

brother, Edward Maguire, left the main body of searchers and went over the road which was taken when Miss Maguire was driven to the lake. Although they searched the adjacent woods and made inquiries at all the houses along the road, no trace was found.

Young Woman Found.
When late last night Edward Maguire and a young woman, who is a friend of Miss Maguire, were driving toward the Mt. Arlington station they were told at a farmhouse that a young woman answering the description of Miss Maguire had been seen late in the afternoon on a back road near the station. Procuring a lantern Edward Maguire went back alone and searched the neighborhood.

Several such clues were investigated, but brought no results, and it was not believed that after two days and nights in the woods the girl would be found wandering alone in the woods at that hour. It is thought that frightened and bewildered by the electrical storm of Saturday night, she may have fallen among the big rocks along the shore, and every where and injured herself so badly that she was unable to make her presence known and then fell into the lake. The mountain which forms the eastern shore of the lake, near where she disappeared, is extremely rugged.

PISTOL MATCHES BEGIN TOMORROW

Medals Given District Men for Work With Rifle.

CAMP PERRY, Port Clinton, Ohio, Aug. 25.—The final practice shots screamed down the range this afternoon before the national rifle matches open tomorrow morning to decide the team and individual pistol championship of America.

The last day's practice was for all teams alike, and was conducted by Lieut. Col. R. K. Evans, U. S. A., the executive officer, as nearly as possible under match conditions. At 8 o'clock the skirmishing began. From the skirmish range the teams went to the 50-yard target and ended the work at the 100-yard butts.

In the Wimbledon cup match, which Captain Casey, of Delaware, won by a score of 83, District of Columbia contestants scored as follows: Lieut. Col. L. H. Reichelderfer, 60; Lieut. F. H. Heldenreich, 57; Lieut. F. W. Holt, 62; Sergt. Maj. P. Biscourt, 62; Capt. W. W. Cookson, 61; Lieut. Ralph Alderman, 56; Lieut. W. H. Farrow, 55; Sergt. C. E. Grooms, 50; Capt. Alex. Sumner, 49; Sergt. O. M. Schriver, 47; Capt. S. W. Forsythe, 45; Lieut. T. F. McAnally, 47; Lieut. C. M. Phelan, 28.

The following District riflemen have won the Ohio State Rifle Association's medal in Match B, 50 per cent match, by scoring 45 out of 50 at either 200, 300, 400, or 1,000 yards: Maj. Glendie B. Young, Lieut. H. C. Caldwell, Lieut. C. N. Putnam, and Lieut. P. C. Bischoff.

SUSPECT WAS NOT KEMP, McNAMEE TELEGRAPHS

"Suspect not J. Arthur Kemp."
Major Sylvester last night received the above message from Central Office Detective McNamee, who went to Logan, Va., to look at a man arrested in Holden, a small mining town near Logan, on suspicion of being the missing former chief clerk of the Washington Police Department.

McNamee left Washington late Sunday night and arrived in Logan last evening. The man arrested had been in Holden for two days and had been working in the mines. He answered the description of Kemp, and after the receipt of a telegram from Sheriff Moore announcing his arrest, it was thought Kemp had been mistaken for Kemp.

Kemp's most intimate friends, however, are of the opinion that he has left the country, and this belief is shared by many officials of the department.

TUBERCULOSIS CATTLE SENT INTO ARGENTINE

Argentina's immense frozen meat trade and her cattle business with Great Britain is threatened a severe blow as the result of the discovery by the government authorities at Buenos Ayres, of irregularities in the application of tests for tuberculosis cattle imported into the country. This discovery, according to reports reaching the Washington Government, has led the Argentine officials to a thorough examination of the matter and severe preventive measures will be taken to check it at once.

KITTEN, HURT, SEEKS HOSPITAL'S CARE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 27.—Attaches of the city hospital are telling a story of the intuition of dumb animals, and they defy President Roosevelt to class them as nature fails.

While Receiving Physician Adolph Foermeier was talking to Druggist Angelo Dougherty, their attention was attracted by a kitten that had been brought in by the stone steps that lead into the institution. The kitten singled out Dr. Foermeier, and he, in turn, stopped, and held up his paw for the inspection. He stooped down and a hasty glance showed that the kitten had a broken leg.

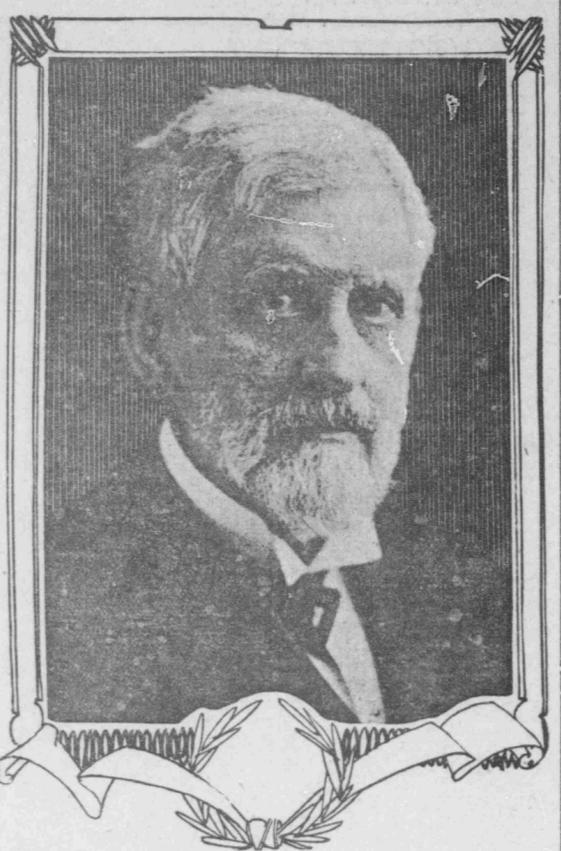

The broken limb was soon set, and the kitten was limping around with its broken leg set in a small plaster cast, to keep the broken bone in place.

STEAMER TURNS TURTLE AT SAN FRANCISCO DOCK

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—The Pacific Mail Steamship Company's steamer Acapulco, Capt. D. C. Prask, yesterday turned turtle and sank at the company's docks in this city.

All the passengers and crew escaped, but it is believed the cargo, consisting of general merchandise, will be almost a total loss.

Senator Allison Will Make Fight For Re-election

SENATOR WILLIAM B. ALLISON, Of Iowa, Who Will Be a Candidate to Succeed Himself.

Iowa's Senior Upper House Member Says Justice Demands It.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Aug. 27.—Senator William B. Allison has definitely announced that he will be a candidate for United States Senator to succeed himself, an authorized statement in which he says:

"I authorized the announcement that I will be a candidate before the primaries for the Republican nomination for United States Senator to succeed myself.

"I have so indicated to friends when interrogated on the subject, and I have supposed that it was generally understood throughout the State that I was a candidate for re-election, but it having been intimated in certain quarters lately that there was doubt on the subject, and that probably I would not again be a candidate, I feel that justice to all calls for a definite statement."

Australia Disappoints Visitors From America
Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 27.—To the American this country is to laugh. It is full of "funnyisms" that keep him continually contrasting it to his own country and smiling discreetly to himself. For these Australians are sensitive as their own sensitive plant and the foreign smile at their expense doesn't please them.

Probably the American has read a great deal about Australia in his juvenile days, as the home of the bushranger. And in his later years he has doubtless gathered the impression from various of the public prints, some of the 10-cent magazines among them, that Australia is not only up to date, but that she really marches a good bit ahead.

Neither the strangers nor the political and economic conditions come up to his expectations.

Stick Closer Than Brothers.
Americans in Australia are more clamorous in any country under the sun. There is a fair number of them scattered over the big island. And in very self-defense they hail a newcomer with open arms if he be only an expert mixer of drinks.

John Bray, the American consul general here in Melbourne, who looks after all American matters in Australasia, lives at Menzies' Hotel, which, incidentally, the Australian is convinced is far finer than the St. Regis. Really it would do for a small side-tracked town in an up-State county in New York State. And at Menzies' he gathers the choice spirits of the American colony about him like children, and they have some adequate and satisfying sessions.

They have some laws here which are

Rubber Plant Brings Families Into Court

Schnearlines Recognize It by Paint, and Ryans by Break for Which Helen Was Spanked.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—"I'm just as positive that that's my rubber plant as I'm alive," said Mrs. William Schnearline as she sat in the witness chair in police court and stamped her foot determinedly on the floor.
"How do you know it's yours?" queried Acting Judge Wade, skeptically.
"Why, it's just the size and shape of mine," said Mrs. Schnearline, "and then the leaves are all covered with spots of paint. The painters did it when they painted the house last spring."
The rubber plant in all its glory, apparently none the worse for its ten days' imprisonment in the property room of the Central police station, stood on the table before the judge. It was the innocent cause of a neighborhood feud. When the Schnearlines missed the plant, one at the home of William Ryan, 920 St. Clair avenue northeast, was taken to the police station and Ryan arrested on the charge of stealing it.
Ryan and his wife were present in court, and so were his two little boys.

Mr. Schnearline was attended with an imposing array of neighbors for witnesses. Even the painter who splashed the plant was there.
"Why, I would swear with my last breath that that's my plant," said Mrs. Ryan, when called to testify. "She flushed angrily, and glared across the room at Mrs. Schnearline. "See the end of that big leaf? That's where Helen pinched off the tip. I spanked her for it. I'm positive it's my rubber plant."
"Then there are some scratches on one of the small leaves near the top. I made it 'em myself—like this," and she sketched them on paper before the judge.
It was two hours before all the witnesses were heard and then the judge shook his head.
"I'll reserve the decision till tomorrow," he said, despairingly.
But Dan Cull, assistant police prosecutor, assumed the role of peacemaker successfully. It was agreed that Schnearline should interview the painter. The rubber plant is an heirloom in the Schnearline family.

Nancy and Her Grievance Fail to Reach President

Nancy Bailey, colored, whose home is near Spring Hope, Franklin county, N. C., came to Washington this morning to pay her respects to President Roosevelt. Nancy has a grievance with the courts of North Carolina, she says, because of certain lands in Franklin and Nash counties having been taken from her possession.
As the woman stepped from a train at the Pennsylvania station she inquired of one of the porters the way to the White House. "I want to see the President," she explained.
The porter turned Nancy over to Central Office Detective Hartigan. After some persuasion at headquarters she agreed to return to North Carolina this afternoon without the plant if he dropped the charge against Ryan.
The rubber plant is an heirloom in the Schnearline family.
