

LABORERS ONCE; JANITORS NOW

Police Station Watchers Step Up in Social Scale—So They Think.

Vanitas, vanitatum! And yet there may be no vain-glory in the petition of certain laborers at the several police stations who asked Major Sylvester that their designation be changed to janitor, and that with the added dignity of appellation a stipend of $900 yearly be given.

They no longer wish to bear the term "laborer," they have cringed under it for many years; they do not care to be classed with the men who do things with the workers who build railroads, and bridges, and highways. They feel that there are so many laborers, that the country is made up of them, and that it is a common avocation. They want to be classed with those big, willing chaps who swing the hammer. They lament the fact that they must be called workers when they merely watch.

"They want to be known as janitors—it is such an advance in the world. They prefer to mingle with the brave guardians of apartment houses and assume such lively duties as fall to the disabled, the crippled, and unfortunates. They feel that 'janitor' is more responsible than 'worker,' and they are happy in the conviction.

The astute Major Sylvester has humored them. He let them be janitors, or, at least, recommended that they become janitors, though in his letters he intimates that his honest opinions are concealed within his bosom. He hints vaguely that he is "janitor" or "laborer," no bottles should again be found under the beds on inspection day; that no official uniforms should be spoiled by a contact with accumulated dust; that face and hands must often be brushed with the vile friction of the towel—in short, he allows an increase to $730 a year, with the name "Janitor," and a few doubtful compliments thrown in.

MORE DIPHTHERIA CASES.

Diphtheria is on the increase according to the latest figures submitted to the Commissioners by the Health Department. The report of the week ending October 12 shows that there were seventeen new cases, bringing the total from twenty-three of the preceding week to thirty-three. The typhoid record remains the same with a total of 265 cases.

COLONELS MAY RETIRE; BAD HEALTH THE CAUSE

Police Station Watchers Step Up in Social Scale—So They Think.

Three colonels of the army, each commanding a regiment, have been ordered to Washington to appear before a retiring board, with probability of retirement because of physical disability. All three have been ill for some time.

Col. Edgar B. Robertson appeared before the board at Washington Barracks yesterday. Colonel Robertson is assigned to the command of the Ninth Infantry, which is at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Col. Joseph F. Huston and Lewis H. Strother will take their turns appearing before the board today and tomorrow. Colonel Huston is assigned to the Nineteenth Infantry, which is at Fort Bliss, Tex., while Colonel Strother is assigned to the Twenty-eighth Infantry, most of which is stationed in Cuba. Colonel Strother was recently ordered to Washington from the island, where he had been in service since last spring.

POTOMAC CLUB ELECTION.

Officers for the current business year of the Potomac Literary Club were elected last night at the opening fall meeting as follows: President, S. A. Terry; vice president, Col. E. B. REMODEL OLD BARN FOR ARCHITECTS' HOME

Police Station Watchers Step Up in Social Scale—So They Think.

A test of the ability of the Washington Architectural Club will be made in the near future. That organization plans to purchase a deserted barn which has been the home of rats and pigeons for some years and will attempt to convert it into a club house suitable for the entertainment of the most fastidious of their visiting brethren.

This course was decided on at their first fall meeting last night at the present club rooms on Fifteenth street. The site for the new club house was not been purchased, but will be shortly. The members have already promised to have the structure rapidly remodeled.

A program for the winter was formulated last night and announcement made by the president, Waddy B. Wood, that an architectural exhibition would be held early in the spring.

GIVEN $1 DAMAGES.

Dr. George T. Vaughan was awarded $1 damages and costs yesterday in Justice Anderson's court in his suit against the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington railroad. Dr. Vaughan claimed that he was forcibly ejected from the Sixth Street Station while awaiting the arrival of his daughter. He made no claim of personal injuries. Attorneys Conrad H. Syme, Charles F. Caruso, and Henry Glasie represented the plaintiff.

WM. WOLFF SMITH SUED BY PRESS ASSOCIATION

Action was begun in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia today by the United Press, to restrain William Wolff Smith, of this city, from further operating a publicity bureau in the name of the United Press Association, or any other title implying that his business is that of a press association. This action was in the form of an answer and cross-bill to an application by Smith, for an injunction against the United Press. Time for taking testimony was fixed by Justice Gould, and the case will probably be heard early next year.

Y. M. C. A. RAISING FUNDS.

Plans for the raising of $2,000 to help pay the expenses of the coming gathering were discussed at the meeting of the local committee in charge of the thirty-sixth annual international convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of North America held in the Y. M. C. A. offices last night. The convention will be held on November 22 and 23.
