Daughter of Oil Magnate
Believed to Be in London or Montreal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Ritchie, the latter a sister of Helen Maloney, daughter of Martin Maloney, Standard Oil millionaire, who eloped with Samuel Clarkson and married him in Montreal, in spite of the fact, it is said, that she had been secretly married in Mamaroneck, December 28, 1906, to Arthur Herbert Osborne, are in London today, searching high and low for the elopers.

Embassies dispatched by Martin Maloney, both to England and Canada, have been instructed by cable to investigate reports at once that Maloney's daughter, Helen, and Samuel Clarkson, the young Englishman whom she is believed to have eloped with, are either in London or Montreal.

Girl's Father Baffled.
The case continues curiously intense, and friends who refuse to receive interviews say the millionaire has been utterly baffled thus far in his search for his daughter.
Clarkson and Helen are reported here to have landed in Liverpool from the steamship Empress of Ireland, on which they were said to have sailed from Quebec under the names of Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham.
It is assumed that the Ritchies began an immediate investigation, and a report is expected from them at an early date.
In Montreal Thursday.
In a message from Montreal last night Lawyer A. L. Bonin, says Clarkson and Miss Maloney sought his assistance in arranging for their marriage; that the couple was there as late as Thursday, and that the bride authorized him to contradict A. H. Osborne's assertion that she married him two years ago.
Osborne was in New York last night, but declined to add to his previous statement on the subject of the young woman's reported denial of his story.
There is every reason to believe Clarkson took the girl to London on the steamship Empress of Ireland. Giving the names of Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, they boarded the vessel at Quebec, just before it sailed. Their appearance created comment among the other passengers. That they had decided to sail at the last moment was shown by their names not being on the passenger list.
Because of the attention she was attracting, the young woman seldom left her state room, and during the latter part of the voyage she and her attendants were served to them in their apartments.
The steamship arrived at Liverpool yesterday. The couple did not leave the vessel until the other passengers had gone ashore. Their purpose was evidently to elude reporters and other inquisitive persons who might be on the pier looking for them.

STAMP SELLERS
TO BE TRIED SOON

Drop a dime in the slot and take out your postage stamps.
In furtherance of his plan to introduce into the postal service stamp-vending machines, Postmaster General Meyer has appointed a committee of postal experts to conduct a test of the various inventions now on the market.
The committee consists of F. E. McMillen, inspector in charge of the Washington division of postoffice inspectors; Madison Davis, assistant postmaster of the Washington postoffice, and B. L. Andrews, superintendent of the mail lock repair shop.
The investigation will commence October 15. The following owners of machines have applied for space: Automatic Envelope Sealing and Stamping Machine Company, Providence, R. I.; Giles W. Brown, Minneapolis, Minn.; the Gorman Manufacturing Company, Cleveland, Ohio; Theodore A. Welay, New York city; W. L. Schellenbach, Cincinnati, Ohio; E. J. Haverly, Sayre, Pa.; H. F. Brinkley, St. Louis, Mo.; J. W. Banholster, Gresham, Ore.; P. J. McCormac, and Jasper A. Merizon, Grand Rapids, Mich.

TWO MONSTER CRUISERS
LEAVE HAMPTON ROADS
FOR THE PACIFIC COAST

California, and Admiral Sebree will then have command of a full division of four fighting units. This division, with the other armored cruisers, the battleships, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Colorado, will form a squadron.
An Admiral Sebree will pay the way for the Atlantic fleet, so will his ships follow pretty much the path of the cruiser St. Louis, which was taken around to San Francisco by the late Commander Usher. Captain Usher's reports have been turned over to Admiral Sebree for his benefit. No colliers will be sent with these ships, as coal will be taken from commercial ships at the ports to coal. As the squadron is allowed all the time desired for the journey, coal will be taken in harbors from docks.
Two Largest Cruisers.
The Tennessee and Washington are the two largest cruisers in the Navy. They have a displacement of 14,500 tons each, are 322 feet in length, with seventy-six feet ten and one-half inches beam, twenty-five feet draft, twenty-two knots speed, and twenty guns of four inches and more. They were completed a year ago, and made their first long sea journey as convoys to the battleship Louisiana, on which President Roosevelt made his Panama trip.
The feeling prevails at the Navy Department that the squadron is in the hands of thoroughly capable officers. Admiral Sebree and his two captains, Captain Howard, of the Tennessee, and Captain Knicker, of the Washington, being unspotted records.

MRS. PYLES ASKS DIVORCE.

Rebecca Wignall Pyles has entered suit for an absolute divorce from Julius Edward Pyles in the District Court today, on the grounds of brutality and infidelity. The plaintiff claimed that she married the defendant in December, 1888, and that they have three children. She also claims that three years ago the defendant cruelly abused her and subjected her to great mental anguish. A co-respondent is named.

Princess of Greece
To Share Lost Gold

Company Formed to Explore Bed of Navarino Bay.

ATHENS, Oct. 12.—A company is being formed here, with a large capital, to explore the bed of the bay of Navarino. It is hoped to recover the remains of the Turkish vessels and the treasures of Ibrahim Pasha, the commander, which were lost in the famous battle of October, 1827.
Attention was drawn to the matter some time ago by the recovery of several gold pieces brought up by some divers, and several attempts have already been made to recover the pasha's treasure, but without success.
The treasure-seeking syndicate, which has taken the matter up in the hope of finding a fabulous fortune at the bottom of the bay, not only has substantial means at its disposal, but is under the guidance of a clever, diplomatic spirit.
This is shown by the shrewd move of voluntarily agreeing to set aside a share of the treasure trove for the benefit of the beautiful crown princess of Greece, otherwise the Duchess of Sparta, and by contracting to pay a percentage of the profits for ten years to the King, representing the Hellenic government.
The Greek aristocrat, C. Rasco, who is the greatest authority of his country, or anywhere else, on the battle of Navarino, declared some time ago that Ibrahim Pasha, who had a presentation of

The Dago and the Dog;
Wherein Dominico Learns
Spanks Can't Repay Bites

"Nex' Time I Mind a Law an' Let the D— Dog Chew Me Up," He Remarks, Paying $1 Fine.

Until yesterday, Dominico Puchini, he of the louty brow and calf-like gaze, was as firm and ardent admirer of American customs and manners as could be found in Washington. He was a most peaceful citizen, and loved nothing more than openly to voice his appreciation of "America." Now, Dominico is changed. In one short day he had experienced a complete reversal of his emotions, and where once he delighted in praising American wisdom, he now enjoys himself by caustically criticizing this country's jurisprudence. Dominico has been informed by Judge Mulwony that he can no longer inflict corporal punishment upon his dog.
Accompanied by his faithful hound, "Garibaldi," Dominico, his face lighted with a smile of fatuous contentment, appeared in the lower court to explain how it all happened. According to the prosecution, written in an indignant voice, "Ol was passin' uv the house uv this Dago when suddinly Ol heard a howl that sounded like the ind of a dawg howl."
"Ol rushed in, and disklivered that old brute wit a club in his hand, a-tryin' to cut his little dog's throat. Dominico has been overcome by his emotion."
"And what was the dog doing?" queried Judge Mulwony.
"Judge, your honor," replied the witness for the prosecution, slowly, "as nearly as Ol could make out, the little dawg was doin' his best to kill the Dago." Whereupon the court released the witness from the stand.

As Dominico marched impressively toward the witness stand, the sagacious Garibaldi arose and shook himself, and proceeded to administer a severe shock to one of the court officials by wandering over to him and sniffing at his trousers in a manner expressive of the utmost disgust and contempt.
The court official being a rather shy man, walked hastily out of the courtroom, and Garibaldi, despondent at being thus forsaken, thrilled the nervous systems of the courtroom spectators by undertaking a critical examination of his master's rather wearing apparel.
"Dat dog is gots de nerve," said Dominico bitterly. "He seems to think dat he runs my house. I come home an' dat dog he come out an' snap at de chinee I br'-ing home."
Then started a long and irrelevant dissertation, during the course of which Dominico explained that he had kicked at the animal, and that the gentle creature had retaliated by attempting to scratch his lower lineaments to a shapeless mass.
Next Time "Mind a Law."
"Wen da daga he bits," said Dominico, wiping the perspiration from his fevered brow, "den I getta da stick an' I try to spank him. But (sadly) he got away."
"The defendant is guilty of the charge," said the court; "pay a $1 fine." For a moment the defendant stared at Judge Mulwony and then at the complacent Garibaldi in utter astonishment.
"Huh," he grunted sarcastically as he slowly reached for his pocketbook, "nex' time I mind a law an' let da damn dog chew me up."

LAND FRAUD CASE
COMES UP MONDAY

Attorneys for George G. Ware, convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States out of land by means of fraudulent entry, have taken steps to bring the case to the Supreme Court of the United States. An attempt will be made shortly after court meets Monday, to secure a writ of certiorari to the United States Circuit Court of appeals of the eighth circuit, where the case has been reviewed.
Ware is under sentence of one year in jail in Douglas county, Neb., and pay a fine of $1,000. His attorneys hope to secure his release by virtue of the statute of limitations. They claim that the alleged conspiracy, and at least one act thereunder, occurred more than three years before the indictment.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 12.—The Congregational National Council has declared against introducing the Beveridge-Parsons national child labor bill. An endorsement of the measure was struck out of the report of the industrial commission, which has three years' study of the labor question.

BISHOPS WORSHIP
ON HISTORIC SPOT

Episcopalians Celebrate Holy Eucharist on Jamestown Island.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 12.—The Anglican Church in America celebrated today the Holy Eucharist, its most solemn ritual, on the very spot where 309 years ago, Good Master Robert Hunt, made the first communion in the New World, according to the rites of the English branch of the primitive church.
Gathered around the ruined tower, the lone sentinel of colonial times on Jamestown Island, the river was delightful, 5,000 convention pilgrims worshipped God and paid tribute to the memory of Robert Hunt and the godly men of the past who laid the foundation of this American Church of Christ, which today numbers over 1,000,000, compared to the eighty or ninety soldiers of fortune who that day in 1607 knelt in the shadow of the woods and heard the words of the mass.
Delightful Trip to Island.
Four big boats bore the pilgrims to Jamestown Island. The sail of the seventy miles down the river was delightful. The delegates were the guests of the diocese of southern Virginia, the woman's auxiliary entertained a party which will be the general public cheerfully paid their fares and went to the fourth boat.
At the landing the landing was made. The way down was delightful. The service was a few impromptu services were held.
The preamble, as amended, adopted by the house of deputies, reads as follows:
This American Church, first planted in Virginia, in the year 1607, by representatives of the ancient Church of England, acknowledging the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments to be the word of God and record of God's will, and desiring to be united to contain all things necessary to salvation holding the Catholic creeds, to wit, the Apostles' creed and the Nicene creed, to be a sufficient statement of the Christian faith; maintaining the order of the sacred ministry in such form as from the Apostles' times they have been continued; reverently serving God's sacraments ordained by Christ himself, and according to the Holy Ghost, has ordained and established to which it has been called of God. It is removed that the house of bishops will refuse to concur in this adoption of the preamble, and the convention will attend different church services, there being no specific services.

METROPOLITAN BANK
IN NEW QUARTERS

Institution Begins Business Monday in Handsome Building.

The National Metropolitan Bank is moving this afternoon into its new building, 115 Fifteenth street, between F and G streets next door to the quarters it has occupied for the past four years.
Monday morning the bank will be doing business in its new banking room as if it had not gone through the moving process with all the discomforts and worries that attend such an undertaking. The moving will be accomplished this afternoon without much difficulty, as the desks and fixtures of the new banking room are all new, removing the necessity of moving of the old fixtures and office supplies.
An interesting feature is the fact that in moving into its new quarters the bank will once more be on the site on which it started business in 1814, and on which it did business for nearly 100 years. Its new quarters are extremely handsome, the floor of the banking room being paved with white Alabama marble, with inlaid glass and patterns of Skyray marble from Greece.
Many of the city's prominent business men called and congratulated the officials of the bank today on their new quarters.
