the chariot being covered with gold leaf.

The coffin is regarded as the most beautiful and extensive yet discovered in one tomb.

GOOSEBONE PROPHECY IS STILL OPTIMISTIC

Though Warmer Temperature Is Low Enough to Give Him Plenty of Glee.

If the backbone of the winter is broken the Weather Bureau has received no notification of the fact, though the forecaster this morning was able to predict several more days of higher temperature. Cynically inclined Washingtonians had ample opportunity to laugh to scorn the pleasant weather hopes of their optimistic brethren, when both classes awoke to find a mantle of snow, slatted by the official meteorologist to be three inches deep on the ground.

As a result, the goose-bone prophet was in high glee, and in his lair the groundhog smiled as he turned over for another nap before coming into the open with the announcement that the last six weeks of winter are ended.

According to the weather man, the storm of this morning was general all over the Eastern end of the country, snow falling in the north and rain in the South. Washington came near enough to get a little of both—to say nothing of slush.

The temperature here in early morning was 28 degrees, rising to 32 at 8 o'clock, with a fog that still warmer later in the day. Tonight, the mercury is scheduled to drop below the freezing mark.

At noon, the four-hour limit for removal of snow from the sidewalks was reached, the snow having stopped at 8 o'clock, and those citizens who did not labor with shovel and broom to make a clear path for the policeman on the beat may anticipate an unpleasant session soon with Judge Scott in the Police Court.

REVOLUTIONARY SONS WILL HONOR WASHINGTON

The Sons of the American Revolution will honor Washington's Birthday by giving a celebration in the Columbia Theater, Wednesday morning at 10:15.

The celebration is intended to arouse the patriotism of the general public and all of the exercises will be of a nature calculated to arouse all of the instincts of patriotism that may happen to be in the persons attending.

The oldest inhabitants will also observe Washington's Birthday. The association will assemble at Carroll Institute Hall at 12 o'clock. Washington's Farewell Address will be read, and a picture of the first President will be presented.

PAYS MINIMUM FINE FOR SMOKE LAW BREACH

In response to a notification from Prosecutor James Pugh, Corcoran Thom, held responsible for a four and a half minutes' violation of the smoke law at the Corcoran building, Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, appeared before Judge Scott today for trial. He was fined $10.

This was the amount of collateral forfeited by him on Saturday. Mr. Pugh did not think the amount sufficient and insisted on a trial. Judge Scott imposed the minimum penalty in view of the fact that it was Mr. Thom's initial offense.

WILL OF W. R. NAU.

In the will of William R. Nau, offered for probate today, the testator leaves his saloon and restaurant business at 1202 Seventh street northwest to his wife, whom he makes his administratrix. James Donohue, in his will, also leaves his estate to his wife, and makes her his administratrix. Mrs. Mary Jane Lambert desires that she be buried in Glenwood Cemetery, and that her estate, valued at $50,000, including the house at 416 M street northwest, be divided among her children.

HITCHCOCK IS SILENT REGARDING OIL RIGHTS

Refuses to Reply to Former Secretary Smith's Denial That He Did Wrong.

Secretary Hitchcock today refused to make any reply to Former Secretary Hoke Smith in regard to the latter's denial that he had done wrong in giving certain rights to the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Company in the oil lands of the Osage reservation and Indian Territory.

Assistant Commissioner of Indian Affairs Larrabee also refused to make any statement, saying that the matter was a controversy between the Secretary of the Interior and an ex-Secretary. He would not say whether he had indicated to the latter upon which Mr. Smith based his approval of the application of the oil company.

MIDSHIPMAN BATTLE SUDDENLY EXPIRES

Midshipman Samuel Westray Battle, of the second class at the Naval Academy, and a son of Surgeon General Samuel W. Battle, U. S. N., retired, of Asheville, N. C., dropped dead yesterday as the brigade of midshipmen were called to dinner formation shortly after 12 o'clock.

THINK IT OVER

Something You Can See in Any Restaurant or Cafe.

A physician puts the query: Have you never noticed in any large restaurant at lunch or dinner time the large number of hearty, vigorous old men at the tables; men whose ages run from sixty to eighty years; many of them bald and all perhaps gray, but none of them feeble or senile?

Perhaps the spectacle is so common as to have escaped your observation or comment, but nevertheless it is an object lesson which means something. If you will notice what these hearty old fellows are eating you will observe that they are not munching bran crackers, nor gingerly picking their way through a menu card of new fangled health foods; on the contrary they seem to prefer a juicy roast of beef, a properly turned joint of mutton, and even the heady broiled lobster is not altogether ignored.

The point of all this is that a vigorous old age depends upon good digestion and plenty of wholesome food, and not upon dieting and an endeavor to live upon bran crackers.

There is a certain class of food cranks who seem to believe that meat, coffee, and many other good things are rank poisons, but these cadaverous, sickly-looking individuals are a walking condemnation of their own theories. The stomach secretes the natural digestive juices in sufficient quantities any wholesome food will be promptly digested; if the stomach does not do so, and certain foods cause distress, one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal will remove all difficulty, because they supply just what every weak stomach lacks, pepsin, hydro-chloric acid, diastase and nux.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not act upon the bowels, and in fact are not strictly a medicine, as they act almost entirely upon the food eaten digesting it thoroughly, and thus gives a much-needed rest and giving an appetite for the next meal.

Of people who travel nine out of ten use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, knowing them to be perfectly safe to use at any time, and also having found out by experience that they are a safeguard against indigestion in any form, and eating, as they have to, at all hours and all kinds of food, the traveling public for years have pinned their faith to Stuart's Tablets.

All druggists sell them at 50 cents for full-sized packages, and any druggist from Maine to California, if in opinion were asked, will say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most popular and successful remedy for any stomach trouble.

SPOKE LOVINGLY OF DEAD LEADER

Adams and Other Congressmen Eulogize Quay.

GROSVENOR ON HANNA FEUD

Declares Ohio Senator Acted Conscientiously in Voting Against the Pennsylvanian.

Tributes to the memory of Matthew Stanley Quay, late United States Senator from Pennsylvania, were paid in the House of Representatives yesterday.

Representatives in Congress from his own State resented the aspersions made against him in life, and declared his private character was stainless and untouched by the shadow of reproach.

The most interesting address was made by Representative Grosvenor of Ohio, who departed from the set speech he had prepared and offered in its stead a history of the Quay-Hanna feud.

Representative Adams, who was the first speaker, eulogized his dead leader and spoke lovingly and tenderly of the personal affection and esteem he had entertained for Senator Quay.

NO CHANCE TO BREAK MISSOURI DEADLOCK

Ex-Governor Dockery Predicts Republican Supremacy Will Be Brief in the State.

"Until March 14 the deadlock in the Missouri Legislature will continue. On that day the pay of the members of the Legislature will drop from $5 a day to $3 a day, and a pro adjournment will follow. The legislators will begin to think of their homes and will forsake Jefferson City and leave the Senatorial question unsettled."

This prediction was made at the White House this morning by ex-Gov. Alexander M. Dockery, of Missouri, whose twenty-three years' experience in public life qualifies him to speak as one having authority on matters political. He called to shake hands with the President.

Asked if he thought there would be another Republican Legislature two years hence, Governor Dockery replied in the negative.

"Oh, no. Missouri has got enough. This crowd is the limit. Everybody in the State is disgusted, but the disgust of the Democrats is tempered with hope. They are so badly tied up out there over the Senatorial fight that I see no chance of their electing anybody at this session, and the longer the row goes on the greater the weariness of the people of the State."

Governor Dockery is in Washington on a vacation and will be here about ten days.

My Offer to Kidney Sufferers

I will give you a full dollar's worth of my remedy free to try without cost or deposit or promise to pay.

I could not make this offer—a full dollar's worth free—if it were an ordinary kidney remedy. It is not. It treats not the kidneys themselves, but the nerves that control them. The cause of kidney trouble lies ALWAYS in these nerves. The only way to cure kidney trouble is by strengthening and vitalizing and restoring these kidney nerves. That is exactly what my remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—does. Therefore I can make this offer with the certain knowledge that every kidney sufferer who makes this trial will be helped.

When I say "nerves" I do not mean the ordinary nerves of feeling, thought, action. I mean the automatic nerves, which night and day, unguided and unseen, control and actuate and operate every vital process of life. These are the master nerves. Your mind cannot control them. Your will cannot sway them. Yet when they are strong, you are well; when they are not, you weaken and die.

I have written a book on the Kidneys which tells you how to strengthen and vitalize and restore them fully and clearly how these tiny, tender "inside" nerves control not only the kidneys, but each of the other vital organs.

I have made my offer that strangers to my remedy may know it is no mere advertisement, but to those who have used my remedy. They need no further evidence. But to those who are not acquainted, I say "simply write and ask." I will send you an order for which your druggist will hand you a full dollar's worth—and he will send the bill to me. There are no conditions—no requirements—simply write for it.

For a free order for Book 1, Lyspepsia, a full dollar bottle Book 2, On the Heart, you must address Dr. Shoop, 3 on the Kidneys, Shoop, Box 4766, Ra—Book 4 for Women, cine, Wis. DR. NEWMAN PAYS TRIBUTE TO GRAY'S "ELEGY"

In his regular Sunday evening illustrated sermon last night, the Rev. S. M. Newman, D. D., pastor of the First Congregational Church, reviewed the literary conditions in the early part of the eighteenth century, commented upon the works of Wordsworth, and Tennyson, and in the body of his discourse paid high tribute to Gray and his "Elegy."

"Gray's 'Elegy' was a great favorite with the late Senator Hoar," said Dr. Newman, "and the veteran statesman from Massachusetts lost no opportunity to extend the influence of the poem and win admirers for it. The 'Elegy' was written in 1750, but was not published until some years later.

Senator Clark Finally Got His Chewing Gum

Montana Statesman Nearly Lost His Temper in an Encounter With an Obstinate Subway Slot Machine in Gotham.

Senator William A. Clark of Montana, the copper mine owner, lost several trains and came near losing his temper yesterday afternoon at the Fourteenth street subway station, in New York, in an endeavor to get square with a subway slot machine. Senator Clark had gone uptown on an express, and just as a local came along decided that he wanted a piece of chewing gum. He felt in his pocket and found all that he had was a nickel.

He tried the nickel; it wouldn't fit; he went to the ticket window and got 5 cents from Mr. Belmont's agent. By this time the first train had gone. The Senator went up to the slot machine, put a cent in and pushed the plunger. No gum. He pushed the plunger in again. Same result.

"Look here, what sort of business is this?" the Senator was overheard to say to the platform man. "I put a cent in there and can't get anything out."

The platform man said he had nothing to do, in his official capacity, with the slot machine. Then the Senator went back to where he had got his 5 cents and demanded back the cent of which the slot machine had beguiled him. The ticket man said he wasn't responsible for what Senator Clark had done with his copper.

Another employe came along and volunteered to help. He went back to the slot machine, followed by the Senator. The employe felt around with his hand a moment, and then drew out a piece of chewing gum. "There you," said the Senator. Then he made a rush for another train which had come along, and reached it just after the guard had shut the gate.

BUT ONE TO IDENTIFY SNAPSHOT PICTURES

Frank A. Jarvis, of Twelfth Street Southeast, Gets Five Dollars in Easy Money—Nine Yet to Be Identified.

The deep snow and cold rain that fell this morning kept nine of the ten persons whose likenesses appeared in The Sunday Times' page of snapshots snugly ensconced by their firesides or in their steam-heated offices.

At noon today the only original who had braved the elements and passed a successful examination was Frank A. Jarvis, 218 Twelfth street southeast.

As Mr. Jarvis passed through the hall leading to the Identification Bureau this morning, he passed the Snapshot Editor and the photographer who had made the capture. The latter recognized him immediately and informed the editor of the fact. Consequently Mr. Jarvis received payment for the use of his likeness with a celerity that must have puzzled him at the time.

Although but one successful claimant called at the snapshot department, there was a respectable number that had claims based on their resemblance to the reproductions in yesterday's paper.

Most of them abandoned their theories after examining the original photographs on file in the bureau. The board of examiners has become experts and decide knotty problems like veterans.

Nine likenesses remain to be identified, and $45 is still to be paid out.

BALTIMORE VOTERS FORM A LEAGUE

Modeled After Similar Body in Chicago.

SEEKS NON-PARTISAN ENDS

Will Take Part in Municipal Campaign, Supporting Only Good Men for Councils.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20.—Baltimore has launched its municipal voters' league, for the purpose of forcing the two great parties to place in nomination for the city council, men whose public and private records will entitle them to non-partisan support.

Fourteen well-known men of both parties, led by John E. Semmes, met in Mr. Semmes' office Wednesday evening, and after electing David Hutzler, a millionaire merchant, as president, and William H. Buckler as secretary, appointed a committee to call a general meeting of the citizens interested in good government for home affairs. At this meeting an executive committee of nine members will be given charge of the work.

The seed sown by Governor Warfield in his banquet speech a few weeks ago in Baltimore, that the public and private records will entitle them to non-partisan support.

The plan of the association, which may be considered a permanent fixture in the municipal life of the city, is on lines similar to that of the Municipal Voters' League of Chicago, which has worked wonders in the windy town.

The constitution under which the league will work provides as follows: The purpose is to secure an efficient and honest government for the city of Baltimore, by the nomination and election of the best city officers, without regard to party affiliations. To carry out the object the league is to investigate the character, public and private, of every person nominated for office and publicly announce its findings. The league will also aid in the investigation and determination of all municipal questions of importance to the city, and to correct abuses, present or may later appear. Every citizen of Baltimore who approves the objects of the association is invited to join.

No member of the executive committee of the league may be a candidate for office while in the committee. The general committee is to number 100, twenty-five to retire each year, and their places to be filled by new members.

Won't Make Nominations.

The question of actually nominating candidates was discussed, it arising on the proposition that neither party might nominate a fit candidate. The league finally decided to make no nominations in any event, following the Chicago plan of refusing to endorse either candidate under such circumstances and awaiting the announcement of an independent candidate who, if worthy of support, would be given the league's endorsement. What is hoped to be accomplished by the league is best stated by Chairman Semmes:

"We, in the face of the great expenditures to be made for public improvements, feel that the time has come to take the handling of the sums out of the hands of the politicians and force once and for all the people get their money's worth. We are organizing to force the politicians to do their duty and give us first-class men in the councils and other municipal offices.

"We are organizing the voters to awaken in them the idea that while parties are all right, the people are greater than the bosses, and that the bosses are not worthy of the support of the people. We want good, honest men to spend the millions we are going to raise by taxation. We are going to dilute party lines in home government, if possible. If the bosses won't do their duty we will force them to do it. We are going to defeat their candidates. We are going to the last ditch to defeat an unworthy candidate.

"The first test of the league's effectiveness will be shown with the May election, at which twenty-four members of the first branch of councils and four members of the second branch are to be elected.
