

ALL IS NOW READY FOR THE CONGRESS ON CITY PLANNING

First National Conference Will Open in Masonic Temple Next Friday.

PRESIDENT WILL ATTEND BANQUET

Marsh Civic Exhibit To Be On Show At Raleigh Hotel, Sunday, May 23.

With but one week remaining before the formal opening here of the first National Congress on City Planning next Friday, practically all arrangements have been completed by the local committee with the announcement today of the full program.

Opening with a general meeting in the auditorium of the Masonic Temple Friday night, which will be presided over by Vice President Sherman, and at which an address will be made by President Taft, the congress will conclude its deliberations with a banquet at the Raleigh Hotel the following night, Saturday, May 22.

The real work, however, will not begin until the next day, Sunday, when the famous Marsh exhibit of New York, setting forth civic conditions in all parts of the world, will be opened on the tenth floor of the Raleigh Hotel. This exhibit will be supplemented by an extensive display of charts, photographs and other features setting forth local conditions.

Exhibit On a Week. The exhibit will continue a week, closing Saturday, May 23, and it is expected that practically all the persons attending the two days' conference will remain in Washington to make an exhaustive study of it.

The principal features sought to be brought out by the exhibit will be brought out in addresses to be delivered each night while it continues. The full program for the congress and exhibit, as announced today by Allen D. Albert, chairman of the local committee on arrangements, is as follows:

Friday, May 14, 8 p. m.—General meeting in auditorium of the Masonic Temple, the Vice President presiding; address by the President, address on "Housing Conditions in Washington," by Surgeon General George M. Sternberg, U. S. A., retired, president of the President's Housing Commission.

Saturday, May 15, 8 p. m.—Banquet room, Raleigh Hotel, dinner to the delegates to the national congress.

Sunday, May 16, 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.—Exhibit open to American Federation of Labor and Knights of Labor.

Monday, May 17, 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.—Exhibition open to public.

Tuesday, May 18, 10 a. m. to 12—Exhibition open to public; 12 lecture to public on "City Planning in Washington in Relation to Tuberculosis," by William H. Baldwin.

Special Display Open. Wednesday, May 19, 10 a. m. to 12—special display of exhibit for members of Congress; 12 to 7 p. m., exhibit open to public; 8 p. m., illustrated lecture, Glenn Brown, "The Park Commission Plan for Washington."

Thursday, May 20, 10 a. m. to 7 p. m., exhibit open to public; 8 p. m., illustrated lecture to public, "World Progress in City Planning," Benjamin C. Marsh, secretary national committee.

Friday, May 21, 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.—Exhibit open to public; 8 p. m., illustrated lecture to public, Surgeon General George M. Sternberg, U. S. A., retired, "Housing Conditions in Washington."

Saturday, May 22, 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.—Exhibit open to public; 8 p. m., illustrated talks on various phases of city planning by delegates to congress.

In addition to announcing the program, the committee today issued a statement concerning the objects for which the congress has been called.

LIEUT. COM. HUTCH I. CONE, Named As Head of the Bureau of Steam Engineering of the Navy Department.

CONE MADE CHIEF OF NAVAL BUREAU

President Appoints Him to Engineering Post, Ending Old Fight.

President Taft this afternoon sent to the Senate the name of Hutch I. Cone to be chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering.

This selection settles the controversy brought about by the opinion of Attorney General Wickersham, who decided yesterday that as Rear Admiral Barton is on the retired list the Bureau of Steam Engineering was without a head. A navy medical board retired Admiral Barton, vacating the place.

SHERMAN LOSES MATCH TO LARD AT CHEVY CHASE

Vice President's Son Out of Race for the Golf Trophy.

TUCKERMAN BADLY BEATEN BY TRAVIS

Poor Form Shown By Washington Player Is Disappointing to Friends.

T. M. Sherman, son of Vice President Sherman, and prominent on his own account as one of the best golf players in New York State, lost his match in the spring golf tournament of the Chevy Chase Golf Club this morning to Allan Lard, the crack player of the club.

By his defeat today, Sherman is eliminated from competition for the trophy in the regular play. He may enter the consolation rounds at the close of the regular tournament.

Sherman was defeated, but not until after one of the most grueling matches of the present-tourney was played. The battle was carried right up to the eighteenth hole, where Lard won by 2 up and 1 to play.

Lard's Clean Drives. Lard tumbled the course in 74, one point behind the score made by Sherman yesterday afternoon. Lard's play this morning was marked by clean drives. But he won his match by his putting on the final hole.

Sherman's play was likewise a revelation to local golfers. In no respect was his play behind that of Lard, and at times was even more spectacular. The older player, however, was more consistent. On the seventeenth hole Sherman drove two balls out of bounds.

This disposed of his last chance to run his match into extra holes, an end for which he was evidently playing. When the eighteenth hole was halved Sherman lost his only chance to tie up the score. Lard practically won his match on the seventeenth hole. He clubbed his second shot, but ran down a long put and won the hole.

Starts Like a Winner. Sherman started like a winner. After the first hole was halved the visitor forged ahead and won on the second and third. The fourth was halved, Sherman gained a greater lead on the fifth. The sixth was halved, and on the seventh, Lard's steady and consistent style began to tell. He won this and halved the tenth. The eleventh was won by Lard, and the twelfth was a tie. After Lard won the thirteenth, however, that he captured the seventeenth hole, Sherman made a desperate effort to pull up with the leader. In the latter part of the match Lard's work was particularly notable for his good approaches.

Thereafter his afternoon work evened up. Lard's play was particularly notable for his good approaches. About noon some visitors began to arrive and the links this afternoon presented an unusual scene. Washington's society were on hand and a liberal sprinkling of men prominent in official circles watched the start in the second round.

McDonald Beats Brit. The second eight C. B. McDonald, of the Chevy Chase Club, in a match with F. P. Knutt.

McDonald's score was 74, Knutt's 76. The match was won by McDonald.

Great interest was shown in this match, because each contestant was a representative player of his club. Davidson, of the Columbia Club, and Conroy McCammon, of the Chevy Chase Club.

The meeting of the children's section, which was held in the large ballroom of the New Willard, attracted a large number of professional men and laymen who are especially interested in the efforts which are being made to combat tuberculosis among juvenile sufferers.

Dr. Lowman drew rather a pessimistic picture of the dangers which threaten the child predisposed to tuberculosis, from contact with infected children in the public schools. Despite the ideal conditions which prevail in the schools of most of the modern buildings in the cities and the trained supervision which is given the children, there is a marked increase in the number of tuberculosis children after they begin their school careers, declared Dr. Lowman.

Mortality is marked. There is marked increase in the mortality among children from tuberculosis after they pass their sixth year, Dr. Lowman added.

Dr. Lowman pointed out the lack of tuberculosis in the country, and the spread of tuberculosis among children. The effort in this country is declared, is isolated and limited. In the present time, been largely confined to the home.

SOUTHERNERS OBJECT TO NEGRO'S PRESENCE

Five Members Leave House Office Building Restaurant When Register of the Treasury Vernon Is Given Place at One of the Tables.

Because W. T. Vernon, the prominent colored politician, now register of the Treasury, was given a seat in the House office building, there is a large crowd on over the matter, precipitated by some of the members of the House from the South.

Register Vernon, who was at the Capitol on business with a colored friend, went to the House office building restaurant for lunch. It happened that five southern members of Congress were seated there. They included Representatives Garner and Dies, of Texas; Sims, of Tennessee; Candler, of Mississippi; and Stanley, of Kentucky.

Vernon was given a seat and when they saw it the members of the House named got up in anger and left the restaurant. Had it not been for cabin counsel, it is declared an exciting scene might have been stirred up. As it was, there was no controversy.

However, the Southern members protested to Speaker Cannon and to the general manager of the office building. Speaker Cannon said he would look into the matter and will decide on it this afternoon. Southern members declare they will not eat in the restaurant in question if colored people are to be allowed there.

It was announced today that if Speaker Cannon does not take action on the case, Representative Garner, of Texas, will take it up on the floor of the House.

Register Vernon, it is said, has repeatedly eaten in the Senate restaurant, and there never has been any objection made. It is said, however, that he always has eaten in the public part, which is not frequented by members of Congress. These restaurants in the Capitol are under control of Congress, and the District regulations regarding patrons are not effective there.

GIRLS EASY PREY TO WHITE PLAGUE

Dr. Lowman Tells Convention They Are More Susceptible Than Boys.

Girls of tender age fall victims to the ravages of tuberculosis more frequently than do boys of the same age, according to Dr. John H. Lowman, of Cleveland, Ohio, who delivered an address before the children's section of today's session of the fifth annual meeting of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

REVISION ALL UP, ASSERT DEMOCRATS SENATE REPORT

Senator Culberson Files a Document Prepared By An Expert.

ONE BIG ADVANCE IS 4,900 PER CENT

Aldrich Bill Much Higher Than Dingley Schedules, Is Claim Backed By Figures.

The tariff on hundreds of articles is higher in the Aldrich bill than in the Dingley law, according to a tabulated statement filed in the Senate today by Senator Culberson of Texas, the Democratic leader.

When the Aldrich bill had been reported the Democratic Senators employed experts to make an analysis of the measure. The result of their work is this table of increases.

It shows that the Dingley rate has been increased in seventeen paragraphs of the metal schedule, covering a great variety of articles. These include the star increase in the entire bill which is 4,900 per cent on ferro-tungsten. This was accomplished by making a simple change in the duty from $4 a ton to 20 per cent ad valorem. The raise in ferro-chrome is 1,949 per cent. The increase on flatirons, castings, cast iron vessels, and tailors' irons is 225 per cent. On certain steel sheets and plates the increase is $2.65 per cent and on steel ingots and blooms 49.94 per cent.

In the agricultural schedule there are increases of from 25 to 100 per cent on oats, rye, wheat, hops, and buckwheat flour.

The duty on figs has been increased 25 and on dates 100 per cent. On lemons the rate has been 50, on olives 33.33, and grapes in barrels 25 per cent.

There are many increases in the wine and spirit schedules ranging from 15 to 71 per cent. Beer and ale have been advanced 15.00 per cent, and prune juice 16.67 per cent.

Cotton thread of thirty-three grades has duty that shows an increase of 2 to 110 per cent.

The uplift in the rates on cotton cloth has been general and pronounced, the rate being from 1 to 450 per cent. One grade was advanced 125 and another 185 per cent. Silk increases run from 12 to 133 per cent.

On Horsehair. The duty on artificial horsehair is increased 150 per cent, and this affects many articles made of artificial silk.

There are increases of 100, 225, and 400 per cent in the lithographic schedule. Wrapping paper is up 10 per cent.

The tariff on fireworks has been a lift of 275 per cent, gaiter leather 100 per cent, and cloth for burtons 200 per cent. The tariff on cigars is 25 per cent in the Dingley law, are assessed a duty of 25 per cent in the Aldrich bill.

SENATOR BEVERIDGE HITS TOBACCO TRUST

Charging that the Government has lost $184,000,507 in the last eight years, which it might have collected as revenue from tobacco, and that of this amount $120,000,000 has gone into the pockets of the Tobacco trust because of its continued sale of short-weight packages, Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, today offered an amendment to the tariff increasing the rates of the tobacco schedule.

In support of his amendment, Mr. Beveridge said that it would bring in at least $21,461,504 more revenue each year than the present bill would produce. It also would correct, according to the American people, during the Spanish war, 1898, the tax on all forms of tobacco was raised in order to supply the Government with increased revenue.

At the same time tobacco manufacturers were authorized to reduce the size of the packages in which the tobacco was sold from two, three, and four-ounce packages to packages containing only one and two-thirds, two and a half, and three and one-third ounces. When the war tax was removed in 1901 the short-weight packages of tobacco were continued.

Therefore, for seven years the people have been compelled to pay the same price for these smaller packages, while the manufacturer has been relieved from the increased tax.

The Senator described the Tobacco trust as perhaps the most compact and effective private monopoly in existence. Within five hours from the time the amendment is introduced, said Beveridge, the trust would have its ablest men in Washington fighting it.

One of the most curious absurdities, said Mr. Beveridge, in our whole system of taxation, is found in the cigarettes fact that we tax cigars regardless of their price.

Mr. Beveridge's amendment increases the present rate on chewing, smoking, and fine-cut tobacco from 6 to 9 cents per pound. The trust, he said, controls more than 80 per cent of this business. He also proposes a graduated increase on cigars above those worth less than three for a quarter, according to the selling price. These increases range from $1.50 up to $6 a thousand, and would increase the revenue, he calculated, on high-priced cigars alone by at least $3,000,000 a year.

His amendment proposes to increase the present tax of 6 cents a pound on snuff to 12 cents, thereby increasing the revenue $1,332,985. It also increases the present rate on cigarettes, which retail at 5 cents for a package of ten cigarettes, to $1.50 a thousand; those retailing at 10 cents for a package of ten to $3 per thousand, and on higher priced cigarettes to $4.50 per thousand. The increase in each case being made on the present rate of $1.00. On cigarettes he calculates an increased revenue from this amendment of $1,875,316, and from the increase on chewing and smoking tobacco $10,723,711.
