

THE SUNDAY TIMES IN GREAT DEMAND Tomorrow's Issue Is a Rare Feast for Readers' Eyes.

BEAUTIFUL COLOR PAGES.

Read About Washington's Auburn Haired Women Who Lead World in Beauty.

Interest in The Sunday Times has received a great impetus of late. Each successive Sunday finds such an array of entertainment in the magazine and other sections that the subscription list is fast growing.

Among the good things in tomorrow's issue, some are enumerated here. Any girl with the stamp of approval of the Bachelors' cotillon is a success. Striking lined half-tones of three of the season's most charming debutantes, who were belles at the Bachelors' cotillon last Wednesday night, are shown on the title page of the magazine section.

Restlessness, characterized by a seeking after new fads, new lines of thought and new gods, seems to pervade fashionable society. The very latest craze in Washington appears to be the study of Egyptian philosophy. Something about the doctrine and the mysterious teachings now in the city is told in the magazine of The Sunday Times.

A well known count—one who ought to be a judge of fair women—has declared that Washington leads the world in auburn-haired beauties. There always has been a subtle fascination in red-haired women. We are told that Silla, Adam's first wife (some hold Eve was his second choice), had flaming tresses. All through history women with red locks have helped make epochs. Some of them have spurred men to lofty ambitions, and some have caused their downfall. But always the "Tribian blonde" has been an object of admiration. Six of this city's most notable auburn-haired women are pictured in The Sunday Times magazine supplement.

You will be more than interested in reading in the Magazine Section of The Sunday Times how history is being made at present in Washington's "Chinatown." A big and important movement is afoot. Read all about it and see the pictures of some of the same.

It is known that the old-time "vodoo" superstition still is extant, in a modified form, among the colored people of Washington. It has even increased in the last decade, and many rich white people in this city today consult colored "witch doctors" on matters of importance. There is profit for the "doctors" in this trade, of which they are making the most.

It isn't generally known, but the Filipinos can give us cards and spades on the "little brown brother" has been at it for centuries, in the form of "witch doctors" on matters of importance. There is profit for the "doctors" in this trade, of which they are making the most.

A funny Frenchman who really has performed heroic feats savoring strongly of a super hero, is traveling in disguise through the United States for a special purpose. He is one of the world's most scientific men, and he will tell you when you learn about him through The Sunday Times Magazine Section.

Uncle Sam, disgusted at the attempts of manufacturers to get money out of him, has turned out maker himself. In the case of the construction of the huge Roosevelt dam in Arizona, he is saving the Western farmers $1,500,000 in this way.

Remember reading a few days ago about the uninvited guest who "budded" in at the Wash. Hotel? The appearance, a few days later, of the butler of a prominent family, which actual horse recital gave rise to the suspicion that the masked stranger was the same individual who invaded the select feast of harmony at the Raleigh. These episodes recalled other historic incidents in which Washington society has been grievously tricked by frauds.

Maybe you think the "Slash job" is an easy one. It is, for a moment. But then, you know, "uncasy lies the head that wears a crown." When Ali Mohammed Mirzah, or Mohammed Ali Mirzah, take your pick, the "Slash" ascends the $100,000 peak of throne of his late father. February 2, he will come into some rather oppressive splendor.

They're doing all sorts of queer things in photography nowadays. In the last sixty-six years there has been such a remarkable advance in the art that you will be surprised when you read of it in the Magazine Section of The Sunday Times.

"The Lion and the Mouse," the much advertised story by Charles King, and Arthur Hornblow, begins in this Sunday's Magazine Section of The Times. It's a winner. You can't afford to miss it, as everyone is talking about it.

Those who have been accustomed to read W. W. Jacobs' short stories of English water front life, will be glad to know that the entertaining series still is running in The Sunday Times. "The Resurrection of Wiggert," published this Sunday, is one of the best.

On the editorial page of The Sunday Times, Edward B. Warman, the eminent psychologist and hygienist, tells all about mind reading in an absorbing article in his series, "Fads, Facts, and Fallacies."

As regards telegraph, cable, local, and sporting news, The Sunday Times can't be approached by any other paper published in this city.

There will be fashion pages, as usual, for the women, showing up-to-date styles and giving plenty of useful household hints.

Thaw Wins Entire Family Over; Unwritten Law is His Defense

THE COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH.

Countess of Yarmouth Arrives For Trial Beginning Wednesday.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Harry Thaw has won the fight of his life and on this victory he bases his freedom. He has won over his lawyers, his devoted wife and mother, his sister, the Countess of Yarmouth, and every one connected with his welfare.

Thaw will go to trial next Wednesday for the murder of Stanford White with the full determination to expose to the jury the details of the outrages he alleges he suffered at the hands of White.

He will appeal to each juror, man to man, to decide whether the tragedy of the Madison Square Roof Garden was justified or not.

Thaw relies entirely on the "unwritten law" to secure his freedom. For seven long months in his cell in the Tombs he has stanchly combated the efforts of the Whites to get him to confess.

He has repeatedly said that he was in his right mind when he was goaded to visit the prison. With the coming of the countess, the Thaw family is all together and will be with Harry during the entire trial.

When Harry Thaw read early today the statement in the newspapers that all the family would stand by him to the end he cried like a child. Harry has never forgiven himself for his actions at the time of his sister's marriage to the Earl of Yarmouth.

Mrs. William Thaw, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, and the Countess of Yarmouth held a conference at the Lorraine hotel leaving for the Tombs. It is understood that none of the Thaw family will seek to change any plan of the defense now agreed upon by Thaw and his lawyers.

Brother and Sister Reunited. Thaw and his sister were reunited today in the gloomy corridors of the Tombs prison. Family differences were rolled away in a fond embrace and the sister of brother and sister in the presence of Mrs. William Thaw, the mother, and Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the wife.

"I am glad that you have come," said the young man, and the sister replied with a kiss.

Mrs. William Thaw, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, and the countess left the Lorraine Hotel shortly before 10 o'clock and proceeded to the Tombs. When the Thaw family arrived in front of the Tombs, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw jumped from the carriage and held the door while Mrs. Thaw and the countess alighted.

The Visitors Searched. The Thaws were taken to the searching room where the countess was searched, according to prison rules, by Matron Fitzpatrick, after which the countess signed her name "Countess of Yarmouth" on the visitors' blotter. Led by Mrs. William Thaw, the women started upstairs to the corridor where Harry Thaw's cell is located.

LABORER FINDS GOLD IN RAZED BUILDING. MILLVILLE, N. J., Jan. 18.—A number of Italians were engaged in razing an old stone building here when Dominick Lascoszo, a laborer found a box which contained a large sum of money in gold. The building was erected in 1768 by the owners of an iron foundry. The Italian was using a crowbar against the side of the old vault when his bar struck and split a heavy box of hard wood.

Several gold coins fell out. He gathered them up, and when last seen was hurrying toward his home. The owners of the building at once sent men in pursuit, but Lascoszo succeeded in eluding them. His wife said he was not at home, and standing in the door with a knife, defied anyone to enter.

DRUG STORE, AS IF CHRIST'S, BUILDS UP A RICH TRADE

Chicago Owner Refuses to Sell Cigars at Any Price, Keeps Sabbath Day Holy, and Finds it Pays to Do As He Thinks Jesus Would.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—There is a drug store that is being successfully conducted by a man who is guided in all things by the question, "What would Jesus do?"—in other words, on the principles set forth by the Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, of Topeka, Kan., in his book "In His Steps; or, What Would Jesus Do?"

The owner is Oliver J. Freeman, and the store is at 1127 Sheffield avenue. At first he found the road rough, but today he has passed the experimental stage, and has a paying business.

No Cigars Sold. Cigars and tobacco cannot be purchased in Mr. Oliver's store at any price. They are not in the stock. Nothing can be purchased on the Sabbath except prescriptions that are absolutely necessary. Not even a coughdrop or a stick of gum is sold on the Sabbath, and telephone service is not permitted on that day, except to call physicians in urgent cases.

In each of the display windows a sign is strung each Sunday, which reads "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy. Nothing but necessary articles sold on Sunday." And that rule is rigidly enforced by Mr. Freeman.

Mr. Freeman has followed this principle for years, and he is emphatic in the declaration that it pays. Although his store is almost in the extreme northern part of the city, he enjoys a prosperous business.

His prices are probably higher than those of any of the other outlying drug stores, but his receipts equal those of some of the drugstores in the downtown district. Ten clerks are kept busy week days.

"I let the Bible govern my business, my family, and all my affairs, and I assure you it governs very well, indeed. For years I have conducted my business as I believed Jesus would have it conducted."

"My store is closed on the Sabbath to all business except the filling of absolutely necessary and urgent prescriptions. I do not sell tobacco in any form. I must confess that I found it difficult to bring my ideas into practical use at first. I have lost many customers because I have steadily refused to be swayed."

"However, the gain over the losses was such that the business slowly grew, until ten clerks are kept busy. Some customers insisted on being served with cigars and left angrily on learning that I kept no tobacco on sale. Others insisted on buying unnecessary articles on the Sabbath, but I stuck steadily to my resolutions."

Penniless at Start. "I came to Chicago in 1891 penniless and almost friendless—I was married—and my brother lent me $2,000, and with that capital I started in business; where I am now located. My business has been confined to this particular locality since I started. Almost all my patronage comes from regular customers, who agree with me in my views. I am a member of the Methodist Church."

LETCHMERE IS WANTED BY OHIO AUTHORITIES. Clarendon Henri, alias Edward Letchmere, accused of stealing from the National Museum, by direction of Chief Justice Cibaugh is to be turned over to the Ohio authorities to stand trial in Cincinnati, where he is charged with taking an oil painting from the museum in that city.

W. E. Ambrose, counsel for Henri, or Letchmere, opposed his extradition to Ohio and urged that he be held here for trial. Assistant District Attorney Harvey Given offered no objection to extradition and the order was made by the court. George W. Ryan, agent of Ohio, is expected here today to take Henri back to Ohio.

DANGER AUTO SIGNS WANTED IN DISTRICT. Some time ago the Superintendent of Police advocated the placing signs at certain street corners, directing drivers of teams and automobiles to "keep to the right," "go slow," and other similar admonitions. The matter has been brought to the attention of the Commissioners again, but as there is no money to be applied to such purposes, the Commissioners will take no action in the case.

Lashing Fails to Cool Music Teacher's Ardor

Devotion Wins Girl of His Choice Despite Efforts of Her Parents to Keep Them Apart, But Trouble Is Feared.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Jan. 18.—Taking advantage of the absence of the parents from home, Charles Lester Reimer sent the following dispatch to Charles R. Zacharias: "Marguerite and I were happily married last Sunday."

This tells in a nutshell of the elopement of Miss Marguerite Zacharias, daughter of one of the most prominent business men of this place, with Charles Lester Reimer and ends a romance that has been the gossip of the town for four years. The parents of the girl have tried to rid her of her infatuation, and thought they had been successful.

Miss Zacharias was sent away to a boarding house in northern New York to keep her from Reimer. He found her, however, and in less than a week they were married. Some time ago, after the girl had been sent away and brought back, Zacharias heard that the music teacher was meeting his daughter clandestinely. Remonstrances were of no avail, and at last the father horsewhipped Reimer, who instituted proceedings, but later Reimer keeps a music store here, and is said to be none too popular. Endeavors of Zacharias' friends are now directed toward preventing a meeting between him and his son-in-law, as it is feared that should they come together bloodshed would result.

HALLECK'S CRIME MENTAL DELUSION

Washington Man Surrendering as Deserter Will Come Home.

Confirming the boy's telegram to his father recently that he had surrendered himself as a deserter, Major Walter F. Halleck, of the Interior Department, received this morning a letter from police headquarters in Dunkirk, N. Y., stating that a young man giving his name as Winfield Halleck had given himself up to the Twenty-seventh Infantry, Company I.

This letter, however, stated that the authorities had made inquiries and were unable to find where the prisoner had ever enlisted a second time. "We have questioned the boy closely," continued the letter, "and while he does not admit his statements are untrue, he says he may be mistaken in saying he is a deserter. Although he converses well and appears educated it seems to us that he is mentally unbalanced in some respects. We shall therefore detain him until we hear from you, as he is practically without clothing and has no money, and we deem it proper that you, as his father, should know of his condition."

The letter, said Major Halleck, "bears out the statement I made yesterday. My boy has never joined the hospital corps in the Philippines, and in his weak condition has simply imagined himself a deserter and surrendered to the authorities in order to get clothing and food."

"Yes, I shall send money to Dunkirk today and have it supplied with clothes and sent to Washington. On his arrival I will make arrangements with the War Department to place him in a hospital for sanitarium until he recovers his health and full mental vigor. There will be no difficulty about this as the department is fully aware of the fact that his condition is due to the spell of fever contracted while in the hospital corps in the Philippines."

Major Halleck stated that his son would probably reach Washington early next week and would be immediately taken to the Soldiers' Home and later by the physicians under the War Department.

Speaker Cannon has put a damper on the hopes of Southerners for the establishment of an Appalachian forest reserve by this Congress.

A big delegation, in which are Governor Glen, of North Carolina; Governor Floyd, of New Hampshire; Lieutenant Governor Prouty, of Vermont, and representatives of the governors of Maine, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island, is here seeking what it can do in the line of persuading Senators and Representatives to pass a bill providing for an Appalachian and White Mountain reserve.

When the governors and their party saw the Speaker of the House, Governor Glenn acted as spokesman. He pointed out the immense benefit such a reserve would bring to the Atlantic seaboard States and asked that the Speaker interest himself in the matter. All the Speaker would promise was that he would look over the official report on the subject.

He frankly gave it as his opinion that nothing would be done in the matter this session, saying too much money will have been appropriated within the next few weeks to allow of the expense of establishing the forest reserve.

BODY OF HOPKINS TO LIE IN STATE

Well Known Composer Succumbs to Stroke of Paralysis.

One of the veteran composers of the Government Printing Office, F. H. Hopkins, died yesterday at his residence, 721 First street northwest. His death was caused by a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. Hopkins came to this city from New York more than a quarter of a century ago, and for a number of years he worked at the case on Washington papers. For many years he worked on the New York Tribune, and was one of the few composers who could make time on Horace Greeley's copy. Mr. Hopkins often entertained his friends with stories of Greeley's eccentricities and the humorous errors that would show up in the proof when a new hand tackled the "old man's" copy.

Mr. Hopkins for the last twenty years was employed in Uncle Sam's big print shop, and was one of the popular "comps" in the first division. He was a member of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, and always took a lively interest in union affairs. He was a Mason, being a member of the Polar Star Lodge, A. A. M. of New York city. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the chapel of St. Mark's church, 404 H street northeast. The body will lie in state tomorrow.

DISTRICT REPAIR SHOP. Arrangements are being made to move the repair shop of the District from its present location at Thirtieth and D streets northwest, to Seventeenth and U streets northwest. This change was provided for in a recent bill that passed Congress appropriating $2,000 for that purpose.
