

EMORY B. ENSOR, WASHINGTON, WINS INTERCITY MARATHON

BILL THE RESULT OF BREAK OF FAITH

Senator Overman Calls Tariff Measure "Republican Perfidy."

SAYS IT IS FRAMED TO AID INTERESTS

Asks Increased Head Tax on Immigrants—Raps Justice Department.

Declaring that the present tariff bill was "unjust and full of inequalities," Senator Overman of North Carolina spoke at length against the measure in the Senate today. He asserted the bill was framed in the interest of the privileged few "while the great mass of the consumers of this country will continue to groan under its heavy burdens of increased taxation."

Senator Overman said he believed the bill one of the most iniquitous ever before Congress. More than 23,000,000 persons engaged in business or occupation in this country would have to bear the burden of it, he declared, while but a small number would be directly benefited. In behalf of this great body of the wealth-producing masses, he protested against the bill. He said it carried a duty of about 46 per cent ad valorem, and when to this was added the 2 per cent maximum duty, the average would be 71 per cent, making the bill the highest in the country's history.

Lambasts Bill.

"The average duty in the Dingley bill," he continued, "is 44.88 per cent. This is a reduction with a vengeance; and this is the way the Republican party keeps its promise to the people. When the bill does pass, the final words written in it should be not 'party perfidy and dishonor,' but there should be written across the back of the bill in black letters the words, 'bad faith and broken promises'; for that, in my opinion, will be the judgment of the American people."

The Senator said the people believed and the President so announced, when the campaign was on, that the tariff was to be revised downward. He declared the Chicago platform was written with a sincere purpose to give the people the relief they demanded, and that the President during the last campaign now is in favor of a genuine and honest revision downward. But the high protectionists, he continued, are in the saddle and riding roughshod over the people.

Demanded Reduction.

"The great demand was for a lowering of the Dingley rates. The demand is not to be heard, and I hazard the opinion that the people of this country will not be satisfied with a law framed in the interest of a few and against many. Both under the McKinley and under the Dingley high-tariff bills the great trusts and combines, which have monopolized and controlled a large part not only of the manufactured products of the country, but also of our natural resources as well, have grown up, been encouraged, nourished, and fattened, while within a comparatively short time, under the policy, untold millions have been accumulated in the hands of a few men and money centers.

Condemns System.

"It is a system by which tolls are taken from the vast majority of the people to enrich the few. The great masses of the people pay the tolls, while the very rich go free of taxation. The 10,000 of the men composing the companies and syndicates reap the benefit, and are never satisfied, but are here today, like a horse leech, crying for more.

Senator Overman spoke in favor of an increased head tax on immigrants. In connection with his attack on trusts he paid his respects in no uncertain terms to the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company merger, and to the inaction of the Department of Justice in the case of the Harvester trust. Of the Tennessee company merger he said:

"Mr. President, the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company by the United States Steel Company was one of the most scandalous transactions which ever happened, and should not be tolerated. The Tennessee company was one of our Southern industries, of which we

(Continued on Eighth Page.)

WEATHER REPORT.

Fair weather in the Middle Atlantic States tonight, but followed by increasing cloudiness Sunday, local rains setting in over this region by Sunday night.

FORECAST FOR THE DISTRICT.

Fair tonight, Sunday increasing cloudiness, not much change in temperature; light variable winds.

Table with 2 columns: Time (8 a. m., 9 a. m., 10 a. m., 11 a. m., 12 noon, 1 p. m., 2 p. m.) and Temperature (63, 67, 71, 75, 78, 79, 80).

SUN TABLE.

Sun rises 4:23, Sun sets 8:25. Today—High tide, 2:14 p. m.; Low tide, 8:22 a. m.; 8:48 p. m. Tomorrow—High tide, 3:45 a. m.; 4:19 p. m.; Low tide, 10:31 a. m.; 10:14 p. m.

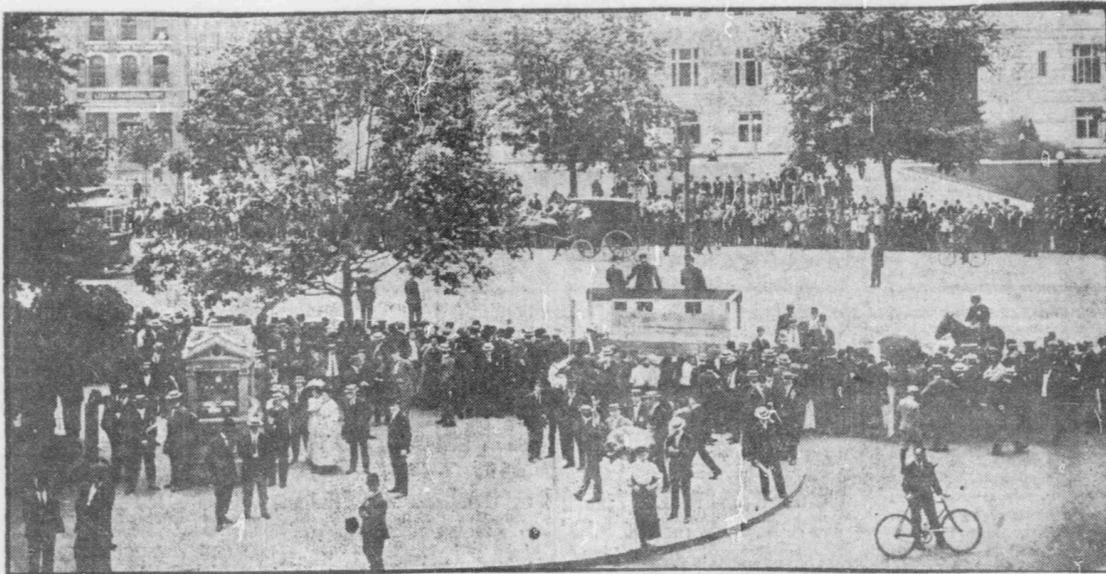

TIDE TABLE.

Today—High tide, 2:14 p. m.; Low tide, 8:22 a. m.; 8:48 p. m. Tomorrow—High tide, 3:45 a. m.; 4:19 p. m.; Low tide, 10:31 a. m.; 10:14 p. m.

CONDITION OF RIVERS.

HARPER'S FERRY, W. Va., June 12.—Both rivers muddy this morning.

CROWD WAITING FOR MARATHON FINISH

SCENE IN FRONT OF MUNSEY BUILDING JUST BEFORE ENSOR CROSSED THE TAPE.

PHYSICIANS RAP FEDERAL BOARDS

Delegation Asks President to Have Courts Settle Pure Food Disputes.

The physicians of the country demand that the courts settle disputes over the pure food laws, instead of any Government board of scientific experts. This was the most important request made today by a committee from the American Medical Association, that called at the White House to see President Taft.

Dr. D. A. L. Reed, of Cincinnati, who was a candidate for the Senate, headed the committee. The physicians are also in favor of the abolition of benzene of soda, and other chemical preservatives in food and demand that Government inspectors have constant supervision over all food factories. In order to prevent evasions, they are also in favor of laws "giving a hand in the preparation of articles of human consumption."

DOWN JURY OUT FOR TWENTY HOURS

Baltimore Judge Sends Men Back to Continue Their Deliberations.

BALTIMORE, June 12.—"Willie" Downs' fate is still in the balance. The jury in the criminal court, before which he was tried, after having been unable to agree in twenty hours of deliberation, has been sent back to the jury room for another session. After an all-night session, during which they were locked in a room in the court house under heavy police and court guard, the jurymen sleepy-eyed and fagged out, filed into the criminal court at 11 o'clock this morning.

Downs was brought in by the jail guards, and the balliffs scurried around to make room for the jury. Downs looked immaculate as ever. He had been returned to the jail when court adjourned at 10:30 o'clock last night and, apparently not worried by the fact that his fate hung in the balance, succeeded in getting a good night's sleep.

He was up early this morning and dressed himself with the greatest care for his trip to the court room. When all was ready the jury filed in, the members taking their usual seats. The customary questions were asked by the clerk of the court, and then, amid a stillness that was almost terrifying, Foreman Thomas A. Hyson arose and announced the result of the night's deliberation. Judge Stockbridge told the jurymen to have to continue the deliberation, and sent it back to the jury room. According to all accounts, the jury had an unusually strenuous experience during the eighteen hours it was out. Until 10:30 o'clock last night Judge Stockbridge remained in the criminal court, and the steady dwindling crowd of interested hangers-on waited and waited, hoping every minute that the next word would bring some word from the jury room.

ASKS BIG DAMAGES.

Because, he says, he was incapacitated for work for more than two weeks as the result of a beating given him by James W. McNeil, Clarence E. Gould has filed suit for damages through Attorney E. C. Dutton. Mr. Gould, who asks $10,000 from the alleged assailant, says that the assault occurred April 25 last.

Visit Chesapeake Beach Tomorrow, 60c.—Adv.

How Leaders in Marathon Finished

- 1—Emory B. Ensor, Y. M. C. A.
2—H. C. Elphinstone, Cross Country Club
3—J. G. Stecker, Y. M. C. A.
4—G. Mitchell Griffith, Johns Hopkins
5—Harry L. Russel, Johns Hopkins
6—J. G. H. Geigan, Cross Country Club
7—Ransom A. Arch.
8—George W. Seaman, Y. M. C. A.
9—Daniel Miller, St. Andrew's Gymnasium
10—John M. Kelley, Cross Country Club
11—Humphrey S. Shaw, Y. M. C. A.
12—A. Edwin Schmidt, Cross Country Club
13—T. T. Watson, Cross Country Club
14—R. L. Renner, Technical High
15—Jerome C. Lappe, Cross Country Club
16—G. K. Landon, Cross Country Club
17—Elliot H. Burwell, Mt. Washington Club
18—W. H. Shears, Tremont Athletic Club
19—W. C. Greenley, Y. M. C. A.
20—Joseph Eser, Unattached
21—Carl A. Offutt, Unattached
22—Joseph Geipe, Cross Country Club
23—J. W. Krauss, Fifth Regiment
24—G. L. Washington, Technical High School
25—J. Bernard Hign, Fifth Regiment

CANADIAN PROVINCE IS CIRCLED BY FIRE

ST. JOHN'S, New Brunswick, June 12.—Forest fires are still raging throughout the province of New Brunswick today, and the spread of the flames threatens to sweep every lumber camp along the St. Johns river. The entire province is circled by fire. A relief train has arrived here with the rescued inhabitants of the Cullard and Guntout lumber mill village, which was totally destroyed late yesterday. No word has been received from the upper St. Johns camps which were cut off by the flames during the night.

WICKERSHAM PLANS SUGAR TRUST FIGHT

Attorney General Wickersham intends to investigate thoroughly the charges of violation of the Sherman anti-trust act made against the Sugar trust, and to prosecute, if he finds he has a good case. In response to an inquiry today as to whether the department would take cognizance of developments in the recent case of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company against the trust, Mr. Wickersham authorized the following statement: "The proceedings which have been had against the American Sugar Refining Company and the action taken during the last three months, is perhaps the best answer to the question as to whether or not the Department of Justice will investigate and push any suggested violation by that company of any law."

RACE SPECTATORS PACK THE STREETS

Crowds Line Pennsylvania Avenue in Effort to See Runners.

It was a great, good-natured, enthusiastic crowd, this merry bunch who packed themselves along the Avenue and jammed every inch of space in the open square in front of the Munsey building to witness the finish of the Intercity Marathon.

It was a crowd which forever put at rest the old "knock" that Washington is a city of little enthusiasm. From the time that the first old-timer hovered in the precincts of the tape-line early this morning until thousands of people surged forward to catch a glimpse of the winner shortly after noon today, there was nothing but excitement, cheers, boosts for the winners, and little comforting words like "that's all right, kid" for the fellow who came in behind.

At the Finish.

It looked like everybody in Washington was at the finish to yell: "Here he comes." It was Emory B. Ensor, of the Y. M. C. A., of Washington.

For once during the day the crowd let its unbounded enthusiasm get the best of it. A dozen police had their hands full in clearing the way for the winner. They surged forward and backward, closing in the little narrow space through which the victorious athlete was to make the last dash to the tape. Policemen hurried here and there, brandishing their clubs. Then the crowd, seeming to realize that their enthusiasm might interfere with the close, fell back, a cheer rising from every throat, as a hundred hands outstretched to grasp that of Ensor, and everybody wanting to be of aid in assisting him to a place of rest.

Men, women, children, the rich and the poor, were there in one conglomerate cheering mass. Stretched down the Avenue, so as to watch the last desperate spurts from the Peace Monument to the coveted goal, thousands stood upon the sidewalk. The shopper left the store, the merchant his place of business, the van driver stood still in the streets, and street car passengers craned their necks as the leading runners

(Continued on Third Page.)

CAPITAL CITY LAD RUSHES IN AHEAD OF STURDY FIELD

Finishes Wonderful Race in Good Condition—Leaves His Nearest Competitor Blocks Behind Him—Time, 2:12:32.

MAINTAINS GOOD LEAD FROM THE M. A. C.

Forges to the Fore Ahead of Elphinstone, a Baltimore Entrant—Y. M. C. A. Is Regarded as the Probable Team Winner as Result of Showing by Entrants.

Cheered by thousands who lined the Avenue, and spurred in the last lap by a final mighty wave of enthusiasm that swept over a congested mass of more fortunate spectators who surged against the ropes marking the real finish of the race, a young athlete, his face half drawn, half smiling, his body wet with perspiration, his eyes blazing a look of defiance to fatigue and heat, staggered across a tell-tale tape in front of the Munsey building this afternoon, and the Intercity Marathon race had been won.

The winner was Emory B. Ensor, the hero of it all. H. C. Elphinstone, of the Cross Country Club, of Baltimore, finished second.

By a like distance that separated the first and second men, J. G. Stecker, of the Washington Y. M. C. A., ran third. From his physical appearance, Stecker seemed to be as strong as the other two, and the reception accorded him in no wise suffered in comparison to the others.

Unless it develops in the minds of the judges that some one of the runners are disqualified the Young Men's Christian Association team, of this city, has won the team trophy. Not only from a spectacular, but from the point of view of time, the race was a decided success. From the time Ensor jumped away from Main street to the time he was declared the victor but 2 hours, 12 minutes and 32 seconds elapsed. Elphinstone's time was 2:19:04, while Stecker finished in 2 hours, 33 minutes and 38 seconds.

Intercity Marathon Is Greatest Of the Sort Ever Held Here

Two thousand three hundred and ninety-nine years after the Greek soldier won immortal fame by carrying the news of the victory on the plains of Marathon to the feet of his king in Athens, the modest representative of the Washington Y. M. C. A. earned a lasting place in the athletic hall of fame of this city by capturing the grandest amateur event in the annals of the South.

For it was no hollow triumph. Starting from scratch against the greatest galaxy of long distance runners of Baltimore and Washington the destined winner ran a sane, safe and conservative race and before half of the distance had been covered, it was evident even to the casual observer that Ensor was to be the captor of the most coveted trophy ever offered for competition here.

Interest in Condition.

The thousands who watched the race through its latter part realized that Ensor was to return the victor and the principal interest centered in his condition. From the time he reached the city limits until he passed the Capitol, Ensor seemed to develop signs of distress, but a few words of encouragement from his attendant had the desired effect, and he was once more into his stride when he reached Peace Monument.

From then on, Washington furnished its most inspiring athletic spectacle. From the foot of the Capitol steps, on the edge of the curb to the north and on the catwalks on the south, stood the greatest throng that ever witnessed a race in this jurisdiction of the Amateur Athletic Union. As the leader came down the course the crowds thickened until he reached the finish line, where he started through an avenue of cheering hosts that required the combined restraining forces of all of the mounted and unmounted policemen at the disposal of Major Sylvester.

The increased crowds seemed to buoy up the seemingly weakening Ensor, for he responded to the cheers in such impressive fashion that there was no question but that it was his race.

Shows a Smile.

When he obtained one glance at the officials at the finish line Ensor showed a labored smile, which passed almost with his coming, and then he started his final spurt. With every muscle in his perspiring face set and every limb responding as best it knew how to his grim determination and innate gameness, Ensor went faster. For it was true, but the thousands of spectators seemed to appreciate the desperate efforts of the leader and proceeded to extend to him a most magnificent welcome. As he got within twenty yards of the finish the crowds broke up and were held long enough to allow the game athlete to stagger across the line.

He was immediately helped to the Turk's bath, where it took but a short period for him to recover from his strenuous contest, while the crowd settled to await the coming of the second man. Finally he came into view.

It was H. C. Elphinstone, of the Cross Country Club of Baltimore, with head

$1.25 To Baltimore and Return. Saturdays and Sundays via Pennsylvania Railroad. Tickets good returning until Sunday June 13, regular trains except the "Congressional Limited."

—Adv.

THE STORY OF THE LEPER'S WIFE

The Tragedy, the Pathos, the Self-Sacrificing Heroism In the Life of the Girl Wife of John Early, the Washington Leper.

Picture to yourself a house divided by a solid brick wall—on the one side a patient, loving wife; on the other the husband whom she must not touch. Close to each other so that they may talk, may sing together; separated by the unfeeling resistance of the brick, restrained by the ever-present guard.

Then read the extraordinary story in tomorrow's

Sunday Evening Edition of The Times

By ALLEN D. ALBERT, Jr.