

EMPLOYEES IN RUSH AT NEW BUILDING

Offices of Many District Departments Open in Handsome Quarters.

OTHERS WILL MOVE THIS AFTERNOON

Clerks Delighted With Palatial Home, Anxious to Get Settled Again.

The busy tread of hundreds of feet, foreman shouting orders, and activity rampant on all sides marked the first real business day in the new District Building.

Before the town clocks struck the noon hour today practically every office which was formerly housed in the old District Building in Louisiana avenue had been moved to the new quarters, except the effects of the three Commissioners. There is every indication that Commissioner West may get into his new office today—if the heat is not too slow in reducing the various to its proper place—and by tomorrow it is thought Commissioners Macfarland and Morrow will have come into their own.

Entrance Barred. With a view to avoid getting the front steps all mused up before the Commissioners settle down to work in the building, the main entrance has been barred and anybody who is anxious to pay taxes or take out a dog license will have to make use of the side door. That was where a steady stream of citizens made their way into the building today to be confronted by crowds of workmen and other citizens all mixed up in the elevators and on the corridors. Two or three husky men carrying a big desk would call "Gangway, there are the local citizens would have to hop. Old District employees could not get used to the brand-new, roomy elevators and walked up stairs.

All in Confusion. Throughout the building there is a spirit of mingled confusion and bustle. The tax office is all in shape, and looks positively giddy with its bright, shining brass cages. Behind the cages in the great big room are a half dozen young women clerks who have not yet become used to the novelty of being able to move about without digging the other girl in the ribs. The desks are in place, the records arranged in the most approved fashion, and to top it all off there are windows along both sides, one opening out to the breezes which blew into the bright new quarters.

The Health Department is located in the new building, but it probably will be many days before the offices are in good shape. The office of the Chief Clerk of the Engineer Department is in good enough shape to have a messenger sit outside the door, and up in the office of the superintendent of the building everything is in apple-pie order.

On the fifth floor, where the Commissioners' rooms and board rooms are situated, there is little to see except a desk here and there, with an occasional leather upholsteredavenport. The furniture in the Commissioners' rooms has not been arranged, but that is only a matter of a few hours.

Press Room. The press room, which adjoins the private office of Commissioner Macfarland, is not equipped with the usual conveniences in it, but, like corresponding rooms on the same floor, the windows are set so high that it is impossible to see the streets below. It is a big, light, airy room.

The office of the building permit clerk was doing business blithely this morning and the building inspector was busy in his office in spite of the fact that things were more or less topsy-turvy. The water department's quarters looked more or less temporary, but the general air of newness about the building excited everybody. The glistening white corridors and stairways were an inspiration to the clerks who have worked so long in the dingy offices in Louisiana avenue, and today was more like a holiday than a real work day.

Chief Belt, of the Fire Department, moved part of his office to the new building at 467 C street to the new building this afternoon. He expects to be installed tomorrow morning.

The Police Department, including the offices of Major Sylvester, and detective heads, are expected to make the transfer Wednesday.

This Is "Moving Day" At the Postoffice

This is moving day at the Postoffice Department. Chief Clerk Conrad is having several of the offices and divisions shifted to make room for the new accounting section, which becomes a part of the finance division on the second floor.

The registry division is being moved from the second to the eighth floor. The journal room on the fifth floor is being moved to the eighth floor.

Disguised Eagle Wins Cock Fight, And Avenges Defeat of American

HERMOSILLO, Mexico, July 6.—On the Fourth of July a year ago Andrew Crenshaw, Thomas A. Holloway, Bert Graham, and C. B. Jameson, members of a Texas syndicate owning land near El Molino, went to the town to celebrate. The most exciting thing they could find was a cocking main. They put up their money on the favorite and lost. The performance was repeated, and they lost again. Then they discovered that they were betting against the entire crowd of Mexicans, and that after their bets had been placed the birds were "switched." Full of wrath, and bent on getting even, they agreed to meet again on the company's ranch, each in the meantime to try to concoct a scheme of revenge. Crenshaw had heard of the fighting qualities of the eagle and he communicated with the others his scheme. They advertised for and procured a young eagle last winter and preserved it for their purpose. This year when they met at the ranch they painted the bird and trimmed his feathers so as to make him look like a rooster, and with the disguised eagle to be moved to the suite of rooms used by the chief clerk. The assistant attorney general vacates a room on the second floor and now has his entire force on the fifth floor. The chief inspector relinquishes a room on the eighth floor, moving the effects to the second floor, which allows him part of the second and fourth floors for his force. Auditor M. O. Chance is also making some important changes in the arrangement of his quarters. The two deputy auditors exchange rooms with the chief clerk and the law clerk, bringing the two latter to the rooms adjoining the office of the auditor.

DISTRICT MAY STOP SALE OF FIREWORKS

Macfarland Plans to Have City Do Future Celebrating.

That each year the citizens unite in a common fund to celebrate the Fourth of July is a tradition of the District, and the auspices of the Board of Trade and the Chamber of Commerce, and that the sale of fireworks be forbidden in the District was the suggestion made today by Commissioner Macfarland.

So gratified is Commissioner Macfarland at the success of Saturday's celebration that he is strongly in favor of a general celebration of Independence Day. He points out that the large number of injuries which result from the handling of explosives may be avoided in this way, and is of the opinion that much more can be accomplished by uniting in a common fund.

The celebration reflected the greatest credit upon the citizens who made it such a success under the leadership of the Board of Trade and the Chamber of Commerce. Now I hope that the Board of Trade and the Chamber of Commerce will provide for a popular celebration of the Fourth of July every year, with exercises in front of the District Building and fireworks and illuminations in the evening.

In 1904, the Commissioners organized such a celebration with a meeting on the front lawn of the White House, with Admiral Dewey, Ambassador Jusserand, and Secretary Moody among the speakers, and a military parade arranged and led by the Chief of the United States Army and the Chief of the Washington Monument in the evening. The citizens made that celebration a great success.

"We hoped that the civic and patriotic organizations would take it up the next year and perpetuate it, but there has been no general celebration since until Saturday, and for several years the Oldest Inhabitants' Association provided the only celebration of the day; latterly, under the auspices of Crosby S. Noyes, at Alton Park.

"I have no other suggestion to make, and that is that all citizens put their fireworks money into the common fund for the general display of aerial fireworks, which might be done by day as well as by night, if enough money were provided. They would forbid the sale of fireworks at retail and refuse to suspend the law against the shooting of pistols and the use of explosives. I think Washington should set the example to the country of celebrating the Fourth of July without maiming or possibly killing its citizens. Fortunately, the law is on our side, and it is bad enough that twenty-six persons were officially reported as wounded, besides many others who were not brought to official attention."

300 PROBATIONERS HOLD ANNIVERSARY

Judge De Lacy Addresses Children Paroled Since Establishment of Juvenile Court.

The second anniversary of the establishment of the juvenile court was observed in a patriotic manner yesterday by a gathering of 300 probationers, many of whom were accompanied by parents or guardians.

The grounds at 1816 F street northwest were handsomely decorated by the court officer. The youngsters gave Judge De Lacy and his probation officers, the Rev. Zed A. Copp and Mrs. G. B. Darwin, an enthusiastic greeting when they appeared.

"Patriotic Good Citizenship," was the topic of the speakers, who included Judge De Lacy, Mrs. Darwin, and others. For two years the boys and girls who have been placed on probation by Judge De Lacy have twice each month been compelled to attend "good citizenship" meetings. In these meetings the children have been urged to have a proper regard for law and order, and all that goes to make the ideal citizen.

COMMITTS SUICIDE BY INHALING GAS

Body of John F. Shaw Found in His Apartments on Tenth Street.

John F. Shaw, fifty-one years old, was found dead at his apartment, 702 Tenth street northwest, yesterday afternoon. A rubber tube leading to a gas jet was held in his mouth, and it was evident that the suicide was planned carefully.

No reasons are given today for the suicide and members of the dead man's family are at a loss to understand why he should take his own life. Until about three weeks ago Mr. Shaw lived at 304 Newark street, Cleveland Park. Since then he had been living at the Tenth street house. He was an expert accountant, and up to three weeks ago held a position with the Alonzo Bliss Company, First and B streets northwest.

The coroner ordered the body taken to the morgue, but later the dead man's brother was permitted by the police to take charge of the remains. The body was then removed to an undertaker's establishment.
