

WEST INDIA ISLANDS

England's Indifference Driving Them Into U. S.

COLONIES MAY ASK FOR IT

Decision of Home Government to Abolish Agricultural Department Provokes Crisis.

KINGSTON, May 30.—Once again the question of annexation to the United States has been raised by inhabitants of the British West India Islands.

This has arisen through the refusal of the British treasury to continue the grant of $50,000 a year given to the imperial department of agriculture in the West Indies. Commenting on the subject, the Jamaica Daily Telegraph, by far the largest and most influential journal in these islands, says, in part: "Times have changed since Mr. Chamberlain spoke in confident and glowing terms of the future of the West India colonies and the duty of the mother country to regard them as undeveloped estates."

Change of View.

"There has been no change of government in England since these words were uttered, although there have been several changes in the personnel of the cabinet. But every observant onlooker must have perceived that a tremendous change has come over the spirit of the British government's dream—that the interest of this portion of the empire which Mr. Chamberlain evoked was only 'a flash in the pan,' so to speak—and that the ruling statesmen of the mother country have reverted to their old attitude of indifference to the welfare or progress of the West Indies."

"The policy of extravagance (for the adoption of which Mr. Chamberlain was mainly responsible) has brought trouble on the head of his majesty's present government, and the result is that efforts are now being made by that government to cut down expenditure wherever possible.

"Hence, the abandonment of Port Royal as a naval station. Hence the proposal to withdraw all the troops from the West Indies, and to disband the West India Regiment. Hence the decision of the secretary of state to cancel the subsidy to the West Indian mail subsidy. And hence the latest change in policy—the decision to abolish the West India Office, to liquidate its estates, and to throw on the undeveloped estates of the empire the task of developing their resources for themselves."

What of the Future.

"All this must make disappointment and disheartening reading to intelligent residents in the West Indies, and it will naturally suggest the old question: What is to be the ultimate fate of the British possessions in this part of the world? With the indifference of the English people on the one hand, and the increasing trade of the United States on the other, it is not difficult to furnish an answer to that question.

"Sooner or later—and we cannot help thinking sooner rather than later—the West India islands are bound to become a part of the United States. It is a fact, in fact, that the British government continues the policy on which it has acted for the last eight years, or so—that is to say, continues to withdraw its support from the West Indies—the colonists themselves will be forced to ask the mother country to hand over the islands to the United States.

"It does not seem to the vision of a prophet to appreciate the significance of the present drift of things."
