

Hyattsville

A special meeting of the town council was held on Monday evening, when an invitation was received from the Brentwood Fire Department requesting the council to attend in a body the carnival and fête which will be held on September 12-15, inclusive. The council accepted and elected Tuesday evening as the date.

Councilman John Devlin announced his resignation from the council. A report was received from the samples of water recently submitted to the State board of health for a bacteriological examination. The analysis shows an entire absence of germs. A chemical analysis made by Prof. Patterson proves the fact that there was a surplus of iron in the water since the connection with the new artesian wells is unaccounted for. The report states that there is no appreciable increase in the proportion of iron and that there is a much smaller percentage of mineral matter in Hyattsville water than in the majority of the towns in the State.

A FIELD MARSHAL OF THRIFT.

Harper's Weekly, reviewing Russell Sage's life, calls him a field marshal of thrift, rather than a great captain of industry. It says:

Russell Sage was nothing momentous as a captain of industry, but he was a field marshal of thrift. He was an amusing person, neutral-tinted as to most things, and of no account for its own sake, and good at getting and keeping it. The most significant fact that is back of the careers of most of the great money-getters is that they wanted money early and wanted it very much. It was so with Uncle Russell. He was poor when he came to New York (in 1833), his mind that he would not be poor when he was grown up. Accordingly, he worked hard and was very saving. Moreover, he was smart, a great deal smarter than common. What he put his hand to, went. He was successful as a grocer's clerk, a grocer, a trader and a politician. He bought and sold horses in the intervals of business, and made money even at that. One day a better notion of the quality of the man from reading about the first half of his life, when he lived in Troy, and was saying the foundations of his fortune, than about the last half, spent in New York, for he was ready a rich man when he came to New York (in 1833). It was his misfortune that he learned so thoroughly to save money that he had not left in him the power to learn to spend it. That is one of the risks of forming early habits of thrift.

HIATUS. "Our engagement will have to be temporarily suspended," announced the summer girl, calmly. "Oh, impossible," the young man vowed. "It will have to be. My husband writes that he is coming down for a week."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

THEATRICAL NEWS AND CHAT

especially for this engagement. That all her old friends will be there to see her is an assured fact and she will undoubtedly add many new ones to her already long list.

National Tonight—Creator's Concert.

Creator's concert at the New National Theater tonight will mark the first appearance in Washington of this popular conductor since his triumphant tour in England. In England, where his solo work was extended for a period of several weeks, his success was very great, and the critics were exceedingly generous in praise for the masterful way in which he controlled his men, and for the general excellence of the artists of his band.

Some important additions to his band. Creator is well known and well liked in Washington, and indications point to a large attendance tonight when a specially selected program will be rendered:

March, "No Name" (new).....Creator
"William Tell".....Rossini
Serenade.....Schubert
Hungarian Rhapsodie No. 1.....Liszt
Arabian Dance.....Tchaikowsky
"Chinese Dance".....Tchaikowsky
Harp solo, "Impromptu".....Oberthur
Overture, "Tannhauser".....Wagner

Lyceum—"The Avenue Girls"

The eternal demand for something new in the way of burlesque and vaudeville will be satisfactorily supplied by "The Avenue Girls," the popular Campbell-Dredger company's offering. The Lyceum will open a week's engagement at the New Lyceum commencing tomorrow matinee.

The performance will open with an amusing comedietta entitled "Tiger Springs"—a satire on the modern summer hotel resort. The vaudeville entertainers who will contribute specialties are Charles Johnson and company in the unique comedy sketch, "The New Instructor"; Elsie Lesue, a soprano, who can sing and dance; Olga Orloff, the accomplished singer and burlesque artist; Master McDonald, creators of mirth; Cunningham and Lord, the artistic song and dance artists; and Le Roy and Levanon, thrilling comedy exponents.

The entire performance will conclude with the topical farce "Get Rich and Quick" by the crew of finance, spot light on modern methods of finance.

Luna Park—"Press Night" Tomorrow.

A succession of special events will serve to make the present week one of unusual activity at Luna Park. The week will include features for the week include Zingarella, a daring little woman, who performs some sensational feats on a 12-foot spiral tower. Master Frank Hector, who will ride down the chutes incline twice each day, and the "Washington Band" under the able direction of John Boveally of Washington.

The thrill tower is said to be one of the most thrilling when compared to any of the Luna Park attractions of the season. Balanced on a globe nearly three feet in diameter she ascends to the top of the immense steel tower forcing her way along a narrow runway that is not wider than 18 inches. The act is said to be replete with thrilling specialties during the entire time that she is on the big globe.
