

Fair and cooler tonight and tomorrow; south winds.

The Washington Times

LAST EDITION

NUMBER 6072.

WASHINGTON, SATURDAY EVENING, AUGUST 22, 1908.

PRICE ONE CENT.

HARMONY IN IOWA THOUGHT UNLIKELY

Leaders Fear Proposed Caucus Will Provoke Only Greater Enmity.

CUMMINS IN LEAD FOR SENATE SEAT

Republicans, It Is Said, Would Prefer Seeing Democrat Elected Than to Unite Factions.

By J. C. WELIVER.

Iowa Republicans have called a great "harmony caucus" to be held at Des Moines August 25. It will be a remarkable gathering, almost without parallel in the politics of the country. Its purpose will be to get the party leaders together and seek a way out of the complication which threatens the Republican control of the State Legislature and State ticket in the coming election, and which menaces even the electoral ticket.

Present indications are that instead of producing harmony the conference more likely will widen the breach between the two factions. Both in and out of the State great concern is felt among party leaders about the results of the gathering.

Basically, the Iowa situation may be stated thus: The Republican primary in June named Allison for Senator over Cummins, by a close vote. All concede that against any other than Allison, Cummins would have won. Allison died two months after he was nominated.

Consequently, the instructions which the primary had given to Republican legislators to vote for Allison were nullified. Unless some other nominee is named by the party, the legislators will be free to support whom they choose. Cummins is a candidate. There will be several others.

Will Knife Opponents.

The Cummins partisans all over the State are ready to knife anti-Cummins legislative candidates, and the anti-Cummins people propose to defeat Cummins candidates. Either side seems fully willing to let the Democrats have the Senator, rather than to allow the victory to go to the opposing Republican faction.

With Allison gone there is a vacancy. Governor Cummins has the power to appoint for the remainder of the Allison term, or until the Legislature—which meets in January—shall elect. Whether he will do this, or call the Legislature in special session to elect, or allow the vacancy to continue ad interim, has not been decided.

Some of Cummins' friends want him to resign as governor, and at once be appointed Senator by his successor, the present Lieutenant Governor Garst, who is a strong Cummins supporter. Others want him to leave the vacancy. Others urge that he call the Legislature to elect.

Still others insist that he call the Legislature together and get it to adopt an amendment to the present primary law under which the primary is made for a second primary when a vacancy occurs, as in the present case. Then they would have the Legislature elect to fill the present vacancy, and adjourn. The governor could announce his candidacy for the nomination in the State of Republican and there is considered little doubt that he would be named.

Plan Is Opposed.

But the anti-Cummins element opposes this idea. It urges that the expense of a second primary should not be saddled on the State. More than this, and much more forcibly, it urges that if a primary be held the nominee of that primary, whether he be of one faction or the other, will be knifed at the polls by his ancient enemies of the other crowd. The Legislature will go Democratic, and Claude R. Porter, whom the Democrats have nominated to receive their support for Senator, will get the seat vacated by Allison.

The situation is a complex and difficult one. As a possible way out of it, the big harmony conference has been called. All the Republican members of the Legislature, nominees for the next Legislature, State officers and nominees in the State offices, editors of Republican newspapers and various classes of party leaders, have been invited to attend. They will meet at the Pacific Union Club by Senator Perkins, army officers, and a number of the Japanese merchants of the city.

Against the Caucus.

There have been many protests against holding the conference, on the ground that it surely would do more harm than good. It will have none of the authority of a State convention; it can only vote, and bind anybody. It is insisted that the factions will get together and have a good, hard fight.

(Continued on Second Page.)

WEATHER REPORT.

High pressure with low temperatures prevail over the Northwest, the cool weather extending into the upper Lake region. The first frosts of the season occurred in North Dakota, in the Northeast pressure is low, and showers occurred in New England and the Middle Atlantic States with a considerable rise in temperature. The weather over the Ohio valley and lower Lake region. Showers continued in the South and the Rocky Mountain region, and there were also local showers in the upper Ohio, lower Missouri, and Arkansas valleys.

Partly cloudy to cloudy weather will continue tonight and Sunday in the South with occasional showers. In the North and East the weather will be cooler and generally fair.

Steamers departing today for European ports will have fresh southwest to west winds with occasional showers to the Grand Banks.

SUN TABLE.
Sun rises.....	5:43
Sun sets.....	6:18

TIDE TABLE.
High water today.....	5:04 p. m.
Low water today.....	11:25 p. m.
High water tomorrow.....	5:24 a. m., 5:50 p. m.
Low water tomorrow.....	12:12 a. m.

HAZERS DISMISSED FROM WEST POINT

Secretary Wright, With President's Sanction, Expels Rossell and Weaver, and Suspends Six Other Cadets for a Year.

Secretary of War Wright, with the approval of the President, today directed the dismissal from the West Point Military Academy of Cadets William T. Rossell, Jr., an honor man of the first class, and son of Lieutenant Colonel Rossell, of the army Engineer Corps, and Harry G. Weaver, first class, of Illinois, for participating in hazing.

The other six cadets, convicted of hazing, are sentenced to suspension with loss of all pay and allowances until June 15, 1909, when they will join the third class. The six suspended cadets are: George Chase, Jr., of New York;

BURGLARS CAUGHT AFTER HARD FIGHT

Detectives, Disguised as Tramps, Surprise Safe Breakers at Work.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Battling desperately in the light of a sputtering fuse, which was to have fired a charge to blow a Newark, N. J., jeweler's safe to splinters, two of the most desperate and accomplished safe-breakers in the country were captured red-handed today.

George "Humpty" Williams, a notorious burglar, and his pal, Richard Vaughn, were the men captured in Newark, and their lookout, Martin Tiffany, who fled when the detectives showed themselves, was later caught in his room in Hoboken, in possession of a full kit of burglar tools.

Roberies by safe-blowing of the Diamond Point Pen Company, the Ives-Johnson Sporting Goods Company, Dunn & Co., manufacturers of medals, and Child's restaurant in New York in the past few months, had yielded thousands of dollars in gold, gems, and cash to the gang, and had puzzled the police.

A few nights ago the gang tried to enter the Arnold Ward office building in Newark, but was scared away. Early today, however, the men returned, and while eight detectives disguised as tramps lounged on the benches of a park opposite, Williams and Vaughn entered the building to blow the safe of the jewelry store of J. Wels & Sons, while Tiffany stayed on the outside.

The prisoners admitted responsibility for this "job," but, though they denied it, the police say they also blew open a safe in the office of the Diamond Point Pen Company, in Beekman street, several weeks ago, making a rich haul.

The men were captured as they were leaving the Aaron Ward Building at West Park and Broad streets. A kit of burglar tools, including drills, nitroglycerin, jimmies, and false keys was found on them.

It is charged that the men had just looted the office of a dentist in the Aaron building. When they were taken to police headquarters they denied this charge, but besides the Diamond robbery they admitted blowing several safes in Newark.

NEWPORT PUTS BAN ON DIVORCED FOLK

Members of Ministers' Union Will Not Unite Divorcees in Marriage Any More.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—The Ministers' Union of this city has voted not to unite divorced couples in the future. No one save justices of the superior court will act as functionaries in such cases hereafter. Witness the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Harriman Tuesday.

Concerted action on the part of the clergy of all denominations has brought about this resolution, making a rich haul of the new laws of Rhode Island are becoming too stringent, so that no longer will America's most swaggy waterer place the fine, because those seeking separation from life-mates.

WOMAN IN RIVER; MAY BE MURDER

Cuts on Body, Found Unclothed in Water, Make Find Mysterious.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Mystery surrounds today the finding of the body of a pretty woman, practically unclothed, in the East river at the foot of Eighty-eighth street. Several cuts about the head and the fact that the clothing was missing, led the police to believe that she was murdered, and the body thrown into the water.

On the right hand, facing the index finger, was a heavy gold ring with a double heart design.

DINNER FOR LOOMIS IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Francis E. Loomis, United States Commissioner to the Tokyo Exposition, is here today and will leave for the Orient within a week or two. Mr. Loomis was entertained at a luncheon at the Pacific Union Club by Senator Perkins, army officers, and a number of the Japanese merchants of the city.

MRS. JACK GARDNER REQUIRED TO ACT

Told She Must Pay Cranes $70,000 for Duty on Art Goods.

FRIENDS DEFEND MRS. CHADBURN

Say She Did Not Use Articles in London Home, Nor Is She in Hiding.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Within the next twenty-four hours, Mrs. Jack Gardner, of Boston, will decide what attitude she intends to take in the affair involving herself and Mrs. Emily Crane Chadburn.

She has been informed that she must at once reimburse the Cranes for $70,000 paid to the Government as duties and fines on the art objects belonging to her, and brought into the country by Mrs. Chadburn.

It is not improbable that it also will be suggested to Mrs. Gardner that exact accuracy in statements regarding the case will be appreciated. One statement coming from Boston was not particularly pleasing to Mrs. Chadburn's friends.

It was to the effect that Mrs. Chadburn had used the articles for the adornment of her London home, whereas it is asserted that the goods were not unpacked from the time they were created in Paris, two years ago, at Mrs. Gardner's orders, until they were opened in the customs house in Chicago.

Narrow streaks of discoloration, running diagonally in the great granite monolith which has been set in place on the east side of the Treasury Building, have been discovered. This also is the case with the other column delivered, as well as the nine which are at the quarry at Milford, N. H., ready for shipment.

Supervising Architect James K. Taylor, who held up the work of putting in the monoliths two weeks ago, has sent an inspector connected with his office to Milford to make an examination of the nine monoliths there to determine whether the discolorations are of such a character as would weaken the strength or endurance of the columns.

Are Not Weakened.

The column which is in place and the one lying in Fifteenth street ready to be hoisted into position have been tested by inspectors, says the supervising architect, and although the discolorations are visible from the farther side of Fifteenth street, they are not of such a character as would mar their beauty or have any appreciable effect upon their strength.

The monoliths are being quarried by the Webb Granite Company, of Worcester, Mass., which has several quarries in New Hampshire, the largest at Milford. Two weeks ago when the great column was hoisted into position in the colonnade, one of the inspectors for the Government noticed a peculiar light streak in the granite and reported whereupon work was stopped immediately.

Work is Halted.

Since that time the work on the granite facings behind the columns has gone on, but not a tap has been done on the monoliths. There are no defects in the large granite slabs used in the facings.

The officials of the granite company explain that because of the great size of the pieces of granite it is next to impossible to make them perfect. The streaks in the monoliths, they say, do not detract from the beauty of the columns and do not weaken their strength.

Supervising Architect Taylor stated today that the reports from the inspector at the quarry are as favorable as the reports on the two huge columns now at the Treasury Building. He will accept the columns and allow the work of putting them in place to proceed.

RIOT NEWS READER LOSES HIS MIND

Illinois Man, Whose Wife Once Was Attacked, Crazy by Springfield War.

DECATUR, Ill., Aug. 22.—While awaiting an inquisition as to his sanity, William Vest died of apoplexy yesterday in the detention ward. It is supposed his reason was unsettled by reading of the Springfield race riots.

In June, 1903, Vest's wife was attacked by Bush, a wandering negro, at her home near Decatur. With his neighbors, Vest came to the aid of the woman, but he was killed by a crowd, broke into the jail, took Bush from the sheriff and hanged him to a telegraph pole opposite the court house.

Yesterday, Vest, who had been acting queerly, armed himself and stood his family off with a gun until the sheriff's deputies captured him.

FEVER AN EPIDEMIC IN KEYSTONE STATE

Typhoid Lays Hold of Many Towns, and Sends Hundreds to Hospitals.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—Typhoid fever is now epidemic in many Pennsylvania towns, and special safeguards are being taken here to prevent the spread of the disease.

The disease is worse in sections of the State drained by the Schuylkill river, and especially in the towns of Royersford and Spring City. Hundreds of persons in Royersford and Spring City are ill, and in the various towns of Chester and Montgomery counties the hospitals are filled with victims.

Residents have been ordered to boil the germ laden water, and bathers are urged to refrain from swimming in the Schuylkill. In the Phoenixville hospital there are twenty-three cases. In Carbondale, in the heart of the coal region, seven cases develop as a daily average. In the Morgantown Reform School, near Pittsburg, twenty-eight of the inmates are afflicted.

GEN. HAINS HERE TO RAISE FUNDS

Father of Slayer of Annis Plans to Finance Trial of Sons.

WILL NOT DISCUSS DEATH OF CLUBMAN

Retired Army Officer Calls on Real Estate Man and Pays Visit to Darkened Home.

Gen. Peter C. Hains, father of Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., and Thornton Jenkins Hains, who played the principal parts in the slaying of William E. Annis, is in Washington to raise funds to help defray the expenses of defending his two sons.

It is known that the general called on several of the most prominent real estate men of the city this morning, but what the result of his efforts was, he would not divulge. That much money is necessary to meet the expenses of the legal battle which will be waged, for the employment of alienists and lawyers, is manifested by the request of Assistant District Attorney Darrin, of New York, for $10,000 to prosecute the two prisoners.

The attorneys for the Hainses have already announced that the defense will be insanity, and thousands of dollars must be paid for alienists if the trial resolves itself down to that issue.

General Hains Reticent.

General Hains, however, would not admit that the raising of funds was the purpose of his visit to this city. He arrived last evening and put up at the Shoreham. Early this morning, he was at his office, room 723, Union Trust Building, and disposed of a lot of mail that had accumulated during his absence. He also made a visit to his home, at 1818 Eighteenth, in which he and Mrs. Hains had been closed up for two months, and obtained articles he wanted to take to New York.

When seen at his office in the Union Trust Building, at the conclusion of his business around town, the general seemed depressed, and was loath to discuss the subject of his sons' trouble. He avoided the use of such words as "arrest" and "killing," but referred to it repeatedly as "this matter in the papers."

There was no nervousness in the demeanor of the retired army officer, whose old age is clouded with the shadow that has fallen over the lives of two of his sons. His step is quick and he is as active as a man half his age. His military training distinguishes him, and his erect bearing, combined with his age, would mark him in any crowd.

Office in Union Trust Building.

His office in the Union Trust Building is the head office of the Hains Concrete Mixer Company, in which he is a partner with his son, Captain Hains. This office he also carries on his engineering business.

"There is no use in my talking about the matter," he said. "It cannot help the boys any and might be misconstrued. The truth will come out, but I shall not say a word at this time."

"Did you come to Washington to help your sons?" he was asked.

"That I cannot talk about either," he said, with an air of finality. "I have been to New York this afternoon."

Shortly after his return to his office this noon the general filled out a number of telegraph blanks and sent them to the Western Union office by his stenographer.

General Hains remained but a few minutes at his office. Eighteen minutes it looked dark and desolate when he entered it. The blinds were all drawn and when he came out it was evident that the visit to his home had affected him.

Fails to Hear Greeting.

As he passed down the street one of his neighbors, whom he has known for several years, greeted him, but so absorbed was he in his thoughts that he did not hear the salutation and walked on. He returned to the office where his stenographer had a number of letters ready for his signature and where a number of newspaper representatives were awaiting him.

When they errand at once and lost no time in informing them that their mission was futile, that he would say nothing about the affairs which culminated in the killing of Annis and the arrest of his two sons. In response to every question he had nothing to say, and showed considerable impatience when the questioning was not discontinued immediately.

"There is no use in asking questions," he said at last. "I will say absolutely nothing about this matter in the papers. Enough, yes, too much, has been said already."

During the entire interview he stood before his desk, fumbling nervously with the pile of papers which had been placed before him, looking up but rarely, and plainly manifested his relief when his visitors departed.

HITCHCOCK NAMES ADVISORY BOARD

Richard A. Ballinger, of Washington, Among Nine Appointed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee, today announced the names of nine men as having been selected as an advisory committee for the campaign. Mr. Hitchcock will be chairman of the committee, and Elmer Dyer its secretary.

The members are: Richard A. Ballinger, of Washington; Cornelius N. Bliss, of New York; Powell Clayton, of Arkansas; W. Murray Crane, of Massachusetts; William Nelson Cromwell, of New York; John Hays Hammond, of New York; Franklin Murphy, of New Jersey; Charles P. Taft, of Ohio; Arthur Vorys, of Ohio.

Mr. Hitchcock later will announce the names of fifty-three members of a committee to assist the treasurer, George R. Sheldon, in the financial management of the Republican fight.

AIDS BROTHER

MAJOR JOHN P. HAINS, Army Officer, Who, With Father, Helps Slayers of William Annis.

MAJOR JOHN P. HAINS, Army Officer, Who, With Father, Helps Slayers of William Annis.

AMERICAN ANTHEM SUNG BY ENGLISH

High Tribute to Battleship Fleet Followed by Hearty Cheering.

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Aug. 22.—A scene unique in the history of international relations was enacted in the harbor here last night, when crews of yachts and rowboats, crowded with Australians and English residents, swarmed around the huge American battleships and sang "The Star-spangled Banner."

Had it been an Australian fleet, returning from a victorious campaign, the scene could not have been more enthusiastic. The whole harbor and shore were ablaze, and the lights of many craft danced on the waters. The American anthem was sung by the crews in the boats, and the sailors responded with a mighty cheer.

Today was one continuous round of pleasure for the Americans. Hundreds went on an excursion, as guests of the government, to Newcastle and the Blue Mountains, but the greater number preferred to witness the program of sports, including football, baseball, and aquatic.

Vice Admiral Sir Richard Pore gave a banquet last night in honor of Admiral Sperry and the senior officers of the fleet. Great stress is laid on the fact that in no utterance of Admiral Sperry or the other officers has there been any attempt to discourage the extreme ground taken by the English government officials. These latter have gone so far as to favor a formal and strong alliance with the policy of white supremacy of the Pacific, unmistakably set forth, and both by inference and statement have these utterances been concurred in by the Americans.

Today was one continuous round of pleasure for the Americans. Hundreds went on an excursion, as guests of the government, to Newcastle and the Blue Mountains, but the greater number preferred to witness the program of sports, including football, baseball, and aquatic.

Vice Admiral Sir Richard Pore gave a banquet last night in honor of Admiral Sperry and the senior officers of the fleet. Great stress is laid on the fact that in no utterance of Admiral Sperry or the other officers has there been any attempt to discourage the extreme ground taken by the English government officials. These latter have gone so far as to favor a formal and strong alliance with the policy of white supremacy of the Pacific, unmistakably set forth, and both by inference and statement have these utterances been concurred in by the Americans.

On the night of June 1 Mrs. Long returned to her home about 10 o'clock and had gone to bed, when, according to her statement, a man entered her room, lit the gas, and told her that a woman downstairs wished to see her. Mrs. Long said she had a man on the stairs and looked down. She told her husband she did not know the woman and would not go down to see her.

Mr. Long stated in the letter that she was confined in Dr. Wiley's Long Island home at Amityville, and that she had been kidnapped from her home on the night of June 1. She went to visit his sister at the sanitarium and was allowed to talk with her.

Wife Tells Story.

She told him of her quarrels with her husband and of the mysterious visit of two strangers to her house on May 30, in company with Dr. Wiley, a veterinary surgeon of the American Express Company, and a friend of her husband. They claimed that they had come to look over the house with a view to purchasing it. Mrs. Long said that she later learned that one of the men was the brother of Dr. Wiley.

On the night of June 1 Mrs. Long returned to her home about 10 o'clock and had gone to bed, when, according to her statement, a man entered her room, lit the gas, and told her that a woman downstairs wished to see her. Mrs. Long said she had a man on the stairs and looked down. She told her husband she did not know the woman and would not go down to see her.

Mr. Long stated in the letter that she was confined in Dr. Wiley's Long Island home at Amityville, and that she had been kidnapped from her home on the night of June 1. She went to visit his sister at the sanitarium and was allowed to talk with her.

Wife Tells Story.

She told him of her quarrels with her husband and of the mysterious visit of two strangers to her house on May 30, in company with Dr. Wiley, a veterinary surgeon of the American Express Company, and a friend of her husband. They claimed that they had come to look over the house with a view to purchasing it. Mrs. Long said that she later learned that one of the men was the brother of Dr. Wiley.

On the night of June 1 Mrs. Long returned to her home about 10 o'clock and had gone to bed, when, according to her statement, a man entered her room, lit the gas, and told her that a woman downstairs wished to see her. Mrs. Long said she had a man on the stairs and looked down. She told her husband she did not know the woman and would not go down to see her.

Mr. Long stated in the letter that she was confined in Dr. Wiley's Long Island home at Amityville, and that she had been kidnapped from her home on the night of June 1. She went to visit his sister at the sanitarium and was allowed to talk with her.

Wife Tells Story.

She told him of her quarrels with her husband and of the mysterious visit of two strangers to her house on May 30, in company with Dr. Wiley, a veterinary surgeon of the American Express Company, and a friend of her husband. They claimed that they had come to look over the house with a view to purchasing it. Mrs. Long said that she later learned that one of the men was the brother of Dr. Wiley.

On the night of June 1 Mrs. Long returned to her home about 10 o'clock and had gone to bed, when, according to her statement, a man entered her room, lit the gas, and told her that a woman downstairs wished to see her. Mrs. Long said she had a man on the stairs and looked down. She told her husband she did not know the woman and would not go down to see her.

Mr. Long stated in the letter that she was confined in Dr. Wiley's Long Island home at Amityville, and that she had been kidnapped from her home on the night of June 1. She went to visit his sister at the sanitarium and was allowed to talk with her.

Wife Tells Story.

She told him of her quarrels with her husband and of the mysterious visit of two strangers to her house on May 30, in company with Dr. Wiley, a veterinary surgeon of the American Express Company, and a friend of her husband. They claimed that they had come to look over the house with a view to purchasing it. Mrs. Long said that she later learned that one of the men was the brother of Dr. Wiley.

On the night of June 1 Mrs. Long returned to her home about 10 o'clock and had gone to bed, when, according to her statement, a man entered her room, lit the gas, and told her that a woman downstairs wished to see her. Mrs. Long said she had a man on the stairs and looked down. She told her husband she did not know the woman and would not go down to see her.

Mr. Long stated in the letter that she was confined in Dr. Wiley's Long Island home at Amityville, and that she had been kidnapped from her home on the night of June 1. She went to visit his sister at the sanitarium and was allowed to talk with her.

"KIDNAPED" WOMAN HELPS AS INSANE

Found by Brother in Sanitarium, She Accuses Husband.

LOST TO FAMILY SINCE EARLY JUNE

Habeas Corpus Proceedings Are Brought as Result of Mrs. Long's Story.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The sisters and brothers of Mrs. William Annis, wife of the general agent for the American Express Company in Brooklyn, who have been searching for her since her mysterious disappearance from her home at 37 Tenth avenue, Rockaway Park, L. I., announced last night that they had found her in a sanitarium in Long Island.

Application for a writ of habeas corpus was made in the Brooklyn courts on the plea that Mrs. Long had been forcibly kidnaped from her home and was illegally restrained of her liberty. Charles A. Flay, of 440 Eighty-eighth street, a member of the police force for twenty-eight years and a lieutenant attached to the New York detective bureau for twenty years, who was retired two months ago, told the story of the alleged kidnaping of his sister and the search for her, at police headquarters last night.

Tells of Family Quarrel.

He said that his sister and Long were married eighteen years ago and that they had two children, a boy of seventeen and another one twelve years old. For a few weeks prior to June 1 his sister and her husband had hardly spoken as the result of a family quarrel, and, according to Flay, the husband frequently absent himself from home for one or two nights.

After that date the sisters of Mrs. Long who called at her house, were told that she was away on a visit or was not at home for the day.

The sisters of Mrs. Long became suspicious and told their brother, the former detective sergeant, of their suspicions. He also tried to find his sister, and a few days ago learned that a neighbor of Mrs. Long had received a letter from her. Flay found that he had been introduced to a patient of the sanitarium who was about to be released, and had been delivered by this woman to the neighbor.

Mrs. Long stated in the letter that she was confined in Dr. Wiley's Long Island home at Amityville, and that she had been kidnapped from her home on the night of June 1. She went to visit his sister at the sanitarium and was allowed to talk with her.

Wife Tells Story.

She told him of her quarrels with her husband and of the mysterious visit of two strangers to her house on May 30, in company with Dr. Wiley, a veterinary surgeon of the American Express Company, and a friend of her husband. They claimed that they had come to look over the house with a view to purchasing it. Mrs. Long said that she later learned that one of the men was the brother of Dr. Wiley.

On the night of June 1 Mrs. Long returned to her home about 10 o'clock and had gone to bed, when, according to her statement, a man entered her room, lit the gas, and told her that a woman downstairs wished to see her. Mrs. Long said she had a man on the stairs and looked down. She told her husband she did not know the woman and would not go down to see her.

Mr. Long stated in the letter that she was confined in Dr. Wiley's Long Island home at Amityville, and that she had been kidnapped from her home on the night of June 1. She went to visit his sister at the sanitarium and was allowed to talk with her.

Wife Tells Story.

She told him of her quarrels with her husband and of the mysterious visit of two strangers to her house on May 30, in company with Dr. Wiley, a veterinary surgeon of the American Express Company, and a friend of her husband. They claimed that they had come to look over the house with a view to purchasing it. Mrs. Long said that she later learned that one of the men was the brother of Dr. Wiley.

On the night of June 1 Mrs. Long returned to her home about 10 o'clock and had gone to bed, when, according to her statement, a man entered her room, lit the gas, and told her that a woman downstairs wished to see her. Mrs. Long said she had a man on the stairs and looked down. She told her husband she did not know the woman and would not go down to see her.

Mr. Long stated in the letter that she was confined in Dr. Wiley's Long Island home at Amityville, and that she had been kidnapped from her home on the night of June 1. She went to visit his sister at the sanitarium and was allowed to talk with her.

Wife Tells Story.

She told him of her quarrels with her husband and of the mysterious visit of two strangers to her house on May 30, in company with Dr. Wiley, a veterinary surgeon of the American Express Company, and a friend of her husband. They claimed that they had come to look over the house with a view to purchasing it. Mrs. Long said that she later learned that one of the men was the brother of Dr. Wiley.

On the night of June 1 Mrs. Long returned to her home about 10 o'clock and had gone to bed, when, according to her statement, a man entered her room, lit the gas, and told her that a woman downstairs wished to see her. Mrs. Long said she had a man on the stairs and looked down. She told her husband she did not know the woman and would not go down to see her.

Mr. Long stated in the letter that she was confined in Dr. Wiley's Long Island home at Amityville, and that she had been kidnapped from her home on the night of June 1. She went to visit his sister at the sanitarium and was allowed to talk with her.

Wife Tells Story.

She told him of her quarrels with her husband and of the mysterious visit of two strangers to her house on May 30, in company with Dr. Wiley, a veterinary surgeon of the American Express Company, and a friend of her husband. They claimed that they had come to look over the house with a view to purchasing it. Mrs. Long said that she later learned that one of the men was the brother of Dr. Wiley.