RIVAL OF WOMAN SLAIN IN JERSEY HUNTED BY POLICE

With Victim's Husband Two Days After the Murder.

New York Waiters Strike at Alibi of Imprisoned Man.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—While Theodore Whitmore, an "L" motorist, is held in jail at Harrison, N. J., on suspicion of having murdered his wife and thrown her into a swamp near Harrison, the police of New York and Brooklyn are hunting a woman who joined Whitmore in his rooms Friday—two days after Mrs. Whitmore was slain—and stayed with him, drinking and carousing, until Saturday.

"Georgia," has been brought into the case through information given the police by Mrs. Stacie Williams, who lives in the same house in Brooklyn where the Whitmores had apartments. She said:

"When I returned home from Philadelphia the day after Christmas I met Whitmore in the hallway and inquired where his wife was. He replied: 'Lena has gone for good. She will never come back here again.' I was not greatly surprised at this statement, as I knew they had trouble and simply supposed they had separated.

Georgia Appeared Friday.

"The next day a woman whom I know only as 'Georgia' appeared in the house and from sounds I heard I thought that she and Whitmore were drinking heavily and having a high time. She stayed there until Saturday afternoon. I never knew a great deal about 'Georgia' other than she lived on Thirty-fourth street in Manhattan, and was the subject of many quarrels between Whitmore and his wife.

"One time I heard Mrs. Whitmore in a fit of anger tell her husband that if he was so crazy about 'Georgia' he should go and live with her. About three weeks ago Mrs. Whitmore ran across her husband and 'Georgia' in a Brooklyn bowling alley and I understand there was a grand row."

Mrs. Williams' testimony was corroborated by Walter McDonald and James Lawler, waiters at an all-night Park Row restaurant, who also roomed in the same house with the Whitmores.

"When I went out Friday evening," said McDonald, "I saw a young woman in the parlor with Whitmore. She was calling him 'Teddy' and they both appeared half intoxicated." Lawler's story agreed in every detail with that told by McDonald.

Hits at His Alibi.

The evidence of the occupants of the house in which the Whitmores lived strikes at the root of the prisoner's alibi. Whitmore told the police that on Christmas night he had gone to work, and told the dispatcher that he had left on account of a cold, and after that he had stopped at the Park Row restaurant in which McDonald and Lawler were employed about 1 o'clock in the morning. Both Lawler and McDonald say that they did not see Whitmore in the restaurant, and that had he been there they must have certainly noticed him.

The two men further disagree with Whitmore's statement that his wife left home at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon on Christmas night. They say they saw her that she left the house at 6 o'clock Christmas evening they heard the voices of Whitmore and his wife.

Mrs. O'Neill, a tenant on the first floor of the Brooklyn house, who has disappeared since the tragedy, told the men she was leaving and, according to the statement of the men, remarked to them that Whitmore and his wife had made up, and were going to have dinner together with the O'Neills.

WANT MORE PAY FOR MACHINISTS

T. F. Dornin, B. F. Gilmore, and E. L. Tucker, a committee from Columbia Lodge, Machinists, met in conference with Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry this morning relative to the adjustment of wages of the machinists employed at the Washington Navy Yard.

As was stated in The Times Thursday, the schedule for the different trades at the yard had been approved with the exception of that of the machinists, which is the most important, in view of the fact that the machinists are in the vast majority.

After talking with the Secretary for more than an hour, members of the committee expressed themselves as well pleased with the result of the conference and intimated that they felt confident of the outcome.

PREDICTS SHAKE-UP IN IDAHO LAND OFFICE

The surveyor general of Idaho, Ernest G. Eagleton, was today asked for his resignation by the President. Senator Heyburn of Idaho called at the White House in company with John H. Brady, chairman of the State Republican Committee, and the Eagleton case was gone over at length. While no very definite charges of mal-administration have been made against Eagleton, he has not been able to get along amicably with the officials of the Land Office in Washington, and this constant friction had become so annoying to the Interior Department that it was considered best to eliminate the surveyor general.

Eagleton will not be the only one to go," exclaimed Senator Heyburn, after his conference with the President. "There are a number of other heads that will also drop. There will be a general cleaning out in that section of the Land Office."

Eagleton's successor has not yet been named.

Ripping out bath tub linings and tearing down brass gas fixtures in a house owned by Francis Leonard, of 2150 Roun street southwest, was the Police Court charge against Joseph Rogers, Raymond Johnson and Charles Harper today. Each was held under $1,000 bond for the action of the grand jury.

Whitmore Frustrates Inquisition by Police

HARRISON, N. J., Jan. 4.—Theodore Whitmore, in his cell in the local jail where he is "awaiting the action of the coroner," is today the central figure in the Passaic river swamp murder mystery.

The body of the murdered victim, having been positively identified by relatives, he now freely admits to be his wife Lena, missing since Christmas Day, but although under a severe fire of cross-questioning all last night and again today, he sticks resolutely to the story that he supposed she had been in Schenectady, visiting relatives, and maintains that he knows nothing about her murder.

That he and his wife quarreled frequently and that he at times beat her severely, he admits, but in that breath he insists he had nothing to do with the crime of Christmas Night. The police, however, while not directly charging him with the murder, declare he has made so many contradictory statements that he will have difficulty in convincing them that he does not know much more about the matter than he will admit.

Seek Missing Diamonds.

By order of Chief Rodgers, the police of Newark, Jersey City, and New York were today asked to search the pawnshops for the missing diamonds of Stacie Whitmore. According to her sister, when she left the latter's house in Harlem Christmas Day to return to her husband, she wore two solitary diamond rings, a guard ring, and her wedding ring.

Developments in the case came rapidly last night. With the arrival of Whitmore in Harrison in custody of New York detectives he was confronted with the body of his wife. For that purpose had been clad in the clothing found on the banks of the river, but he stood beside the pine casket and said: "I am unable to identify the body as my wife, but insisting that it looked like her."

It was not until he had been locked in jail that he admitted the identity. For hours thereafter he was grilled by the police, but stoutly maintained his innocence.

Woman Calls Him Murderer.

After midnight the police played their strongest card. Down through the dimly lighted cell room came Whitmore's sisters-in-law, Mrs. Martin Smithers, and Mrs. Mooney. So quietly did they approach Whitmore, sitting with his head in his hands, he did not hear them. Smithers, grasping the bars of the cell with both hands, her face thrust as close to his as possible, quivering with excited and anger fairly yelled: "You murderer! You coward! You dog! You killed my sister! You have struck down a young woman who was a good girl, you would do, you stripped her body and threw her into the swamp!"

Whitmore jumped. He started as though he would strike, but he was held. Then, taking in the group of detectives, he smiled, and drawing up to his full height said:

"But where come all the way over here to kid me?" "I came over here to show you who murdered my sister," declared the almost frantic woman. "You know you killed her! You always hated her and you were beating her. You are a murderer at heart. But here the woman faints and had to be carried away, while Whitmore, with half a contemptuous smile on his face, resumed his former attitude.

Sent Letters in Wife's Name.

The police plan had failed. He had retained his composure and no alarming admission had been squeezed from him. Mrs. Smithers and her husband, after leaving the cell room, turned over to Judge Branagan several letters and telegrams they had received signed by Mrs. Whitmore between Christmas and New Year. These purport to tell of the dead woman sending her effects to her home and going visiting in Schenectady.

Judge Branagan at once called in experts to endeavor to substantiate their authenticity. The police say they saw these letters were written by Whitmore and have obtained samples of his writing for comparison.

Beat Her Christmas Eve.

On Monday before Christmas Whitmore gave his wife a terrible beating in front of their house. He said in explanation that he thought she wanted to throw carbolic acid on him. She fled to the home of Mrs. Schmitters, and stayed there until Tuesday night, when she went home again.

On Christmas Mrs. Margaret O'Neill, who lives in the same house and gave the Whitmores their meals, took their Christmas dinner down stairs to them, they were quarreling, but she was of such common occurrence that Mrs. O'Neill paid no attention to it.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It Is In Preserving Health and Beauty.

Cost Nothing to Try.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient purifier of the water supply. A few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and poisons of the system, cleans the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, after eating onions, garlic and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectively clears and improves the complexion. It whitens the face and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the bowels, and it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered charcoal and other harmless ingredients in tablet form or rather in the form of large pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with sugar.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the blood. I believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Send your name and address today for a free trial package and ask for Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges from A. Stuart Co., 209 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

EXCLUSION AFFRONT TO JAPS, SAYS AOKI

Says Mikado Will Regulate, But Will Not Stop, Emigration.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—Japan will consider the exclusion of its subjects either from America or any American possession an open affront, according to retiring Japanese Ambassador Viscount Aoki, in an interview here today.

The Mikado is willing, he added, to retract his people's emigration, but when foreign powers seek to keep out the Japanese, the situation assumed an altogether different aspect.

Conditions at Vancouver were complicated today, according to dispatches from the Canadian city, by the arrival of 300 more Japanese, and still greater difficulty is expected to attend the landing of 1,200 more said to be on the way from Honolulu. Today's arrivals seemed to turn up from every direction. They poured in from the coast logging camps, and some hurried to Vancouver from the United States side of the border.

Members of the Asiatic Exclusion League openly charge that they are being rushed in as reinforcements for the permanent Vancouver Japanese colony. There has been no further fighting between the white population and the Orientals, but the situation is tense, and the smallest spark may explode the magazine. The Japanese quarter is heavily patrolled to prevent an outbreak.

MRS. MASON ASKS DIVORCE; SAYS HUSBAND DESERTED

Mrs. Madeline Mason has filed a petition in the District Supreme Court for divorce from Robert Mason, alleging that he has deserted her October 18, 1935, since which time he has not contributed to her support. The couple was married in Washington August 16, 1926.

At the time of the alleged desertion the petitioner and defendant were living at 175 Clifton street northwest, the home of the parents of Mrs. Mason, who says her husband is a telegraph operator at the new Union station at a salary of $80 a month. In addition to desertion she alleges cruel treatment and dissipation.

Bachelors Skidoo When Leap Year Comes Into View

Bachelors are beating it to the bushes. Such must be the horrible state of affairs, they have carved out trails to the tall and uncut timbers and have drawn the trails in after them. The marriage license clerk is asleep on the works. He has nothing to do but draw his salary and figure on when Congress will raise his pay. It is however a fascinating thing to figure on when the generosity of Congress will lose control of itself and throw itself on his shoulders.

If it were not for this fascination the clerk would be bored to death. Yesterday for instance not one white paper applied for a marriage license. Only two colored persons asked for the papers that entitle the holders to step into the yoke that binds to the endless furrow in the fields of matrimony.

It is a poor record for 1936, known as leap year. Either the bachelors are safe in the bushes or the old maids and young maids have not yet gotten busy with their privilege to propose marriage.

ALDRICH TAKES UP CURRENCY BILL

Senator Aldrich, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, returned to town quite unexpectedly. He will have a conference this evening with Senators Allison and Hays, also members of the committee, who with him, have been charged with the duty of preparing a financial bill which will prevent a recurrence of the recent money stringency.

Senator Aldrich says that they will not be able to report a bill to the Senate for several weeks. He says that the deliberations of the committee have not reached so definite a point that he can discuss them. While general principles have been agreed upon, the working out of the details has yet to be done. The Senator has called upon the Treasury Department for a lot of figures and statistics regarding banks and currency circulation, and he expects to have this data by Monday.

NEW YORK HAS SNOW; SHIPPING LIKELY IN DANGER

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—A snow storm struck this city shortly after noon today, and indications are that the storm is now sweeping the entire Atlantic coast. Reports from different stations say that high winds accompany the storm, and that shipping may be endangered.

MAILED BEFORE HE STARTED.

"Boo-hoo!" sobbed the young wife, "I just know that you didn't think of me once while you were on your vacation."

"Why, Julia, how can you talk like that?" protested her husband. "Didn't I mail you a postal card with a scene of every place I visited?"

ARMY APPOINTEES MUST RIDE WELL

President's Ideas Applied to Examination of Civil Candidates.

President Roosevelt's horsemanship test has been made one of the regulations governing the appointment of persons in civil life to be second lieutenants in the army and the examination of lieutenants for transfer to the artillery corps.

General orders with the President's amendment were issued today. The former regulations required that all candidates be examined as to their fitness for mounted service. This did not go so far as an actual riding test, so great as to indicate present or future unsuitability for the mounted service.

Regulations regarding the examination of enlisted men are being prepared and the same test will probably be included in these, making the President's order all comprehensive.

FORAKER STIRS OHIO BY REBELLIOUS TALK

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 4.—Things political are at fever heat here today, as a result of the announcement of Senator Foraker last night that he would not stand for the manner prescribed by the Republican State Central Committee for holding the State primary.

What he will do has not yet been announced. His objections to the plan, especially to the number of signatures to petitions for Taft and Foraker tickets, are unanimously upheld by his friends. He declared last night that he would make no effort to comply with the requirements of the plan of the call of the central committee, which was adopted by a vote of fourteen to one. He also stated that the terms of the call contravene the statute.

MEN HELD TO GRAND JURY FOR THEFT OF FIXTURES

Ripping out bath tub linings and tearing down brass gas fixtures in a house owned by Francis Leonard, of 2150 Roun street southwest, was the Police Court charge against Joseph Rogers, Raymond Johnson and Charles Harper today. Each was held under $1,000 bond for the action of the grand jury.

FIGHTS WITH POOL BALL; RESULT PROVES SERIOUS

A pool ball is a dangerous weapon. At least this is the opinion of Assistant District Attorney Ralph Given, who had Cornelius Westley held for the grand jury on $500 bond for striking Charles Benjamin with a ball. It is alleged by Policeman McQuade that Westley became angry at Benjamin's style of pool playing last night and struck him in the eye with the ball. The force with which the ball struck Benjamin was so great that he may lose the sight of his eye.
