Miss Gertrude Frances McCabe, daughter of the late P. Tate McCabe and Mrs. McCabe, of Bayswater, London, England, was married this morning at 11:30 in St. Paul's Catholic Church to Rowland W. Murray, son of the late Sir William Murray, of Claremont, Fifeshire.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Mackin. The church was decorated with Christmas decorations, chiefly holly. The bride, who was unattended, was given in marriage by Hopewell H. Darnelle.

B. Lambs Jackson, brother of Mrs. Hopewell H. Darnelle, acted as best man, instead of his brother, Robert Murray, who was unavoidably detained in Cincinnati.

The bride looked very charming in a handsome point lace robe, Empire style, made over silk and chiffon with white satin trimmings and a semi-train. She wore a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a white suede prayer book with long white satin markings, at the end of which were attached white orchids.

The march from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's wedding march were played. The ceremony was followed immediately by a breakfast in the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Hopewell H. Darnelle on Columbia Heights, which was most effectively decorated with pink and white roses, palms, and ferns. The color scheme in the dining room was green and white and that of the dining room pink and white.

The invitations to the breakfast were mailed to the friends of Miss McCabe. Mrs. Darnelle received the guests in a becoming gown of blue broadcloth and a large black picture hat trimmed with pale blue—carrying a shower bouquet of violets and lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray left later for a Southern trip. They will make their future home in Atlanta, Ga. The bride wore a traveling dress of gray cloth and a gray beaver and velvet hat trimmed with gray poppies, and a long traveling coat with baby lamb collar and cuffs.

DISCUSS NEW ROAD AT MEETING TODAY

Board of Directors of W. and G. Road to Decide on Construction.

To decide upon the date for beginning construction of a new railroad for Washington is the purpose of a meeting of the newly elected board of directors of the Washington, Westminister, and Gettysburg Railroad Company, to be held at the New Willard this afternoon. The plans of the road have already been announced and surveys of the route have been made, but operations have not as yet begun.

The new board of directors includes three Washington financiers, William H. Saunders, Robert N. Harper and A. A. Chapin. The other officers and directors are Dr. J. B. Colgrove, president; Walter Atlas, Baltimore, chief engineer; and Edwin P. Toomas, Allan Farquhar, both of Sandy Spring, Md.; Edwin H. Miller, New York; G. H. Birnie and Edwin Reinhold, of Taneytown, Md., and T. F. McGlone, Baltimore, directors.

Mr. Harper said this morning that although he was financially interested in the company, he had been elected to the board without his knowledge and that he would probably decide not to serve, on account of his other interests. Mr. Saunders decided to say what would be done in advance of the meeting this afternoon.

It is said the line will be about ninety miles long, with a branch from Damascus to Frederick of twenty miles. A steam road is planned and is intended to start at the rich rural territory between the Capital and Gettysburg and also to meet the demand for a direct route to the famous battlefield on the part of the thousands of tourists that visit Washington.

ARREST MAN AS THIEF WHO GOT $1,061 BOOTY
NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—His whereabouts betrayed to the police by a companion whom he had deserted in Atlanta, Ga., a man believed to be Clarence Zelger, formerly a receiving clerk of the Long Island Express Company, who disappeared on November 21 last, at the same time a package containing $1,061.44 was missed, was arrested today in San Francisco.

Detectives from this city are on their way to San Francisco to identify the man, who gave his name to San Francisco police as Felix. If he proves to be Zelger, he will be charged with a charge of grand larceny.

Detective Deltz, who was assigned to the case, traced Zelger from this city to Boston, and then to Atlanta. He met a man who said he had been traveling with Zelger and a woman companion. The man, who was identified as Clarence Zelger, gave him $25 and then left him. The man betrayed Zelger to the police.
