REBUILDING SALE

In the three days of its duration this sale has proven the greatest event in Washington mercantile annals. The crowds that have responded to our announcements have been the largest that ever came in answer to any local sale-news—and the values we are giving are beyond a doubt the strongest ever offered any public. This sale is now one "in name only"—it's a forced occurrence. Our business has grown until more floor space is demanded—and the contractors insist upon having the rooms in thirty days.

Look for the Red Tickets
They denote the greatest bargains ever offered in the city.

We are going to take in the two floors above our present establishments—810, 812, 814, and 816 Seventh Street. We are going to install new elevators, cash carriers, and delivery systems—everything, in short, that will tend to make this an ideal department store in every respect. New departments will be added and old ones enlarged. To do all this the builders must get to work with great rapidity. Every article in this stock must be sold at once—not old goods, but goods bought for this spring and summer season.

REMARKABLE EMBROIDERY SALE

This is an exceptional sale in two respects. Originally this lot of Embroideries was purchased at a special figure for delivery June first. The order was placed last January, and the shipment has just arrived. When we closed the deal we estimated it one of the biggest value-giving events in the history of this department—but the goods coming at this time makes us give even greater values than intended. The builders demand the room in thirty days—so everything must go. We can take no chances with this purchase, so cut the prices right at the start. A cut, remember, on prices that were supposed to be the lowest ever quoted in this city.
