

DEPOSITS HEADED OUT BY HAYES, IS CHARGE

Bank Examiner Gives Damaging Testimony Against Accused Former Teller.

That Thomas G. Hayes, former retiring teller of the American National Bank, from day to day carried short-ages upon the accounts of several depositors, withholding one deposit until one or more were made on the same account, was the burden of testimony given by National Bank Examiner Owen T. Reeves, who was placed on the witness stand in the trial of the bank clerk on charges of embezzlement and alteration of bank records today.

A number of sums, on an undated slip, the aggregate total of three of which are claimed by the Government to correspond to the total amount held out by Hayes from the accounts of several bank clients on December 10, was admitted in evidence by Judge Gould over the objection of Attorney Henry E. Davis, chief counsel for Hayes.

Wife Comes Late. Mrs. Hayes, who spent the entire day yesterday beside her husband, did not enter the courtroom until noon today, but remained through the afternoon session.

The majority of the morning was spent in identifying pass books of several depositors and deposit slips for the amounts charged therein, many of which, Mr. Reeves claimed, did not appear in the ledger accounts of the depositors until several days after they were made, as shown by the deposit slips and pass books.

Among those presented in evidence were: The Shea pass book, showing an entry on October 28, 1907, of $2,670.45, with a corresponding ledger entry November 7, 1907; that of the Warren Brenner Company, showing the deposit of a check for $2,756.65, and a ledger entry of the amount November 14, five days after the date on the deposit slip.

Gardner Pass Book. The pass book of Edward J. Gardner, a deposit of $500 on December 10, with no corresponding ledger entry until after December 23, at which time Hayes was no longer with the bank, was then offered, and following it the book of R. E. Howard, showing, on December 2 or 12, a deposit of $1,700, with no ledger entry on December 2, but on December 12.

Other books, belonging to John T. Crowley, Bernard Leonard, Goldsmith & Co., E. R. Chapman, and Peter Loftus, were offered in evidence.

Jesse C. Adkins, who is assisting District Attorney Baker in the prosecution, then offered the undated slip of paper, which he explained, showed the deposit in Hayes' desk following his dismissal. The court ruled, however, that a portion of the figures contained therein only could be offered as competent. Mr. Davis contends that the slip being undated and identified only by Mr. Reeves, who declared it to be in Hayes' handwriting, was in the nature of an inference only and could not be considered competent.

JUDSON CAPS IN ALL GRADES

New Engineer Commissioner Surprises the District Building.

The general outline of the work of the Engineer Department was the subject of a short conference between Major Judson and Daniel E. Garges, chief clerk, after which the heads of the various departments were presented to the new Commissioner.

At 11:30 Major Judson left for the State, War, and Navy building to pay his respects to Col. F. V. Abbot, Acting Chief Engineer, and other officers with whom he has been formerly associated.

Expeditions by Habit.

Upon suggestion that his arrival in Washington was somewhat unexpected Major Judson said that it is his habit to do things as expeditiously as possible. "I concluded all my business in Milwaukee as officer in charge of harbor improvements on Lake Michigan, and left at once for Washington. My orders transferring me to the duties of Engineer Commissioner were unlooked for, and I was somewhat unprepared to accept of them."

The new Engineer Commissioner is tall and of commanding appearance, resembling in facial outline his predecessor, Major Morrow. The impression created by him upon the District officials is most favorable, and all united in wishing him a successful administration.

Others Welcome Him.

"I was very glad to welcome Major Judson and to give him my congratulations upon his appointment," said Commissioner MacFarland. "The District is also to be congratulated, as I am sure that his administration will be most successful."

"My relations with the engineer office connected with the District government," said Commissioner West, "have been so uniformly agreeable that it is a pleasure to find in Major Judson an officer with whom my association promises to be equally pleasant. He is a man of the right sort, and the citizens of the District will profit by his detail here. He is not a stranger to Washington, and will be actively identified with every project which has for its object the development of the National Capital."

DETECTIVE BACK FROM OKLAHOMA

Central Office Detective Berman returned to Washington this morning from Guymon, Okla., where he went to attend the hearing of Thomas V. Sawyer, wanted in this city on the charge of passing two alleged worthless drafts on Representative Scott Ferris. Sawyer was held in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance in Washington, May 3. "I went broke in Oklahoma," Sawyer told Berman, "and thought the persons on whom I made the drafts would honor them."

CLEAR OFFICIALS OF NEW YORK LIFE

Jerome Has Last Indictments in Famous Insurance Scandal Dismissed.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Justice Blewhard in the supreme court today handed down a decision dismissing, on the application of District Attorney Jerome, indictments alleging forgery in the third degree against George W. Hermann, first vice president; Charles S. Fairchild, second vice president, of the New York Life Insurance Company, and Robert A. Grannis, president of the New York Securities Company, a subsidiary company of the New York State, and also an official of the Mutual Life.

There were three indictments against the noted financiers, all growing out of the so-called Prussian bonds scandal unearthed by the Armstrong legislative committee, which investigated the insurance situation in this State. They were returned in December, 1906, and have been pigeonholed ever since.

In his motion to dismiss, made a week ago, Jerome alleged that under the decision of the court of appeals in the case of President Hieganan of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, he could not hope to secure a conviction.

With the dismissal of these indictments today the prosecution of all persons concerned in the insurance manipulations which resulted in the adoption of stringent insurance laws in nearly every State in the Union, has come to an end.
