

MARVIN CASE
WITNESS LIST

HANDED OVER

Detective Lore Returns
and Gives Documents to the Jury.

DOVER, Del., April 30.—Frank J. Lore, the New Jersey detective, who caused a sensation a week ago by arresting Frank H. Butler, mate of the steamer John P. Wilson, charging him with the murder of Horace N. Marvin, jr., subsequently released by Attorney General Mitchell for lack of evidence—created excitement here when he reappeared and turned over to E. L. Clark, foreman of the Kent county grand jury, a list of eighteen witnesses, together with a roll of typewritten evidence, which he has secured in the Marvin case.

Comment on Arrival.
Lore, who left Dover in a huff after Butler was released, would not return. It was said, unless he was wanted, but his unexpected appearance has given much room for comment. Who the witnesses are and what the papers contain is unknown. It is said Mr. Clark has no authority to reconvene the grand jury while the court is not sitting, but as he will remain foreman of the jury throughout the year, he can impound the papers and retain the list of witnesses.

Keen Rivalry Is Said to Exist between the Pinkerton men and the State detectives employed in the case, as the former believe the boy was kidnapped and is being held for a ransom, while the latter declare the child is dead.

Dragging the Bay.
Working on the latter theory, a large force of men today are dragging Delaware bay in front of the Marvin farm, Kitts Hammock, and Bowers Beach.

Detective Demio, who was placed in charge of the case by General Superintendent Beane, of the Pinkerton Detective Agency, of Philadelphia, is still working on the kidnapping theory.

Drag Delaware;
Search for Body
Of Marvin Child

DOVER, Del., April 30.—A force of men dragged the Delaware bay from the shore between Greenbanks landing, on the northern end of the Marvin farm, and as far south as Bowers Beach. The search was instituted with the determination to thoroughly investigate the theory that little Horace Marvin's captors had put him in a bag or other wrapping and dropped him overboard.

The Delaware bay in front of Bay Meadows farm is exceptionally shallow, and fishermen hauling there and at Kitts Hammock, frequently waded out nearly a half mile and drag one end of the net. It is understood that the search was under the supervision of Pinkerton Detective Demio. Detective Lore left last night to return when wanted.

Critics of Attorney General Richards, who summarily released the first suspect arrested in this county, were talking of clubbing together and raising the necessary funds, if any are required, to employ Lore and then cause the necessary arrest, and taking the accused before Associate Judge Penwell, of the supreme court, who would clear all the evidence.

GEORGETOWN NEWS

A minstrel show and entertainment was held at Trinity Hall, on N street, near Thirty-fifth street, northwest, under the musical direction of Prof. George Herbert Wells, organist and choirmaster of Holy Trinity Church. Among those who participated, besides the boys of Trinity Parochial School, were Charles Cox, Jules B. Aveline, Leonard Wood, Frank Gross, Joseph Kuhn, Andrew Cummings, Mrs. W. Keye Miller, Clarence Ashton and Mrs. A. Ashton.

Miss Louise McKinley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. McKinley, of 3511 O street northwest, died very suddenly at her home, as the result of heart trouble, superinduced by a severe fighting spell.

Requiem mass was chanted this morning at Holy Trinity Catholic Church, corner Thirty-fifth and O streets, northwest, over the remains of Howard Helmick, who for a number of years resided at 2555 N street northwest. Mr. Helmick was an artist, and was the father of William Helmick, of the Postoffice Department.

The funeral of Harry Kronheimer, of Georgetown, who died on Sunday at his home on M street, after a long illness, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from his residence, Rabbi Simon officiating. The interment was made in the Jewish Cemetery. The pallbearers were selected from the members of the National Lodge of Masons, the Jewish Society and the members of the firm of Saks & Co., where Mr. Kronheimer was employed for nearly half a century.

The steel girder bridge, which is being constructed over Rock Creek at K street, Georgetown, is rapidly nearing completion. The new bridge when completed will be a solid, substantial structure. The total cost will be about $40,000.

POWERS WATCH
EXTENDED TEST OF SUBMARINES

NEWPORT, R. I., April 30.—Not a little interest added to the preparations for the official test of the submarine boats Lake and Octopus, scheduled for today, by the news which had been quietly noised about that secret representatives of half a dozen of the great powers are in Newport to secure information and data about the little under-sea fighters. Strangers who manifested exceptional interest were viewed with a great deal of suspicion.

Twenty-four-Hour Test.

Naval experts and submarine builders by the score were on the scene early and there were many predictions as to how the test would result. Members of the submarine naval trial board arrived yesterday afternoon and spent several hours in examination of the machinery and equipment of the two little boats. Captain Mix is head of the board. On the report the members make will depend the awarding of contracts for the $3,000,000 recently appropriated for submarines. The test provides that the boats shall remain under water four hours before coming to the surface. Then they will rise and go down again for twenty hours, making twenty-four hours in all beneath the bay.

One Sinker, One Diver.

A strong guard of gunboats and launches will patrol the waters near the submarines while they are out of sight, to prevent accidents. As a part of the test torpedoes will be fired at moving targets. The boats must demonstrate they are the equal of those now in use if contracts for such types of boats are to be awarded. The Octopus, unlike most submarines, does not dive but sinks. The Lake is a diver and shoots to the surface when ready. A new feature of this submarine is a diving compartment from which a diver can be sent out from the boat.

TELLS THE COURT
WIFE BEATS HIM

ST. LOUIS, April 30.—John Zachariah Miller, weight 110 pounds, wants a divorce from his wife, Maria, weight 165, and an injunction to prevent her from annoying him in the future. He filed the suit in the city court, East St. Louis, and alleges that his wife hit him with a club, a skillet, an earthen crock, threw a rock at him, and chased him out of the house with a knife. He says his wife has repeatedly threatened to kill him, and, as she is a large, husky woman, he believes she will do so unless the court enjoins her. Miller says they were married in October, 1890, and separated April 15, 1907. He charges that she refused to prepare meals for him.

FRENCH STORK LAZY.

NEW FEATURES
SEEN AT CIRCUS

Thousands of Washington People Munch Peanuts and Drink Pink Lemonade.

"Fighting the Flames" Very Realistic and Wins Unstinted Applause.

Perched on high board seats, munching peanuts and washing them down with red lemonade, Washington saw the circus last night. Forepaugh & Sells Brothers offer much that is novel and disprove the old adage of "see one circus you see them all." Washingtonians flocked to Fifteenth and H streets northeast in droves, and each ear that was bound circumsound was packed and jammed until breathing space was at a premium.

Many diplomats attended. Conspicuous among them was the Japanese ambassador and family. Society was out in force and rubbed elbows with the hot-polio. Everyone wanted to see the circus and was oblivious of the surroundings and environments.

The grand entree, headed by a band followed by standard bearers, a sordid of court attendants, a beautiful equestrienne riding one white horse and driving another, rough riders, jockeys, women riding astride, boys on ponies, clowns in outlandish costumes, elephants, camels, and the fire department was a pageant never to be forgotten.

Child Statue Wins Applause.

The human statuary shown in the center ring was beautiful. Chief among the posters was a child about five years of age whose form was as rigid as marble and gestures highly artistic. "Rock of Ages" and "Christopher Columbus' Discovery of America" won the most applause, although "The Triumph of Love," "Cupid's Offering" and "The Seasons Passing in Review" were admirable also.

Fire Scene Realistic.

The fire scene is highly realistic and quite unique. The Hotel Stencil is rather a small building, but when it was enveloped in flames there was plenty going on to keep the firemen busy. An interesting and amusing sight was the fire engine, which had been quickly wrapped before the explosion which wrapped the hostelry in a sheet of flames. Engines, trucks, hose companies and the chief responded to the alarm. Firemen held a basket while one imprisoned woman leaped into it, a distance of fifty feet. One woman tore her hair and fought with policemen because he would not rush into the doomed building to save her child.

No one person ever saw all that went on in the three rings, on the two platforms and in the air. The fire scene was sufficient in front of each section of the stands to claim the attention of the spectators and send them away well satisfied.

There were a score or more clowns, playing tricks on the audience and keeping the crowd in a constant uproar. Several of them masqueraded as women and were highly amusing. One, particularly, a Dutch saloon was in front of the center ring, where he called attention to the fact that he never cracked a smile, but he walked around the ring bowing and scraping to those who sent up the cheers.

Clever Contortion Act.

A clever act was witnessed on the center platform, the contortionist leaping from one horizontal bar to another and finally climbing a flight of stairs on his hands. The climax of his act consisted in supporting his body in mid-air by his arms, and beating a tambourine with both hands. The barback riding was excellent, none cleverer than that exhibited in the center ring ever having been seen in Washington. The trapeze performers, tight rope and slack wire artists claiming their share of attention. The bears who rode bicycles, hobby horses and stood on their heads were immensely amusing.

THIRTEEN THOUSAND JOBS
CREATED BY CONGRESS;
SALARIES $8,851,759

Beyond the $920,798,143 Specifically Appropriated Are $67,934,349 More.

By the appropriation bills passed in the last session of Congress, and taking effect July next, 13,339 new jobs under the Government are created today according to the annual statement of the Senate Committee on Appropriations in relation to such matters.

By the same bills, 5,674 jobs or offices are done away with, making the net increase of Government jobs 13,339, with an increased salary list of $8,851,759.16. Of the net increase of jobs and offices, 14 are for Congress, 76 for the Government Printing Office, 15 for the Department of State, 65 for the Treasury Department, 3 for the War Department, 9 for the Navy Department, 56 for the Postoffice Department, 53 for the Department of Commerce and Labor, 100 for the Department of Agriculture, 131 for the Government of the District of Columbia, 23 for the Coast Survey, 14 for the Bureau of Fisheries, 5 for the Diplomatic and Consular Service, 6,439 for the Coast and Field Artillery of the army, 1,509 for enlisted men of the navy, and 41 others for the naval establishment, 4,770 for the postal service, including 186 assistant postmasters, 2,355 clerks in postoffices, and 1,239 railway postal clerks.

Increase in Salary List.
Deducting from the net increase of 13,339 new salaries and employments the 6,439 coast and field artillerymen, 1,541 seamen and others for the naval establishment, and 4,770 additional employees for the postal service, there remain only 569 net increases in employments for all other departments and branches of the public service. The net number of salaries increased is 16,424, at an annual cost of $2,949,552.85. This number includes increases in the salaries of the Vice President, Speaker of the House of Representatives, 9 Cabinet officers, 30 Senators and 296 Representatives, and 34 employees of Congress; 15 salaries in the offices of the Assistant Treasurers; 11 in the Navy Department; 10 in the offices of the Department of the District of Columbia, 20 in the Diplomatic and Consular Service, 1,398 in the Coast and Field Artillery of the army, and 14,273 employees of the Railway Mail Service.

In addition to the foregoing salaries specifically increased, the statement also shows that by the legislation of the session it is estimated by the postal authorities that the annual compensation of 15,500 clerks in postoffices is increased in the aggregate 2,106,000; the annual salaries of 24,227 city letter carriers are increased approximately 2,000,000, and 25,000 rural letter carriers are increased from $720 to $900 each, at an annual cost of $4,647,500.

A comparison of the total appropriations made at the second session of the Fifty-ninth Congress for 1906, $29,787,345.80, with those of the first session of that Congress for 1907, $78,589,183.00, shows an increase of $48,801,837.20. In addition to the specific appropriations made, contracts are authorized to be entered into for certain public works requiring future appropriations by Congress in the aggregate sum of $7,534,349.

JANITORS' SUICIDE
AFTER LONG SPREE

John Rucker, employed as janitor at the Cochran Hotel, committed suicide at 6:30 o'clock this morning by taking gas. His body was discovered by employees of the hotel this morning stretched on a table with a tube connected with the gas jet in his mouth and a gunny sack over his head.

Those who were with Rucker on the previous evening say that he had been drinking heavily, and it is supposed that he killed himself in a fit of depression following a protracted debauch. Corporal Nevitt, who, with Policeman McGrath, arrived on the scene soon after the death, gave a verdict of death by suicide caused by asphyxiation.

The deed had evidently been done with the utmost deliberation, as Rucker had nailed up the door leading to the hall before turning on the gas. No letter or communication of any kind was found. The body will be removed to the morgue until the relatives, living at 1673 Gales street, can be notified.

GIRL IS TREED
BY BUCK DEER

WATERBURY, Conn., April 30.—Over in Winthrop a big buck deer was cavorting about the woods where children use a path to school. Mary Rossett, six years old, failed to return from school and a searching party found the girl on the limb of a tree, where she had climbed out of the way of the buck, which had chased her. She was nearly dead of fright in the darkness. The deer was pacing back and forth under the tree when the searchers arrived, but fled at their approach.

In Prospect, Andrew Hodges' overalls were taken away from a line on the horns of a deer, and with them a blanket.

Engine Kept Working for 1,000 Miles

Complete Success Attends the Non-Stop Run of the Oldsmobile Roadster.

The 1,000-mile non-stop run of the Oldsmobile gentleman's roadster came to an end at 6:30 a. m. today, in front of the Oldsmobile agency, 1701 Fourteenth street.

The run began Saturday at 9 a. m., and the time consumed in making the millennium of miles was 69 hours and 29 minutes. The record was made by the Oldsmobile in Philadelphia, and is 68 hours and 30 minutes, 50 minutes better than that made in Washington. John A. Lutz, the Washington agent for this machine, and John Fister, who alternated in three-hour watches in the long run, were aboard when the last mile was reeled off, and accompanying them were several witnesses.

The auto met with several accidents, but at no time was the engine stopped. Once a spring was broken so badly it had to be taken out, but the chugging continued right along. The same was true when an exhaust valve was broken and Mr. Fister replaced it. This latter was an especially creditable feat, as it was thought the journey would have to be completed on three sessions, no reason of those in the auto thinking the valve could be replaced without stopping the engine.

So well did the machine do that it was decided to keep it going all day today and reel off another couple of hundred miles just for luck. Mr. Fister said the engine was working even better today than it did when he started on Saturday and there seemed no reason why it should not continue for another week or so.

Mr. Lutz was loud in his praises of the courtesy and consideration extended him by the policemen of the city and counties while the test was in progress and said he wished to extend them the thanks of himself and the company.
