DREYFUSS STILL MAD AS HORNET

Refuses to Shake Hands With Brush.

CONSIGNS HIM TO HADES

Real Peevish Remarks Attributed to Owner of Pirates—Berated Action in McGraw Case.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 12.—"Come, Barney, let's shake hands; it's all over now, and I must confess that our treatment in this city was more than I could have been led to expect. There is no use of us keeping up this quarrel."

John T. Brush, the owner of the Pirates, held out his hand to Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates, after the game on Saturday, as the crowd was filling out of Exposition Park. Dreyfuss cast one withering glance at Mr. Brush, but his hand remained behind his back. Then he opened up on Mr. Brush, and told him what he thought of his action in the McGraw case, and, finally, white with rage, told the Pirates' leader to "Go to —." Turning on his heel he walked away from Mr. Brush and entered the Pittsburgh club house, in front of which the little incident occurred.

Nary a Greeting.

Mr. Brush has been in the city for the past four days, but during his stay here he carefully avoided the Pittsburgh president. Not even the customary greetings of the day had passed between them until Brush broke the ice and received a turnaround.

The Pittsburgh management on Saturday gave the unconditional release to Catcher Harry Smith, whose arm has been in bad shape, and who has been unable to work this season. Smith will manage the Massillon (Ohio) team, and hopes to get into condition so that he will be able to play next season, when he will return to Pittsburgh.

GIANTS ATTACKED BY PITTSBURGERS

PITTSBURG, June 12.—When the New Yorks left for Chicago Saturday they carried Bill Dahlen practically in a sling, and other members of the team were in arnica and bandages.

It came out today that Saturday evening while the Giants were on their way to the hotel, some boys had fun with them with hot lemons and decayed cantaloupes. Dahlen's eye was badly hurt and several other players were injured.

THE BEST TONIC

When the system gets debilitated and in a run-down condition it needs a tonic and there has never been one discovered that is the equal of S. S. S. It is especially adapted for a systemic remedy, because it contains no strong minerals to derange the stomach and digestion, and affect the liver and bowels. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks selected for their purifying and healing qualities, and possesses just the properties that are needed to restore to the body strong, robust health. When the blood becomes impure and clogged with acids, matters and poisons the body does not receive sufficient nourishment and suffers from debility, weakness, sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of appetite, bad digestion and many other disagreeable symptoms of a disordered blood circulation, and if it is not corrected some form of malignant fever or other dangerous disorder will follow. S. S. S. builds up the broken down constitution, clears the blood of all poisons and impurities and makes it strong and healthy. The nerves are restored to a calm, restful state, refreshing sleep is had again, the appetite returns and the whole system is toned up by this great remedy. S. S. S. is a blood purifier and tonic and acts promptly in this run-down, depleted condition of the system. Book on the blood and medical advice furnished by our physicians, without charge.

I have used your S. S. S. and found it to be an excellent tonic to build up the general health and give tone and strength to the system. I have used other things highly recommended, but S. S. S. did me more good than everything else combined. As to its tonic properties it gives a splendid appetite, refreshing sleep, and the system undergoes a general building up under its invigorating influence.

FIFTH MARRIAGE VENTURE

Pugilist Espoused First Wife Three Times—Faked Marriage With Actress.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Primrose dotted with white will be flaunted by famous jockeys on the metropolitan circuit before long as the colors of "Kid" McCoy, or rather, of Mrs. "Kid" McCoy to be, for the pugilist yesterday applied to the Jockey Club for life registration for his racing horse, and in the same afternoon bought the filly Pamela from the Whitney string as the nucleus of a stable.

McCoy and his bride-elect, the wealthy widow of "Bud" Ellis, are devoted to the thoroughbreds, and they won't be happy till they have one of the finest of the smaller barns of the New York region. After their marriage they doubtless will race their horses under the name of Norman Seiby, the fighter's real appellation, and, of course, the present Mrs. Ellis will be known as Mrs. Seiby. McCoy, though, finds it hard to get himself called by any name but his prize ring nickname. He is "the Kid" to sporting men, and "the Kid" he undoubtedly will remain in their vernacular wherever the hempen barrier bounds the squared circle.

So, too, his prospective wife intend to go into racing on a practical scale. The pugilist yesterday offered John Thornby $8,000 to train his flyers through the current season. Pamela is the only filly "the Kid" owns thus far, but he purposes buying more horses soon. It is said Joe Johnson will ride all the best mounts of the McCoy or Seiby stable. Mrs. Ellis and her adorer had a long talk with Thornby yesterday, and she discussed the selection of their premier jockey knowingly.

Mrs. Ellis met her first husband, the celebrated "Bud," when he was on McCoy's Cedar Bluff farm in Saratoga, two years ago. She was Lillian Earle, an actress. All the other Ellises expressed displeasure when they learned of "Bud's" choice. They are descendants of Ellis, the great bullock and the whole of Schenectady sympathized with them. He left her his entire fortune when he died in this city on September 19 last.

Fifth Marriage.

The rich young widow will not be Seiby's fifth wife but the marriage will be his fifth venture into matrimony, for he wedded his first wife three times. She left him in the summer of 1903 and went to Japan. It was after she had obtained two divorces from him and after he had remarried twice, Seiby, or McCoy, got a decree on the ground of desertion.

Next he paid court to Indolola Arnold, an actress, who thought she was married to him in Providence. She testified afterward the supposed justice of the years who tied the knot was a friend of the pugilist and only impersonated that official. Miss Arnold sued in Rhode Island to have the knot was a friend of the pugilist and only impersonated that official. Miss Arnold sued in Rhode Island to have the knot was a friend of the pugilist and only impersonated that official.

Program of Races.

The program of the afternoon's racing as at present arranged, with the positions of the crews in each race, is as follows:

Freshmen eight-oared shells—Distance, two miles; start, 3 p. m.; time, first of the ebb. Pennsylvania, position No. 1, nearest the west bank; Syracuse, No. 2; Columbia, No. 3; Georgetown, No. 4; Pennsylvania, No. 5, and Cornell, No. 6.

The best time on record made at the regatta is as follows:

University four-oared shells (two miles)—University of Pennsylvania, July 2, 1904. Time, 10:41-1:5.

Freshmen eight-oared shells (two miles)—Cornell, June 26, 1903. Time, 9:18.

University eight-oared shells (four miles)—Cornell. Time, 18:53-1:5.

Veterans in Boats.

Courtney lost three promising oarsmen through the enforcement by the Cornell faculty of the one-year residence rule, besides suffering a serious handicap through the withdrawal for other causes of Sailor, Forbes, and Sturtevant. Five of the men in the Syracuse boat rowed in the victorious freshmen craft of last year and another, Dempster, was in the 1903 freshmen boat. Courtney's eight has had veteran blades in Stowell, Captain Boesch, the two Foote boys, Fernow, Barton, and Lee, the last two, with the Pennsylvanians, having made up the winning four of last June. Georgetown has two veterans in Graham and Hayden.

The Pennsylvania varsity has three old blades in Herman, Stevenson, and Taylor, who sat in last year's varsity eight, and two, Watkins and Atkins,

University Oarsmen Ready for Regatta

Georgetown, Syracuse, Cornell, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, and Columbia Crews in Famous Four-Mile Race.

The Georgetown crew will go to Poughkeepsie on June 21. On the same day that the Blue and Gray arrive the Syracuse squad is due on the Hudson. This will complete the colony of university oarsmen who will compete in the annual intercollegiate regatta on June 28.

Now that a general knowledge of the comparative merits of the various crews has been gleaned by those who are fond of making predictions, the chances of each and every crew are the better established in the minds of the forecasters by the drawing for positions.

Cornell Drawing.

Cornell, according to these boatwise touts, has the superior position in the varsity race, being well in the middle of the river, "where the tide runs the fastest," as they put it. Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, on the other hand, have the choice positions in the four-oared event, being furthest off shore from the west bank of the river, where the numbers begin.

The same manner of reasoning makes it appear that Cornell likewise has the advantage in the freshmen eight-oared race for similar tidal purposes. As a matter of fact, there is no advantage whatever in the off shore berth. The tide is about equal all around, but admitting that the tide toward the middle of the river is more favorable than in toward the west bank, where does the question of excessive wind come in?

In the event of the races being rowed on a windy afternoon the water in the center of the stream will be much rougher than in shore, and the crews with the latter position will have a decided advantage under those conditions.

Freshmen Eight-oared Shells.

Cornell—Wells (bow), Tracy, Gavett, Cornell, Dulany, Swinney, Bromley, Cox (stroke), Rankin (coxswain).

Columbia—R. White (bow), Kobbe, Stovely, Osterlin, M. White, Mackenzie, Earle, Hoibert (stroke), Winslow (coxswain).

Syracuse—Corp (bow), Butz, Schiefer, Duvall, Blicher, Whitney, Heath, Padlock (stroke).

University—Emory (bow), Destrin, Dean, Dodge, Philler, Shoemaker, Hess, Emig (stroke), Rullman (coxswain).

University Four-oared Shells.

Syracuse—Armstrong (bow), Cumings, Stone, Davis (stroke).

Columbia—Fisher (bow), Roata, Hooper, Lee (stroke).

Columbia—Uppdike (bow), von Bernuth, Mackerzyk, Donovan (stroke).

Pennsylvania—Townsend (bow), Bogardus, Lambertson, Fiske (stroke).

Georgetown's Chances.

Coach Dempsey, of Georgetown, started out with a big handicap in the way of a dearth of good material, but he had the satisfaction of making as good a showing at Annapolis as any other university that went against the Midshipmen. Since the race on the Severn the Blue and Gray crew has been shaken up and there has been a general improvement in all departments of the work of the eight.

Coach Dempsey is unwilling to make any predictions as to the probable outcome of the aquatic struggle on June 28, but all the local men will go to the Hudson sanguine of making a good showing and possibly equalling the feat of the great eight of 1903 which drove its shell across the line ahead of Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Columbia, and Syracuse.

Ten Eyck Hopeful.

Coach Ten Eyck, of Syracuse, has repeatedly stated that his big mistake last year was in not boating a four-oared crew. "We might have made it a clean sweep had we done so," is the way he puts it.

This year Courtney expects to give the professional coach from the Salt City a cold bath in at least two of the races, and the more ardent admirers of Courtney insist that it will be three or nothing. Strange as it may appear, the admirers of Syracuse and Cornell do not think that any of the other

TRIED TO ASSAULT ARBITRATOR CONWAY

Newark Crowd Made for Eastern League Official—Saved by Squad of Police.

NEWARK, N. J., June 12.—It is probable, after his exhibition at Widener's Park yesterday, that a request will be made to President Powers to relieve Umpire Conway from further duty as a play judge in the Eastern League.

The wire guards between the stands and the field, and the presence of a strong force of police, were all that prevented Mr. Conway from being pushed around some. As it was, a big crowd of angry rooters lingered behind the grandstand eager to get within reaching distance of the luckless Conway, but he was discreet enough to remain under cover till the rain, which fell immediately after the close of the game cooled the angry spirits and caused the crowd to disperse. Then the police formed a cordon around the umpire and escorted him to a trolley car.

A crowd of about 200 fans climbed aboard the car and ran alongside. What they said was not complimentary to Conway, but the police prevented anything worse than strong talk. The escort did not leave Conway until he reached the Pennsylvania railroad station.

Courtney Silent.

Courtney is not saying a great deal about his crews, which fact is accepted by Cornell graduates as meaning that the Solomon of rowing is satisfied with the kind of stock he has in hand. Usually when the Cornell crews do poorly the "silent man," as the former champion sculler of the world is called, scolds and frets and makes pointed remarks about getting a crew of babies to row as well as the young men who are the subject of his criticisms.

John E. Eustis has been selected to act as referee on the day of the race, and the judges will be Fred R. Fortmeyer, of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen of America, and Edward J. Wendell. The United States Revenue Marine Service, through Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, has given instructions to the revenue cutters Manhattan, Hudson and Mohawk to go to Poughkeepsie to keep the yachts and other outside craft in line during the races.

Henry Baden Lives With a Broken Neck

With his neck broken and his scalp badly torn, Henry Baden, colored, thirty-two years old, is still alive at the Emergency Hospital, although he received his injuries about 5 o'clock yesterday morning. Physicians at the institution say he is in a precarious condition, but they have hopes of recovery now that he has survived so long.

Baden lived in the Douglas Flats, on Twenty-fifth street, between M and N streets northwest. He was drinking heavily Saturday night and went to bed shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday morning. In a sort of stupor he got up with the evident intention of going out to Poughkeepsie to keep the yachts and other outside craft in line during the races.

GROWING WEARY OF DISPENSARY

Charleston May Vote to Be Dry—"Officially."

SPEAKEASIES NUMEROUS

South Carolina's Capital Illustrates Difficulties of Enforcing Prohibition Legislation.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 12.—Present indications are that Charleston following the example of Cherokee and Pickens counties, will hold an election to determine whether or not this county shall rid itself of the municipal liquor dispensary, Senator Ben Tillman's great "moral institution."

A petition of signatures of qualified voters is now being circulated, and several hundred names have been affixed. The county supervisor must order an election if one-fourth sign it.

The consensus of opinion here is that in the event of an election the dispensary will be voted out, and for the first time in her history, Charleston will become a "dry town," at least under the law.

The city has never supported the statute, and since its passage, more than twelve years ago, "blind tigers" (illicit dealers) have thrived, despite the combined efforts of police and State constabulary.

Under the old barroom system this city derived revenue of $25,000 to $30,000. Last year the city's share of dispensary sales was $25,602, which was applied to educational funds.

Charleston is a "dry town," and the difficulty of enforcing prohibition is insurmountable because of the ease with which liquor may be brought in by water.

For the advantage of those who desired to visit other places in Belgium possessing historical associations with Ireland, an extended tour beyond Fontenoy was arranged for, embracing visits to Namur, Louvain, and Brussels.
