

MI-CAREME PROMISES TO BE GREAT EVENT

New York Society Prepares to Make Affair at Waldorf-Astoria One of the Most Successful in History of Gotham Charity.

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Mi-Careme, or Mid-Lent, will be celebrated this week by a particularly brilliant entertainment in behalf of a popular charity, namely the Maternity Hospital, on Seventeenth Street and Second Avenue. It is an entertainment for which a large number of young matrons and girls belonging to the ultra-fashionable have been rehearsing for weeks past, and from an artistic, as well as from a social point of view, it promises to prove unique in the annals of New York society.

As I have already had occasion to state in these columns, it will take place at the Waldorf-Astoria, and Stanford White is arranging the stage in the large ballroom with rare tapestries and antique furniture from his own and Charles F. Barney's collection, to represent the interior of an old Venetian palace, which is to constitute the setting for the tableaux vivants, and will furnish an effective background for the reproduction of the most famous masterpieces of Romney, Gainsborough, Nattier, Velasquez, Van Dyke, etc.

Miss Josephine Ellogg will be one of the "Infantas," of Velasquez, Miss Constance and Miss Beatrice Pratt will be Romney's "Sisters," and Miss Patricia Morgan will be the living portrayal of a masterpiece of Nattier. Miss Edyth Deacon will appear as Sargent's "Spanish Dancer," and Mrs. Archibald S. Alexander as a portrait of "Beatrice d'Estrees" in the costume which she wore at the fancy dress dinner given by her mother, Mrs. Charles F. Barney, three weeks ago. Mrs. E. N. Potter and Miss Hollister will represent Gainsborough's "Morning Walk," and Clarence Cary and Percy R. Payne will figure in portraits by Van Dyke.

Musical Program.

The musical portion of the program will be furnished by Miss Susan Metcalf and David Bispham, and also by the "Symphony Orchestra," which is composed entirely of amateurs. Among the members are Miss Katherine Barney, who is first violin, Mrs. Dave Hennen Morris, Miss Gladys Rice, Mrs. Morgan Goetschius, Miss Eleanor Alexander, Mrs. W. K. Mathews, and Miss Margaret Dix. They have been holding tri-weekly rehearsals in the beautiful large music room of Mrs. Barney's house on Park Avenue, and under the direction of David Mannes have attained a rare degree of perfection. Their program will include some old English selections by Purcell.

These will be followed by a French comedy entitled "Le Soldat du Siege," in which Mrs. F. McNeil Bacon, Jr., and C. Emile Perrin will appear.

Notable Weddings Scheduled.

Several weddings are scheduled for this week, among the most notable of them being that of Miss Evelyn Schley to Max Howell Behr, at the Fifth Avenue home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant F. Barney Schley, on Tuesday. It will take place at noon, and about a thousand friends of the young couple will be present at the ceremony, which is to be performed by the Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington, of Grace Church. Some of the choristers from that church as well as the "Damenreuther" quartet will contribute to the musical program.

Miss Schley will have her future sister-in-law, Miss Margaret Hall Behr, for her maid of honor. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Edith Rosseter, Miss Alleen Lawson, Miss Lloyd Thomas, Miss Katherine Lefens and her cousin, Miss Olive Schley. Hermann Hall Behr will serve his brother as best man, and among the ushers will be Frederick Hall Behr, Carl Behr, Joseph Washington, Joseph Simmons, Walter Stillman, Archibald Reid and Evander H. Schley.

Another wedding of the week is that of George Brewster, son of Mrs. Benjamin Brewster, to Miss Eleanor Boshier, daughter of the late Robert S. Boshier at Richmond, Va.

It is at Mrs. John Henry Hammond's house that the wedding of her sister-in-law, Miss Margaret Hammond, to Louis Starr, Jr., of Philadelphia, will take place on April 17. Miss Hammond is the youngest daughter of the late Gen. John Henry Hammond, of Kentucky. Her widower mother has made her home in St. Paul for a number of years. One of Miss Hammond's sisters married Wayne MacVeagh, son of the former Attorney General of the United States, and another is Mrs. Burnside Foster.

Louis Starr is a son of Dr. Louis Starr, of Philadelphia, the well-known specialist for diseases of children, and his mother is a member of the Parrish family. Not only Mrs. John Henry Hammond's house, but also that of her sister, Mrs. James A. Burden, Jr., who will join it, will be used for the occasion. Both Mrs. John Henry Hammond and young Mrs. Burden are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Douglas Sloane.

Another important wedding from a social point of view will be that of Miss Katherine Dodge to John Shillito Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pendleton Rogers, on April 18, at the Brick Presbyterian Church, on Fifth Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street. Miss Dodge is a daughter of the late George Eggleston Dodge, and a granddaughter of the late William E. Dodge, sr. She made her debut several seasons ago and a number of notable entertainments were given for her by her aunt, Mrs. Augustus D. Julliard.

Her attendants at the wedding will be Miss Emily Rogers, Miss Eunice Terry, Miss Susan McCook, and Miss Charlotte Hopkins, of Washington. Mr. Rogers' best man will be his brother, H. Pendleton Rogers, Jr., and Bradish G. Johnson, R. Bayard Cutting, Frederick Kernebeck, Frederick A. Julliard, Beverly Robinson, and Henry Taylor have been selected for the ushers.

Although little is being heard about the matter, preparations for the Astor

Assembly Ball at the old Astor House on lower Broadway, which is to take place on Wednesday, April 18, are in active progress. Those who are to be present are ransacking the second-hand book shops for old fashion plates with the costumes of the period. Weymer J. Mills is arranging the music and the decorations, assisted by the patronesses. They include Mrs. Robert Endicott, Mrs. Casimir de Rham Moore, Mrs. Philip Livingston, Mrs. Benjamin Nicoll, and Mrs. John Hone. The program will have the polkas, the redows, the varsoviens, as well as the quadrilles of the period. Alexander Hadden will lead the principal quadrilles. But of course there will be no cotillon.

All the invitations have already been issued, and it has been found impracticable to increase the number, owing to the limited space of the old ballroom now used as a dining room, and to the voluminous costumes of the women, who are all to go attired after the fashion of fifty and sixty years ago, when crinolines were the rage.

As far as possible, the invitations have been limited to the descendants of those who used to take part in the old Assembly Balls. The married women will do for the occasion the broadcades which were in vogue during the fourth decade of the nineteenth century, and the young girls will come in frocks of tatarian.

The floor of the ballroom will be covered for the occasion with oilcloth, precisely as it was a century ago, and the men, in ruffled shirts, with stocks, tight fitting trousers laced at the ankles, white socks and pumps, will look as if they stepped out of Thackeray's or Charles Dickens' novels.

Ready to Recuperate.

Now that the opera season has been brought to a close, society will feel itself more free to make brief stays at Lakewood, Tuxedo, Ardley, and other suburban resorts in order to recuperate from the fatigue of a particularly gay winter and early spring and to prepare for what promises to be a very brilliant and busy post-Easter season. As long as the opera was in the performance on the subscription nights, not so much for the sake of the music as for the purpose of meeting friends and acquaintances, and this kept them in town.

Quite a number have gone to their places on Long Island, where hunting is now in full progress under the mastership of Peter Fenelon Collier, and recovered from her automobile accident, is once more in the saddle. In town Alfred Vanderbilt and Reginald Rife are often to be met breaking in their new horses in preparation for the coaching season, which opens on Easter Monday, just a month off.

GALBRAITH A. M. E. CHURCH HAS GOLDEN JUBILEE

The third meeting of the fiftieth anniversary and golden jubilee of Galbraith A. M. E. Zion Church, on Sixth Street northwest, was held recently. The Rev. Dr. S. L. Corrothers, the pastor, conducted the devotional exercises, after which he introduced the Rev. Dr. Rosser, the pastor of Miss Memorial C. M. E. Church, who preached a sermon in which he illustrated the origin and meaning of a Christian jubilee. At the conclusion of the sermon Miss M. E. Boozing sang a solo, entitled "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Dr. Corrothers followed in a short address in which he urged everybody to be employed if he wished to be successful.

ELEPHANT SLEIGH PARTY STARTLES FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK, March 17.—An elephant sleigh party—the first recorded in history and contrary to all the accepted ideas of circus men, who have in the past availed that a pachyderm was helpless on snow—started from the Hippodrome here, creating a sensation on Fifth Avenue and interrupting traffic on Broadway.

The sleigh ride was the result of a bet by Frederic Thompson and W. W. Powers, whose elephants are now performing at the Hippodrome, as to the ability of a pachyderm to draw a load. A dozen chorus girls entered a sleigh to which was harnessed Jennie, one of Mrs. Powers' herd, and went through Forty-third Street to Fifth Avenue, thence to Fifth Street and Broadway to the Hotel Astor, where breakfast was served.

Society News and Chat of the Week

Clayton, Dr. Charles Clinton Swisher, of George Washington University, and Mr. Smalley.

Senator and Mrs. Dryden had at dinner with them last night as guests of honor the German Ambassador and Baroness von Sternburg. Others of the party were Justice McKenna, the Swiss Minister, Senator Dillingham, Colonel and Mrs. Brownell, Commissioner and Mrs. James R. Garfield, Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon-Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Townsend, Miss Sherrill, Miss Langham, Miss Briggs, Mr. Hobart, and Colonel and Mrs. Kuser.

Another dinner party of last night was entertained by General and Mrs. Draper, who had as guests the Brazilian Ambassador and Mme. Nabuco, the Minister from Norway and Mme. Hauga, Senator Brandegee, Representative and Mrs. Weeks, Representative and Mrs. Lamar, Colonel and Mrs. Symons, Dr. and Mrs. St. George Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. James Marion Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. William Corcoran, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee, Mrs. Audreid, Mrs. Hinkley, and Captain Clover. In honor of St. Patrick's Day the table decorations were entirely of shamrocks and fairyleaf ferns.

Mrs. Smart, wife of Lieut. Robert Smart, medical department, United States Army, entertained at luncheon on Tuesday, March 14, at Fort Myer, Va. Her guests were Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mrs. Charles F. Humphrey, Mrs. John R. Williams, Mrs. Alexander Magruder and Mrs. William Becknap.

Stag dinners assume more and more importance as the season wears on, and there were an unusually large number during the past week. Of course, Spicard Cannon's dinner to the Gridiron Club was biggest and most prominent and by far most brilliant, and there were others which were well worth remembering.

Representative William B. McKinley's dinner in honor of President James, of the University of Illinois, when the Speaker of the House was present, called together a congenial party.

There were several smaller dinner parties, among which was that at the Berkshire, when Allen D. Albert was most entertaining among other guests Representative McKinley, Henry Beach Needham, Representative Newton W. Gilbert of Indiana, recently appointed Federal Judge of the Philippines, Lincoln Stephens, of the Panama Canal, and John C. Eversman.

Another smaller dinner, or Dutch supper, with a decidedly literary and professional tone, was that given by William C. Millsap, formerly of Boston, for William Toland, the talented Boston vocalist, who spent the week here. The supper followed a theater party, and Mr. Toland met C. Clark Hall, who played at the Belasco last week; Murray C. Girford, Buffalo, N. Y.; Ernest McElwain, Rochester, N. Y.; Clarence Strong, Washington; Charles Loaring, of Boston; Charles Anderson, Rochester, and Malcolm de Corsey, Dr. William Crowley, and Prof. Henry Davis all of Washington.

Entertainments.

The Ball of the States, to be given at the Arlington Hotel Thursday night, March 22, under the auspices of the Women's League, for the benefit of the Junior Republic, has excited no end of rivalry. A prize was offered to the State having the most members of its population present—a matter easily determined, as each ticket when presented will bear the name of the holder. So far Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, New York, Kentucky, Texas, Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia are in advance, with other States following quite closely. Considerable State pride is being evincing, and the contest will be a close one.

The list of patronesses include a large number of prominent women of Washington, as well as many in official society. Named with the patronesses and heading the list is Mrs. Dewey and Mrs. Edward Everett Hale, while from the Senate are Mesdames Shelby, M. Cullom, George P. Wetmore, Joseph B. Foraker, Jacob H. Gallinger, John F. Dryden, Charles Dick, Frank P. Flint, Lee S. Overman, Robert M. La Follette, Knute Nelson, George Sutherland, James McCreary, Weldon B. Heyburn, Eugene Hale, Seneca M. Payne, Morgan G. Bulkeley, Charles W. Fulton, Henry B. Elkins, Thomas S. Martin, Stephen B. Burrows, Henry Cabot Lodge, Julius C. Burham, Henry M. Teller, Asbury C. Latimer, Benjamin R. Tillman.

Miss Cannon heads the list of patronesses from the House, as follows: Mesdames George A. Loud, Sylvester C. Smith, John Dalzell, Mrs. Jesse Overbell, E. S. Alexander, H. W. Campbell, Adolph Meyer, William H. Wiley, Charles B. Howry, Henry Noble Couden, Charles O. Turrell, Edmund W. Samuel, Pleasant T. Chapman, Benjamin G. Dawes, J. Van V. Olcott, Benjamin F. Howell, James McKinley, James Y. McCleary, Duncan E. McKinlay, Andrew J. Barchfield, Elias Deener, Henry T. Rainey, Ebenezer J. Phillips, Champ Clark, John Sharp Williams, Sydney J. Bowls, J. Sloat Fassett, Henry B. Brown, Thomas F. Marshall, E. A. Hayes, C. L. Knapp, George F. Huff, H. Stevenson, George R. Valdo, G. E. Foss, and William H. Graham.

A large reception was held last Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Goddard, to announce the engagement of their daughter, Ann Elizabeth, to Roger M. Hornell, of Cincinnati, Ohio. The drawing rooms were beautifully decorated with palms and cut flowers. During the evening an orchestra played a number of well selected numbers. A buffet supper was served at a late hour, from an artistically decorated table. A number of guests called during the evening to offer their congratulations to the happy couple. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Mrs. Isaac W. Nordlinger, of 1941 Biltmore street, entertained sixteen little friends at a Buster Brown party on Thursday afternoon, in honor of the sixth birthday of her son, Allan. Everything was prettily decorated in pink and the table had strewn upon it after a spirited game of Buster Brown, with little Marian Wolf as prize winner, a dainty repast was served.

An enjoyable performance was given Friday evening at St. Elizabeth's by Mrs. Hart's Dramatic and Vaudeville Company. Solos were rendered by Miss Flora Bernheimer and Messrs. Kraft and Hill. Miss Bernheimer has one of the sweetest and best contralto voices in the city. Those taking part in the vaudeville sketches deserve commendation. They were the Misses Hart and Lawson, and Messrs. Rensch, Grant, Boyce, Pridgeon, Hart and Dye. Those successfully carrying parts in the Parable of the Virgin in four tableaux were the Misses Bernheimer, Williams, Lawson, Pindell, Bertha and Lula Warfield, Fowler, French and the Leathe sisters.

Continental Chapter held a euchre party Thursday, March 15, at the residence of Mrs. Thomas O. Taylor, 1817 Thirteenth Street. The beautiful rooms were embellished by the draping of the flags and palms, ferns, and roses were much in evidence. There were thirty prizes besides a grab bag, which furnished much amusement.

The High View Pleasure Club held its regular semi-monthly meeting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Hill, 509 F Street northeast on Tuesday, March 13. There was a full attendance of members and two new applications were received.

After a business meeting several amusing and novel games were indulged in. Prizes were won by John Brecht, Joseph Brown, Miss Ella Lawrenson, Mrs. F. A. Eberle. The booby prizes went to Clinton Brown and Alice Kramer.

The club will give its third dance and supper at High View Cottage on Tuesday evening, March 27. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Hill, Mr. and Mrs. John Wells, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Eberle, Mr. and Mrs. John Brecht, Mr. and Mrs. Vanderschaaf, Misses Carrie and Ella Lawrenson, Carrie and Alice Kramer, Agnes Stewart, Lula Wahling, and E. K. Plant, A. J. Davis, Joseph Brown, Clinton Brown, Ralph Bricker, Bernard Wells, Robert Brecht, and John Tolliver.

John Trede and sister entertained Thursday night at their home, 614 D Street southwest, the members of the St. Mark's Lutheran bowling team of the Interdenominational Bowling League. Those present were the Misses Ethel Noack, Nettie Kluge, Emma Strobel, Barbara Teagle, and Mrs. Noack and Mrs. Fellinger, and August Friedrichs, Henry Sunwald, Le Roy Kluge, Harry Fellinger, Frank Voehl, Fred Fellinger, and the Rev. J. Luther Franz.

Mrs. M. H. Myers and Miss Hewitt entertained the Mt. Holyoke College Alumnae Association Wednesday afternoon at Stoneleigh Court. The program consisted of two papers on Hawaii by Miss Goulding and Mrs. J. A. Le Clerc. The former dwelt upon the geology of the islands, and related some of her interesting experiences in mountain climbing while there. Mrs. Le Clerc spoke in detail of the character and customs of the people whom she came to know intimately while teaching in Honolulu.

The papers were illustrated by charming photographs. At the close of the program tea was served.

LOVER QUITS WORK TO SEARCH FOR FIANCEE

Telephone Girl Writes She is Ill at Hospital and Then Drops From Sight.

NEW MILFORD, Conn., March 17.—The mysterious disappearance of Minnie Estelle Cowles, formerly operator and manager of the telephone station at this place, has alarmed her friends and relatives. Her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Stow, of Plainville, have been in New York for some days searching for her. Today her fiancé, John W. Tyrol, a bookkeeper in the Scottish Union and National Insurance Company, of Hartford, went to New York to assist in the search.

Miss Cowles, who is twenty-eight years of age, had been in the telephone office here since February 1, coming here from the Southington office. March 3 she asked for a leave of absence because of a slight illness and went to the home of her mother, Mrs. Ellen Cowles, in Forestville. She remained at home until March 7, when she started for New Milford. Since then nothing has been seen of her.

Later, her mother received a letter from New York in which the young woman said she had seen a physician with typhoid fever and ought to go to the hospital. She said she resolved to go to St. John's Hospital, Brooklyn. Friends also received letters from her, all dated New York. Replies were sent by her mother and friends to the letters, but they heard nothing more and so went to New York. They did not find her at the hospital and are at a loss to understand her strange disappearance.

CAT IN PIANO PLAYED SOLOS AT MIDNIGHT

RISEING SUN, Pa., March 17.—When Jacob Houseman's piano began apparently to play itself in his parlor, near Eagle Point, at midnight, Jacob reluctantly got out of bed, reached for his gun, and declared: "Well, if it's ghosts, we'll have it out right now."

Descending the stairs cautiously on tiptoe, he silently opened the parlor door, only to find that the piano, right there before him, kept on playing, without a finger on the keys! Jacob's first impulse was to blaze away; but he thought of the cost of the piano, and of the feelings of his aroused family upstairs, and discretion got the better of his valor.

He cautiously opened the top of the piano, and out jumped the gladiest cat that was ever released from musical "trappings" of the other sort. Puss had evidently "smelled a mouse," and thought she smelled it in the piano. Observing her mistake, she had pranced across the hall and wires in the most unconventional fashion.

FLOOR CARRIES DANCERS INTO BURNING STABLE

Many Bodies in Barn in Tuscano Cannot Be Identified, But Eighteen Are Missing.

ROME, March 17.—Eighteen people are believed to have been burnt to death in a remarkable catastrophe at Fucecchio, Tuscany. A dance was being held in a hall above a stable. While the dancers were enjoying themselves a fire broke out in the stable. It burnt for some time before being discovered, and a blaze was in progress when the alarm was finally given. Some of the dancers rushed out of the room, and several terror-stricken girls threw themselves from windows. The majority of the dancers were still in the room, however, and the orchestra was still playing, when the floor suddenly collapsed and precipitated them into the fiery furnace below.

It is impossible to identify all the bodies, but eighteen persons are missing.

OLD MAN WILL RELINQUISH YOUNG WIFE TO HIS SON

CHICAGO, Ill., March 17.—Romantic love for her stepson and aversion to her middle-aged husband were admitted by Mrs. Bertha Twitchell in Judge Ewen's court. She frankly admitted that after pleading herself to honor and obey Watson H. Twitchell she had lost her heart to the junior member of the household. Married to gray hair and fifty-six years, she discovered after a few weeks of wedded life that the twenty-seven years of the young man to whom she had contracted to be a mother possessed charms which she only twenty-four years old herself could not resist.
