MANAGERS MEET TO PICK REFEREE

Select Arbitrator for Sullivan and Nelson Today.

DANE AND O'NEIL TONIGHT

Washingtonians and Baltimoreans Interested in Tonight's Scence at Philadelphia.

BALTIMORE, May 29.—President Al Herford, of the Eureka Athletic and Social Club, and "Billy" Nolan, manager of Battling Nelson, will have a conference this afternoon, in regard to the selection of a referee for the Nelson-Kid Sullivan bout next Friday night, at the Fourth Regiment Armory Hall.

The question will be a fairly delicate one for the result of the battle means much to both of the men. Now Nelson has a bout on with Britt in July and if Sullivan were awarded the decision over the Dane, while excuses might be offered, the result would do anything but add to the prestige of Manager Nolan's protegee.

The bout is creating considerable talk. People naturally desire to see a man of Nelson's reputation box. Then add the fact that he is stacking up against a man who is a red-hot favorite here and there is no reason for surprise that the set-to is a topic of almost-constant conversation.

A Good Match. The Washington kid is simply overjoyed with the opportunity he has at hand of going against "Westerner." For a long while Sullivan has been aching to get a set-to with a man of national reputation, and now that the chance has been afforded him, he is exerting his every effort to make the most of it.

Battling Nelson's ability as a boxer is decidedly well known, and it would not be altogether right to say that his bout tonight in Philadelphia with "Jack" O'Neil will give a further hint on his work. However, Nelson has fought few six-round affairs, and in so far as his work in the East is concerned, it will really be of interest to note.

The Dane, who is getting some easy money now while he is not yet up to six-round matches, as that was the stipulation made when he signed articles to meet Britt in July on the Pacific coast. So far he has had but one contest since his arrival in the East. This was with Abe Attel, acknowledged to be the most scientific and quickest boxer since the days of Jim Corbett. It was not altogether surprising, therefore, when it was said that Attel handed more blows than did his Danish opponent.

O'Neil, while a pretty good man, is at best but a second rater. However, he is a typical six-round boxer, and that is a point in his favor. The bout tonight therefore will be watched with more than passing interest. This is especially true of Baltimoreans and Washingtonians, who are interested in Nelson's scence with Kid Sullivan. Sullivan is no six-round boxer and neither is Nelson. Both are typical rugged men and well able to stand the gaff no matter how fast it is handed out for fifteen rounds. The difference is that Nelson has a national reputation, while Sullivan has not.

MURPHY IS GOING TO PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—A man prominently connected with Penn's athletic affairs today made the statement that during Mike Murphy's visit to this city in connection with the intercollegiate, the present Yale coach and the former developer of the Red and Blue's track and field teams had made an agreement to come back to Pennsylvania next year.

One of Hardest Games of Trip.

Players Not Discouraged by Showing at Yale—Curry's Good Work. Notes.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The Georgetown team returned to New York yesterday and will today play the strong Fordham team.

They will also play the same team on Decoration Day, and the faculty of Fordham say it will be a record-breaker as far as the crowd is concerned.

Fordham has at present the strongest aggregation of college players of the year, and no team in the college world has a license to beat them. McLean, their pitcher, is considered one of the best in the college ranks.

Badly Crippled. Georgetown is severely crippled, and the worst of it all is that it is running up against the strongest teams. After the two games here with Fordham the Blue and Gray makes the long jump to Worcester, where they are to go against Holy Cross, and then go to Andover, who just now are playing champion college ball. But the men are hopeful at that.

The Yale defeat did not cast much of a gloom over the players, as tradition recalls that Georgetown never has played its game on the Yale field. It is a hoodoo to them every year, and Saturday was no exception. There were several plays pulled off that ordinarily would never have occurred, while in two instances plays of omission were made by Larkin and Martigan that gave the sons of Old Eli unearned runs.

There were three "Texas Leaguers" and two infield singles that went for hits. "It was the hoodoo of Yale field," says Captain Morgan, and that's all there is to it.

Tim Murnane, the pithy and general baseball man of the Boston Globe, witnessed the Yale game and came down from New Haven to New York. He is on his way to Washington to do special for the Globe in the Boston-Washington series.

Murnane in speaking of the game said it was up to Georgetown to lose to Yale because "nothing broke their way. Everything went toward Yale, and that's baseball." Murnane was very much pleased with the Georgetown work, especially so when he learned of their crippled condition and that it was young Curry's first game in big company.

Seth Sheppard and Josack Miller, former of Georgetown, were with the team while at New Haven, so were Mike Thompson and Brother Bill.

The boys are very much pleased with the first showing of Curry. He handled himself admirably and the yelling of the rooters had no visible effect on him.

If the team breaks even with Fordham this week they will be doing all that can be expected.

Pitcher Drennan will join the team today and will pitch against Fordham.

Manager Joe Lawler did not accompany the team, so Dr. Burns is acting in the capacity of manager.

Harry Carlen, '05, manager of the team of last season, was with the team at New Haven and New York.

Nationals En Route For the Home Games

Chastened, But Not Disheartened, Stahl's Braves Leave St. Louis and Its Blue Law Sunday—Patten Lost Game.

ST. LOUIS, May 29 (En route to home and creditors).—Our chastened but not disheartened Nationals left St. Louis and its blue law Sunday last night at 11 o'clock, and will arrive in Washington tomorrow morning at about 7:30. At 10:30 they give battle to the Boston team at National Park, and in the afternoon will again meet the slaves of the Big Ben at 3 o'clock, and that's quite a heap of jumping around. Boston will have an advantage in that its men will get a night's sleep in Washington, while the Nationals will go to the grounds after two nights and a day on the road.

Yesterday's contest has been avoided as far as possible in these preliminary remarks, for it is a sad and depressing subject. Its recital is a tale of how Patten, who thought he was in especially good shape, threw away his own game by two most unseemly and untimely errors. He rather prides himself upon his fielding, and is ever eager to cover first base or make an assist.

Case Out of Plumb. Yesterday his aim was about as true as that of a Chinese bandit with a matchlock. St. Louis made five runs, and in four of them his deficiency in the sense of location figured like a literary lion at a pink tea. In the first round, with Koehler on first Frisk sacrificed. Patten threw to second, but didn't give Nil credit for ability to reach the bag in time. The ball went to Nil's left, and before it was recovered Koehler went to third. Tom Jones went out, second to first, and all would have been well but for the life to Frisk. Wallace next created a disturbance by a single to right, which scored Koehler and Frisk. Moran was easy. Two runs attributable solely to Patten.

The second brace of tallies was even more so. Koehler drew a pass, with one out. Again Frisk sacrificed, and again Patten made a wild throw, this time to first, the ball slipping out of his hand. Koehler went to third, and Frisk to second. They speeded home on Tom Jones' bang to center. Those were mighty hard pickings.

Another Gift. St. Louis' fifth run was likewise a gift. Gleason walked and was sacrificed by Weaver, Petty ballooned to center, and Gleason scored on Stone's single.

By the same token Washington had no moral right to its lonely run. Hill doubled in the first inning. When he stole third Weaver threw badly and the Texas scored. In the fifth inning Washington got two hits but nothing developed. In the seventh Nil and Cassidy started with safeties, but Kit-tredge flied to short and Patten to right, while Jones did, pitcher to first.

St. Louis three times made two hits in the same inning and twice it happened in the inning Patten selected to go wrong.

While Washington made four errors anybody else but Kit would have been able to reach home on Jones' fly to center in the fifth. The veteran puffed along manfully, but was caught easily.

A double and a single with never a run was a hard blow in the fifth.

Cassidy's error in the fifth was a low throw to first on Jones' blow. Jones went to second on a passed ball, but faded away when Wallace asked to right.

St. Louis has the blue law fever. In the sixth inning Stahl nearly performed two policemen with four. "Kill 'em, Stahl, and we will take the lid off," yelled the crowd. He finally drew a pass and was forced by Huelsman.

Nil's error was rank, but did no damage. THOMAS S. RICE.

SAM HILDRETH IS REINSTATED

Was Barred From Tracks for Five Years.

ACTION WELL RECEIVED

License Was Revoked by Stewards at Morris Park in 1900—Trained in the West.

The news of the reinstatement of Sam C. Hildreth by the American Jockey Club was the most-discussed event on the New York tracks last week, outside of the Brooklyn Handicap.

Hildreth was at the Gravesend track on Saturday, and was congratulated by a great number of his friends among the horsemen.

The action of the stewards in effecting the reinstatement of Hildreth, who for nearly five years, or since the fall of 1900, has been barred from the right to train horses on tracks under the jurisdiction of the Jockey Club.

Hildreth trained horses of his own and the division of the stable of E. E. Smathers, which raced on the Western tracks. Mr. Smathers in the meantime made repeated efforts to secure the restoration of Hildreth to the privileges of the New York turf, but until very recently without avail.

Bought McChesney. Hildreth's connection with Mr. Smathers has continued since Mr. Smathers bought from Hildreth the noted race horse, McChesney, in 1902. Hildreth training the horse in the West, and in 1903 bringing McChesney to New York for the match which was made, but which was never run, between McChesney and Waterboy. McChesney went lame in his preparation for the match race, and the contest fell through.

The action of the stewards in granting the license will permit Hildreth to take charge of the Smathers' horses at once and succeed John Low in the management of the establishment.

Thrown Out. Hildreth's license was revoked by the stewards at the Morris Park autumn meeting of 1903, as a disciplinary measure, after Hildreth, following a controversy with J. E. Madden, attacked Madden.

The quarrel was said to be due to the suspicion on Hildreth's part that Madden had been instrumental in causing a breach between Hildreth and the late William C. Whitney, for whom Hildreth trained in the earlier part of the season.

JEALOUS HUSBAND KILLS A BOARDER

Then Sets Fire to House and Barn to Cover His Escape—Has Not Been Apprehended.

BEVERLY, Mass., May 29.—Jealous because of the attentions he believed were paid his wife by a boarder, Foster W. Wardell, forty-eight years old, husband of Mrs. Mary W. Wardell, who conducts a lodging house in the Collier block, 95 Cabot street, shot Fred J. Hayes, twenty-seven, a shoemaker, single, about 7 o'clock last night in his room at that address.

Two shots took effect, one in the brain and the other in the thigh. Hayes died just after 2 o'clock this morning. Four fires, one of which caused heavy damage in the house where the shooting occurred, and another which destroyed a barn in the rear of the building, followed the shooting. All are believed to have been set by Wardell to cover up the traces of his crime. Wardell made his escape and has not been apprehended.

OLD SORES OFFENSIVE DANGEROUS Nothing is more offensive than an old sore that refuses to heal. Patiently, day after day, it is treated and nursed, every salve, powder, etc., that is heard of is tried, but does no good, until the very sight of it grows offensive to the sufferer and he becomes disgusted and morbid. They are not only offensive, but dangerous, because the same germ that produces cancerous ulcers is back of every old sore. The cause is in the blood and as long as it remains the sore will be there and continue to grow worse and more destructive. The fact that thousands of old sores have been cut out and even the bones scraped, and yet they returned, is indisputable evidence that the blood is diseased and responsible for the sore or ulcer. Valuable time is lost in experimenting with external treatments, such as salves, powders, washes, etc., because the germs and poisons in the blood must be removed before a cure can be effected. S.-S. S. cleanses and purifies the circulation so that it carries rich, new blood to the parts and the sore or ulcer heals permanently. S. S. S. not only removes the germs and poisons, but strengthens the blood and builds up the entire system by stimulating the organs, increasing the appetite and giving energy to the weak, wasting constitution. It is an exhilarating tonic, aids the digestion and puts every part of the body in good healthy condition. Book on the blood, with any medical advice wished, without charge.
