

not be settled until the arrival of Pierre Lorillard, Jr., the dead man's eldest son, from New York, but the exact hour of Mr. Lorillard's coming was not known. It is thought, however, that the body will be taken to New York for burial, inasmuch as that city is the permanent home of the Lorillards.

Well Known Here.
Mrs. Lorillard's death caused a sensation in the social circles in which the family moved, both in Washington and New York. The cause, the exact hour of Mr. Lorillard's coming was not known. It is thought, however, that the body will be taken to New York for burial, inasmuch as that city is the permanent home of the Lorillards.

Detected Gas Odor.
It was about 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning that the butler, going to the second floor, where the bedrooms of Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard are located, detected the odor of gas. With little difficulty he traced its origin to Mrs. Lorillard's apartment. Opening the door of the bedroom to her suite and peering in, the horrified butler's gaze centered on the lifeless body of his mistress on the floor at his feet. The alarm raised by the butler brought Mr. Lorillard from his apartment across the hall. Together the two men lifted the body of the prostrate woman and carried her to her bed, which apparently had not been disturbed during the night.

Evidence of Suicide.
Shortly afterward Coroner Nevitt was summoned to the Lorillard home. He made a thorough investigation, and from the butler learned that one gas cock had been turned on full head, and that the door leading from Mrs. Lorillard's bedroom to the bathroom had been tightly closed. These facts, together with the note which Mrs. Lorillard left, convinced Coroner Nevitt that her death was with suicidal intent.

Came Late This Season.
The Lorillards were unusually late in reaching the National Capital this season, and it was the latter part of January before they became established in their home at Hillier place. Since their arrival, however, they had taken an unusually active part in society, and were among the principal guests at many of the social functions of the season.

Young Appearing Woman.
Although forty-nine years old, Mrs. Lorillard was remarkably well preserved and did not appear to be more than a woman of no more than forty. She was a decided type of brunette and about 5 feet 2 inches in height. When she was twenty-one years old Miss Hamilton met young Pierre Lorillard in Paris. They were married there in 1881. Two sons were born to them, Pierre, twenty-four years of age, and Griswold, twenty-four. The latter is now traveling in Europe.

Planned a Sanitarium.
Another plan which she decided upon at that time was the erection of an immense sanitarium on the Riviera, for consumptive American women who had not the means to go there for their health. At this time—February, 1901—Mrs. Lorillard's health was the cause of worry to her family and friends. Her husband, who was at that time an officer of the Continental Tobacco Company, was in this country. Questioned regarding the philanthropic plans of Mrs. Lorillard, he said his wife was on the verge of nervous prostration. He intimated that when she regained her normal health the socialistic schemes she had devised would no longer appeal to her.

With a Package of Crisp, Golden-brown Post Toasties and Cream
You can be sure of a good meal, even when the cook has "blounded."

The Taste Lingers
Popular pkg. 10c; Large Family size 15c
Made at the Pure Food Factories of POSTUM CEREAL Co., Ltd. Battle Creek, Mich.

SON HASTENS HOME WHEN TOLD OF DEATH

Mrs. Lorillard's Tragic End Causes Sorrow in New York. She Preferred Quiet, Studious Life, and Was Fond of Socialistic Investigations.

NEW YORK, March 25.—Pierre Lorillard, who was a Tuxedo Park, which Pierre Lorillard, his grandfather, founded a quarter of a century ago, when news of his mother's sad end reached him by telegraph. The young man, a great favorite in the Tuxedo colony, jumped into an automobile and was driven at high speed to the railroad station. He just managed to catch the 4:30 p. m. train to Washington.

Young Lorillard only returned a few days ago from Texas, where he enjoyed an extensive hunting trip with his chum, Richard Talbot. He is twenty-four years old, and for years held the tennis championship of Tuxedo. He was a member of the Tuxedo club, and made an unsuccessful race for election to the association of the handsome and most pretentious in the famous colony of magnificent homes. It has not been open for a long time, the Lorillards spending all of their time either abroad or in Washington. Young Mr. Lorillard lived at the club since he came to Tuxedo, or stopped at the homes of some of his many friends there.

Mrs. Emily Taylor Lorillard, widow of the late Pierre Lorillard and mother-in-law of the deceased, heard the news at the Hotel Buckingham, where she and her husband had been for several months. The elder Mrs. Lorillard was all but prostrated by the tragic end of her daughter-in-law and begged to be excused from talking about it.

Mrs. Lorillard, who is now dead, had not figured in any extent in the doings of New York society for more than fifteen years. She was never conspicuously identified with the smart set, being a serious, studious girl of mind and caring nothing for the butterfly life of the society woman. She and her husband maintained a home in Tuxedo Park, but it is many years since they had a residence in this city.

No Longer New Yorkers.
Their liking for New York was never pronounced, and it ceased altogether after the summer of 1901, when Pierre Lorillard, father of her husband, came back here from Europe to die, and the funeral of his twenty years friendship with Mrs. Lillian Barnes Allen obtained wide publicity. Since that time, Mrs. Lorillard had divided her time between London, Paris, Washington and Tuxedo.

After she leased a house in London, and there Mrs. Lorillard was regarded as a recluse. She seldom mixed in the gaieties of the American colony, preferring the quiet companionship of a small circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard were married in 1881. She was Miss Evelyn Hamilton, her father, George Hamilton, being a Scotchman. Her mother was a daughter of the late John Hamilton, a well-known clergyman in this city two generations ago.

For a time after their marriage they lived in the Hillier place, at Thirty-sixth street and Fifth avenue, at that time one of the centers of the fashionable life of the city. But young Mrs. Lorillard, speedily tired of the whirl of society, she was ambitious to shine in literature and wrote a number of stories for the "Pratt's" and "George Girls," which earned her some fame back in the middle "eighties."

At this time—February, 1901—Mrs. Lorillard's health was the cause of worry to her family and friends. Her husband, who was at that time an officer of the Continental Tobacco Company, was in this country. Questioned regarding the philanthropic plans of Mrs. Lorillard, he said his wife was on the verge of nervous prostration. He intimated that when she regained her normal health the socialistic schemes she had devised would no longer appeal to her.

Refused to be Reconciled.
Efforts by other members of the family to effect a reconciliation here failed. They did succeed in getting the elder Mrs. Lorillard to consent to go to the hotel and see him one day, shortly before his death, but on the threshold of his room she encountered Mrs. Lillian Barnes Allen, and the two women around left the hotel highly incensed, without having seen her husband.

After his death Mrs. Lorillard refused to wear mourning or exhibit any of the ordinary signs of bereavement. Instead, though she had lived for many years in strict retirement, she re-entered society and a few months after his death gave an elaborate party at her home in honor of the coming out of her niece, Miss Taylor. Other members of the Lorillard family, including her children, tried to dissuade her from giving this function and showed their displeasure by remaining away.

That the elder Mrs. Lorillard had the greatest provocation for her unusual line of conduct was generally admitted at the time. For twenty years prior to his death Mr. Lorillard and Mrs. Allen were almost inseparable. He showed her the most consistent gifts upon her. She was his companion on his hunting trips South in a palatial houseboat, and at Ranococas, his famous stud farm at Jobtown, N. J. He gave her a splendidly furnished house in Thirty-first street, close to Fifth avenue, and there he made his home during the winter of this city. He gave her a profusion of costly jewels, and when he died it was found that his estate bequeathed to her the famous Ranococas farm, all of the blooded race horses and blood mares it contained, also the Ranococas stud farm in England. He left much less to his wife than he did to Mrs. Allen.

After his death Mrs. Lorillard refused to wear mourning or exhibit any of the ordinary signs of bereavement. Instead, though she had lived for many years in strict retirement, she re-entered society and a few months after his death gave an elaborate party at her home in honor of the coming out of her niece, Miss Taylor. Other members of the Lorillard family, including her children, tried to dissuade her from giving this function and showed their displeasure by remaining away.

That the elder Mrs. Lorillard had the greatest provocation for her unusual line of conduct was generally admitted at the time. For twenty years prior to his death Mr. Lorillard and Mrs. Allen were almost inseparable. He showed her the most consistent gifts upon her. She was his companion on his hunting trips South in a palatial houseboat, and at Ranococas, his famous stud farm at Jobtown, N. J. He gave her a splendidly furnished house in Thirty-first street, close to Fifth avenue, and there he made his home during the winter of this city. He gave her a profusion of costly jewels, and when he died it was found that his estate bequeathed to her the famous Ranococas farm, all of the blooded race horses and blood mares it contained, also the Ranococas stud farm in England. He left much less to his wife than he did to Mrs. Allen.

After his death Mrs. Lorillard refused to wear mourning or exhibit any of the ordinary signs of bereavement. Instead, though she had lived for many years in strict retirement, she re-entered society and a few months after his death gave an elaborate party at her home in honor of the coming out of her niece, Miss Taylor. Other members of the Lorillard family, including her children, tried to dissuade her from giving this function and showed their displeasure by remaining away.

That the elder Mrs. Lorillard had the greatest provocation for her unusual line of conduct was generally admitted at the time. For twenty years prior to his death Mr. Lorillard and Mrs. Allen were almost inseparable. He showed her the most consistent gifts upon her. She was his companion on his hunting trips South in a palatial houseboat, and at Ranococas, his famous stud farm at Jobtown, N. J. He gave her a splendidly furnished house in Thirty-first street, close to Fifth avenue, and there he made his home during the winter of this city. He gave her a profusion of costly jewels, and when he died it was found that his estate bequeathed to her the famous Ranococas farm, all of the blooded race horses and blood mares it contained, also the Ranococas stud farm in England. He left much less to his wife than he did to Mrs. Allen.

After his death Mrs. Lorillard refused to wear mourning or exhibit any of the ordinary signs of bereavement. Instead, though she had lived for many years in strict retirement, she re-entered society and a few months after his death gave an elaborate party at her home in honor of the coming out of her niece, Miss Taylor. Other members of the Lorillard family, including her children, tried to dissuade her from giving this function and showed their displeasure by remaining away.

That the elder Mrs. Lorillard had the greatest provocation for her unusual line of conduct was generally admitted at the time. For twenty years prior to his death Mr. Lorillard and Mrs. Allen were almost inseparable. He showed her the most consistent gifts upon her. She was his companion on his hunting trips South in a palatial houseboat, and at Ranococas, his famous stud farm at Jobtown, N. J. He gave her a splendidly furnished house in Thirty-first street, close to Fifth avenue, and there he made his home during the winter of this city. He gave her a profusion of costly jewels, and when he died it was found that his estate bequeathed to her the famous Ranococas farm, all of the blooded race horses and blood mares it contained, also the Ranococas stud farm in England. He left much less to his wife than he did to Mrs. Allen.

After his death Mrs. Lorillard refused to wear mourning or exhibit any of the ordinary signs of bereavement. Instead, though she had lived for many years in strict retirement, she re-entered society and a few months after his death gave an elaborate party at her home in honor of the coming out of her niece, Miss Taylor. Other members of the Lorillard family, including her children, tried to dissuade her from giving this function and showed their displeasure by remaining away.

That the elder Mrs. Lorillard had the greatest provocation for her unusual line of conduct was generally admitted at the time. For twenty years prior to his death Mr. Lorillard and Mrs. Allen were almost inseparable. He showed her the most consistent gifts upon her. She was his companion on his hunting trips South in a palatial houseboat, and at Ranococas, his famous stud farm at Jobtown, N. J. He gave her a splendidly furnished house in Thirty-first street, close to Fifth avenue, and there he made his home during the winter of this city. He gave her a profusion of costly jewels, and when he died it was found that his estate bequeathed to her the famous Ranococas farm, all of the blooded race horses and blood mares it contained, also the Ranococas stud farm in England. He left much less to his wife than he did to Mrs. Allen.

After his death Mrs. Lorillard refused to wear mourning or exhibit any of the ordinary signs of bereavement. Instead, though she had lived for many years in strict retirement, she re-entered society and a few months after his death gave an elaborate party at her home in honor of the coming out of her niece, Miss Taylor. Other members of the Lorillard family, including her children, tried to dissuade her from giving this function and showed their displeasure by remaining away.

That the elder Mrs. Lorillard had the greatest provocation for her unusual line of conduct was generally admitted at the time. For twenty years prior to his death Mr. Lorillard and Mrs. Allen were almost inseparable. He showed her the most consistent gifts upon her. She was his companion on his hunting trips South in a palatial houseboat, and at Ranococas, his famous stud farm at Jobtown, N. J. He gave her a splendidly furnished house in Thirty-first street, close to Fifth avenue, and there he made his home during the winter of this city. He gave her a profusion of costly jewels, and when he died it was found that his estate bequeathed to her the famous Ranococas farm, all of the blooded race horses and blood mares it contained, also the Ranococas stud farm in England. He left much less to his wife than he did to Mrs. Allen.

After his death Mrs. Lorillard refused to wear mourning or exhibit any of the ordinary signs of bereavement. Instead, though she had lived for many years in strict retirement, she re-entered society and a few months after his death gave an elaborate party at her home in honor of the coming out of her niece, Miss Taylor. Other members of the Lorillard family, including her children, tried to dissuade her from giving this function and showed their displeasure by remaining away.

That the elder Mrs. Lorillard had the greatest provocation for her unusual line of conduct was generally admitted at the time. For twenty years prior to his death Mr. Lorillard and Mrs. Allen were almost inseparable. He showed her the most consistent gifts upon her. She was his companion on his hunting trips South in a palatial houseboat, and at Ranococas, his famous stud farm at Jobtown, N. J. He gave her a splendidly furnished house in Thirty-first street, close to Fifth avenue, and there he made his home during the winter of this city. He gave her a profusion of costly jewels, and when he died it was found that his estate bequeathed to her the famous Ranococas farm, all of the blooded race horses and blood mares it contained, also the Ranococas stud farm in England. He left much less to his wife than he did to Mrs. Allen.

After his death Mrs. Lorillard refused to wear mourning or exhibit any of the ordinary signs of bereavement. Instead, though she had lived for many years in strict retirement, she re-entered society and a few months after his death gave an elaborate party at her home in honor of the coming out of her niece, Miss Taylor. Other members of the Lorillard family, including her children, tried to dissuade her from giving this function and showed their displeasure by remaining away.

That the elder Mrs. Lorillard had the greatest provocation for her unusual line of conduct was generally admitted at the time. For twenty years prior to his death Mr. Lorillard and Mrs. Allen were almost inseparable. He showed her the most consistent gifts upon her. She was his companion on his hunting trips South in a palatial houseboat, and at Ranococas, his famous stud farm at Jobtown, N. J. He gave her a splendidly furnished house in Thirty-first street, close to Fifth avenue, and there he made his home during the winter of this city. He gave her a profusion of costly jewels, and when he died it was found that his estate bequeathed to her the famous Ranococas farm, all of the blooded race horses and blood mares it contained, also the Ranococas stud farm in England. He left much less to his wife than he did to Mrs. Allen.

After his death Mrs. Lorillard refused to wear mourning or exhibit any of the ordinary signs of bereavement. Instead, though she had lived for many years in strict retirement, she re-entered society and a few months after his death gave an elaborate party at her home in honor of the coming out of her niece, Miss Taylor. Other members of the Lorillard family, including her children, tried to dissuade her from giving this function and showed their displeasure by remaining away.

WOULD BLOCK FOOD PARTRIDGE ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Makers of Flour Bleaching Machine Ask Mandamus Against Wilson.

Attorney Bruce Elliot, of St. Louis, this morning argued the petition of the Alsop Process Company for the issuance of a writ of mandamus against Secretary Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture, that he be commanded to withhold prosecution and cancel the order made December 9, last, which declared the use of hydrogen peroxide in the bleaching of flour contrary to the Pure Food and Drugs Law.

The case was called before Justice Stanford in Circuit Court No. 1. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the Government chemist, who, with Secretary Wilson and Drs. Dunlop and McKee, was on the board which heard the case November 18, 1931, is interested spectator. Mr. Elliot declared, in his argument which prefaced the prayer of the Alsop company, that Secretary Wilson transgressed his authority; that he disregarded the regulations of law in such cases, which provides that hearings shall be private and that a decision shall not be published until thirty days after the decision of a court, and that he had no authority to make a final ruling. He said that unless the ruling of Secretary Wilson is reversed it will cause the loss of large sums of money to the Alsop company, to whom creditors owe large amounts for the purchase of machines used in the bleaching process, which are one and illegal and for which they now refuse to pay.

Attorneys Daniel W. Baker and Stuart McNamara represent the Government.

The Vital Records.

Births.
Antonio and N. Letitia Vincenza, boy, Harold and Florence Snow, boy, Frank and Lena Stoff, girl, Charles and Estelle A. Mande, girl, David and Marion H. G. Fairchild, girl, Clarence L. and Rosa C. Higshon, boy, Fred O. and Ethel Cossill, girl, Bernard H. and Mary M. Canavir, boy.

Marriage Licenses.
Calvin S. Burns and Matilda Z. Briggs, both of Philadelphia, to be solemnized at Washington.
Peter F. Amer and Mary Daub, both of Baltimore.
William C. M. Bruin, of Alexandria, and Edith C. A. Higgins, East Woodford, Va.

Deaths.
Marie Schulz, 90 years, Sligo Mill road, Takoma.
Mary Blaine, 1 year, 319 L street southeast.
Johannette Voelger, 76 years, 229 G street northwest.
Rose B. Chapman, 24 years, 125 Massachusetts avenue northeast.
Margaret E. Brown, 58 years, 229 Seventh street northwest.
Brigitte Mlyotte, 61 years, The Plaza, Twenty-third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.
Jerome B. Diver, 73 years, 222 C street southeast.
Honora Kennally, 56 years, Third and H streets northeast.

DOG SAVES HIS LIFE.
PHILADELPHIA, March 25.—Hugo Harman, of 304 Coral street, was overcome by gas at his home. His pet dog, Daisy, seeming to realize that something was wrong, ran from the room barking and gnawing Mr. Harman by her skirts dragged her to the room where her husband was lying unconscious. Mrs. Harman dragged her husband to the air in time to save his life.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF ROBBERY MILITIA
William Gant, charged with stealing belt clothing, shoes, and other property from the District of Columbia National Guard, pleaded not guilty and waived examination this morning. He was sent to jail in default of $500 bond to await the action of the grand jury. The offense occurred January 25 last, and the property stolen is valued at $20.

Died.
JONES.—On Friday, March 25, 1932, at 10 a. m., WILLIAM J. JONES, in his seventy-third year.
Funeral services at his late residence, 554 Fourteenth street, at 2 p. m., March 27. Friends invited. Interment at Spring Grove Cemetery, Cincinnati, Ohio, March 28.

BERKELEY.—On Wednesday, March 24, 1932, at 11 p. m., EMMA E., widow of the late Eos R. Berkeley.
Funeral on Saturday, at 11 a. m., from the residence of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Berkeley, 212 Tenth street southeast. Interment private.

BICKINGHAM.—On Friday, March 25, 1932, at 8:50 a. m., JOHN E., sr., at the residence of his son, 718 8th st. N. E. Funeral notice Honora Kennally, 56 years, Third and H streets northeast.

BROWN.—On Wednesday, March 24, 1932, at 5:30 p. m., at his home, 1816 Duke street, Alexandria, JOHN W. BROWN, aged seventy-seven years.
Funeral from St. John's Chapel, West End, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Notice of funeral hereafter.

HAGER.—On Wednesday, March 24, 1932, at 11:30 a. m., CHARLES, son of Chris and Francis Hager.
Funeral Saturday, at Vilebank. May he rest in peace.

CHAPMAN.—On Tuesday, March 22, 1932, at her home, 125 Massachusetts avenue northeast, Miss ROSE B. CHAPMAN, in her twenty-fourth year.

GILBERT.—On Friday, March 25, 1932, at 12:50 a. m., Rev. JAMES E. GILBERT, D. D., at his residence, 1523 I street, aged sixty-nine years.

JENNINGS.—On Thursday, March 25, 1932, at 3:45 p. m., at his residence, 1237 E street southeast, JOSEPH T. JENNINGS, 72.

LORILLARD.—On Thursday, March 25, 1932, at his residence, 209 Hillier place, CAROLINE HAMILTON, beloved wife of Pierre Lorillard.

REYBURN.—On Thursday, March 25, 1932, at 9:15 p. m., at his residence, 2129 I street, Dr. ROBERT REYBURN, in his seventy-sixth year.

TAYLOR.—On Wednesday, March 24, 1932, at 2:15 p. m., ZARAH D., wife of John M. Taylor.

WALKER.—At Mount Washington, Md., on Thursday, March 25, 1932, at 10 a. m., at the residence of his son-in-law, Dr. William J. Todd, REDFORD W. WALKER, aged sixty-eight years and eight days.

PARTRIDGE ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Is Arraigned Today Upon Charge of Embezzling $1,500.

Robert H. Partridge was arraigned in court this morning, charged with embezzlement of $1,500 in connection with a stock transaction in which, by representing himself an agent of the National Lumber Company, he is said to have gotten a large sum of money from Rev. Eugene A. Hamman, pastor of St. Martin's Church.

He entered a plea of not guilty through his attorney, E. L. Giles, who waived the reading of the indictment.

EARL DECORATED.
LONDON, March 25.—King Edward has appointed the Earl of Granard a knight of the Order of St. Patrick in place of the Earl of Howth, deceased. The Earl of Granard married Miss Beatrice Mills, of New York, in January of this year.

VALUABLE DOG MISSING.
Griffin Halstead, a stock broker, has asked the police to find a Great Dane dog which he values at $2,000, and which strayed or was stolen from his residence, 218 Florida avenue northwest. The dog has won prizes at several of the New York shows.

Until Tomorrow Night A Special Easter Offer
$25 Suit to your measure $17.50
$20 Suit to your measure $12.50

Get in This Evening or Tomorrow as This Sale Will Be Withdrawn Tomorrow Night.
Open late Saturday Evening
SCHWARTZ & PELZMAN
Reliable Tailors 505-507 7th St. N. W.

CREDIT IS YOUR PURSE
Store Closes 6 P. M. Saturdays 9 P. M.
Money-Saving Furniture Specials for Friday Afternoon and All Day Saturday Selling. You're Welcome to CREDIT.

This $14.50 Chiffonier, $8.75

There is a cake of Ivory Soap in your bathroom; or, at all events, there ought to be.

But if you use it only for the bath, you are not getting all the good out of it you should.

Use it for the toilet as well as for the bath; and for fine laundry purposes, too.
Ivory Soap 99 1/100 Per Cent. Pure.

For Easter! SOROSIS SHOES
To Complete Your Easter Costume
New designs, latest shapes and materials.
Sorosis Shoe Co., 1213 F St. N. W.

This $23.00 Sideboard, $15.75

Handsome and very massive quartered oak Sideboard, like cut; large French plate mirror, carved top, new O. G. swell front. Regular $23 value. Our underselling price, $15.75

The Hub Furniture Co. Southeast Corner Seventh and D Streets Northwest
"THE STORE THAT SAVES YOU MONEY"

BUILDING PERMITS.

The following permits were issued today:
To C. E. Corwin, for one three-story brick and stone dwelling at 2811 Eighteenth street northwest. Architect, S. S. Plager; builder, G. H. Greer; estimated cost, $3,900.
To H. H. Howenstein, for five two-story brick dwellings, from 124 to 182 Adams street northwest. Architect, F. T. Schneider; builder, H. R. Howenstein; estimated cost, $13,000.
To J. J. Hemphill, for one three-story brick dwelling, at 2108 Bancroft place northwest. Architect, L. Norris; builder, W. P. Lipscomb & Co.; estimated cost, $15,000.

Reduce Fat A Pound a Day
Rengo Has Solved the Problem of Fat Reduction Without Starvation Diet or Tiresome Exercises.
We Gladly Send a Trial Box Free to All

Rengo is perfectly safe. You eat it like fruit or candy and easily and safely reduce your fat a pound a day. You will never need anything else to reduce yourself to perfectly normal form and size.
For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per full sized box, 97¢ by mail prepaid, by the Rengo Co., 2223 Rengo Building, Detroit, Mich. The company will gladly send you a trial package free by mail, if you write them direct to Detroit; no free packages at drug stores.
Rengo is for sale and recommended in Washington by H. Evans, 324 F St. N. W.; Artley's Drug Store, 1427 Penn. Ave. N. W.; People's Drug Store, 824 Seventh st.

CHURCH NOTICES.
DR. WILFRED T. GREENFELD will give one of his interesting lectures about his work on the Labrador and amongst the North Atlantic and Newfoundland fisheries on Thursday, April 1, at the MELASCO THEATER, at 4:30 o'clock. Illustrated by numerous stereoscopic views. Admission 25c, 50c, 75c. For the benefit of the work. Tickets for sale by T. Arthur Smith, 1011 F St. S. E., Phone 4994 Main. mh25-5

SPECIAL NOTICES.
WILL STEAMFITTER, WHO WELL-pressed accident to Mrs. Margaret M. Smith, in leaving Avenue car at Seventh street on evening of April 21, 1932, kindly send his name and address to FRED B. FLORES, Bond Building. mh25-5

MESSRS. C. D. PENNERBAKER, SERVING partner of C. D. Pennerbaker and John Paul Jones, Charles F. Carver, and Eugene A. Jones, have removed their law offices from 121 F St. and the Commercial National Bank Building to the new offices of PENNERBAKER, CARVER & JONES, corner 121 F St. in the Metropolitan National Bank Building, 613 15th St. N. W. Telephone, Main 1196-1197. mh25-5

PHILADELPHIA Oyster and Chop House, 52 1/2th St. N. W. Phone Main 6967. SPECIALISTS IN SEA FOODS. Try Our Famous Single Fried Oysters. mh25-5

JUST RECEIVED SPRING SHOES IN ALL THE LATEST STYLES AND LEATHERS FOR LADIES, GENTS AND CHILDREN. WE SAVE YOU MONEY
Look Over Our Stock Before Buying. N. E. MODERN SHOE STORE 717 H ST. N. E. mh25-5

WANTED Bookkeepers, Stenographers, Typewriters
MORE BANKERS in the 12 States in which Mrs. F. Draughon's 13 Colleges are located, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey. IF YOU WANT EVIDENCE and want to RISE to the 30-a-day class ask for FREE catalogue. Lessons by MAIL. If preferred, Draughon's Practical Business College, Chesley Building, 117 N. Y. ave. N. W. mh25-5

IRON FENCES
Gichner's Iron Works
1214 D Street Northwest mh25-905

DON'T BUY NEW CARPETS
We will take your old carpet or carpet scraps and weave them into beautiful new rugs. Cost but little. More popular than carpets. Last longer than the original carpet.
Call and see sample and get price. WASHINGTON RUG WEAVING Co. Phone M 4325 531 5th St. N. W. mh25-5

MICO WATER
817 17th St. N. W. Phone Main 6967. mh25-5

"WE SAVE GAS"
Reduce those enormous gas bills by ordering a gas controller from the Gas Users Association
1318 E Street N. W. Phone M 741. mh10-w.fr.Su-4f

THARP'S RYE
812 F Street N. W.

Buy it for Purity—Karo

A syrup with a rich, golden color and a flavor most appetizing. Best for every purpose for which syrup is used.
For table use—For cooking—For candy-making.

In air-tight tins, 10c, 25c and 50c.
A book of cooking and candy-making recipes sent free on request.

CHURCH NOTICES.
DR. WILFRED T. GREENFELD will give one of his interesting lectures about his work on the Labrador and amongst the North Atlantic and Newfoundland fisheries on Thursday, April 1, at the MELASCO THEATER, at 4:30 o'clock. Illustrated by numerous stereoscopic views. Admission 25c, 50c, 75c. For the benefit of the work. Tickets for sale by T. Arthur Smith, 1011 F St. S. E., Phone 4994 Main. mh25-5

SPECIAL NOTICES.
WILL STEAMFITTER, WHO WELL-pressed accident to Mrs. Margaret M. Smith, in leaving Avenue car at Seventh street on evening of April 21, 1932, kindly send his name and address to FRED B. FLORES, Bond Building. mh25-5

MESSRS. C. D. PENNERBAKER, SERVING partner of C. D. Pennerbaker and John Paul Jones, Charles F. Carver, and Eugene A. Jones, have removed their law offices from 121 F St. and the Commercial National Bank Building to the new offices of PENNERBAKER, CARVER & JONES, corner 121 F St. in the Metropolitan National Bank Building, 613 15th St. N. W. Telephone, Main 1196-1197. mh25-5

PHILADELPHIA Oyster and Chop House, 52 1/2th St. N. W. Phone Main 6967. SPECIALISTS IN SEA FOODS. Try Our Famous Single Fried Oysters. mh25-5

WANTED Bookkeepers, Stenographers, Typewriters
MORE BANKERS in the 12 States in which Mrs. F. Draughon's 13 Colleges are located, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey. IF YOU WANT EVIDENCE and want to RISE to the 30-a-day class ask for FREE catalogue. Lessons by MAIL. If preferred, Draughon's Practical Business College, Chesley Building, 117 N. Y. ave. N. W. mh25-5

IRON FENCES
Gichner's Iron Works
1214 D Street Northwest mh25-905

DON'T BUY NEW CARPETS
We will take your old carpet or carpet scraps and weave them into beautiful new rugs. Cost but little. More popular than carpets. Last longer than the original carpet.
Call and see sample and get price. WASHINGTON RUG WEAVING Co. Phone M 4325 531 5th St. N. W. mh25-5

MICO WATER
817 17th St. N. W. Phone Main 6967. mh25-5

"WE SAVE GAS"
Reduce those enormous gas bills by ordering a gas controller from the Gas Users Association
1318 E Street N. W. Phone M 741. mh10-w.fr.Su-4f

THARP'S RYE
812 F Street N. W.